The chief function of the division of fisheries consists of maintaining satisfactory fishing conditions in Michigan lakes and streams. This involves the propagation and distribution of desirable species, the control and destruction of noxious fish and the regulating of seasons and creel limits.

The present propagation policy of the division is directed toward providing facilities to rear brook, brook and rainbow trout for several months in nurseries before redistributing them to public waters. Physical problems connected with this activity involve the selection of streams that are adapted for the planting, particularly brook trout.

The department does not contemplate introducing additional species of fish foreign to Michigan, but concentrating all efforts in hatcheries on species that are well adapted to Michigan waters. The department is co-operating closely with the Federal Bureau of Fisheries to improve conditions surrounding the collection and incubation of commercial species, particularly lake trout, white fish, herring and wall-eyed pike.

CHARLEVOIXIAN DIES IN WESTERN CITY

Stricken by Death After Three Weeks Illness

Morris L. Cram, aged 66, died at his home at 3124 N. W. avenue, Bellingham, Washington, at noon, January 14, after three weeks illness. He had lived 18 years in Blaine, Washington, prior to his removal to Bellingham. His two sisters, Mrs. C. E. Hale of Bellingham, Washington, and Mrs. Frank Nagel of Almagordo, New Mexico, and one brother, R. O. Cram of this city, survive him. Deceased left Charlevoix for the west about 20 years ago.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bogart on Huribut avenue was the scene of a very happy dinner party last Tuesday evening, the occasion being in honor of the 18th birthday anniversary of their daughter, Margaret. Guests were present at the delightful dinner. The evening was spent in having a general good time.

HASTINGS TALK- ED ON BIRD LIFE

APPEARANCE SPONSORED BY CHARLES DICKENS CLUB

Club Members and Guests, School Children and Men's Club
Heard His Lectures

The Charles Dickens Club gave the people of this community interested in bird life a rare treat last Tuesday evening. Through their efforts they secured the services of Walter E. Hastings, representing the state conservation department of Michigan, who gave an instructive lecture and showed some very interesting and unusual pictures of the "Wild Bird Life of Michigan."

These pictures were photographed by Mr. Hastings throughout the state, many having been taken in Charlevoix county. In fact, the title, inspiration and setting was given him on Beaver Island. This feature of the conservation department is to stimulate an interest in the preservation of wild birds and animals in Michigan.

Members of the Shakespeare Study Club and their husbands, together with the husbands and members of the Dickens Club were the guests of honor. The pictures were shown on the screen in the auditorium of the Congregational church. During the showing, Mr. Hastings explained the nesting, habitation and peculiarities of the unusual and unfamiliar birds.

Following his lecture, Mr. Hastings and the guests of the evening were invited to a delicious luncheon, served in the church parlors, which had been beautifully decorated in the club colors for the occasion.

At this time Mr. Hastings was prevailed upon to show views of the "Wild Animals of Michigan," a picture which is still in the making. Following this feature, Mrs. E. J. Edwards, in behalf of the Shakespeare Club, expressed their appreciation of the evening. Mrs. A. L. Livingston, president of the Charles Dickens Club, responded, and at the same time thanked Mr. Hastings and the conservation department of Michigan.

Mr. Hastings, while in Charlevoix, also talked before the Community Men's Club at their meeting Tuesday evening and addressed children of the public and parochial schools at the Methodist church Wednesday forenoon.

COMMUNITY DANCING PARTY AT NORWOOD

Prizes Were Awarded for Best Men's and Ladies' Costumes

The community masquerade, staged at the Norwood town hall Tuesday evening, was a decided success, according to our correspondent, Mrs. I. L. Dice.

Over a hundred people were in attendance and enjoyed the dancing until a late hour. Prizes for the best costume were awarded to the following: Miss Alice Siminow, ladies' 1st prize; Mrs. Joe. Holscheck, 2nd prize; men's first prize went to Joseph Holscheck and 2nd to Guy Stutzman.

A fine pot luck supper was served during the evening. The Sage orchestra from Central Lake furnished music.

No entry was made for the supper, which will be served by ladies of the Methodist church in the church dining room Wednesday evening, Feb. 22nd. Bill 60c.—Adv. 7-1f.

DEATH CLAIMS HOR- TON BAY RESIDENT

Mrs. Henry Willis Had Resided There
Over 52 Years

Mrs. Henry Willis, age 68, a resident of Charlevoix county for over 52 years, died at her home near Horton Bay at 8:30 last Thursday evening.

Deceased was born in Illinois, September 5, 1860, coming to Northern Michigan with her parents when 9 years old. She was married in 1878 to Henry Willis at Horton Bay, where the couple have since made their home. Surviving besides the husband are four daughters, Mrs. Hattie LaClair of East Jordan, Mrs. Viva Johnston and Mrs. Addie Matthews of Petoskey, Mrs. Lena McRobert of Charlevoix, and one son, Cornelius Willis, also of this city.

Funeral services were conducted from the Undine school house at 2:30 last Saturday afternoon, Rev. Miller of Horton Bay officiating. Interment in Undine cemetery.

During her long residence in the Horton Bay district, Mrs. Willis had won a large circle of friends by whom she will be greatly missed.

POLAR BEARS IN PETOSKEY EVENT

LOCAL CLUB MEMBERS ENTER-ED PARADE THERE TUESDAY

Favorable Comment on Entry There Humbly Accepted by Charlevoix Citizens

The Lake Charlevoix Winter Sports Club was well represented at the Petoskey carnival Tuesday morning, entering their parade with a line-up which drew much favorable comment.

The following item, taken from Tuesday's issue of the Petoskey Evening News, comments on the local winter sports club's entries: "The Charlevoix Polar Bears, the winter sports organization from our neighboring city, had some outstanding entries. Their dog teams led the way, with girls coasting on large pairs of bobs, a clown band, the club members in winter sports togs, the ski team, hockey team, ice skaters and others. They also entered an old-time winter carriage, said to be more than a hundred years old. In fact, few, if any in the crowd had ever seen such a sleigh before. Much favorable comment was received by this Charlevoix party and the club members expressed their appreciation to their neighbors for their help in making the parade so successful."

Charlevoix winter sports enthusiasts will be gratified to know that Editor North of the Petoskey paper has given them credit for what assistance they offered that city to help their program along. Editor North's quite unnecessary and uncalled-for comparison between the Charlevoix and Petoskey ski and toboggan slides, carried in Monday's issue of the Evening News, created feeling among local citizens which could easily be avoided if the offending party would learn his place and not speak out of turn. Comparison or criticism, if used without justice or malice, is fully justified in times, but should at least be made by someone who is familiar with the subject they comment upon.

Charlevoix people do not believe that this unsportsmanlike feeling exists generally in our neighboring city and that there are those in Petoskey who would not stoop to such "kid play."

ELLSWORTH FARM HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

Building and Contents Are Now a Total Loss

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Essenberg, one mile south of Ellsworth burned to the ground about midnight, February 2, and building and all contents were totally destroyed. The family was not at home when it occurred.

Thursday afternoon the building caught fire and by the help of neighbors and townspeople apparently had it put out. However, about midnight fire again broke out and someone discovering it gave the alarm but when help arrived on the scene, it was too far gone to save anything.

Mr. Essenberg was visiting relatives in Chicago and Mrs. Essenberg and the children were staying for the night at a neighbor's home.

The loss is estimated at around three thousand dollars, partially covered by insurance.

LOCALS BREAK EVEN IN SERIES

WIN PELLSTON GAME AND LOSE TO BOYNE CITY

Both Encounters Were Closely Fought—Loosa Guarding
Gave Boyne Victory

Charlevoix's high school basketball five broke even in the last two games on the home floor. They won from Pellston last Friday evening in a hotly contested game by a 20 to 18 score, and then dropped Tuesday night's hard fight with Boyne City 28 to 20.

In Friday night's encounter with Pellston, the Red and White took an early lead and were never headed, although close play in the final quarter brought fans to their feet repeatedly. Charlevoix led by a small margin throughout the first three periods. In the last quarter, with three minutes remaining to play, Pellston tied the count at 18 all. From that time until the whistle, both teams tried frantically for a basket. A personal foul gave Billy Novak two free throws and he sank them both to give Charlevoix a two-point margin and victory.

Combining better team work with a good shooting eye, Boyne City's high school five defeated Charlevoix Tuesday evening 28 to 20. Boyne scored two goals in the first couple minutes of the play and gradually increased their lead until the third quarter. At the beginning of this period, Charlevoix uncorked a determined attack which looked for a time as if they would even the score. Dick Marshall, Red and White left forward, hooked three long ones from the center of the court. The spurt was not strong enough, however, and Boyne slipped over a couple baskets to offset the local's determined effort.

Charlevoix's defeat in this game may be attributed to poor guarding. Boyne usually had a sneaker beneath their own basket and Charlevoix's inability to cover this man gave the victors a number of their goals.

TRAVERSE CITY LAUNCH- ES "DO IT NOW" DRIVE

Are Making United Effort to Pep Up Town

Traverse City has hit upon a bright idea. Like a good many other cities, it has found that the post holiday period tends to be dull in business but Traverse City, being a bright, energetic community, does not like dull times.

Accordingly, Mayor Jns. T. Milliken gave a dinner to which he invited some of the leaders of the local business world and put to them the question, "What can we do to pep up the town?" The answer was "Put on a 'Do It Now' campaign."

So a conference was held at the Chamber of Commerce, attended by the painters, paperhangers, plumbers, carpenters and electricians and all others whose business has to do with repairing, remodeling and cleaning up generally. And these experts decided that much that usually is deferred until spring could be begun at once. Citizens were urged to let all contracts possible. As a result Traverse City is one of the busy spots in the state and everybody is adopting the optimistic slogan, "Do it now."

Valentine Party

Ten little friends were entertained at a delightful party, given last Saturday afternoon by Miss Helen Hammond at the home of her parents. Refreshments were served to the guests at a table beautifully decorated with red hearts, red flowers and white candles. Each child was presented with a valentine. Those present were Frances Meggison, Muriel VanAlsbury, Jone Smith, Marie Hull, Helen Goldstick, Audrey Allard, Margaret Chvatil, Florence Palmer, Dorothy Powers and Roberta Seymour.

"KIDS" "HIS PRAYER"

The days flew away like enchanted things. Gay had never been so happy, although she neglected her sacred canvases and brushes. How could she work with Rand sprawling in the window-seat at her side, brown hand touching her hand, gray eyes holding her eyes? Every day he worked faithfully on the Bo's'n, Bem's' yacht, worked very hard for a few hours to spare himself more time to be with her, appearing at the Lone Pine every morning promptly at eleven o'clock, the hour of her late breakfast, which was breakfast and luncheon in one.

"So this is how one lives on nothing a year," she said to him one day, laughing. "Well, I am relieved. I know at least that you will never starve."

The next morning he handed her a pound of the best coffee obtainable at the Pigeon grocery store. He was very laughy. "I may be low, but I have my pride," he said. "My coffee! And when it is gone, kindly notify me. More will be forthcoming."

"Don't forget the electricity," she reminded him gayly. "It must be a nickel a week."

And laughingly she accepted the dingy coin he selected carefully from a handful to give her.

Every day he went up the slope to the Lone Pine at sunset, that sweetest hour of the day, and sat with her in the window-seat on the west, looking down to the bay where the sky burned with fresh-blown gold and flame and smoky, burned fiercely for a while before it paled to smoking embers, pastel shades of rose and violet and cream. And when the embers had faded to gray ash, they went into the woods, and walked up and down beneath the trees that gossiped to one, another above them, and breathed deeply of the intoxicating spices of the forest—pine, and spruce, and fir.

At that hour they never talked, but wandered slowly here and there, strolling sometimes over the twisted old roots of trees or fallen logs, sliding over treacherous rocks, holding hands like children, smiling at each other.

One night they lingered long in the forest, so that dusk was blackening the shadows when they turned up behind the little club, in that pathless bit of the wood. As they went on, laughing softly, and stumbling, suddenly, without a sound, they came up to one who was walking toward them, swiftly, surely, toward the shore. All feet fell softly on the thick pil-lowing of pine needles and dry mosses, but those feet that came to meet them made no sound at all. As they came together, Gay looked up, with keen but friendly interest to see who walked in her enchanted wood at nightfall, and then she caught her breath with a sudden startled intake.

The face that she saw in the dusk was sharply familiar, unmistakable, a thin little face that showed yellow in the gloaming, like yellow parchment, with narrow, sloping almond eyes, and beneath one of them a faint shining mark, like a seam in the parchment, where a scar seared the flesh, the face of a yellow, little old Chinaman.

In the dusk, as she had seen it before, she saw it again, and in the fraction of a moment, the dusk revealed him again, noiselessly, as it had received him before.

Gay had not by any means forgotten her first night on the island: when she lay alone in the cottage on the fringe of the woods in her great exhaustion of mind and physical weariness; when, sleeping, she had seemed to feel a gaze upon her, and stirred to see, or think she saw, the thin yellow face in the gloaming; and had turned again to her sleep, saying dreamily it was but a dream. She had, however, made inquiry casually, and had been told there were no resident Chinese on the island, but that, on rare occasion, one came on errand from Portland, for the delivery of packages, perhaps, or a day's work. It was only as in a dream that she had remembered the face.

But now, with sudden fear, Gay knew it was no dream. She waited for Rand to come up to her.

"Did you see him?" she whispered.

"The Chinak? Yes. The men must be down at the club house. They always bring some one along to cook, usually a dandy, but once it was a Jap. Perhaps they're giving all nations a try by turn." Then he felt Gay's intensity in her silence, the closeness of her hand on his. "Why, Gay, what is the matter? You're not afraid of him? Don't be afraid of a Chinak, they never harm anybody. You afraid? A woman who lives alone, and not according to nature, and brags about it!"

Although Gay realized that the Females Wallace, as he affectionately called them, must no doubt long since have told Rand the story of the affair in the cave as they knew it, he had never referred to it by word or by suggestion. It was that innate courtesy, that delicate New England reserve, which held sacred from reference a subject that might stir pain.

Now, suddenly, Gay wished he would speak of it, would ask her what she had seen, or thought she saw. She wished greatly to talk freely with him, to tell him the surprising things that had happened to her on the island.

The closeness of her clasp on his hand relaxed. "I am not afraid," she said easily. "I just wondered who it was."

There was no sound from the wild growth of brush that lay so thickly about them, no faintest crackle of dried, dead, crumbling needles of pine, but as Gay finished speaking, a dark shadow slipped away, almost from beneath her hand, slipped away, shadow-like, and melted with the other shadows. And neither Gay nor Rand suspected one shadow more or less among the many on either side.

Even when the Bo's'n was ready at last for the trip down the coast, Rand put off his departure as long as he could, and when further delay was impossible, he sent his bags aboard, and with all in readiness for sailing, with the two men chosen for his crew aboard, he slowly climbed the hill for a final breakfast with Gay at eleven o'clock.

The rates quoted above are Station-to-Station night rates, effective from 8:30 p. m. to 4:30 a. m.

A Station-to-Station call is one that is made to a certain telephone, rather than to some person in particular.

If you do not know the number of the distant telephone, give the operator the name and address and specify that you will talk with "anyone" who answers at the called telephone.

Day rates, 4:30 a. m. to 7 p. m., and evening rates, 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., are higher than night rates.

A Person-to-Person call, because more work is involved, costs more than a Station-to-Station call. The rate on a Person-to-Person call is the same at all hours.

Additional rate information can be secured by calling the Long Distance operator

W. C. T. U. NOTES

That the injurious effect of motion pictures on the whole, far exceeds their educational value, was the conclusion reached by Mrs. Harker Kirby in a careful study of the subject presented in a paper at the meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held last Friday at the home of Mrs. B. L. Harrington.

Everywhere large numbers of children and young people make up the audiences. In place of simple living, wholesome play, well chosen stories and reasonable bedtime, the movies give them sophistication, emotional stimulation, false ideals of living, nervous excitement and late hours. Teachers complain that it is impossible to secure the attention of children who have been to the movies the night before.

The motion picture which has been teaching immorality both directly and indirectly by subtle suggestion for twenty-five years has been the universal school of crime. It is the cause of the crime wave, especially among the young. A judge for years on the criminal bench says: "Portrayed crime appeals to youths' spirit of adventure."

Of the 20,000,000 daily movie goers 75 per cent are under 24 years of age. The actual attendance in schools is 10,000,000. The movie then is a greater potential power to influence the character, habits, dress, morals and general conduct of our youth than our public school system. The motion pictures at the present time have more influence on the education and spiritual life of the child than does the home, school and church combined.

The right of children and the weak to be protected from moral injury is more fundamental than the right of adults to engage in business dangerous to youth. The state is under the same duty to protect children from the moral poison and contagion of seductive motion pictures that it is to protect the community from physical pestilence.

The frequently repeated statement that the public wants indecent pictures is false. It is a matter of record that last year the pictures that paid the best were films of high grade, such as "The Ten Commandments," "North of 36," "Charley's Aunt," "The Covered Wagon," "Abraham Lincoln," etc.

The exhibitors for the most part are willing to take a stand for decent motion pictures but are placed in a difficult position by the "block booking" system, whereby they can choose only a few films and must accept a large number of undesirable ones, many of which he knows nothing of, or which he may know to be objectionable and would not take were he not forced to do so by the trust.

The motion picture industry has been declared by the supreme court to be an interstate business, and an effort is being made for government censorship. Some of the states already have censorship or inspection. The people of any community may if they will, demand decent pictures, but it takes endless patience, the right attitude toward the management and the development of public opinion. A campaign of education for mothers has been successful in some places with such slogans as "No movies on school nights," "No movies unless you know the picture," "No movies without an adult."

The motion picture industry has the power to produce programs that would entertain and at the same time raise the standards of living instead of debasing them. Yet what they are doing is destructive of one of the few priceless things in the world, the quickening spirit of childhood. Eighty-seven per cent of all acquired knowledge is said to pass through the eye door. What a power good moving pictures could be!

A large number of women were present at the meeting and a spirited discussion followed the reading of the paper. Some plan of action may be decided upon at the executive board meeting which the president has called for Friday afternoon of this week.

Another interesting feature of the afternoon was a talk on "Parliamentary Usage" by Mrs. Adah Beeman. The March meeting will be held at Mrs. Hooker's.

RIVER PLUNGE PROVES FATAL

Theodore Bennel, 22 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennel, farmers living just north of Clarion, died last Thursday evening from exposure and exhaustion following two plunges into Bear River.

The young man was hauling cedar posts to his home when one of his horses ran away and out onto the ice. The young man followed and when the horse broke through the ice he had attempted to pull him out. In doing so he also was plunged into the icy water. Another young man working nearby heard his call and helped him out. The two failed to extricate the horse and placed Bennel on the other horse and started him for home.

Both soon broke through and the young man was too exhausted to help himself. Edward Yell and Claude Fox happened along and tried to carry the young man home. He proved too heavy, however, and they left him, covered with their coats and ran for help. They secured a team and sleigh, loaded him on and started for Clarion. Enroute there the young man passed away.

DEATH TAKES WELL KNOWN PELLSTON MAN

A. G. Grayson, long a prominent figure at Pellston, where he served as village president, postmaster, supervisor and in numerous other ways, passed away on Thursday of last week. He had been ill for several years. For years Mr. Grayson published the Pellston Journal, a weekly newspaper and was quite prominent in Masonic circles.

THUNDER LANDED LIGHTER THAN DID LIGHTNING

Thunder and Lightning, two young Indian bucks living at Buffalo, Point, Minnesota, went for a toboggan ride. The toboggan was drawn by a pony named Electricity. Half way across a frozen bay, Electricity ran away. Thunder and Lightning landed on the ice. Thunder landed lighter than did Lightning, who suffered a broken collar bone. Electricity was "harnessed" an hour later by squaws.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Nowland, who departed from this life February 12 and 14, 1926, respectively:

Yes, my dears, we're sad and lonely, And our hearts will ever yearn, For the dear and blessed parents Who will never more return.

Only God knows how we suffer, But it seems to be his way Just to bring us nearer Heaven Where we'll see you some glad day.

So we'll hope to meet you, darlings, In that better home on high; Where there is no pain or sorrow, And our loved ones never die.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jones and family.—Adv. 7-11.

Gay was very, very, very sad. She could not eat, although the breakfast tray for two was most enticingly arrayed. Over her cap of coffee her eyes clung to Rand's eyes, very large, very deep, darkly troubled.

"Rand, please eat," she begged. "You will be very hungry before night! Eat, please eat!"

"Gay, I can't. For the first time in my life, my appetite was all filled up before I began. I hate to go and leave you. Gay, you aren't thinking of going away the first of September, are you? I will make the trip as fast as I can, but I cannot be back by the first. You wouldn't go before I return, would you?"

"There's really nothing to hurry me away," she said reasonably. "I like it here, and I do need more rest, and— they say—the weather is very nice in September."

"The weather? Are you staying for the weather?"

Gay shook her head. No—for you.

Rand stood up suddenly, and Gay, too, rose slowly. Rand in hand they crossed the pleasant room to the door that opened down upon the bay where the boat waited for Rand, to take him away.

"I kissed you when I came the first time," he said softly, "wouldn't it rather hurt your feelings if I went away—less affectionately?"

Gay nodded. "Terribly. I should think you didn't like it."

Rand took her in his arms, and kissed her, not once, but many times. "Were you ever in love before, Rand?" Gay asked softly.

"Well—yes," he admitted hesitatingly. "Er—weren't you?"

"Well—yes," she acknowledged, smiling faintly. "But never like this, Rand, never like this."

Her cool, firm, slender fingers caressed his hair, touched his lips, cradled the curve of his chin.

"Rand," she whispered. "Rand."

At three o'clock, with ambling tremulous lips, and tears streaming down her face, but laughing, Gay stood in the highest window of the Lone Pine, and blew a kiss to the wind as Rand turned the boat east, to sea.

CHAPTER VI

With the first of September came the breaking up of the summer colony. Gay was grateful for the absence after the clamor of young voices, twanging ukuleles, whining saxophones. Adorable, waiting alone at the top of the hill, for Rand to come! If sometimes she was troubled by a vague presentiment, a prophetic suggestion that all her future life would be something like that, waiting for Rand, she stilled it resolutely. She felt that it was doubly sweet to be alone in awaiting his return, that of all the summer colony, she alone remained, waiting.

There was a point high on the rocks to the east of the Little Club where she often sat by the hour, chin in hand, gazing dreamily off to sea. Rand would not return that way. He would come by fastest State-of-Malheur express, but it was the way he had gone, and it intrigued her fancy.

Chin in hand, eyes misty with dreamy thoughts far away to sea in the south, she sat one day when a voice called up to her from a lower place among the rocks.

"Miss Timmer! May I come up?"

Gay turned quickly, and her eyes contracted wonderfully. She smiled. It was the man she had directed to the landing on the fateful day of her discovery in the cove.

"Come up, by all means," she said cordially.

And as he came up, climbing carefully and with a caution that spoke of little custom, she gave him her hand in greeting.

"How in the world did you know my name?" she asked interestedly.

"Oh, Gay Delane! It was on your sketch book that day. Do tell me—I have wondered about it so many times—whatever came of it all? Did the police trace him? Did you ever get back the little sketch, and—"

Very briefly she told him of the disappearance of the sketch.

"Are—are you sure?" he asked doubtfully; almost, it seemed to her, quizzically. "It seems—very—well, unnatural, you know. Why, nobody knew about it— Didn't you drop the book? Couldn't it have fallen out? It seems—"

"Now, don't you think I am crazy," she said with some heat. "Everybody else does. But I am trusting you to trust me."

"I will trust you," he said quickly.

"I do. It was had luck all the way round, and I'm sorry. I wish I had taken the sketch from you by main force. I hate that worst of all, losing the sketch. Do you remember the hand—very fine—"

"Don't," she said. "Don't talk of it. I should have done something for that poor boy—but what could I do?"

"Don't think of it. Let's talk of something else—Are you remaining long on the island? It seems very quiet here now. The summer people have gone, have they not?"

In spite of her best efforts, feeling the curious interest of his eyes, and his words, Gay felt her face flush for her lingering.

"I was worn out," she explained quickly. "I had to have a long rest. I shall stay a little longer—a week or two perhaps. While the weather is nice. I like it better now the summer crowd is gone. Just the nice, good, religious natives are left. And me. I like it. But I did not expect to see you here again."

"I wish I could say I had come only to see you," he said, "but I am afraid I dare not go so far. As a matter of fact, I have learned that they are shipping rather a land boom around here in the next two or three years, and my partner and I are hoping to pick up something for a song, and sell it after a bit for a—well, a grand opera. I am scouting out the land."

Our extra slice of pie for this week is awarded to the school teacher who was cussed out by the irate parent of what the irate parent contended was a "sweet little angel."

The POLICY of PROGRESS

A STATEMENT by GENERAL MOTORS

It is the policy of General Motors to maintain continuous improvement, in every one of its car divisions, with no interruption in production.

This means that you enjoy the benefits of new engineering developments promptly—just as soon as they have been thoroughly tested on the 1245-acre Proving Ground.

It means that you can now order the new Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac, or GMC Truck, and receive immediate delivery.

Behind this policy of continuous improvement is an organization so widespread and resourceful that it can make and sell quality automobiles more economically than any automobile manufacturer in the world.

In the north and south it logs and mills its own lumber. In the east it makes its own ball bearings and radiators. In the middle west it produces its own plate glass. Its plants are busy in 33 important American cities.

From almost 5,000 suppliers, its materials are obtained—steel by the hundreds of thousands of tons—wire by the tens of thousands of miles—upholstery by the acre—nuts, bolts and washers by the millions. Its sales and service take place through 33,000 dealers. More than 275,000 families look directly to General Motors for their livelihood—almost a million and a half men, women and children in every community in the land.

Meaning so much to so many, General Motors has felt a supreme obligation to look ahead.

Are there methods by which General Motors cars can be better built to better serve?

Are there new ideas which can increase the utility and pleasure and safety of motoring?

Are there new materials which can add to owner satisfaction?

Such are the questions that all General Motors engineers have always asked. The answers have made it possible, year after year, to offer an increasing measure of beauty in design, modern performance, riding comfort and distinct style. Thus in every price class, from Cadillac to Chevrolet, purchasers are constantly benefiting from the General Motors policy of progress.

Gaylord Handed Locals Second Defeat in Close Game There
Friday Evening

Charlevoix high school basketball team, playing in the best form they have shown this year, lost a close game to Gaylord last Friday evening at Gaylord, by a 3 point margin, then turned the tables and defeated the fast East Jordan team on the latter's court Monday night, 21 to 17. Both of these five had defeated Charlevoix on the local court in previous games.

In the Friday evening game, Gaylord got away to a 10 to 2 lead before the locals found themselves. A determined offensive attack, featured by the basket shooting of Beaudoin and Supernaw's guarding, brought Charlevoix within two points of their opponents at the half, when the count stood 14 to 12. It was a battle from the opening of the third quarter on, with Charlevoix maintaining a 2 point advantage until within four minutes of the final whistle. Here they suffered a setback when Marshall was taken out with a sprained ankle and Supernaw called out on fouls. Gaylord found the hoop for 2 baskets during the last few minutes of play, winning 32 to 29. Marshall's injuries will keep him out of the line-up until the tournament.

Charlevoix sprung a complete surprise by defeating East Jordan on the latter's floor Monday evening by a 21 to 17 score. In view of their victory over the local five here earlier in the season East Jordan was favored to repeat.

Entering a completely changed line-up, made necessary by Marshall's injury, Charlevoix seemed to have just the right combination. Taking the lead in the first quarter they were never headed, although East Jordan, in a desperate spurt, tied the score 8 to 8 at the half. From that point the Red and White had things their own way. They led 15 to 8 at the third period, and although being out-scored in the fourth, retained a 4-point margin, winning 21 to 17. This game was again featured by Beaudoin's basket shooting and Supernaw's guarding.

Charlevoix now has a percentage of better than 500 in games won and lost. Mancelona here Friday night should add another victory to the string and the Red and White should find no trouble in taking Kalkaska in to camp there Saturday night.

GILBERT SALTONSTALL HONORED AT U. OF M.

The daily papers of February 14th gave a list of 52 names of the 10,000 students at the University of Michigan who earned "A" in all their subjects for the last semester. Among those who had won the honor was the name of Gilbert Saltonstall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bravton Saltonstall of this city.

MICHIGAN BELL RE- DUCE ITS RATES

Hand Telephone Sets Will Cost Less Money

Manager C. L. Johnson, of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, announces that effective March 1, the rate for hand telephone sets is reduced from fifty to twenty-five cents per month. The change is made after a few months actual experience with the set in the public's hands he says and seems to be more a practical rate now that the manufacture of the equipment is under production.

Manager Johnson says that the first few hand telephone sets provided by the company were something of an experiment as there was no way of determining in advance what the actual cost of providing and maintaining them would be. While the hand set is a more expensive set than the desk and wall sets, these latter types give just as good telephone service. Owing to the difference in style, however, some people have preference for the hand telephone set and it was developed for that purpose.

BRADY'S BOATS IN PALM BEACH RACE

TERMED "DARK HORSE" OF COM-ING MID-WINTER EVENT

Local Man Has Challenged California Entry to Compete in Race at Palm Beach

According to the following item from the Palm Beach Times, issue of Thursday, February 16, M. Roy Brady, local speed boat enthusiast, has been guessing down in Florida. Brady is taking in all the speed boat events in that state with his "Brady's Bonts," and so far has made quite a creditable showing. He has now entered his outfit in the annual regatta at Palm Beach and the item below would indicate that his participation is causing no little stir down there:

"With the arrival here late yesterday of M. R. Brady, Charlevoix, Mich., with 'Brady's Bonts,' a mysterious outboard entry for the sixth annual renewal of the Palm Beach mid-winter regatta, that event, for the first time in the annals of local boat racing, has taken on a national aspect.

In bringing his boat from Michigan for the local races, Brady is running Gus Walker, Los Angeles, Cal., a close second for mileage honors. Walker having shipped his outboard, 'Baby California,' all the way from the Pacific ocean. These two boats are looked upon as 'dark horse' entries and are expected to furnish surprises in their respective classes.

An added event for the regatta program is possible as the result of Brady's challenge to Gus Walker for a state contest, Michigan versus California, in the outboard class. Walker has not accepted the challenge today but regatta officials felt that he would do so and were eagerly anticipating this contest.

Word has been received by home folks that Brady had recently received a new motor for his boat and in early try-outs found it gave him much more speed than his old one. Charlevoix people await with interest the results of the race and the outcome of the possible Michigan versus California event.

FIVE DELEGATES FOR CHARLEVOIX

State G. O. P. Committee Trying to Fix Meeting Place

The Republican State Central committee meeting at Lansing last Thursday decided to hold the state republican convention in Detroit this year. The date was advanced from May 9, which had been set tentatively to April 23.

The procedure advanced the date for county conventions to April 11. Philip T. Colegrave of Hastings, will make the keynote speech at the state convention.

The state convention will elect seven delegates at large and seven alternates to the National Convention at Kansas City June 12.

District conventions will be called by the congressional district committees to select two delegates and two alternates to the national convention.

The apportionment of county delegates to the state convention, totaling in all 1,394, is in part as follows: Alpena 7; Charlevoix 5; Emmet 7; Gd. Traverse 7; Manistee 5; Wexford 7.

FILMS ARE WELL WORTH SEEING

INCREASING DEMAND FOR STATE'S MOTION PICTURES

Films and Attendant Lecturer May Be Secured Without Cost
Upon Application

Public interest in Michigan's wild life is indicated by the demand for the motion pictures of birds and animals prepared by the department of conservation for free service to schools, clubs, and civic organizations of the state. The films cover a wide range of conservation subjects, and according to George R. Hogarth, acting director of the department, have already been shown to nearly 100,000 men, women and school children this season.

"Wild Wings," "Michi, the Beaver," "The American Eagle" and the "Wonder Isle" are four of the most popular films in the library of more than 20,000 feet of "movies."

The films with attendant lecturer—James McGilivray or Walter Hastings—may be secured without cost by any civic club, school or sportsmen's organization, or other group through direct application to the secretary, conservation department at Lansing. Both Hastings and McGilivray are well known to thousands of outdoor lovers and conservation enthusiasts in Michigan, and never fail to interest their audiences, whether men only, women or mixed groups, and their pictures have been acclaimed the best procurable anywhere. The demand for the films and lecture service has grown until the department finds it difficult to meet all requests. Applications are considered in order received.

No admission charge may be made by groups requesting the department's free film and lecture service. Projector and screen is furnished when desired, providing standard 110 alternating current and modern plug connections are available.

"Michigan in the Rough" is the title of a new picture now being completed and ready for release in a few months. Others will be made from time to time in order that a fresh supply of interesting and worthwhile pictures may be on hand at the department of conservation for people of the state who desire to see them.

A part of these films were shown here by Mr. Hastings last week. It is hoped they will be presented to the general public at an open meeting at some future date.

INDIANS WANTED FOR CIRCUS PERFORMERS

Bay Shore Indian Scouring Northern Counties

Wanted—Potawatamies.
George Sky Eagle, an esteemed citizen of Charlevoix county, is combing the woods of Northern Michigan in search of red blooded red men to join the circus, the Engenbeck-Wallace circus, to be exact, and he hopes to organize an entire tribe to go on the road next summer.

Sky Eagle, whose home is at Bay Shore, has been engaged as the official Indian agent of the circus. So far he has confined his recruiting to Charlevoix county and is uncertain whether he will get as far south as Traverse City and Peshawabtown. — Traverse Record.

PETOSKEY WINTER SPORTS VISIT US

LARGE DELEGATION FROM THAT CITY HERE THURSDAY

Their Help Made Program One of Most Successful So Far
This Winter

Splendid cooperation by a large number of Petoskey outdoor life enthusiasts, made last Thursday a great winter sports day at Charlevoix. Three car loads headed by George McCabe, Petoskey winter sports director, took part in the afternoon events, while in the evening it is estimated around 175 people from our neighboring city came to Charlevoix for coasting.

The single dog sled race, opening event on the afternoon program, was won by Don McKenzie of Charlevoix, with George LaBlanc taking second place. "Ring," entered by Ribbert Cowell of Petoskey, and "Sim" by Donald McHugh of this city, seemed more interested in a friendly visit (as dogs do it) and trotted along the route to finish third and fourth respectively.

The ski-joring races were fast and interesting. Starting at the corner near the Colonial Club, the three entrants made a thrilling run down Dixon avenue to the corner of Michigan. Ralph Lemleu, following his own horse, won the event. Fred Hendry, with a mount from Hooker's stables, was 2nd, and Bill Woods took third place. Following the ski-joring races, everyone went to Mt. McSaubia where skiers put on an exhibition and others enjoyed the toboggan slide.

Petoskey's large delegation Thursday evening put over the most successful evening of sports so far this winter. The Legion, Rotary, Kiwanis, Elks, Knights of Columbus and two other bobs from that city were brought here and with them 175 enthusiastic people ready for an evening of fun. Some motored, other road on bobs towed behind automobiles and another party came in a large bob-sled towed behind a truck.

Bridge street hill was covered with snow when the party arrived, but while it was being cleaned off, the party was entertained on the toboggan slide at Mt. McSaubia, and later returned for coasting. Another enjoyable feature of the evening was an impromptu dance at Monte's place, which was suggested by D. T. McHugh, local winter sports director. Petoskey folks enthusiastically favored this surprise event and dancing went on until a late hour before the party broke up.

Many expressions of appreciation have been heard locally over the splendid cooperation extended by Petoskey and it is hoped that close relations will continue to exist. Charlevoix will repay Petoskey's visit to day, when a large number of local people go to that city for their regular Wednesday program of events. A leading feature of the evening festivities there will be a race between two fast Charlevoix and Petoskey bobs. A suitable prize and championship of the two counties goes to the winner.

EIGHTEEN COUPLES EN- TERTAINED AT BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Capt. John Chambers and Mrs. Barney Chambers entertained eighteen couples at a bridge party Sunday evening at their home. Cards were followed by music, singing and delicious refreshments. Mrs. Mary Cooper and Fred Steffeld won first honors at bridge. The party was a very enjoyable affair.

WILL BUILD BADLY NEEDED GRAND STAND

Fair Association Plans This and Other Improvements

The executive committee of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society, together with President F. R. Bulow, and Secretary Kit Carson, met at the parlors of the Peoples State Savings Bank in East Jordan last Saturday to formulate plans for the coming meeting of the Association this fall.

Among other things, it was decided that a new grand stand was a necessity, the old one being obsolete, and it was decided to build a substantial structure this summer to be in readiness for the fall exhibit.

This will be a step toward making the fair more popular with the public, as few things on the fair ground is more needed than a suitable place to rest and watch track events.

Dates for the 1928 Annual Fair are August 28-29-30, the last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of August.

BAD STORM HIT NORTH REGIONS

SUNDAY AND MONDAY BLOW
WORST THIS SEASON

Road Crows Have Been Busy Day and Night—Most All Highways Are Now Open

Charlevoix and nearly all of Michigan experienced one of the worst storms of the winter last Sunday and Monday. Snow and high winds were prevalent over the entire state, starting Saturday night in the southern portion and reaching this section Sunday morning.

MI-31 between Charlevoix and Petoskey was blocked from Bay Shore north nearly all day Monday. Automobile traffic was resumed again Tuesday morning between the two cities. South of Charlevoix this highway was plugged from the city limits to Eastport. County roads between Charlevoix and Boyne City and East Jordan were kept open throughout the storm, snow-plow crews working day and night. Monday found the P. M. tracks blocked north of Traverse City and there were no trains over this route until Tuesday noon, when the southbound went out on schedule time.

All highways are open north and south of Charlevoix as we go to press, the rotary having gone through to Eastport Tuesday night. We understand the big plow is returning today to widen out the narrow places. Cars have been able to reach Traverse City today. According to highway department crews, the storm was the worst experienced in some time. Snow was packed into the many cuts so hard that it had to be broken down so that the rotary could throw it out. Drifts in some places were eight and ten foot deep. If a heavy wind should follow today's snowfall more trouble is anticipated.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE AT BEN NOWLAND HOME

Twenty Friends Gathered to Celebrate Occasion

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nowland was the scene of a very happy surprise party Tuesday evening, when twenty friends made an uninvited visit to remind Mr. Nowland of his birthday anniversary.

The evening was spent in playing progressive pedro, at which Frank Conlin, Sr., and Mrs. H. H. Fales carried off the honors. Following cards refreshments were served, featured by a wonderful birthday cake with 67 candles. Mrs. John Zeiler, daughter of Mr. Nowland, made and presented the cake. Mr. Nowland received many nice gifts from his friends.

K. OF P. WILL ENTERTAIN WIVES AND CHILDREN

Members of Pina Laka Lodge No. 122, Knights of Pythias, will entertain their wives and children at a family supper and dancing party, Thursday evening, March 1. Supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. sharp, after which dancing, cards and other forms of entertainment will be indulged in. The committee in charge have promised a novel entertainment and all members are asked to set this evening aside and be sure and attend.

Saturday, February 25, the Seventh Grade will hold a baked goods and at Wood Bros. Hardware.—Adv. 8-4f.

LAKE CHARLEVOIX EXEMPT TO ORDER

WILL NOT BE CLOSED FROM APRIL 1 TO JUNE 15.

Steps Should Be Taken to Include
Mackinaw and Steelhead
Along With Pike

Twenty-six inland lakes in which northern and white-eyed pike predominate have been exempted from the closing order of the Conservation Commission in November, closing lakes of the state to all fishing from April 1 to June 15th, according to George R. Hogarth, acting director, Department of Conservation.

Wall-eyes may be caught with hook and line after April 30 in the following lakes, the opening date approximating the time when this variety of fish have finished spawning: Gogebie Lake, Sunday Lake and Ciesco Chain in Ontonagon and Gogebie counties; Schlatter Lake, Keweenaw county; the two Pickeral lakes and Lake Michigamme in Marquette county; Antrim Lake, Alger county; North Manistique and Muscalonge Lakes, Luce county; McDonald, Gulliver and Indian Lakes in Schoolcraft county; Lake George, Little Lake George, Hay and Mud Lakes in Chippewa county; Manistique, Whitefish and Pine Lakes in Mackinac county; Lake Charlevoix, Charlevoix county; East Twin Lake in Montmorency county; Ostego Lake, Ostego county; Houghton Lake and St. Helen in Roscommon county.

Trout and pike fishermen and resort business men alike will approve of the new ruling of the department which allows pike fishing May 1st as it will relieve congestion in streams and save many trout that would otherwise be caught, while pike enthusiasts will be allowed to follow their favorite sport, and the resort who depends on a fair amount of his annual business from the latter group will not be deprived of his usual profit.

The original closing order prohibiting all fishing from inland lakes from April 1 to June 16 was made with a view of protecting bass and other fish than pike during their spawning season.

Lakes that are known to be fairly well stocked with bass and other fish that do not spawn until late were not included in the exempting order, but the department is investigating others in the state to determine which are and which are not "pike lakes."

Charlevoix county commercial and business associations should take immediate steps to point out to the conservation department that there is no pike fishing in Lake Charlevoix and then put forth every effort to have the ruling cover mackinaw and steelhead trout. This sport draws hundreds of early season sportsmen to Charlevoix county each year. In its present intent, the ruling will likely cause considerable conflict in this county, while on the other hand if the "no pike" matter is put before the commission at once, there is no reason to believe but what they would take favorable action on the matter.

FATHER AND SON BAN- QUET GREAT SUCCESS

Two Hundred and Nine Men and Boys Were Present

The community Father and Son banquet, held last Wednesday evening at the Methodist church, was a every way a rare success.

Two hundred and nine men and boys were seated at the delicious banquet supper, served by the Methodist Ladies' Literary and Sewing Club. After the banquet Barker Kirby, president of the Men's Monday Club, called on A. C. Belding to conduct the program, which included the following numbers: orchestra, the Miller Ensemble; invocation, Dr. Bernard G. Mattson; toastmaster, A. C. Belding; music, Male Quartette; address, "To Our Sons," Dr. F. F. McMillan; address, "To Our Fathers," John Williams; music, Male Quartette; address, "Poets and Devils," W. L. Feuhner.

Mr. Feuhner's address was masterfully given and was full of sound, common sense and proven advice to both fathers and sons. The double quartette was encored for both their numbers and many hoped the organization would be available on other occasions.

THE GOVERNOR WAS RIGHT

There is apparently some disposition in certain quarters to criticize Governor Green for the part he took in rescuing the child murderer of Genesee county from mob violence this night the man was arrested in his peaceful home in Owosso, confessing to the horrible crime while being taken to the Genesee county jail at Flint. Let's see if that criticism is deserved:

Genesee county had been under an intense strain for several days while the man hunt was going on. Within an hour after news of the arrest had spread throughout the city there was a surging, seething mob storming the portals of the bastille, clamoring for vengeance. They wanted the blood of the murderer to wash out the country's most horrible stain. County and state officials sensed the situation, and with the first tread of marching feet spirited their prisoner away to Lansing. Would the mob believe that the prisoner was gone? They would not. You will remember that finally four women were selected to search the county jail, and even then there were hundreds in the crowd unconvinced. Does anybody believe that mob violence would not have taken its toll if Adolph Hotelling had been kept in Flint that night? We don't think so.

At Lansing, over 60 miles from Flint, the police were so jumpy that they insisted the prisoner be taken elsewhere. When appealed to the governor ordered him brought to Ionia. By his prompt and courageous action the state was saved the ignominy of northern lynching, and within 48 hours the man was on his way to Marquette to spend the rest of his natural life. But that is not the end of the story:

A few weeks ago a deputy sheriff was shot and killed at Charlotte. Within a few days following the death of the official a young man was arrested at Battle Creek and confessed to the killing. Later he repudiated his confession, claiming he had been forced into making such statement and that it was not true. Eaton county authorities were finally convinced the boy was telling the truth and the search for the real murderer was begun. Today two other boys are in the county jail and have confessed to taking the deputy's life. There is no mistake this time.

But suppose when the first man had been taken to Charlotte the friends of Cleo Platt, the murdered man, had taken the law into their own hands and lynched that innocent boy? How long do you think it would have taken Eaton county to have wiped away that stain? Not in a hundred years. Mob psychology is rarely ever right. Suppose this same situation had arisen in Flint? It could have been just as possible as in Eaton county. We believe that the governor took exactly the right course. We can always see things in a different light the day after, but with passion inflamed, with ability to reason currently impaired, it is always better to reserve our decision until calmness has returned and we are sure that no mistake is being made.

ALWAYS USE CAUTION

Extra caution should be exercised at this time of the year when approaching railroad crossings. Fifteen years ago this advice, so far as automobile traffic is concerned, would not have been necessary. In the early days of the automobile winter saw the family machine stored away until springtime, but with the coming of paved roads and the closed car, traffic is nearly as heavy now as during the summer season. Driving conditions are not so good now as they will be a few months later. icy pavements, sudden storm flurries, and dozens of other contributing factors make for hazardous driving. Use caution at all times—it pays and pays in every way.

INCREASE MEMBERSHIP

Despite a decline in members in five of its twenty-one church areas, a gain of 57,179 in membership was recorded in the Methodist Episcopal church in 1927. Growth in sixteen other American areas and in foreign fields brought the membership this year to 5,230,320.

The pastor announces a series of Sunday morning sermons for the Lenten season at this services at 10:30 o'clock. The general subject will be "The Fruits of the Christian Religion." These discussions will seek to go to the heart of the most important aspects of the two main lines of religious influence—personal experience and organized activity. The sermons will be replete with case studies of actual people and actual achievements as illustrations of the fruitfulness of genuine religious faith.

6:00 p. m. the young peoples services are shared by all who desire to come to enjoy their social and instructive values. Now hymn books, "The Hymnal for American Youth," have been purchased and will be enjoyed by all.

The Sunday school meets at noon. The Pilgrim Circle of the Congregational church has extended an invitation to the other circles and to the women's societies of all churches in the city to be present at a social tea and program given in the church parlors Friday afternoon, February 24 at 3:00 o'clock.

Services at the Ironton church were omitted last Sunday on account of the storm and blocked roads. It is hoped to resume services this coming Sunday.

CROP REPORT FOR MICHIGAN

MICHIGAN LIVE STOCK IS VALUED AT $167,092,000

Live Stock Sales Show an Increase in Price Per Head With Exception of Swine

An estimated total value of $167,092,000, the five principal classes of livestock on Michigan farms on January 1, 1928, were worth 13 per cent more than on the previous January 1. There were fewer horses and sheep and more cattle and swine on farms, while the number of mules did not change. There was an increase in price per head for all classes except swine. Likewise the total value of each class except swine was higher than the year before.

Horses: The number of horses and colts on Michigan farms continues to decrease as has been the case for some years past. The four per cent decrease this year leaves 420,000 head on farms. The demand for horses increased during the year so that the price of $98.00 per head on January 1 was nine dollars higher than the year before. More colts are being born, showing the tendency to replace some of the now old work horses. The total value this year was $41,770,000.

The United States total number of horses also declined four per cent to 14,541,000 head compared to 15,145,000 head a year ago. The average value per head was $67.07, which was about three dollars higher, and the total value was $975,298,000 against $971,258,000 on January 1, 1927.

Mules: There are few mules on Michigan farms and the number does not change appreciably. The 8,000 head on January 1 had a value per head of $93.00, and a total value of $741,000.

For the entire country the number of mules and mule colts on farms decreased two per cent to 5,566,000 head, with an average value per head increased to $79.60. The total value increased from $423,010,000 in 1927 to $443,097,000 on January 1, 1928.

Milk Cows: According to the January 1 estimate there were 9,000, or one per cent, more milk cows on Michigan farms than the year before. The demand for milk cows is very strong, and the price per head was $30.00 compared with $23.00 the previous year. Outside buyers come into the state as soon as the tuberculin test is completed in a county and buy all available cows. But the number of heifers saved for milk cows the previous year was more than enough to offset the outshipments of 16,000 milk cows, and allowed for the slight increase in total numbers. The total number of 849,000 had a January 1 value of $76,410,000, an increase of 15 millions over the year before. The number of heifers being saved for milk cows was 162,000 compared with 153,000 the previous year and 149,000 on January 1, 1926.

All Cattle: There was a gain of two per cent in the total number of all cattle on farms in the state. The decrease in the beef classes and feeding was thus much more than offset by the increase in the dairy kinds. The total value was nearly nine millions greater than the year before because the price also increased to $68.70 per head.

Sheep: After the increases in numbers for some years, the decline has started in sheep numbers, and it is estimated that there were 13,000 less of this class of live stock on Michigan farms on January 1 this year. However, the value per head was 50 cents higher at $10.90, so that the total value was larger than a year ago, or $14,210,000.

Swine: For the third consecutive year swine increased in numbers on Michigan farms on January 1. The price, however, was much lower and the value was therefore three million dollars less. With large numbers, cheap prices, and an unfavorable corn-hog ratio, the numbers will now probably commence to decline. The numbers increased eight per cent to 913,000, which had a total value of $11,869,000 from the price per head of $13.00.

POLAR BEARS TO MEET BOYNE HERE THURSDAY

What promises to be the fastest independent basketball game on the local court this season is in store for Charlevoix fans, when the Polar Bears meet Boyne City here Thursday evening. Boyne has hung up quite a record so far this season and should give the local five some stiff opposition.

"How interesting. How very interesting!" Gay stood up suddenly. "You offered me tea before, and I refused. I am holder now. Will you tea with me? And let me about it."

They passed back over the rocks and into the woods, skirting the Little club, in silence.

"I shall have to take a peep at some of your private papers, I think," Gay said smilingly, as she led the way into the Lone Pine. "Or shall I call you 'Say'?"

"Ingram, Ronald Ingram—I beg your pardon, I seem to feel that I know you so well I quite forgot you did not know my name."

"Well, Mr. Ingram, welcome to the Lone Pine. There is something about you—something New York—that makes me tingle for Times square."

They were chatting companionably over their tea, chattering of work, of aims and interests, the big things of life, when Auntalmiry came to the door. She came intentionally, knowing there was a guest; Gay knew that at once, realized it with a vague resentment, although knowing it was not like the little old woman to intrude. She was dressed for the occasion, in her best black Sunday silk, with her coral cameo at her throat. There was a flush of excitement in her cheeks, and as she stepped into the room, not glancing at Gay, she swept Ronald Ingram with an eager breathless gaze.

"Oh, Mrs. Bridges, this is Mr. Ingram," Gay said lightly. "Mrs. Bridges, for company," she explained laughing. "Auntalmiry to tell us home-folks. Sit down, Auntalmiry; tea's nice and hot."

"Yes—yes, I will," Auntalmiry sat down stiffly, her eyes still intent on the young man who had crossed the room to stand by her chair as she sank into it. And intent upon his face, the light faded suddenly from her eyes, the flush died in her cheeks. All in a moment she was smaller, older, very tired.

A little later Mr. Ingram went away with many warm and pleasant words, and with a last lingering touch on Gay's hand. Their eyes met, understandingly, as they smiled farewell. When Gay returned to Auntalmiry she was sitting wilted slightly in the chair, and her face was sad.

"Gay, you will excuse me, won't you? For coming like this, when you had company. I saw him on the plaza—a stranger—and I thought maybe Buddy had come."

"Buddy? Do you mean 'Rand'?"

"No, Buddy—my son, Buddy?"

"Auntalmiry, your son! Have you a son? Oh, I didn't know you had a son. Why didn't you tell me?"

"Yes, Buddy, my son. I didn't tell you, dearie, because we aren't like that. We just hold things in our hearts, and things, and say nothing. The glad things, too, perhaps, too much. We don't scatter our feelings, good or bad; we shut them. I thought perhaps some one else had told you."

"No. No one on this island has ever mentioned your son—Buddy. I never heard of him before."

"We are like that," she said faintly. "We hold one another's secrets to ourselves. They would talk to each other—but no one would tell me—suddenness—to an outsider, one who didn't belong."

"Was it a sadness, Auntalmiry, having the son?"

Auntalmiry's eyes glowed suddenly, but her voice remained mild and even. "It was heaven," she said gently. "But he went away—and never came back."

"Did he ever come back?"

"He was a gypsy boy, Buddy, like his father. His father was a singer who came here one summer—a big singer. But he was a gypsy. He went away, too. But I didn't mind that so much."

"Didn't he ever come back?"

"He did, dearie. Died away. But I had Buddy then. But Buddy went, too. Could I have a little more sugar, dearie?"

That was all. They talked of other things. Auntalmiry's gentle interest was just as it had always been, her easy amiability, but after that hush of feverish hope she seemed pale and worn with her age.

The next day found them, and they two, Gay and Rand, drifted into a routine of joyous companionship and love. Frankly and trustfully they professed full sympathy and understanding in each other's whims. Gay loved to be in love, but brooded no thought of marriage, demanding freedom, she said, freedom for work. Rand, too, admitted satisfaction in the arrangement, craving freedom from the very thing that she desired, freedom from freedom's sake, he called it. If sometimes Gay wondered if love built on foundation so slight could long endure, she brushed her doubts.

She was very happy, and she dreamed of long years of this same happiness for both, freedom for each for the things that each desired. She would come to him, he would come to her, they would summer together in this cool and lovely place.

September drew swiftly, goldenly toward its close. September is the death of summer in the northland. The hotels on the island were already closed for the season, the summer shops locked into their storm windows, the shore cottages deserted. Still Gay lingered. Between herself and Rand had been no suggestion of parting, no hint that the season was over, the time of separation at hand. The island was lovely in September, lovely and wistful and willing. Gay would not let herself think of leaving.

She sat alone in her window-seat one afternoon and watched the sunset as it faded swiftly and darkness crept over the land. As hour passed, two hours. The dusk had deepened to night. And then, with one of her impulsive changes, she sprang to her feet, wanting brightness, wanting light. With her hand outstretched to press the button, she stopped, suddenly motionless, holding her breath.

Pressed hard against her window on the eastern side, the side of the forest, she saw it again, that face of yellow parchment with the seamed scar beneath the slanting eyes. As she looked it faded away into the darkness from which it had come.

With its disappearance came sudden activity, flaming anger.

She ran to the window and hung it wide.

"Hello," she called. "Hello there!" There was no answer to her call, but, staring intently, she saw among the shadows of the wood one shadow that moved silently farther into the recesses of the forest, and merged at last into black. She closed the window thoughtfully, locked it and lowered the blinds.

Gay had a pistol, a handsome mountaineered one, which it was her pleasant conceit to keep loaded, well conditioned, ready for emergency use in the driver of her desk near at hand. She had bought it during that memorable year abroad on one of her venturesome visits to London pawnshops, and with a sort of boyish vanity had carried it with her ever since. But it is indicative of the absolute confidence of her nature that in an emergency she was entirely forgetful of the weapon, reverting to the more feminine defense of screaming, calling or locking doors.

When she saw the yellow face at her window she did not so much as think of the loaded pistol, which she affectionately dubbed the Baby, until she was safe behind the lowered blinds. Then she opened the drawer and looked at it.

"You're a useless old thing," she said impatiently. "Why don't you go off when there is some occasion for you, and across the Popping Tom?"

Expecting Rand, who came at his own caprice and kept her alert with expectation, she was not startled when, an hour later, there was a light knock at her door. It was past nine o'clock, but as his home always suited his convenience, she only smiled tolerantly at his tardiness as she opened the door. But when she saw in the shadow, not Rand, but Ronald Ingram, she was startled into a little frightened cry, for which she quickly apologized with friendly laughter.

"Oh, you startled me. I—was expecting some one else. Do come in. I am glad to see you again."

"What took to find you?" Ronald Ingram said with a warm smile there was no mistaking. "I had no idea you would still be here. You are rather out-of-laying the summer, are you not?"

"Well—yes—a little, perhaps. But I was—quite ill, and I need—oh, a great deal of rest." Her face flushed with her feverish explanations, and Ronald Ingram studied her keenly.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Michael O'Neil and wife Susan of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Nicholls, Butters and company, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated the 15th day of February, 1901, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 15th day of February 1901, in Liber 33 of mortgages on page 377, and was assigned by Nicholls, Butters and company, to Ames O'Neil on the 21st day of September 1926, which assignment was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 23rd day of September 1926, in Liber 68 of mortgages on page 327, on which mortgage there is now claimed to be due the sum of one hundred thirty-three and fifty-eight one hundredth (133.58) dollars, including interest computed to the date thereof, also the sum of forty-six and sixty-four hundredths (46.64) dollars taxes and insurance paid by assignee, also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Friday, the 30th day of March, A.

D. 1928, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with seven per cent interest and all legal costs, together with the amount paid for taxes and insurance, and also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars, the premises described in said mortgage as the following described premises, situated in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, viz: Lot number ninety-eight (98) of Upright and Hurlbut's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan. Ames O'Neil, Assignee of Mortgagee.

Rollie L. Lewis, attorney for assignee of mortgagee. Business address: Charlevoix, Michigan.—Adv. 62-113.

Don't dose a Child's Cold

CONTINUAL dosing upsets children's delicate stomachs.

Vicks is applied externally and therefore cannot disturb the digestion. It acts in two ways:

(1) The body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors which are inhaled.

(2) At the same time Vicks "draws out" the soreness like a poultice.

State Club Leaders Visit County

A. C. Kettunen, state boys' and girls' club leader and Miss Ruth Featherly, assistant leader, spent February 14, 15 and 16 in this county visiting the many junior clubs that have been organized by the county agricultural agent.

They found the club members highly interested in their projects and made many recommendations that will make the work more effective.

It was a pleasant surprise to see the splendid articles that have already been completed and to note the efficient manner in which the members are carrying on their requirements.

The club program for this winter is the most extensive yet carried on in this county, at the present time there being nineteen active junior clubs as follows:

Eleven handicraft, six clothing and two hot lunch scattered throughout the county having approximately one hundred members enrolled.

The big event of the club year is the series of "Achievement Days" that will be held to finish up the winter club program during the fore part of May, at which time the champions of each school will be selected and the members are already doing their best to receive this high honor.

Fertilizer Dealers Hold Important Meeting

In order to acquaint themselves with the latest developments in the fertilizer business and to be of greater service to their patrons, all the fertilizer dealers of the county attended a meeting in the county agent's office in Boyne City on February 14.

Frank Trull, soil specialist from M. S. C., was present and led the discussion on this subject that is becoming of greater interest to the farmer every day.

The consensus of opinion was that the dealers should know what analysis to recommend for the farmer, should handle only high-analysis fertilizers, handle only high quality products and in other words sell only the fertilizers that will be of the greatest benefit to the consumer.

Mr. Trull discussed in detail how fertilizers are prepared, the proper uses of fertilizers, their value, when and how to use them, quantity to use per acre, and a wide variety of other subjects too numerous to mention.

It was very gratifying to find that the sale of fertilizer is increasing every year. Last year there was an increase of 25 per cent in the sales and there will be many new users this year. In the next few weeks there will be a series of fertilizer meetings held throughout the county. They will be conducted before the buying season is at hand so that the consumers can attend one of them and decide for themselves what will be most profitable to buy. Watch the paper for later announcements.

Poultry Campaign Started

The "Crow Hooter Chicks" poultry campaign for Charlevoix county is now in progress and is proving to be of great benefit to many poultry raisers.

The first meeting of the four scheduled was conducted at the plant of Henry Stephens, Charlevoix, with J. A. Hannah, poultry specialist, and Geo. Amundson, agricultural engineering specialist, both of M. S. C., present. Nine communities were represented by leaders, who received the instruction on the importance of correct brooding of baby chicks and recommendations concerning where to purchase high quality chicks.

This campaign is so arranged that the four meetings discuss the problems that may arise at about the time they confront the poultryman as housing, source of baby chicks, incubation, care and feeding of chicks, and diseases will be taken up in that order.

All people interested in poultry are urged to enroll in their respective communities by getting in touch with one of the following leaders, who are attending the four meetings and are glad to be of assistance.

Wm. Sanderson, East Jordan.

Mrs. George Brown, East Jordan.

Al Winda, East Jordan.

Archie Murphy, East Jordan.

Frank Fox, Boyne City.

Mr. Geary, Boyne City.

Chas. Mnscho, Charlevoix.

James Heeres, Charlevoix.

Roy Kane, Charlevoix.

These leaders will hold their first meeting inside of the next two weeks so plan on attending their meetings and in getting all the latest information that will be of assistance to you.

Why This Four IS TRUTHFULLY CALLED AMERICA'S Finest

No car in the price class of Dodge Brothers Four is so ROOMY. No car in this price class is so SWIFT. No car in this price class is so STURDY. No car in this price class is so SMART.

No car in this price class accelerates from 0 to 25 miles IN 7 SECONDS.

No car in this price class is so COMFORTABLE—for none has so long a springbase.

These are FACTS—readily verified—and they explain the immense popularity of Dodge Brothers Four.

No car at near its price offers so many advantages that Americans value foremost.

And no car at ANY price affords its owner, in greater measure, the satisfaction of knowing that for every dollar invested he has received a full dollar's return in honest value.

LARGE NUMBER SAW BEAUTIFUL PAGEANT

Presented at M. E. Church by Queen Esther Circle

In spite of the unfavorable weather last Sunday, the Methodist church was well filled at the 4:30 vesper hour that afternoon by those who came to see a charming pageant entitled "The Striking Hour of America's Liberty," produced under the auspices of the Queen Esther Circle of the missionary society.

Over fifty young people and children took part in it. Everyone was fittingly and charmingly costumed, while colored footlights added to the beauty of the stage scenes. A choir of stage-sung appropriate selections between scenes.

This was one of the most beautiful pageants ever given in this church and both gratitude and commendation should be given to every person participating. Especial praise should be given to Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. A. C. Baiding who produced it; Mrs. Beaman and Mrs. Lockyer who were responsible for the costumes; Miss Helen French who coached the tiny tots; and Miss Janta Secord who carried the burden of the speaking parts.

The pageant will be repeated in May when the district missionary meeting convenes at the Methodist church.

TOURNEY TEAMS INCREASE TO 13

Boys Prepare to Entertain Visitors for Three Day Meet

With applications received from St. Ignace and Alanson within the past week the number of teams entering the Class C and Class D basketball tournament to be held at the Boyne City gymnasium on March 1, 2 and 3, have increased to 13. An invitation has been sent to Mackinaw City to enter its team in the Class D elimination but no word has yet been received from the up state school. All other schools that are expected to enter teams have their applications on file.

Of the thirteen schools which have entered the tournament five have enrolled in Class C and the remaining eight teams will compete in Class D. The Class C schools include Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Mancelona and Boyne City. The eight Class D schools entered are St. Ignace, Alanson, Pellston, Boyne Falls, Alba, Ellsworth, Bellaire and Central Lake.

The Boyne City committee in charge of the tournament are working with Supt. Fuerer as manager in preparation for the forthcoming event.

The Wolverine Hotel has been secured as headquarters for the visiting teams and there most of the teams will be stationed. Meals for all teams will be served at the hotel under the personal direction of its manager, Miss Marie Mortensen.

Additional seats are being erected for the gymnasium to care for the crowds which will follow the teams. The floor of the gym is to be painted and additional lockers are being installed to care for the demand of the visiting teams. A check room service is to be installed and refreshments will be served during tournament time.

Season tickets will be placed on sale a week before tournament time.

BETTER LEAVE THE FIREARMS AT HOME

Jackrabbit Season Now Closed and Guns are Tabooed

Shotguns and rifles should best be left at home from now until the middle of September. The last open season, the season on jackrabbits, ended Wednesday, February 15, and from then until the duck season opens September 16, firearms are illegal in the hunting areas, except of course, as special permits are granted.

Act 87 of the public acts of 1925 describe the offense and prescribes the penalty. It is called "An act to regulate the carrying of hunting arms within the state during the open and closed seasons on game birds and animals."

In part it says: "Any person carrying hunting arms in the areas frequented by game animals or birds during the closed season thereon without a permit shall be subject to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $50, or in default of payment thereof shall be confined in the county jail not less than ten nor more than 20 days."

There is the stipulation that "this section shall not apply to an owner or occupant of any lands on which he is regularly domiciled while protecting such lands or property thereon."

MAN HAS ONE ARM SAWED OFF

Carl Worden Falls Into Wood Cutting Machine

Carl Worden, farmer living north of Conway had his right arm cut off at the shoulder Saturday afternoon of last week when he fell into a weed sawing outfit. The accident happened at his farm home. He was given first aid by members of his family and his helper, placed in a sleigh and brought to Lockwood hospital. It is said his condition is more favorable and that he probably will recover. He suffered much from shock but not as much as was expected from loss of blood.

Mr. Worden was working about the power driven saw when he slipped and fell against the drive shaft. His arm was caught and pulled instantly against the saw. The member was almost completely severed at the shoulder.

Mr. Worden and family lost their home by fire about a year ago, the father's accident being the second serious misfortune within about a year's time.

SOO POLITICIANS FIGHT OVER MANAGER

Opposing Factions Fight to Bring Well Aired

The Soo is having a heck of a time because one clique up there wants to trim the manager's salary to that point where he will quit, while the other element, the fellows that can see what a city manager has accomplished for that city, and have no axes to grind feel that he earns the $6,000 a year he is getting for his work.

They contend that an executive head of an industrial institution valued at fifteen million dollars would command much more than six thousand a year for his services. According to figures obtainable the managers of Michigan cities are much under paid when the salary of the city managers in other states is taken into consideration. Birmingham, Ferndale and Royal Oak, small down state cities pay their city manager $6,000 per year. Muskegon pays $6,000 per year. Gladstone $4,500 per year. Mnnistique with six thousand people pays $4,500 per year. Ironwood with 15,000 people, one thousand more than the Soo pays, $8,000 per year.

Why not hire a real manager like Charlevoix, at $62.50 per month?

AT THE MOVIES

Harry Laegdon Bridges Gap Between Subtle Snicker and Horse Laugh

To bridge the gap between subtle humor and that spontaneous horse laugh which greets the broader brands of amusement, and at the same time retain that sort of gentle, bewilderment humanness which leaves even the wildest mirth remains an almost herculean task. But Harry Laegdon has done it in his laugh-provoking production "The Chaser," which comes to the Palace Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

"Herald" as "comedy for laughing purposes only" the quizzical star who has sky-rocketed to fame through such pictures as "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "Long Pants" and "The Strong Man," has eclipsed his finest previous efforts in this riot of roars. Speeding up his action, dispensing his rib-tickling pantomime, and generating the whole picture on a rock-bottom basis of situation humor, Harry bids fair to rock the world with "The Chaser," according to those in a position to know. For the first time in critical history critics are unanimous in lauding it to the skies.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SECOND WEEK

LESTER SMITH AND ALLIE WARD ARE CONVICTED

Eight Are "Guilty" Out of Nine Criminal Cases—No Sentences
Passed So Far

Doings of the February term of circuit court, now in its second week, have been the center of interest for Charlevoix citizens during the past week. Each day has seen the court room crowded to capacity.

Nine criminal cases have been disposed of, five with pleas of guilty, one acquittal and three found guilty by a jury.

Herman Smith of Boyne City, who was arrested on a warrant charging him with breaking and entering, pleaded guilty. The items stolen were two chickens. He is being held for sentence.

John Smith of Boyne City, pleaded guilty to stealing a car from the Boyne City Co-ops.

Frank Glap of East Jordan, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the Herman Hammond home in Wilson township.

Charles Bailey, 65 year old Boyne City man, pleaded guilty to statutory rape. The charge was preferred by his 13-year-old adopted daughter.

Jay Webster and Jimmy Greenman, Boyne City young men, pleaded guilty to stealing a car from the Henton & Cooper garage of that city. They were released on the condition they would join the U. S. Navy, which condition was their own suggestion.

It took the jury but five minutes to return a verdict of guilty against Raymond Yell, Boyne Falls youth, who, with his father, John Yell, was being tried on a charge of stealing old iron from the F. O. Barden, Jr., farm near Boyne Falls. The younger Yell had formerly made complete confession to sheriff Dave Vaughan at the county jail. The court stenographer concealed in the same room made an account of the confession. Later, when brought into court, Yell denied the charges made against him, later saying he done so to keep his father from going to jail. The case was given to the jury without argument from either side. The case against John Yell was continued to the May term of court.

Allie Ward was found guilty by a jury on the charge of transporting liquor, which was found in his automobile after a smash-up last August on M-31 near Bay Shore.

A verdict of guilty was also returned against Lester Smith, who turned against Lester Smith, who it is alleged, entered the J. B. Lord cottage near Ironton last summer and stole a quantity of household goods. Earl Smith is now being tried on the same charge.

The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Thomas Hoskins, Boyne City man charged with stealing a harness from the W. H. White Lumber Co. Will Mosher, who was implicated with Hoskins, pleaded guilty and is being held for sentence. Hoskins had served 120 days in the county jail up to the time for his trial.

No sentences have been passed as yet.

FORMER ROAD OFFICIAL DIED AT PETOSKEY

Frank House Passes From Attack of Gripp

Frank House, from 1917 to 1923 a member of Charlevoix County Road Commission, and from 1923 to two years later in charge of state road maintenance, died at his home in Petoskey on Friday last. He was taken with an attack of grippe and complications set in. He was 68 years of age.

Mr. House was born in St. Joseph county, Michigan, February 6, 1859, and married Miss Edna Eastrom, October 12, 1904, in Chicago. They resided at and near Boyne Falls for many years. Mr. House operating a farm also being active in township and county affairs, at one or more seasons serving his township as supervisor.

Upon terminating his work in Charlevoix county two years ago, he moved to Petoskey, where he was employed by the Emmet county road commission. Besides his wife and daughter, Caroline, who teaches school near Clarion, he leaves one brother, a resident of Kalamazoo.

Funeral services were held from the Petoskey home Monday afternoon at 2:30, burial in the Boyne City cemetery.

POLAR BEARS DEFEAT BOYNE CITY TOSSERS

Thursday Night Game Was Closely Contested Throughout

The Charlevoix Polar Bears, local independent basketball team, kept their slate clean last Thursday evening on the high school court by handing the fast Boyne City five a 26 to 23 trimming.

Although the game was close throughout, the locals seemed unable to hit their usual stride and bung to their lead by a narrow margin during all four periods. Davenport and Brown were high point men for the Polar Bears. Two games are scheduled for tonight, when the Polar Bears play the Petoskey Portland Cements as the main event and the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias clash in the preliminary.

TOURNAMENT TO OPEN THURSDAY

CHARLEVOIX MEETS BOYNE CITY FRIDAY NIGHT

Finals in Both Class C and D Will Be Played Off Saturday Evening

Charlevoix's high school basketball team put in their first appearance in the annual contest of Class C and D teams of the 26th district at Boyne City on Friday evening of this week when they meet Boyne City.

The tournament starts in the gymnasium at Boyne City Thursday afternoon, March 1 and continues Friday and Saturday. According to dope available since the drawing, four class D teams will play Thursday afternoon, Alanson vs. Bellaire and Central Lake vs. Boyne Falls. Thursday evening two Class C teams, East Jordan and Harbor Springs, open the program, with Class D contests following, Ellsworth vs. Pellston and Alba vs. St. Ignace. Mancelona, Charlevoix and Boyne City drew "byes" for the first round elimination of Class C.

The winners of Class D will play semi-finals Friday afternoon and evening. The winners play Saturday evening for the championship.

The winner of the East Jordan-Harbor Springs game plays Mancelona in the semi-finals Friday evening. Charlevoix and Boyne City also play Friday evening in the semi-finals. The winners of Class C semi-finals play for the championship Saturday evening.

Consolation series will be held in both classes Friday afternoon, Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon to determine 3rd place winners. Supt. Wm. Feuhrer of Boyne City will have charge of the half-week program.

A large number of Charlevoix basketball fans will follow the team to the tournament Friday night. With their impressive string of three consecutive victories last week, the local five is rated high among tournament teams.

MEN'S CLUB ENTER- TAIN AND FEED SPOUSES

Enjoyable Occasion at M. E. Church
Monday Evening

The Men's Club of Charlevoix entertained and fed their wives at their regular meeting Monday evening in the Methodist church parlors, between 60 and 70 being present. The men prepared, cooked and served the supper, and received deserving compliments from their spouses with a marked degree of modesty.

At the conclusion of the supper, President Harker Kirby, in behalf of the club, carried out an impromptu, but thoroughly enjoyable program, himself taking part in several of the numbers. Songs by the sextette, instrumental music, readings, and short stories, many of them directed at the wary Scotchman, were evidently enjoyed, judging at least from the manner they were received.

WIN THREE GAMES IN ROW LAST WEEK

MANCELONA AND KALKASKA GO DOWN TO DEFEAT

Red and White Wind Up Basketball Schedule With Three Straight Victories

Coach Buchen's Red and White basketball team proved their metal last Friday evening on the local court when they fought an uphill battle to win from Mancelona's high school five, after trailing throughout the first three quarters. The following night they succeeded in running their string of victories to three straight in one week by winning from Kalkaska on the latter's floor, 13 to 10.

Friday night's game with Mancelona was marked by inability of the local tossers to locate the hoop during the first three periods of the contest. Although in possession of the ball a good portion of the time, their shots were wild, and it was not until late in the third quarter that Billy Novak started a scoring spree which put the locals in the lead with 3 minutes left to play. The work of Novak, who accounted for 11 of his team's points, saved Charlevoix from a one-sided defeat. Play during the fourth quarter was furious and bad the large crowd of fans in a frenzy of excitement.

The lineup—

LENT BEGAN LAST WEDNESDAY

RULES OF OBSERVANCE AMONG RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS

Lenten Period Will Last for Forty Days Period of Observance
Ends Saturday, April 7

Forty days of Lent, ushered in by Ash Wednesday, February 22nd, will end for a time the whirl of worldly gaieties people have been engaged in since before the holiday season, while the 40 day period will be generally observed with fasting and abstinence from pleasure in preparation for Easter which falls on Sunday, April 8. The 40-day Lenten period will end at high noon Easter Saturday, April 7th.

On Ash Wednesday the dust of ashes was distributed at the Catholic churches at all morning masses after Lenten devotions in the evening. The Lenten devotions will be held in Catholic churches every Wednesday and Friday evenings and the usual daily masses. Wednesday evenings will be devoted to the rosary and sermons, and Friday to the stations of the cross. Benediction of the blessed sacrament will close each devotion.

Protestant churches will conduct special services during the 40 day period. Special sermons and services will be announced from time to time during Lent to denote the period of penitence before Holy week.

All services will climax during Holy week when special services will be held on Good Friday.

Holy week in Catholic churches will be observed with great solemnity and special ceremonies, tenebræ and the blessing of oils, the mass of the presanctified and three hours' devotion on Good Friday.

Lenten regulations, announced by Bishop Nussbaum and read in Catholic churches follow in part:

The law of abstinence binds all over the age of seven, the law of fasting applies to all who are over 21 years of age and have not entered their 60th year, if they be not exempted by reason of their health or occupation. On Wednesday, Friday and Ember Saturday abstinence is prescribed, flesh meat being not allowed on those days. On fast days, those bound by fast are allowed one full meal and two light meals.

By a special indulgent granted bishops of the United States, working people who cannot easily observe all days of fast and abstinence throughout the year, including the Lenten season, except Fridays, Ash Wednesdays, Wednesdays of Holy week, Good Friday and the forenoon of Holy Saturday. This dispensation includes not only the individual working man in whose favor it is granted but all the members of his family as well. The Lenten fast does not include Sundays and ends at high noon Holy Saturday.

"MISS CHERRY BLOSSOM" OPERETTA NEXT WEDNESDAY

The operetta, "Miss Cherry Blossom," a musical number in three acts, with a cast of 60 high school students, will be presented in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, March 7th. The production is being given under the direction of Elmer Thomas and Rocena Wilson.

IRVING HALLETT AT NEW HOTEL IN ST. JOSEPH

The Daily National Hotel Reporter, in its issue of Friday 17, made the announcement that Irving Hallett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hallett of this city, who, for the past several years has been room clerk at the French Lick Springs Hotel, has resigned to become an assistant of J. T. Townsend in his new hotel at St. Joseph, Mich. Furnishings and equipment for the new hotel were being rapidly assembled, and it was announced Mr. Hallett would conclude his duties at French Lick Springs on Monday, February 20.

DEATH CLAIMS JAMES BOGART

SUCCUMBED TO PNEUMONIA AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Had Been Connected With Argo Milling Co. 26 Years—Active in Fraternal Orders

Charlevoix today mourns the loss of one of her highly esteemed citizens in the death of James Bogart, who passed away at his home on Huribut avenue Sunday evening shortly before 7 o'clock after an illness of slightly more than a week duration. The end came unexpectedly, even to members of the family, for up until an hour before his death, high hope was held for recovery. Suffering from the ravages of pneumonia, his heart was too weak to withstand the climax which came at about 6 o'clock Sunday evening.

James Bogart was born on the farm home of his parents near Barnard, on December 21st, 1884, and was 44 years old at the time of death. He received his education in the school at Barnard and there spent his boyhood. At the age of 18 years, he came to Charlevoix, entering the employ of Prof. E. N. Enos, then head of the Argo Milling Company, and subsequently remained with this firm until his death.

On December 15, 1908, Mr. Bogart married Miss Emma Sands, a schoolmate from the Barnard district. To this union were born three children, viz: Marguerite, Irene and James, Jr., who, besides the widow, survive. He also leaves five brothers and four sisters, viz: Will, of Charlevoix; Henry, of New Lathrop; Edmund, of East Jordan; Ray, of Kingsley; Rev. Amos Bogart, of Augusta; Mrs. Cynthia VonRenner and Mrs. Iva Ulitz of Flint; Mrs. Elsie Bogart of Central Lake, and Mrs. May Coeek of Kingsley.

Mr. Bogart was a member of the Knights of Pythias, Loyal Order of Moose and Woodmen, local fraternal orders. He was prominent in the work of the Community Men's Club and in every way an active and progressive citizen. Charlevoix will mourn his departure from its daily activities.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday morning at 10:30, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

GRANTED PERMISSION TO CONTINUE TRUCK LINE

W. E. McRoberts of this city has been granted a permit to run a truck freight line between Charlevoix and Traverse City, his application being acted upon and license granted by the Michigan Public Utility Commission at Lansing on Saturday last. Mr. McRoberts covered this route last season, and will continue in the same line during the coming season. See his announcement elsewhere in this paper.

The Lady Maccahees will serve a Public Supper at the Odd Fellows hall, Tuesday, March 6. Lill 50c. Adv. 8-12.

LICENSE FOR TROUT FISHING

NEW LAW BECOMES EFFECTIVE FIRST TIME THIS YEAR

Anglers Over Age of 21 Years, Except the Fair Sex, Must Fork Over a Dollar

When Michigan trout fishermen saunter forth next May first for that long-awaited occasion, the opening of the fishing season, they'll find at least one additional item of equipment necessary. The new state law, passed by the 1927 legislature, requires fishing license for trout anglers. This law did not become effective before the close of last season; but there'll be no evading it when the big annual gathering of anglers convenes on May day.

The new law (No. 350 P. A. 1927) provides: "No male person over 21 years of age, who is a resident of the state of Michigan, shall take or catch in any of the lakes or streams of that state of Michigan any species of trout, either rainbow, German brown, brook trout or any other trout except Mackinaw trout, without first having procured a license therefor as provided in this act."

The fee for the license is fixed at $1.

Although this license does not apply for women fishermen or to anglers under 21 years of age or to any except trout fishermen, it comes the nearest to being a rod tax that Michigan has ever had. Those who promoted its passage through the legislature admitted it to be an experiment; but they hoped, thereby to prove the merit of the rod license idea. The objection which constantly has confronted fishing license bills has been that thus one more group of sportsmen would be deprived of liberty and tax-ridden; but the contention of the various sportsmen's groups which have supported the license plan has been that fishermen themselves really favor the payment of a fee. They appreciate that more money is needed to restore good fishing, and they are willing to pay their share.

The department of conservation has completed plans for administering the trout license. The law provides for much the same procedure as is followed in the sale of hunting licenses, which means that the blanks will be available at sporting goods stores and county clerks' offices.

Talk that enforcement of the trout license law might be fought in the courts by opponents of a rod fee and carried to the supreme court was heard at the close of the 1925 legislature, with the assertion that because the law eliminated women from its provisions it was unconstitutional; but there has been no recent evidence of a fight. Many trout fishermen have said that, in the event the law should be declared unconstitutional, they would voluntarily pay the fee as a contribution toward building up the conservation department's fishery finances. The law provides that all funds obtained from sale of licenses shall be credited to the game and fish protection fund of the conservation department.

Failure to obtain a license, as required in this act, is declared punishable by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100 or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not more than ten days or by both the fine and imprisonment. In addition the guilty person forfeits the right to obtain a trout license during the year of this offense.

JAPANESE BARBERRY TO BE HAD AT COST

Send in Your Wants in Headquarters at Mt. Pleasant

The annual distribution of plants this year will be the Japanese Barberry sent out by the agricultural department of Central State Teachers college, Mt. Pleasant, Michigan. For fourteen years Professor Myron A. Cobb of the agricultural department of the college has distributed plants at cost. Forty thousand walnuts have been distributed and 15,000 barberries.

The Japanese barberry is not the one that harbors wheat rust but a decorative plant for the grounds or for hedge purposes. The plants are two year old seedlings.

MOB VIOLENCE

Not many days ago Michigan was saved the stigma of a Northern lynching by the prompt action of state and county authorities. Some have said their action was illegal in incarcerating the fiend in human form in the Michigan Reformatory for safe keeping until he could be returned in safety to the county where the crime was committed for arraignment and sentence. Some said it was the desire of the officials to hark in the sunlight of sensational publicity that prompted their actions, rather than the prevention of such a disgrace to the state. There is no need for further discussion on that score. Within 48 hours after being apprehended the murderer was on his way to Marquette prison for life. From every part of the United States Michigan has been congratulated upon the prompt disposal of the case.

Suppose Hotelling had been the victim of mob violence? "Lynching is a crime that leaves its stain upon us all," says the Federal council of Churches through its commission on race relations. More than four thousand people have been victims of mob violence in this country, and a summons to church people to penitence and prayer on Sunday, February 12, has been issued by the council. The occasion will be known as Race Relations Sunday. Continuing, the council bulletin says:

"Any community that flouts the dignity of the law and courts of justice opens the way to the violent rule of the mob throughout the nation. It assaults the very ideals upon which our civilization is dependent. A nation's penitence and prayer must be summoned both to check the lynching evil and to build up deeper respect for the processes of justice and new sympathetic understanding among all the people. In the attitude of penitence and the atmosphere of prayer the best things come forth.

"The sobering fact that more than four thousand people have been victims of lynching in our country has filled all people of good-will with a sense of horror and shame.

"That mob violence should have continued through the years, so that in 1926 there were as many as thirty persons lynched in the United States, brotherhood that all who are committed to the way of Christ are asked to observe a day of penitence and prayer that our American nation may be purged is flagrantly opposed to the progress of right and of this blot upon our civilization."

REAL FARM RELIEF

Most of our readers will be pleasantly astonished to learn that there are over forty thousand members of Boys' and Girls' Clubs in Michigan.

The growth of this work has been one of the splendid features of educational work within the past few years.

While the politicians are howling for relief for the farmers, the boys and girls are stepping in and showing more interest than has ever been shown in the problems of the farm and home.

Every week we read of some activity in connection with Boys' and Girls' Club work. We see where our rural boys and girls have won honors in potato and poultry raising, in canning and in bread baking, and in all of the other activities in which the clubs engage.

The important thing, however, is not the financial return which the boys and girls may win from their efforts. It is not the honor which their achievements have brought. Of greater importance than these is the stimulated interest in the two fundamentals in America—the farm and the home.

A farmer was reported as saying, a few weeks ago, that he was not as much interested in the production of his fields or the price of his crops as he was in the proper development and education of his children.

The chief asset of the agricultural industry is that it provides a home of comfort and permanence. The farmer must get more from his land than what he may sell in town. He must make on the farm a real home, a home in which young people are progressive and happy, a home in which the highest ideals of all kinds must prevail.

In these times it has been customary to belittle agricultural pursuits. The farmer has been too often looked upon as unfortunate in his choice of activities. Too much of the present talk conveys the impression that he is a child of unfair circumstances and low in the economic scale. While the politicians have talked about agriculture, the real fundamental importance of the industry has fallen into the background.

The farm properly requires more scientific work than to conduct a business. To succeed at farming requires more character and more ability than to succeed in the ordinary business. Farming is an art, a science. It is more than an occupation, it is a life work.

To stimulate the interest of young people in the farm and in the farm home is the highest type of work that can be done, and it is in striking contrast to so much that is offered for the relief of agriculture.

COMMUNISM IN MICHIGAN

There is a well defined, well financed communistic movement in Michigan at the present time. This will probably come as a surprise to Mr. Average citizen, who, if he thought of communism at all, was to visualize it as something far removed and of which he had little concern. Communistic workers, having as their aim the demolition of existing social institutions, invaded the state as far back as August of last year. This statement is made by the Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record (Detroit), whose editorial staff has recently completed an investigation. Already the leading industrial cities of Michigan have been invaded by workers of the Red Soviet. Michigan is known as District No. 7, and there is a unity in their general purpose under a single head. So quietly has the work been carried on, that although thousands of circulars are being distributed among the workers each month, but few have been found in the places where the workers are employed. The movement should not be confused with unionism, even where the union has been used as a vehicle to enable the red workers to gain inside or strategic positions. With employment on the upgrade, with Michigan at the doorway of a new dawn of prosperity, it is hardly expected these horrors of our social fabric from within will gain much headway, but the movement is here, will not be easily discouraged and should at least receive the hard and cold inspection of the workers themselves, lest its teachings result in many petty annoyances to our present high industrial structure.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

It was not many years ago that a man who got 5,000 miles from a set of tires had good cause to brag to his neighbors. Those were the days of uncertainty—the days when anything might happen before an automobile ride was finished, and most motorists can recall the back-breaking minutes with the old hand pump that never worked right.

It is different now, however. Automobiles and automobile tires have doubled and trebled their days of service. And now even if a blowout or puncture does occur the service man is close at hand. Rarely is a tire pumped up by hand any more. The pressure tank of the service man is always ready for use, free for the asking.

In this community there are dependable tire dealers, who sell dependable tires and with every tire they sell they give a service that at times is worth fully as much as the tire itself.

Mail order tires may be all right. But there is no free air at the post office and the postmaster positively refuses to mount the tire on the rims for mail order customers. Then, too, the mail order man isn't particularly interested when tire trouble comes. He does not have to send a service car out with a spare tire and make the change while you wait. The lesson of the tire applies to practically every line of merchandise in Charlevoix. The local merchants are here to give service. They will not sell articles which are inferior as they know that the reputation of their firms must stand back of everything that they sell and that the customer must be satisfied not only with the price, but that every article must give the service that the customer expects of it.

YOUR EVERY-DAY JOB

It sometimes seems that error has wings, while truth travels with lenden shoes. Crops of value must be planted and cultivated; weeds come without calling. The forces of self preservation must be summoned; those of decay and destruction wait on no invitation. This, perhaps, is the scheme of providence for the strengthening of constructive forces, for strength, to be developed, must be tried.

This is true in the political as in the physical world. There is an unwarranted assumption that reason will maintain itself. But sophistry seems a natural product of the soil of public opinion, and most of the spontaneous elements in civilization seem to be destructive. Reason is not a swift, but a deliberate process, and can be based only upon study and observation. Something higher than impulse must govern the conduct of men if order and liberty are to be preserved.

In the citizen of a government controlled by public opinion, indifference is a crime. For that indifference is of its self sufficient to ensure the disintegration of government and of society in the face of that challenge which destruction forces always offer. The ally of the destroyer is the man or woman who does not care. The civic slacker is something worse than a blink. He is a hole in the dike which has been raised against the waves of social destruction.

CONSERVING CHILD LIFE

Determined that automobile fatalities among children of school age shall be cut to a minimum, Governor Fred W. Green appeared before the state board of education a few days ago and asked that courses in traffic safety be added to the curricula of the State Normal and Teachers' colleges. The movement inaugurated by Governor Green is expected to be state-wide, not only will students at state educational institutions be required to subscribe to a traffic educational course as a part of their college training, but Webster Pearce, superintendent of public instruction, announces that the heads of each school in the state will be required to establish safety patrols. These patrols are composed of the older school children, who will be expected to watch out for the youngsters crossing streets when school is opened and dismissed. Teachers will be required to instruct children in simple safety rules, and so far as possible see that their instructions are carried out.

Case of child life in recent years through automobile traffic accidents has been appalling. Governor Green is determined this useless sacrifice shall cease—using the mature judgment of those entrusted to the education of the young to bring this about, rather than in the cold and silent warnings along the highways, "School Zone—Drive Slow."

AMERICA LEADS IN EDUCATION

In view of the increasing difficulty of interesting young men graduates of high schools in manual labor, an article in the March 1927, issue of School Life deserves attention. Under the caption, "America Leads in Education Above Elementary," we read: "Because of the system of organization which is peculiar to the United States and to those nations which have followed its lead, and because of the extraordinary enthusiasm of Americans for education, more than three-fourths of the children who complete the highest elementary grade enter the high school. At least one-sixth, probably as many as one-fifth, of the youth of the United States of the proper age actually complete the high school course. In a few states more than half the persons of high school age are in high schools, and in some favored communities every child of proper age is in such a school.

"Three states of the union require school attendance to the age of 18 or until high school graduation. Others require attendance in the age of 18 but waive the requirement for those above certain other ages, as 14, 15, or 16, if they have obtained suitable employment. High school education for every normal child is generally accepted as a reasonable ideal."

Every American is proud of our public schools. We are likewise proud of the opportunity afforded all for extended mental development. The amount of high school training is not questioned. Whenever increasing numbers are attending, practical persons are entitled to question courses which do not develop interest in work.

YOUR DOCTOR WILL KNOW

Something must be done to wipe out the great inroads tuberculosis is making upon the lives of the people in this state. During the past decade the great white plague in Michigan has exacted a toll in excess of 3000 victims annually. This enormous economic waste, which can be avoided, demands serious attention. A nation-wide movement, sponsored in this state by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, for the early diagnosis of tuberculosis will be inaugurated during March. Eighty-four per cent of the cases reaching medical attention are found to be in the advanced stages of the disease. Taken in time tuberculosis is curable. If your suspicions have been aroused see your doctor immediately. Let him be the one to decide as to your condition. Thousands of lives will be saved if this advice is followed during the next few years.

"So many of the summer people have gone," he said slowly. "I should think you would be afraid to stay on alone. Especially after your experience here. Was it in this room you saw the light—that night after you found the body in the cave?"

"Yes. In that window, right there."

"Are you sure of that?"

"Of course. I am sure. And when the light was gone, I was here, in this drawer. She lightly pulled out the drawer of the desk. Her pistol, businesslike, important, lay in full sight. "It was here. And the next morning it was gone. Doors locked, windows barred, just as I left them. But the sketch was gone. So I knew the poor dear wished to be left in peace and undisturbed."

"By George, you make my hair stand on end. And after all that, you stay on here, alone, unprotected?"

"Oh, he was a gentle spirit. He would not harm me."

He smiled and dropped the subject. He said he had come to Portford on business, and he had come to the island with only a faint hope that he might find her, or, failing to find her, to get her address in the city. He said he could not bear to drop the little acquaintance, which to him had proved so sweetly charming.

Then he went quickly away, waving back to her as she stood in the lighted doorway beneath the tall pine. Gay waited about for a while, hoping still that Fred would come, but finally she went upstairs and kicked off her slippers rather crossly. When, a little later, she heard his quick knock on the door below, and his little whistle above it, she caught up her slippers in her hand and ran downstairs, laughing to let him in.

"Oh, good!" she cried. "A minute later and I'd have been in bed."

"I'd have been earlier, but—I was detained. You are all right, are you?"

"Nothing has happened—yet haven't seen anything unusual?"

Gay seized an undertone of anxiety beneath the lightness of his voice.

"Why, of course I'm all right. Of course nothing has happened. Why not? Or why?"

"Well, I saw a chap hanging about in the woods near your windows, sort of spying, sneaking around. I started up to see who it was, and he ran. Of course I chased him, and the two of us have hot-footed it all over the island. He was playing with me. Got me down to the city landing, and dropped me like a hot cake. You haven't?"

"Oh, that must have been the Chinaman!"

"The Chinaman?" Rand's mame-ment was unbroken. "The Chinaman! What under heaven?"

"Oh, I must have told you about the Chinaman," she said evasively. "You know darned well you never have. What about him?"

"Well, come and sit down. It's a long story. You are quite sure I haven't told you?"

Rand laughed. "Quite sure, you little liar, and so are you."

"Well, you weren't here when I came in. I was so tired, and sick. I was a perfect wreck. Auntie Mary was here, and while she packed up I lay down on the couch here, and slept."

"It was the sleep of death for me," she said. "She woke me for dinner, and I ate, and went to sleep again. So she went away and left me sleeping. Well, it was evening. And I felt—You know how one feels things in one's sleep?—I felt eyes looking at me. I could hardly squeeze a look out beneath my lids, for the darkness, but I did. And in the dusk, faint and yellow, I saw the face of a Chinaman, thin pinched features, slanting eyes and a small scar beneath one eye. As I looked, the face just melted backward into the darkness, so I knew it was a dream, and went to sleep again."

Rand lit a cigarette hastily but said nothing, and Gay went on. "Well, you know how sometimes I sit, just dreaming, as the sun sets, until it is dark—I did tonight. And I jumped up suddenly to light the light, although it was not entirely dark, and I saw it at my window, that window—same face, the very same. So it could not have been a dream."

"When was that?"

"Oh, hours ago! Just before the final darkness."

"But it was late when I found him—about an hour ago. Is the meantime, what? Any answer? Were you afraid?"

"No, Mr. Ingram was here."

Rand flicked the ashes from his cigarette thoughtfully. "Ah, Mr. Ingram—Mr. Ingram—I suppose you told me all about him, too. May I see him, who is Mr. Ingram?"

"He is the man who—I was here. It was Mr. Ingram who—She had often wished to tell him of the affair in the cave, but resentment had always forbidden the confidence. He should have asked her. She glanced at him furtively. His chin was set, and his eyes were anxious. Gay relented.

"Well, Rand, I suppose the family females told you—what happened in the cave?"

Rand smiled faintly, his fingers crossed her arm. Gay hardened again. "I know they thought I was out of my head, but you surely do not believe any such nonsense."

"They thought you saw driftwood. A log or a barrel."

"How about my handkerchief? Did they think I put it on a piece of driftwood?"

"They thought—Now, remember, Gay, you did not mention the handkerchief until they reported there was no body. They thought—well, they thought you made it up to sort of carry out your story, make it hold water."

"What did you think?"

"I thought," he said tenderly, "that some time, in a moment of great confidence, my Gay would tell me about herself, and then I should know all."

Gay laughed, bent suddenly and kissed his hand. "You work me, out rascally," she said.

"And Mr. Ingram—" he prompted softly.

"Well, then—No, the cave comes first. The reason I like Mr. Ingram is because if he is interested in anything, he talks about it. If he wants to know anything, he asks. He doesn't think other people are crazy just because they happened to see something he didn't happen to see himself. Like the state of Maine," she said violently.

"And the cave—"

"Well, then. I slid down the rocks into the cave."

"Why, Gay, why? With a whole island full of accessible shore, why slide down the worst cliff in the bay?"

"Because I thought I couldn't," she answered promptly. "Because everybody said one couldn't get down. So I did."

Rand rolled his eyes heavenward. "A woman," he said devoutly. "Is heaven's greatest miracle. She did, because she couldn't—Go on—Like your Mr. Ingram, I understand perfectly."

"Well, I tried to get into the clubhouse, and I couldn't. And into the bathhouse, and I couldn't."

"You should have turned them to the ground. If you couldn't get in, you should have."

Gay laughed. "Don't be silly. Well, it was lovely in the cave, and I stood there and saw—it came in—Rand, it was a man. He came in and with my two hands I pulled him up on the sand. There was a rope about one ankle, a stout rope, with one end dangling loose. He had been slung in the temple—here." She touched her brow with a slender finger. "The blood was washed away, but the hair was clotted about it. I laid his hand upon his breast, and out my handkerchief over his face. I called for help, but of course nobody heard me. So I went for the Captain. You know what happened."

Rand was impressed. She could see that.

"It sounds very reasonable."

"Oh, Rand! When I went back the sand was wet where the body had lain. I showed it to the Captain, and he said it had splashed there. It couldn't have splashed. It hadn't splashed anywhere else."

"And Mr. Ingram—"

Gay smiled at his persistence. "Well, I sent the captain away. I could see every line of the poor, tired, anxious face, and his long fine hand, and the drenched hair. I took my drawing pad, and drew it, line for line. I was going to send it to the police department, so they could try to trace him. Mr. Ingram was looking for a way down to the shore, and I went on and took him back through the woods the other way. I showed him the sketch, and he was greatly interested. He wanted it. He is a newspaper man."

Parm C. Gilbert, Circuit Judge.

Rollie L. Lewis, Attorney for plaintiff. Business address, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Countersigned: George Roderick, Clerk. Adv. 9-16.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Henry B. Wood, an unmarried man of Charlevoix, Michigan, unto Albert F. Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated May 11th, 1921, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, May 11th, 1921, in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 81, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at date of this notice the sum of $1,979.75, including the principal sum due with interest, together with an attorney fee of thirty dollars as provided for by the said mortgage, and no proceedings at law or equity having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, the taxes required by the statute to be paid on said mortgage were duly paid prior to the recording thereof; now therefore notice is given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statute made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon together with the costs and expenses of the foreclosure, including the attorney fee provided by the said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder therefor, at the east front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held,) on Saturday, the 5th day of May, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on that date.

Premises described in said mortgage, being the lands and premises situate in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: the south half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the west half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the southwest quarter (1/4) of section twenty-six (26) town thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, including lots twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty (26-27-28-29 and 30) of Clifford's addition to the village, (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan, and containing ten (10) acres, more or less. Also all of lots thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one and forty-two (37-38-39-40-41 and 42) of Eaton's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Dated February 2, 1928.

Albert Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Michael O'Neill and wife Susan of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Nicholls, Butters and company, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated the 15th day of February, 1901, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 15th day of February 1901, in Liber 33 of mortgages on page 377, and was assigned by Nicholls, Butters and company, to Amos O'Neill on the 21st day of September 1926, which assignment was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 23rd day of September 1926, in Liber 68 of mortgages on page 327, on which mortgage there is now claimed to be due the sum of one hundred thirty-three and fifty-eight one hundredth (133.58) dollars, including interest computed to the date thereof, also the sum of forty-six and sixty-four hundredths (46.64) dollars taxes and insurance paid by assignee, also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given, that on Friday, the 30th day of March, A.

D. 1928, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with seven per cent interest and all legal costs, together with the amount paid for taxes and insurance, and also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars, the premises described in said mortgage as the following described premises, situated in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, viz: Lot number ninety-eight (98) of Upright and Hurlbut's addition to the village of Charlevoix, (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan. Amos O'Neill, Assignee of Mortgagee.

Rollie L. Lewis, attorney for assignee of mortgage. Business address: Charlevoix, Michigan.—Adv. 62-113.

Keep youth longer!
cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

CORRESPONDENCE

BARNARD

No church or Sunday school on Sunday on account of bad roads.

Mrs. Earl Shapton is quite ill at her parents' home in Charlevoix. We hope to hear of her improved health soon.

John Walker and daughter, Lena, left for Detroit last week. Lena will spend the remainder of the winter there.

Miss Courier was ill last week, consequently the school children had a week of vacation, but all are busy again this week.

Barnard people were saddened to hear of the death of James Bogart, one of our former Barnard boys. The sympathy of all goes to the bereaved family.

The community meeting on February 14th was attended by a large crowd and everyone enjoyed the program, games and refreshments. One of the most appreciated numbers was a poem composed by Mrs. Robert Gregory, and recited by Gordon Cummings, which told all about the band and its leader, George Block, and was much applauded. Other numbers by the male quartette and ladies trio were also enjoyed. The next meeting will be announced soon.

MURRAY SCHOOL NOTES

Agnes O'Dell is reported ill. The fifth and sixth grade girls are making raffle mats.

Miss Viora Ferguson spent the week end with her parents.

Because of the storm we failed to get our school notes in last week.

Many absences occurred on our records because of the severe storms and blocked roads this week.

The seventh grade have completed their study of the United States history to the construction period.

Marjorie and Kathleen Mawby were absent last week because they had to attend court, being witness on the Allie Ward trial.

The seventh grade are working very faithfully on their geography note books. They find them more difficult than last year's.

Those receiving half days this month are: Robert Brecheisen, Bethel Brecheisen, Fred Deschermier, Dorothy Ferguson, Fletcher Johnson, Mary Ellen Johnson, Ruth O'Dell, Joe Speigl, Edith Speigl, Anthony Speigl, Margaret Yohr and Arvilla Yohr.

The Valentine party on February 17 was a success. Much credit is to be given to Marjorie Mawby, who so successfully planned the decorations, taught the little folks a song and helped plan the refreshments. Miss McCalmon was declared Valentine Queen and Louis Mawby Valentine King. The refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by two queens of hearts, Ellen Johnson and Florence Anderson.

The declamation contest in which members of the seventh and eighth grades took part was also held on that day. The prizes awarded were: first prize, $1, won by Lillian Baker; second prize, 50 cents, won by Fletcher Johnson, seventh grade; third prize, 25 cents, won by Wm. Mindel, seventh grade. The visitors present were Doris Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ferguson, Mrs. Alice Johnson and son, Robert, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. Fred Mawby and Mr. and Mrs. John McCalmon.

Our roads were plowed out with the road grader.

Neil Baker is serving on the jury this term of court.

Fifth grade have finished their geography and hygiene.

Miss Farmer came out on the snow plow Monday morning.

Eighth grade are studying "The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers."

Bernice Griffin has been going to the dentist for the past two weeks. Seventh grade have finished their arithmetics and are now reviewing.

Many of our pupils have been absent this week because of stormy weather.

Sam Shantz and Carl Raber spent Monday evening at the home of Clifford Short.

Mrs. Nell Baker's sister and husband from Petoskey, spent the evening at her home.

Viora Ferguson spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ferguson.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Boh Kane of Petoskey, formerly of Burgess, a pair of twins, Mike and Ike.

Mrs. Evers, who is the superintendent of our Sunday school, was absent Sunday because of sickness. Mrs. Strigley took charge.

Beware of tramps in the neighborhood. Two stopped at the home of Neil Baker Monday night and begged for some food. He gave them some and made them separate the milk in payment.

Teacher: "Nelson, what is a ground hog?"

Nelson, a bright little boy got up and said, "Please teacher, its a sausage."

The pupils who received a half day vacation for being neither absent nor tardy for the past month are: Kenneth Armstrong, Nelson Baker, Bernice Griffin, Harry Baker, Ruth Struthers, Richard Struthers, Mildred Raber, Charles Struthers, Opal and Ruby Gregory, Harold Gregory, Claude Baker and Beatrice Struthers.

EVELINE SCHOOL NOTES

February, the month of school birthdays.

The primary class have taken up work in the first reader.

The eighth grade are beginning their review of the year's work.

The eighth grade agriculture class have several good drawings in agriculture.

Our boys Naadcraft Club is progressing fine. They have made several articles.

The girls Sewing Club have made several articles which passed Miss Featherly's approval.

One new scholar was enrolled, Lyle Walker, age 6 years. He appears to enjoy his first educational adventure.

States, showing that its greatness is founded on agriculture.

February 18th our teacher was presented a beautiful birthday cake by the Saganek children. The cake was cut and each one in school received a piece.

The second grade have completed this year's work and are beginning the third grade work for another year. They believe in getting a good start for next year.

February 24th and another birthday cake, all pink and white, with many candles in honor of Dorothy Griffin and Norman Zilka and Pauline Zilka. Yea, a party and lots of fun.

February 17th we had another birthday party attended by Meedames Walker, Thomas and Knudsen, who brought a beautiful birthday cake, adorned with six pink candles, besides a generous serving of popcorn. The event was in honor of Marjorie's birthday. We played games and had a wonderful time.

PERFORMANCE as different as the car itself

Were greater beauty their only advantage, the new engineering principles of Dodge Brothers Victory Six would still be revolutionary.

Were greater safety The Victory's only advantage, it would still command the gratitude of a life-loving world.

Were greater economy its paramount feature, the fact would still remain that The Victory has made possible 21 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour FOR A SIX.

But these are incidental to the basic Victory achievement. You must DRIVE the car to know about that!

You must take a corner faster than you ought, a cobble pavement faster than you thought, before The Victory secret begins to reveal itself.

And you must unleash the full, sustained speed of the car before the idea takes full hold!

Victory design is unlike that of any other vehicle in the world—and Victory performance is equally radical and remarkable.

To examine the one and experience the other will prove an event that we urge you not to postpone.

IT'S THE MONEY YOU SPEND WISELY THAT COUNTS

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable help to anyone.

A budget helps you to keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not a reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you should spend for this. Spend all of it, but don't spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisement how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. A little more value here . . . a little better workmanship there . . . in this thing slightly more durability . . . that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of your money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

PRAYER FOR THE BANKERS

At a bankers' meeting down in Mississippi, not long ago, the following prayer, according to newspaper dispatches, was delivered by Dr. T. D. Bateman, pastor of the Columbus Presbyterian church:

"Eternal God, our Heavenly Father we are all bankrupt in Thy presence, and that is why we pray for a blessing on these bankers."

"May their hearts be easier for Thy spirit to enter than their steel vaults are for people who are broke. May there be no time locks on their souls as they stand before Thee. Save them from bolting the doors of their hearts at 3 o'clock if Thou hast business to transact with them. May their assets in the sight of men make them assets in the sight of the Lord. Help them to remember that, though banks may be fireproof, bankers are not, as Dives could tell them."

"Save them from saying their prayers to Andrew Mellon and General Motors. May they await as anxiously on the Lord as some of them are waiting for Ford's new car. And when the devil carries them up to some high mountain and shows them 1,000 per cent and an automobile as long as a block, may they be just as careful then as they are when a stranger presents a check at the bank window. Save them from being choked to spiritual death by gold dust, and may they get away from this section without having their immortal souls asphyxiated by natural, unnatural or supernatural gas. May there never be a run on the bank of their spirits, and may they have no dread of the Great Examiner."

"And when the adding machines are silent, and the typewriter is muffled, and the close of business has come, may they enter the great clearing house above, with eyes as frank and faces as unafraid as they were when they knelt as children by their mother's knee down in the old homestead in the dead, dead days beyond recall. Amen."

AT THE MOVIES

Swords Flash in "Love Mart."
Lovers of swordplay, with rapier, foil or broadsword, will be entertained royally at the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday, where "The Love Mart," George Fitzmaurice's production for First National Pictures, with Billie Dove, Gilbert Roland and Noah Beery, is the attraction.

Billie Dove has many romantic love scenes and emotional moments; while Roland, in the masculine lead; Armand Kalis, as a Creole fashion-plate; and others, indulge in the gentle art of fencing with brilliancy and prowess. There is also some exciting broadsword play with slaving pirates in the early sequence.

Problem Confronts Heroine
wick Deeping's "Doomsday" Sunday, the Paramount picture opens at the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday comes already assured reputation. The picture is based on the novel of the same by Warwick Deeping, author of "Sorrell and Son," and one of the best known of present day English novelists.

"Doomsday" was a best seller in book form and created a sensation.

GOITRE REMOVED FOUR YEARS AGO

Never Bothered Since. Detroit Lady Tells of an Easy Home Treatment.
Mrs. M. Oshorne, 8826 Charlevoix St., Detroit, Mich., says in her own home paper, the Detroit Free Press, "My goitre was inward and large. It was completely removed four years ago by Sorhol Quadruple and it has never returned. Will tell or write my complete experience."
Sorhol Quadruple is not expensive and is pleasant and easy to use. Made by Sorhol Company, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Sold by all druggists, locally by F. J. Fessenden, druggist.—Adv. 9-11.

Lyceum Series Concludes With New York Light Opera Revue

The concluding number of the Lyceum series, a program of winter entertainment sponsored by the board of education, will be held at the new high school auditorium on Saturday evening, March 3rd.
Since the days when Gilbert and Sullivan did so much to popularize light opera, no other form of musical entertainment has had such universal and ever-recurring appeal. This has been demonstrated this season by the great popularity of the New York Light Opera Revue, which comes here Saturday evening.
This outstanding musical company comes here direct from an extended tour of New York and New England when it ran serially in McClure's magazine. It is a powerful problem love story containing every element to create suspense and maintain breathless interest. In adapting the novel for the screen Doris Anderson and Donald W. Lee retained all of the features that made this book so overwhelmingly popular.

Florence Vidor has the starring role in the picture as Mary Viner, the girl who has known all of the durdery of endless work and who seeks a way out of the treadmill of toil.

WHITE COLLAR BANDITS

Her husband had been a successful business man. For years she had led a sequestered life in the home. She had been carefully protected from the world, she had known nothing of its sharp practices, its pitfalls, its sometimes brutal disregard for the suffering of the aged and infirm. When her mate passed away she was more like a child dazed by sudden, unexpected and unprepared liberty. She immediately became the prey of that great army of unprincipled bandits who annually exact a toll in excess of a billion dollars from the American public through his schemes. When her husband's estate was settled she found herself in possession of nearly thirty thousand dollars. Not a large sum, as fortunes are regarded these days, but to her it represented old age peace and security. Without it she would be forced upon the charity of relatives and friends, or else a bleak corner in the county infirmary. By the merest fortunate circumstances her banker discovered that she was about to place the entire residue in the hands of one of these moral pervers for investment purposes, and so well had he convinced her of his friendly interests in her behalf she was inclined to consent when she learned an unwarranted intrusion in her personal affairs. Now she realizes how near she came to being just another victim of their merciless greed. She is happy in the possession of her funds, she is certain of comfort and contentment as long as she lives, all because her banker found out in time. There is only one moral to adorn a tale like this, and it applies to everybody with money to invest: "Consult your banker first."

TOO LITTLE—TOO MUCH

Some of you who shudder at the increase in the cost of government would propose that only those who own property should vote for public expenditures. This is an old theory. In fact, it would be reversion to a condition which once existed generally throughout the nation. Property qualifications for the right to vote were at one time very common. While many complain that the non-taxing public is too free in voting taxes, yet it was a fact that the property owning public was not free enough. It stood in the way, many times, of essential public utilities. Of course, it voted enough to protect property from theft, but not enough to provide a reasonable government. The best correction to the situation is for the public to understand that it pays the taxes whether or not it owns property. Those who live in rented houses pay taxes just as much as those who own real estate. The tax burden is placed not upon a few, but in general, upon all people. Consequently, taxation and the government's business is everybody's business.

A LESSON FOR MOBS

How unjust it is to judge of guilt on the strength of superficial circumstantial evidence was illustrated a couple weeks ago by the case of a 11-year old boy murdered in Arkansas, presumably for a small amount of money he carried. It was known that shortly before his death he had been in company with a one-eyed negro boy, who also was missing. Search for this negro was begun, with open threats of summary vengeance. After several days the negro boy was found not far from where the white boy was killed. But he was also dead, with indications that he gave his life in common battle with the white lad's murderers. Now suppose that the two boys had separated before the white boy was killed. And suppose the mob had captured the negro lad, whose sightless eye would have identified him beyond question. There would have been just one more lynching of a negro, despite pleadings and protest.

THE HARBOR OF LIBERTY

No man, or set of men, has appeared with any improvement upon the constitution of the United States. America stands today among the nations of the earth as the one last hope of the human race. But save the republic, and one of the nations of the earth will drop anchor in this harbor of universal liberty.—American Bar Association.

YOUR TAX DOLLAR

Every citizen should know where tax money comes from, how it is divided, and for what purpose it is spent. Until the average man or woman knows just this there will be no permanent tax reform nor assurance of a dollar's value for every public dollar spent.

To Third Ward Voters

It is the duty of each and every one seeking office to acquiesce the voter on what principal he seeks that particular office. You voters of the third ward: If I am elected alderman, I will do my utmost, with the help of the community, to work out some plan whereby we can have more employment for our wage earners. It seems to me, but I may be wrong, that we should put forth the same effort in taking care of our wage and family men, who live here the year round, as we have the effort to increase our summer business. True, this is a resort city, but we never can successfully exist on our summer trade alone. That with ample fire protection, no needless expenditure of the tax payers money, some form or other of snow removal to make our streets passable in the winter, are the principles on which I seek the office of alderman and vote. I solicit your support and vote.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Soils-Fertilizer Meetings

All interested farmers are cordially invited and urged to attend a series of soil-fertilizer meetings that will be conducted in the county the week of March 5.

S. J. Culver, county agent of Emmet county, will accompany your local agriculture agent and discuss with you the best and most effective means of conserving soil fertility and methods to be used to bring the soil back to a higher state of fertility. County Agent Mellencamp will discuss fertilizers. The dealers of the county have already met and have been informed on the best fertilizers for use in the county. Also higher analysis goods will be handled as they are cheaper per unit of plant food and you are buying more for your money. The dealers will not handle anything but what will pay you dividends on their use.

Attend your nearest meeting. I am sure weather conditions will not stop you as these are important and will be of great interest to you.

Following are the meetings all beginning on Eastern standard time:

Ironton Grange, Monday morning, March 5, 9:30.

Barnard Grange, Monday afternoon, March 5, 2:00.

Horton Bay, I. O. O. F. Hall, Monday night, March 5, 8:00.

Deer Lake Grange, Tuesday morning, March 6, 9:30.

Eas' Jordan, K. of P. Hall, Tuesday afternoon, March 6, 2:00.

Boyer Falls, Town Hall Wednesday morning, March 7, 9:00.

This will be your last opportunity to get the latest information on these subjects, so hitch up Spark Plug and come early.

Time to start redecorating. You'll find the most complete line of paints, enamels, lacquers and brushes at Wood Bros.—Adv. 9-12.

HEAVY VOTE WAS POLLED IN CITY

CONTESTS IN WARDS BROUGHT OUT MANY VOTERS

Webster, Howe and Nelson Win Out for Aldermen in First, Second and Third Wards

A three-cornered fight for alderman and a contest for the supervisor's berth, brought out the heaviest vote Monday cast in the third ward for many years. In fact 536 votes for the entire city is quite a record for a spring primary.

Arthur Bergeon, seeking re-nomination as mayor, won over his opponent, Luther C. Hannah, by a 377 to 145 vote. There were no contests for the offices of clerk, treasurer, park commissioner and justice of the peace (2 year term,) sought by Ray S. Hamilton, Elma H. Cook, Fred E. Cartier and Robert Withers. For justice of the peace (3 year term) Horace K. Fowler won over Joseph R. Cooper, present incumbent, by a margin of 6 votes.

In the first ward, Clair Webster defeated Fred Bergman for aldermanic honors by a majority of 39 votes. Ernest Howe was re-elected alderman in the 2nd ward from a field of three candidates by a margin of 39 votes. In the third ward, Oscar Nelson won out in a three way scrap for alderman by a margin of 31 votes over his nearest opponent, Harry Hooker. Archie Alecock was re-elected supervisor from that ward with a majority of 16 votes over Ernest L. Dawson.

MORE FINANCIAL REPORTS REQUIRED

Amendment to Old Law of Interest to Officials

The Public Acts of 1927 contain an amendment to the law of 1897, regarding the publicity required in the matter of the annual itemized financial statement of townships.

Not less than five nor more than 50 copies shall be provided immediately upon the settlement being made by the township board, for distribution at the opening of the polls on election day; and six more copies shall be posted in conspicuous places at the polls at their opening on election day.

This makes a minimum of 11 copies of the itemized statement to be provided by the clerk of each township. Heretofore many township clerks have made written copies, the requirements under the old law being three copies posted at the polls. With at least 11 copies now required, every township can get 50 printed a great deal cheaper than the clerk can make them.

The township board may, at its discretion, have the report printed in a newspaper of general circulation.

COUNTY UNPAID TAXES INCREASE

1928 LIST LARGEST IN LAST THREE YEARS

Situation Alarming in Face of Nearly Million Boost in Property Valuation

This year will see the largest tax sale list in the history of Charlevoix county, according to records now on file in the county clerk's office.

Inability to pay taxes is becoming a serious problem, and then when it is considered that those who do pay must carry the burden of nearly a million dollar increase in property valuation this year, matters become even worse. The delinquent tax list for 1926 contained 1005 descriptions. That for 1928 has 1,374, an increase of approximately 33 1-3 per cent during the past three years.

Seventy-five per cent of property delinquent for taxes is outside of the city of Charlevoix, a greater portion in the eastern end of the county. This situation is alarming. Yet in spite of these conditions, the state board of equalization gives us another boost in property valuation. We cannot help but wonder on what grounds they base their figures. With the inability of our neighbors in the eastern part of the county to pay their present tax load, how do the state equalizers expect them to carry a still heavier one?

At the present time the city of Charlevoix pays approximately 35 per cent of the entire tax assessment of the county. Locally, there has been no general increase in property valuation. In view of these facts one cannot help but wonder how much longer Charlevoix can continue to pay the shot in the face of an increasing delinquent tax list and a boost in property valuation.

SUPT. COVERDALE TO LEAVE CHARLEVOIX

Announces He Will Not Be Candidate Another Year

George H. Coverdale, superintendent of Charlevoix schools during the past four years, has notified the board of education that he will not be a candidate for that position for the next school year.

In making this announcement to the board, Mr. Coverdale stated he had been offered business connections in the southern part of the state, and at this time was considering acceptance.

Political Announcement
I hereby announce that I will be a candidate for the office of alderman in the second ward of the City of Charlevoix, at the regular election held on Monday, April 2. As my name cannot by law appear on the regular printed ballot, all who will be prepared for those who desire to vote for me, I have been a citizen of Charlevoix for a great many years, am interested in its advancement, and I believe I am fully qualified to satisfactorily handle the duties of this office. Your support and vote will be appreciated. John J. Zeldner.—Adv. 10-13.

CHARLEVOIX AND ALBA THE WINNERS

CARRY AWAY HONORS IN THEIR CLASSES AT BOYNE CITY BASKETBALL MEET

Beaudoin Picked Class C All-Tournament Center and Outstanding Player in That Class—Event Gets High Praise

Continuing the fighting spirit which carried them to five successive victories to close the season, Charlevoix's Red and White basketball team won a thrilling battle Saturday night 25 to 24 from East Jordan to land the Class C district championship of Northern Michigan at the Boyne City tournament.

The game was the closing battle of one of the most interesting and exciting tournaments in this district. The entire three days had been filled with closely played games which kept the crowds on edge, with good sportsmanship on the part of both teams and spectators. In winning the tournament, Charlevoix's five sprung a complete surprise on the region, but at the same time justified the faith held in them by local supporters, who followed their team en masse to Boyne City.

Although the game with Boyne City Friday night and the final encounter with East Jordan for the title Saturday night were won by narrow margins, Charlevoix carried the fight to their opponents in both battles. Local fans who witnessed the games, credit the victories to the team's great improvement in defense.

With the playing of Russell, captain and center, and Hoff, forward, featuring, Alba won the Class D race from Ellsworth 21 to 16. Alba had eliminated Pellston, then sank Boyne Falls to work into the final round and land the title. Both Alba and Ellsworth as well as Charlevoix and East Jordan will go to Petoskey this week for the regional tournament conducted by the Petoskey high school.

Saturday evening, in the opening game, Harhor Springs defeated Boyne City 31 to 22 for third place in Class C.

McBride led in the scoring for Harhor with Tyron doing the same for Boyne City.

Leading Players

Beaudoin of Charlevoix, was considered the outstanding player in class C with Pellston occupying the same position in class D. High scorers went to Sexton, of Bellaire, who scored 24 points in one game and 23 in another.

The work of William Burkett, Gaylord superintendent of schools, and Walter MacMillan, head of the Petoskey physical training department, as referees in the tournament, was praised by teams and spectators. A. Darling of Boyne City, and Kenneth North of Petoskey, were the scorers.

The highest score made by any team was by Alba, this team scoring 42 points against Boyne Falls. The lowest score was a nine point game made by Alanson. The closest scores were those in the opening class C game in which East Jordan won from Harhor Springs 16 to 15, and the closing game in which Charlevoix defeated East Jordan 25 to 24. Still another close one was Pellston 28, Bellaire 27, and in another East Jordan won 16 to 14 from Mancelona.

High scoring center went to Beaudoin with 16 points in the game against Boyne City. Sexton, of Bellaire, was the high counting forward with 24. High scoring guard went to McLeod of St. Ignace, with 16 points against Pellston. This player also won the high foul count with eight out of fourteen chances, also in the Pellston battle. Mancelona suffered the most personal fouls called—19, while Pellston showed the cleanest playing in any single game with only three called. In another game, however, Pellston came near taking the high record also, getting seventeen called.

All Tournament Teams
At the close of the tournament Kenneth North, reporting the tournament for The Petoskey Evening News, selected two all-tournament teams, one for each class.

Here is the team selections:

Class C

Beaudoin, Charlevoix, center.
Lynch, Harhor, right guard (captain).
Shepherd, East Jordan, sub forward.
M. Novak, Charlevoix, sub guard.
Loeffler, Mancelona, sub center.

Class D

Peebles, Ellsworth, center. (captain).
McLin, Pellston, right guard.
Elzinga, Ellsworth, sub forward.
Cook, Bellaire, sub guard.
Russell, Alba, sub center.

Results of All Games

SPRING VACATION DATE IS CHANGED

School Board Decides to Discontinue Upkeep on Skating Rink

The date of spring vacation in Charlevoix public schools was changed at the regular meeting of the school board Monday evening.

School will be closed for a week, beginning Friday, March 30, and continuing until Monday, April 9. It was also voted to discontinue upkeep on the ice rink on the school grounds. This action was taken after considering the lateness of the winter season.

TRAVERSE CITY CARRIER TRAVELS 172,000 MILES

Willur Gordon, veteran Traverse City letter carrier who is to retire from active duty next May 20, figures he has traveled 172,000 miles while on his mail route. He started carrying mail an average of 28 miles a day way back in 1887 in Sioux Falls, S. D. He moved to Traverse 26 years ago. The distance is about equal to six times around the world. Mr. Gordon says his story is entitled "Six Times Around the World for Uncle Sam."

GILBERT METES OUT SENTENCES

BAILEY GETS 5 YEARS AT JACKSON FOR RAPE

Lester and Earl Smith Probation Orders Leave No Loop Holes For Future Trouble

Lester and Earl Smith, found guilty by a jury recently on a larceny charge, were placed on probation last Saturday by Judge Parm C. Gilbert, who ordered them each to pay fines of $200 and costs of $200 on or before August 15, 1928, besides settling forth other strict conditions they must live up to.

They were ordered to sign waivers allowing officers to enter and search their homes at any time without search warrants; will not be allowed to leave Charlevoix or Emmet counties without permission from the sheriff or prosecutor; must make regular reports to probation officer. J. R. Cooper, giving an account of their earnings and expenditures; must not be found in the company of anyone under the influence of liquor or having same in their possession, or in the company of chicken thieves or anyone of questionable character. In other words they must from now on walk the straight and narrow path.

John and Herman Smith, Boyne City brothers, were sentenced to serve from 2½ to 10 and 2½ to 5 years at Ionia, respectively, for larceny. The court recommended the minimum sentence in both cases. This was the third conviction for both offenders, and in passing sentence, Judge Gilbert warned them that the next one would mean life imprisonment.

Chas. Bailey, 66 year old Boyne City man, found guilty on a statutory rape charge, was sentenced to serve from 5 to 15 years at Jackson prison, with recommendation of 5 years. Bailey was severely scored by Judge Gilbert.

Judgment in the sum of $2700 was returned in favor of Robert Wm. Wapels, Indianapolis, in his case against Allie Ward. Wapels was a passenger in an automobile rammed by Ward on the Charlevoix-Petoskey road last September.

TEN LEAP YEAR BABIES ARRIVED IN DETROIT

Ten babies who will not have a birthday for four years arrived in Detroit between midnight and noon today. The first was born eight minutes after the clock ticked off the Leap Year day. It was a boy who weighed six pounds. Eleven minutes later there arrived a boy who weighed eleven pounds. No Leap Year babies have been reported in or near Charlevoix.

Political Announcement
To the Voters of the Second Ward: Numerous friends in the second ward have been so persistent in their demand that I make the run for alderman that finally I have decided to do so. My name will not appear on the regular ballot. Printed slips will be furnished and can be had for the asking. Your support and vote will be appreciated. Ernest J. Kibbe.—Adv. 10-12.

The "Old Folks Concert" will be held at the Congregational church, Friday evening, March 16, at 8:00 p. m., instead of Tuesday, March 13, as advertised last week.—Adv. 10-11.

W. GORDON PARKER TAKES OWN LIFE

ACT ATTRIBUTED TO DESPONDENCY FOLLOWING ILLNESS

He Was Nationally Famous as Tennis Player, Author, Artist and Editor

Despondency following two months of ill health is attributed as the cause for suicide by W. Gordon Parker, who shot and killed himself at about 6:30 Tuesday evening at his home on State street.

His illness started around the first of the year and had kept him from his work intermittently since that time. Mrs. Parker stated that Tuesday afternoon she left him in apparently good spirits and went to town on business. Returning later she noticed his absence and began to look for him. After searching the lower part of the house and calling his name repeatedly, she took a candle for light and went into a store-room on an upper floor, and there found him lying on a mattress. That he had been meditating committing the act for some time is apparent, for just as Mrs. Parker approached where he was lying he pulled the trigger of a single-barrel 22-caliber revolver and shot himself through the heart.

Mr. Parker was a nationally known figure in the literary, art and tennis worlds, where he held recognition since the age of 16 years. Born June 12, in Clinton, N. J., he received his education in New York City, where he graduated from an art school. In New York at the age of 16 he won his first tennis tournament and since that time had taken many titles in mid-western states. In the 90's he was among the ten ranking players of the United States and last summer at the age of 51, proved he was still a formidable opponent by winning Charlevoix's open tournament from a large field.

In addition to his fame in the tennis world, Mr. Parker was a nationally known writer of juvenile books and short stories. His name appeared in "Who's Who in America," issues of 1906-7 and 1910-11, which gave the following account: "William Gordon Parker, artist, author, born in Clinton, N. J., 1875. Educated in Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and graduate of Art Students League. He illustrated his own books and contributed illustrations to magazines. His books were 'Grant Burton, the Runaway,' in 1899; 'Six Young Hunters' in 1898; 'Rival Boy Sportsmen' in 1900; 'Two Boys in the Blue Ridge' in 1901."

At the age of 18, Mr. Parker left New York and went to Arkansas City, Kansas, where he entered the real estate business, at the same time following his literary and art work. Here in June 1905, he was married to Miss Verna E. Clark. Later the couple went to Wichita, Kansas, where Mr. Parker entered newspaper work with the Wichita Eagle. From a reporter's position he was advanced to an editorial desk and was gaining considerable recognition by his work until forced to seek outside employment on account of ill health. For a number of years he followed truck gardening at Wichita and Kansas City, Mo., before coming to Michigan to seek relief from his fever. After spending a year at Mancelona, Mr. Parker came to Charlevoix, where he became bookkeeper and secretary at Loeb Farms. For the past three years he has been cashier for Booth Fisheries Company at Charlevoix, and in that position established this record of not having a single error in his accounts during that period.

Besides his wife, deceased is survived by five children, viz; Virginia, 19; Mildred, 17; Mary Lou, 15; Billy, 12, and Isabelle, 7. Their first child, Robert, died at the age of 5 years. Two sisters, Isabelle Parker of Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. Georgiana Silcox of New York City, also survive. At the present time Virginia and Mildred are working and attending school in New York City, where they are staying at the home of Dr. G. A. Butterick, a Sequanota (Continued on page six)

PROTECT ITS GROWTH

"The tourist business in Michigan will, within a few years, represent a larger financial return than did the lumber industry when it was at its greatest height," declared Gov. Fred W. Green in a recent address at Owosso.

In that case the tourist business demands our most careful attention. Tourists form their opinions by the sum total of little incidents encountered along the way. If they are received courteously by those who enter to the tourist trade, are treated decently, given full value for all they pay in the way of entertainment, the chances are they will depart with the determination to come again another year.

But once let them be gyped by some unscrupulous person and they will shun that spot as if it were the plague—perhaps, even to the point of selecting some other state in which to spend their vacation period. Michigan is a hospitable state. We want the people from other states to come here and share with us our glorious summer weather and wonderful scenic attractions.

Hundreds of eating places are springing up along the main highways of travel. Hundreds of signs, "Rooms for tourists," are appearing before private homes in both city and country. These lodging and eating places should be under the supervision of the state, so that clean food, clean surroundings and fair prices are assured the traveler. No one who has the future of the tourist industry at heart will object to this. The tourist trade in Michigan is just in its infancy. Protected, it will grow to gigantic proportions.

THE DIRTY TIME OF YEAR

Those who wrote the beautiful songs and the sentimental poems on springtime lived before the soft coal age.

The receding snow does not reveal as many dead cats as it once did, but it does leave a blanket of black. As the sun rises higher the earth grows dirtier.

How many tons of good fuel have been deposited in the front yards, we do not know. Someone who likes to figure may compute that in his leisure moments.

But, like all disagreeable things, there comes an end. Soon the green grass will grow. But for a month or two in the spring even California or Florida might seem attractive.

That Texas flapper bandit who got 14 years for holding up a bank was not so good looking, it seems, after all.

Great hope for the civilization of the Chinese is seen in the report that they are now using poison gas in their war.

"And show he comes again!"

"Oh, he came before!"

"Oh, I see," said the voice was quick.

"Oh, no, you don't see. Well, I met him on the rocks beyond the little club one day—he is very nice, so gentle, gentlemanly, sympathetic—so I brought him home, and we had a long talk. He was thinking of buying up part of the island for exploitation, to build a hotel, you know, things like that. He is very nice."

"But his face was very stern. 'Why didn't you tell me all this before?' he demanded curiously."

"Because if you want to be so darned close about everything, I will be darned close myself," she said smartly. "I said, he felt terrible about the sketch—oh, I didn't tell you about that."

"What? What about it? What did the police—"

"Now, then, now is your chance to decide once and for all that I was entirely out of my head—am still, perhaps—! But Annularity can swear to part of it. If she will, though, she made me promise not to tell. She said folks would think queer of it."

"Gay!"

"I was nervous that night—anybody would be! At dusk I was all jumpy ture, which had long grieved at the misunderstanding, leavily and flammant with which she was surrounded. But while she was surrounded, she laughed at his serious view of the matter. Whatever of intrigue, cause for fear, had been on the island, it was now buried in the past. The self-conscious flush that rose to her cheeks when it had wandered at it—old Ingram's repeated appearance was sufficient explanation.

You must keep out of the forest, Gay. I don't like that Chinik prowling about, and I'm going to find out what he is up to. You keep out of the forest, and keep your doors locked. Keep the baby in good shape. Don't be afraid to shoot. If you hear a noise, grab it and fire into the air."

He opened the drawer, and took out the pistol, to emphasize what he said. "No man expects a woman to hit what she shoots at, but a nervous woman is apt to shoot anywhere. So shoot, every chance you get, at every shadow, at every sound. For heaven's sake, Gay, this is no protection to you if you don't keep it loaded."

"It is loaded," she said indignantly. "I always keep it loaded. I know an empty gun is—"

Hand broke open the barrel, and disclosed its empty chambers. Gay's lips parted, closed firmly, parted again.

Hand took cartridges from the box and filled it grimly. "I'll keep an eye on it for you," he said. "You shot them out weeks ago, the last time we went to the shore. And bragging about the protection of the baby!"

Gay closed her lips firmly and said nothing. But she knew she had not emptied that pistol at target practice. On the afternoon of the day just previous, she had affectionately cleaned and polished the baby, and loaded every chamber. Some other hand, not hers, had emptied that barrel.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Henry B. Wood, an unmarried man of Charlevoix, Michigan, unto Albert F. Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated May 11th, 1921, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, May 11th, 1921, in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 81, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at date of this notice the sum of $1,975.75, including the principal sum due with interest together, with an attorney fee of thirty dollars as provided for by the said mortgage, and no proceedings at law or equity having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, the taxes required by the statutes to be paid on said mortgage were duly paid prior to the recording thereof; now therefore, notice is given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statutes made and provided by the said mortgage, the premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon together with the costs and expenses of the foreclosure, including the attorney fee provided for by the said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder therefor, at the east front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Michigan, (thnt being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held,) on Saturday, the 5th day of May, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on that date.

The premises described in said mortgage, being the lands and premises situate in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: the south half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the west half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of section twenty-six (26) town thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, including lots twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty (26-27-28-29 and 30) of Clifford's addition to the village, (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, and containing ten (10) acres, more or less. Also all of lots thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one and forty-two (37-38-39-40-41-42) of Eaton's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Dated February 2, 1928.

Albert F. Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership, Mortgagee.

Lisle Shanahan, Attorney for Mortgagee, Business address, 108 Clinton street, Charlevoix, Michigan.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Michael O'Neill and wife Susan of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Nichols, Butlers and company, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated the 15th day of February, 1901, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 15th day of February 1901, in Liber 33 of mortgages on page 377, and was assigned by Nichols, Butlers and company, to Amos O'Neill on the 21st day of September 1926, which assignment was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 23rd day of September 1926, in Liber 68 of mortgages on page 327, on which mortgage there is now claimed to be due the sum of one hundred thirty-three and fifty-eight one hundredths (133.58) dollars, including interest computed to the date thereof, also the sum of forty-six and sixty-four hundredths (46.64) dollars taxes and insurance paid by assignee, also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Friday, the 30th day of March, A.

D. 1928, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with seven per cent interest and all legal costs, together with the amount paid for taxes and insurance, and also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars, the premises described in said mortgage as the following described premises, situated in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, viz: Lot number ninety-eight (98) of Upright and Hurlbut's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan. Amos O'Neill, Assignee of Mortgagee.

Dated December 23rd, 1927.

Keep youth longer!

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

NORWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Supernaw of Charlevoix, were Norwood callers last Thursday.

Norwood people extend their sympathy to Mrs. Frank Mason in the loss of a husband and father.

Cecil Richardson and Lynn Mayne attended the basketball tournament both Friday and Saturday evenings at Boyne City.

Miss Alice Siminow spent the week end in Charlevoix and attended the basketball game Saturday evening at Boyne City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Light and son, George, Jr., motored to Charlevoix Saturday, where they are guests of Mrs. Light's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wagner on State street.

During the storm Saturday night, a number of strangers were forced to stop their cars and find places to stay with farmers along US-31 until the snow plow opened up the highway.

March was ushered in with one of the worst storms of the season, with high winds and blinding snow storm and a low temperature, which brought traffic to a standstill along the highways.

Mrs. E. W. Publow entertained a small party of friends and relatives at her cottage in Norwood last Saturday to luncheon, honoring her sister, Marjorie Richardson, on her 14th birthday. The afternoon was one of merriment and fun.

Last Saturday evening several of the neighbors dropped in at the Pierce home, and reminded Mrs. Pierce of her birthday. The evening was spent playing cards and listening to radio music, after which lunch was served. All enjoyed a fine time.

Huhert Bearss and Ben VerNornan of Ellsworth, who were on their way to Elk Rapids Saturday night, where Mr. Bearss is leader of the band, were forced to spend the night at the Maurice Henry home on account of the storm. They continued their trip next day.

The program given February 29th by the I. A. S. at the town hall was quite a success. In spite of the stormy weather a fair crowd was on hand to greet the entertainers and offer ready applause. Among the local talent special mention is given to J. K. Ypma, who contributed in a large part to the success of the program, also Mrs. Wm. Alward and Mrs. Jos. Holsbeck in a dialogue entitled "Dark Cloud," who received a hearty applause from the crowd. Each player is to be complimented on their work throughout the program. The ladies sold sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

IT'S THE MONEY YOU SPEND WISELY THAT COUNTS

Someone has said that a rich man has more fun keeping a budget than a man of moderate means. Because the money he saves is tangible, he can see it and invest it, and put it to work. Be that as it may, a budget is an invaluable help to anyone.

A budget helps you to keep the right proportions between expenses, prevents you from spending more than is best for food and rent, or crimping more than you should on entertainment and luxury. But a budget is not reason for getting cheap things, things in which you forfeit quality by attempting to save on price. A budget says to you: "Here is the amount of money you should spend for this. Spend all of it, but don't spend more." And it is up to you to get the best that can be got for that amount.

The person who spends his money wisely, who likes to get the utmost for it, always finds out from advertisements how he can spend it to the best advantage.

It is surprising how much more wisely you can buy if you make it a habit to read advertising. A little more value here... a little better workmanship there... in this thing slightly more durability... that product perhaps a bit finer. And every cent of your money you spend for advertised merchandise will bring you greater comfort, higher quality of goods, and a standard of excellence that is nationally recognized.

IT CERTAINLY PAYS TO READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS

Today's Buick brings to its owners a higher degree of beauty than any other car in the Buick field has ever offered—

Accompanying this outward beauty—and giving it real meaning—is the superlative goodness and reliability of Buick engineering.

See Buick—drive it—compare it with others costing a great deal more—and you'll agree there was never a car so beautiful and never a car so good!

SIZE LIMIT ON BASS IS CHANGED

NEW RULING PLACES LENGTH
LIMIT AT 10 INCHES

Large New Forest Established in Emmet County in Honor of Curwood

The state conservation commission last Friday revised its regulations in favor of the fishermen and took steps to enlarge its reforestation program.

The legal size of bass was reduced from 12 to 10 inches. Local sportsmen and hundreds of summer resorters who come to Charlevoix during the open season will greet this ruling with enthusiasm. Experiences of the past two years have proven that 12 inch bass were few and far between. It has also proven that taking of 10-inch bass would not injure propagation and that many 10-inch bass which are caught and handled die if returned to the water. District Game Warden Ed. Deuel of Boyne City, was a strong advocate of this new ruling, and was instrumental in its making.

Lifts Some Baos

The ban on early fishing was lifted in a number of lakes. To the list of lakes acted upon last month, which are exempt from the general order prohibiting fishing of any kind from April 1 to June 15, were added Millecoquin, Mackinac county; Black, Cheboygan county; Crooked, Emmet county; Hubbard, Alcona county; Sage, Ogemaw county; Missaukee, Missaukee county; Cadillac and Mitchell, Wexford county; Bnr, Manistee county; Lower Hamlin, Mason county; Elk, Gladwin county. Pike and unprotected fish now may be taken in these lakes prior to June 15. Lake Charlevoix is included in this ruling.

An important addition to the forestry program was made when it was decided to make a 30,000-acre tract in Emmet county between Wolverine and Petoskey a state forest. It has been a refuge. It will produce all classes of timber.

The commission decided to abandon state participation in the Custer refuge at Camp Custer. The refuge was stocked principally for dog trails. It was reported the cost is about $2,000 a year and thus far stocking has not been successful.

Fike lake and Higgins lake state parks were enlarged by the acquisition of 240 acres for the former and 80 acres for the latter.

Trolling from a motor boat will be allowed in the following lakes in addition to those formerly set aside: Higgins, Houton, Crystal in Benzie county; Burt, Mullet, Lake Leelanau, Grand in Presque Isle county; Hubbard, Lake Gogebic, Indian in Schoolcraft county, and Lake Vieux Desert in Gogebic.

The "Old Folks Concert" will be held at the Congregational church, Friday evening, March 16, at 8:00 p. m. Instead of Tuesday, March 13, as advertised last week.—Adv. 10-11.

AT THE MOVIES

William Haines a Football Hero for Second Time

William Haines just can't seem to get away from football.

In "Brown of Harvard" he made one of the biggest hits of his career in a strenuous football contest, and now, in "West Point," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle coming Saturday and Sunday to the Palace Theatre, he again contributes thrills of the gridiron—this time in the annual Army-Navy game between West Point and Annapolis.

Haines' new vehicle is a vivid romance of life at West Point, with Haines in the role of a cadet in a story of love, football, and life as one of Uncle Sam's student officers. Joan Crawford, who played opposite him in "Spring Fever," is the heroine, and Edward Sedgwick directed the new play. Much of it was actually filmed at West Point, with the entire cadet corps participating in the production.

"Wife Savers" Begins At Signing of Armistice

The cheer heard round the world when the Armistice was signed has been filmed.

The laugh of relief and the excitement of soldiers and civilians, the merry-making and the tumult, are included in the first sequences of "Wife Savers," starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, which will be shown at the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

This hilarious comedy begins with the Armistice instead of ending with it. It is said to be even funnier than those two howling successes "Behind the Front" and "We're in the Navy Now."

NEW PALACE THEATRE

ATTRACTIONS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Saturday and Sunday, March 10-11

William Haines in "WEST POINT," with Joan Crawford. Haines mixes football and romance with his military life to make one of the most amusing pictures you've seen in years. Scenes of the thrills of a cadet training. Great army football scenes actually brought to the screen for tremendous climax. A love story that you'll say is different. Pranks and humors of West Point that will set the whole country roaring. Haines' great new picture successor to "Tell it to the Marines," and "Slide Kelly Slide."

EXTRA—Pathe Comedy, "GIRLS FROM EVERYWHERE."

Wednesday and Thursday, March 14-15

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton in "Wife Savers." Back from "Behind the Front," and funnier than ever before. The champagne "joy boys." A riot as dough-y, dough-y doughboys after the war.

ADDED ATTRACTION—Fox News and Vacation Reel. (Note: This picture brought back by special request.)

COMING—Zane Grey's "TONTON RIM."

COMING—Milton Sills in "VALLEY OF THE GIANTS."

COMING—Clara Bow in "RED HAIR."

COMING—"THE BIG PARADE."

CLARION MAY LOSE STATION

MOVE TO LOCATE JUNCTION HOUSE MILE SOUTH

Resort Folks Claim This Would Be of Benefit—Old Lumber Town
Strenuously Objects

Wallow Lake Junction station (formerly Clarion) on the Pennsylvania railroad may be changed in location if the present plans of the railroad company meet with the approval of the state public utilities commission, says the Petoskey Evening News.

With a view of better servicing the traveling public, it is proposed to move the station building now located at the end of the spur on Wallow Lake, to the intersection of trunk lines M-131 and M-75, one mile south of the village of Clarion. It is also proposed to abandon the station building now in the village of Clarion but to keep the side tracks available for shippers.

Two years ago the company advocated abandoning the Clarion station entirely, which was opposed by both Wallow Lake and Clarion, the public utilities commission declining to approve of the carriers request.

The present proposal to change the location, is said to meet with the approval of many residents of Wallow Lake and Boyne City, but does not find favor in the village of Clarion. A number of Northern Michigan citizens have expressed the opinion that the change will be of benefit to both the railroad passengers and motoring public. Several influential men in public life who opposed the elimination of the Clarion station of two years ago, are favoring the new proposal to change the location, and the matter will be decided soon at a hearing before the state public utilities commission at either Lansing or in Charlevoix county.

K. OF P. FAMILY SUPPER A SUCCESS

Entertainment and Eating Hit
Among Its Members

Attendance at the family supper, entertainment and dance given by local Knights of Pythias at their hall last Thursday evening broke all previous records in attendance, quantity of food consumed, and general good time had.

The supper started at 6:30 sharp, when the doors to the main hall were opened and 85 people marched in to music furnished by the Miller Orchestra, composed entirely of local talent. This was followed by a second table of 67 members, visitors and children.

At the close of the supper an impromptu program was given, the opening number being a parade by "Spark Plug" and his drum corps. This proved the hit of the evening, and received a roaring and enthusiastic applause. Other numbers following were as follows:

Piano duet, Julia Glados and Byrnes Lamphear.

Accordian selections, Tony Novotney.

Violin solo, Lavere Bird.

Clog dancing, Julia Glados and Byrnes Lamphear.

Accordian accompaniment by Charles Novotney.

Saxophone solo, W. C. Bellinger.

Dancing, Miss Alice Usher, with accompaniment of saxophone and piano.

Humpty-Dumpty race by six boys.

Friedcaks contest by eight girls.

During the program Judge Farm C. Gilbert and Dr. C. J. Winder were called upon and their response added greatly to the success and enjoyment of the evening.

Special mention is due Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Miller and members of the orchestra for the manner in which they conducted their part of the program. They gave their time and talent voluntarily, not only furnishing excellent music during the supper hour, but continuing during the program and dance hour following.

B. C. G. & A. MUST PAY BACK TAXES

Railroad Said to Owe $80,000 for Period of 1922 to 1928

A Lansing dispatch says the Boyne City, Gaylord and Alpena railroad has been notified that the state will sell this system unless its back taxes, amounting to $80,000, are paid immediately.

Kit F. Clardy, assistant attorney general, said the road owed the state over $69,000 accumulated since 1922. The balance represented penalties for non-payment.

The road runs approximately east and west between Boyne City and Alpena.

The state will also be represented before the interstate commerce commission at a hearing in Detroit Wednesday when the Detroit and Mackinac railroad will ask permission to abandon a section of its line which serves several communities in Alcona county, south of Alpena.

The state will oppose granting the permission.

MICHIGAN CITIES OUT FOR AIR PORTS

Elk Rapids in the Lead With Traverse City Second

Northern Michigan cities are waking up to the importance of having air ports. Elk Rapids will vote Monday, March 12, on a bond issue of $4,000 to acquire and develop a field for a municipal airport, the village council taking prompt action on a recent recommendation for such a bond. Traverse City is getting in line and expects to put the question to its voters at a special election this spring. This question is being agitated in Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Cheboygan and other nearby northern cities.

Charlevoix should get in line. This question was discussed at the recent annual meeting of our Association of Commerce, and the matter referred to the aviation committee.

PETOSKEY TOURNAMENT TO OPEN WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Ten Smaller Schools, Six From the Next Division and Only
Three in Class B

With ten class D teams entered Manager Arthur Treloar has been forced to open the Petoskey regional basketball championship race on Wednesday evening instead of Thursday afternoon as had been planned. St. Ann's of Alpena will open against West Branch with Roscommon playing Ellsworth in the second game Wednesday night. Teams are allowed to play but one main tournament game a day.

Play on Thursday will start at 3 p. m. with Bear Lake meeting Honor with Elk Rapids playing the winner of the opening game Wednesday at 4 p. m. Thursday. The winner of the second Wednesday battle meets Northport at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Thursday evening at 7 o'clock the first round of class D. Then Custer will tackle Crayling at 8 p. m. with Charlevoix and Roger City playing at 9. Manistee and Alpena battle at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Friday afternoon at 2:30 class D swings into battle again for the semifinals. Friday evening comes the semi-finals in class C with East Jordan meeting the winner of Thursday night's opening class C game. St. Francis of Traverse City meets the winner of the Charlevoix-Roger contest. To close the evening Friday the finals in class B will be played between Traverse City and the victor in the clash between Manistee and Alpena. Saturday afternoon will be devoted to third place games in class D and class C. Saturday night will come the finals in those two classes.

The drawings were made at the Petoskey high school office Monday afternoon.

ADA YETTAU HONORED AT PARTY WEDNESDAY

Friends Helped Her Celebrate Fifth Birthday in Twenty Years

The Misses Ada Yettau, Helen Hipp, Mabel Turpin and Elizabeth Higman were the delightful hostesses at a Leap Year birthday party given last Wednesday evening at Monte's place in honor of Miss Yettau. On this occasion she was 20 years of age and celebrated her fifth birthday.

Eighteen couples, including five from out-of-town, were present, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridge and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Livingston as chaperons. Dancing preceded refreshments, a feature of which was a large pink and white birthday cake with its five candles. Another feature of the evening was moving pictures of Charlevoix winter sports, photographed and shown by Robert Bridge. The party broke up at a late hour after a very enjoyable evening.

SIZE LIMIT OF BASS REDUCED TO 10 INCHES

The lawful size of bass that may be caught was reduced to 10 inches from 12 inches by the conservation commission Thursday. At the same time the commission reduced the creel limit for bass to five fish per day or 10 fish in the possession of any fisherman at one time.

Highways Blocked

In spite of efforts of snow-plow crews, highways in northern Michigan are still blocked to auto traffic. The storm Saturday night and Sunday filled the roads full of snow to the brim and continued furries and strong winds are keeping them that way. Traffic in M-31 between Charlevoix and Petoskey has been maintained up until this time. The rotary reached Eastport Tuesday night and was to return here today. Petoskey folks returning from the Traverse City tournament late Saturday evening were hung up south of here and spent the night at the Versnyder home. They finally reached Charlevoix Sunday evening and were taken to Petoskey. Their stalled cars were dug out Tuesday. Roads in Charlevoix county, with the exception of M-31 south, have been kept open, but we are lucky. Other Northern Michigan counties have been less fortunate and we understand it is impossible at the present time to reach the southern part of the state by any route outside of trains.

TIME LIMIT IS UP FOR SPEARING FISH

Leave your fish spear at home and keep it out of sight.

The spearing season ended last Wednesday, February 29, and wise fishermen will now take their spear and spearing paraphernalia ashore and keep only hook and line in their shanty. Conservation officer Henry Fike gathered in a bunch of spears over the week end ranging in size of about the smallest made up to as large as a pitch fork. Seems as if quite a number of the fellows from the east end of the county had forgotten to acquaint themselves with the game laws. Throughout March it will still be legal to use the five lines through the ice.

The Editor has agreed to let me have this same corner of this same sheet each week (providing I pay for it) and also providing Wood Brothers or someone else does not want the whole page. The understanding is that I can say anything I want to even if I tell how he got his car stuck up to its ears in the snow coming home from Grand Rapids.

Primary election is over, but it is evident that everyone was not satisfied by the number of slips I understand the printing offices are turning out. Say! This would be a good time for you to find out if you are registered, for it looks as though you sure are going to want to vote next time.

Speaking of Voting Wards reminds me that what I really want to say especially, is that right now I have a place for sale in the valley, close to the new school, just the right distance from down town, in fact just the location; unless you want to live way out on the south side or way over on the north side. The price is RIGHT and it will pay you to call me up or see me about this one.

This place belongs to a party not living here now and they tell me to do business—makes me think of the party advertising in this paper last week who Wanted—to buy gander or sell goose.

Did you go to Boyne City to help win? Well, then, the boys are going to expect you over to Petoskey this week. Let's all be there and have them know that all Charlevoix is with them.

LOCAL MEN IN- JURED IN CRASH

ACCIDENT NEAR GRAND RAPIDS
LAST FRIDAY MORNING

Harry Porter and Versal Seymour
Both Suffered Leg Fractures—
Others Not Injured

As we go to press Harry Porter, 51 year old Charlevoix resident, is still in an unconscious condition in Blodgett Hospital, Grand Rapids, the result of injuries received in an automobile crash on U. S. 16 south of that city last Friday morning at 6:10.

First reports were to the effect that Porter's skull was fractured, but James Wyers, who returned from Grand Rapids Monday evening, states that he is suffering from a fracture in his right leg above the knee and otherwise is uninjured. His unconscious condition is believed to have been caused from shock and attending physicians believe he will recover.

Versal Seymour of this city, was the only other occupant of the car receiving serious injury. He is at present confined in St. Mary's Hospital with his left leg fractured above the knee. Peto Scott and Edgar Smith, driver of the car, who were first reported injured, suffered nothing more than a severe shaking up.

Edgar Smith and his party were enroute to Toledo after new cars for the Charlevoix garage. They had left Grand Rapids early Friday morning after spending the night there and were 24 miles south of that city when a truck ran into them. According to James Wyers, who visited the scene of the accident, it is very evident that James S. Douglas of Detroit, driver of the truck, had fallen asleep at the wheel. Upon nearing Smith's car he commenced swiveling over past center of the highway. Sensing something was amiss in the other vehicle, Smith hung close to his side of the pavement, and finally, to avoid hitting a culvert, was cutting back to the center of the road when the truck struck the right side of his machine, almost completely demolishing it and the occupants. Mr. Wyers stated that officers visiting the scene of the wreck, placed the blame on the truck driver. It is claimed that Douglas had been driving all night previous to the accident.

CITY PURCHASED NEW FIRE TRUCK TUESDAY

New Equipment Has Much Needed
Pumping Apparatus

Charlevoix's fire fighting equipment is now augmented by the addition of a new Oberchain-Boyer truck, purchased Tuesday by the city council from Benj. Brown, local representative of the Boyer Fire Apparatus Co. of Logansport, Ind.

The new truck is equipped with pumping apparatus of 400 gallons per minute capacity, two 40-gal. chemical tanks and a 40-gal. "booster tank" which may be used in case of small fires. It comes equipped with 300 feet of chemical hose and in addition will carry 1000 feet of fire hose. The truck has a 60 h. p. Dodge Brothers 6-cylinder motor, mounted on a Graham Brothers chassis.

The present fire hall will be remodeled to accommodate both trucks. The new equipment was greatly needed for protection of our resort hotels and cottages located near the dead end of water mains, where pressure is low, and now places the city in a position to offer protection to nearby resorts and rural districts.

WELL KNOWN ANTRIM CITY RESIDENT CALLED

Frank E. Mason Will Be Missed by a Host of Friends

Frank Elliot Mason, age 48, a resident of Antrim county since childhood, died at his home near Antrim City on Thursday last after an illness of 14 months.

Deceased was born in Donamery, New York, October 12, 1879. At the age of one year and five months, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Mason, brought him to Antrim county, where he spent the remainder of his life.

At the age of 24 years he engaged in blacksmithing at Atwood, where he served the public for ten years. In December, 1904, at the age of 25 he married a Miss Nellie M. Glazier. After his marriage he bought his father's estate and farmed, spending his entire time on the old homestead.

Surviving are his wife, 10 children, Elliot, Effie, Martha, Robert, Minerva, Beulah, Ezra, Ora, Iva and Ernest, besides two brothers, Harvey R. of Detroit, and Benjamin C. of Eastport.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday, interment in the Antrim cemetery.

RED AND WHITE GO TO DETROIT

GIVEN ROUSING SEND-OFF WED-NESDAY MORNING

Business and Professional Men Spoke Before "Pep" Meeting in Assembly Room

Charlevoix high school basketball team, accompanied by Coach Tax Bachan, left Wednesday morning for Boyne City, where they took train for Detroit to enter the state basketball tournament.

They were given a royal send-off by their fellow students and about a hundred business men, who attended a "red-hot pep meeting" in the high school assembly room before the opening of classes for the day. George Beeman and Walter Bergeon led a series of rousing cheers to open the program. Mayor Arthur Bergeon gave a short talk before the assembly and was followed by many other including Robert Bridge, Rev. John E. Lockyer, Frank F. Bird, George Glados, Rev. B. G. Mattson, Dr. F. F. McMillan, Charles Novak, Bert Beaudoin, Jesse Smith, Chas. Marshall and a number of the instructors. Coach Tax Bachan also gave a short talk.

Velera Ripley led the student body in a number of rousing school yells and acted as leader of ceremonies in a masterful fashion. The school band played a number of selections. It is safe to say that if the team can carry the same spirit through their games at Detroit that was manifested at this meeting, nothing can stop them.

The boys making the trip to Detroit are Lisle Beaudoin, Max and Billy Novak, Billy Supernaw, Dick Marshall, John Williams, Ed Kling, and Vick Smith. They will play their opening game at 4:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon with the U. of M. high school team from Ann Arbor, in the Detroit Northwestern high school gymnasium.

CHARLEVOIX WINS NORTHERN C TITLE

REPEAT PREVIOUS VICTORY OVER EAST JORDAN TEAM
IN FINAL GAME SATURDAY NIGHT

Beaudoin and Billy Novak Divide Scoring Honors in Deciding Game—Plucky Ellsworth Five Nosed Out
St. Anne for D Title

Charlevoix's Red and White basketball five left no doubt as to their strength in the minds of Northern Michigan fans last Saturday night when they again downed the fighting East Jordan aggregation in the finals at Petoskey regional basketball tournament. The margin of their superiority is seen in the 27 to 8 score. Considering that the boys had no gymnasium in which to practice until after January 15, their rise to championship honors is outstanding, as is also their late-season record of 7 straight victories, four won in tournament play.

The game with East Jordan Saturday night was lopsided after the first few minutes of play. Charlevoix got off to a 5 to 0 lead at the quarter, counting on two baskets by Billy Novak and a free throw. This lead was increased to 15 to 5 at the half, mainly through the shooting of Beaudoin, center, who dropped in four baskets from all angles of the court. Scoring subsided in the third period, which ended 16 to 7, but in the final stanza, Billy Novak, freshman forward, counted with a couple beautiful baskets. Dick Marshall also counted in the final period with a couple pretty dukes.

Max Novak and Billy Supernaw were the bulwarks of Charlevoix's defense, which was also featured by the fine floor work of Marshall. Jordan had very few opportunities at open shots, being pressed closely by Charlevoix guards at all times. Vick Smith, John Williams and "Midget" McCall were all given opportunities to play in the final moments. Taylor, St. Charles and Barnett played good games for East Jordan.

Ellsworth Wins D Title
In what Heinie Martin, sport writer for the Grand Rapids Herald, termed to be one of the greatest games ever played in any gym, Ellsworth high school won the class D regional championship by edging out St. Anne's of Alpena, holders of the state class D championships, by the narrow margin of 9 to 8. Ellsworth won in spite of the fact that it failed to score a single point during the last two periods. St. Anne's made one field goal, the only scoring during the second half. The first quarter ended at four all, with Ellsworth in the lead 9 to 6, at the half. Soon after the third quarter opened the Alpenans registered a field goal. That ended the scoring. From then on the two teams rained shot after shot at the basket. Their desperate efforts to score worked the capacity crowd into a state of excitement that was climaxed when the final gun shot.

Man for man, St. Anne's boasted a better team, but it could not match the pluckiness and stamina of the yellow clad youngsters. Capt. Peebles of Ellsworth got up from a sick bed to play in the finals. It was his game spirit, his playing against doctors orders, that inspired his team-mates to victory. Elzinga, a 102-pound forward, was high scoring man for the evening. He tallied 7 of Ellsworth's 9 points. Two of his field goals were made on one-handed pegs from almost half the distance of the floor. Samp and Gabrysiak starred for Stannes, the deposed champions.

Manistee Wins B Title
Manistee high won the Northern Michigan Regional B basketball championship Friday night by handing Traverse City a 29 to 16 trouncing in the decisive game for title.

Manistee started off, confident of victory, only to see Traverse slowly forge into a 7 to 4 lead at the first quarter, which it maintained to the close of the first half, which ended, 11 to 8. Big Bill Core, lanky center of Coach Gordon MacDonald's outfit, was the mainstay of the Traverse City attack.

Soon after the third quarter opened, Manistee pulled the score up to 11 all.

Manistee rang up basket after basket, the third quarter ending 21 to 11 in its favor. Traverse failed to score a single point in the third frame. Deuces continued to be wild in the last quarter, with the Manistee team cashing most of them.

Charlevoix Beats St. Francis
In one of the best played games of the tournament, Charlevoix high advanced to the class C finals Friday night by defeating St. Francis of Traverse City, last year's champions in this class, 24 to 9. The two teams started off at a lightning pace the first quarter, ending at 5 all. The Parochials were held scoreless in the second frame, while Charlevoix was hanging up three points to gain an eight to five lead at the half.

At the three-quarters post, Charlevoix held an 18 to 9 lead. In the last quarter it was a runaway race, the St. Francis players appearing to completely lose sight of the iron ring, failing to score a single point.

Beaudoin, center, and Billy Novak, forward, played sensational games, scoring 11 and 9 points, respectively. Novak showed himself to be one of the nearest dribblers in the tournament. Beaudoin's brilliant all round play stamped him as worthy of all northern honors.

Martineau was the outstanding star for the Parochials, scoring eight of the nine points made by his team. His support, particularly by his forwards, was pitiful.

East Jordan vs. Grayling
East Jordan trounced the highly touted Grayling team Friday night, 31 to 15, in a game that was harder fought than the score indicates. The play was lightning fast at all times.

The Jordanites held a 12 to 5 lead at the half, which they increased to 24 to 12 at the three-quarter post. Taylor, St. Charles and Barnett were the brilliant performers for East Jordan, while Hendrickson starred for Grayling, scoring nine points.

St. Anne's, Ellsworth Win
In the afternoon games Friday St. Anne's of Alpena and Ellsworth worked their way into the class D finals.

St. Anne's, which won the state class D championship last year, easily disposed of Honor high, 30 to 16 holding a 20 to 7 lead at the half.

Ellsworth won a closely contested fray from Alba, which had been doped to win, in the class D semi-finals, 16 to 12. The score was tied at 12 all with only a minute to go. Two duces in rapid succession in the closing minute gave Ellsworth its place in the finals. Youngdyke and Peebles starred for the winners, C. Russell and Hoff for the losers.

St. Francis Third
St. Francis of Traverse City won third place in class C by defeating Grayling, 22 to 15, Saturday. Alba captured third place in Class D, by trouncing Honor, 20 to 10. In a preliminary game Saturday night the

REPORT SUCCESS OF THEIR WORK

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF RED CROSS ORGANIZATIONS

Receipts and Disbursements Accounted for in Connection With Other Activities

Below will be found reports from both the Charlevoix County Red Cross and Red Cross organization of the city of Charlevoix. Both of these reports are somewhat late in their appearance, but their activities are of such importance that the fullest publicity should be given them. The first report is from the county organization, followed by the report from our local organization. Both organizations have done a wonderful work and are deserving of full credit for their accomplishments:

Charlevoix County Red Cross
The annual meeting of the Charlevoix County Chapter, A. R. C., was held January 13, 1928, at Charlevoix, in the office of the Charlevoix County Bank.

The minutes of the 1920 annual meeting, the August 21, 1923, and the June 15, 1926, special meetings were read and accepted.

The report of the treasurer, A. F. Bridge, for 1926 and 1927 was read and accepted, which was as follows:

In addition to this, Boyne City sent direct to Flood Relief Fund, $307.78, and $10.00 to Florida Hurricane Fund. East Jordan sent direct to Florida Relief $786.53. Walloon Lake sent to Florida Hurricane Fund, $271.43.

The following directors were elected: Mrs. Ruth A. Golden, Clarion; James Gallagher, St. James; Mrs. Florence Pearson, Boyne Falls; Chas. T. McCutcheon, Boyne City; Mary Ruegger, Boyne City; Nellie N. Harris, Boyne City; Howard Porter, East Jordan; Mrs. Mattie Parmeter, East Jordan; Dr. Hugh Dickson, East Jordan; Albert F. Bridge, Charlevoix; Alonzo Powers, Charlevoix; Mrs. Ada Beeman, Charlevoix.

CHARLEVOIX RISES FROM TAIL-ENDERS TO REGION CHAMPS

The following scores of 16 games played by C. H. S. during the season which closed with the Petoskey tournament, show the progress of the team from tail-enders to district and regional champs. The early-season results are far from impressive, but the last seven more than make up for the poor showing. The locals won 10 out of 16 games.

REARING PONDS TO BE ADOPTED

BROOK TROUT WILL BE KEPT TO REACH FINGERLING STAGE

System Should Be Worked Out by Cities of County—Fishing
Big Attraction

Charlevoix sportsmen are jubilant over a recent announcement made by district game warden, Ed Deuel, of Boyne City, that the department of conservation is planning to plant no brook trout fry in streams of this region this spring other than enough to relieve congestion in the several hatcheries.

Instead of carrying out the same plan as in former years, a system of rearing ponds is planned. Here the fry will be kept until they have grown into the fingerling stage before they are transferred to other streams. Mr. Deuel announced that the department had two rearing ponds in mind for Charlevoix county, one in the mill pond at Advance near Boyne City and another in a portion of Deer Creek near its outlet into Jordan river.

It is believed by local sportsmen that this new plan will mean the saving of thousands of brook trout, which in other years have been wasted. Pinpointing time in Northern Michigan, when the fry must be taken from the hatcheries to save it from dying, usually comes while the streams of the region are overflowing from melting snow and spring freshets. To plant fry in such waters is folly, for they seek the quiet eddies along the bank, and when the water recedes are left high and dry.

Boyne City and East Jordan, probably will, in the near future, depend on resort business as a source of income the same as Charlevoix. Inasmuch as fishing in the county lakes and streams is one of our chief attractions to tourists, rearing ponds are a timely subject for thought. Fishing in Charlevoix county is far from what it used to be in spite of the beliefs of those who think otherwise. A system of rearing ponds maintained by each of the three cities of the county would go a long way towards restoring fish life to our lakes and streams. Inasmuch as the results of such a plan would directly benefit the whole county, the board of supervisors might be influenced to make a yearly appropriation to help out. We are merely suggesting such a move and believe that a tri-city meeting to discuss conservation matters in Charlevoix county would accomplish lasting results.

PLAIN WORDS FROM HOOVER

Mr. Hoover has spoken plainly on the question of the Eighteenth Amendment. He stands "for the efficient, vigorous and sincere enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder." He adds: "Whoever is chosen president has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course." That is a forthright declaration by a man who says what he thinks. Such men may be depended on to do what they say. Hoover's position is that often expressed by The Herald. It could be amplified to this extent: No federal officer, "under his oath," can change the essence of Prohibition without first changing the constitution itself. The Eighteenth Amendment—not the Volstead Act—is the controlling factor. Those gentlemen who politically promise to change the latter without first changing the former are merely bootleggers in campaign pledges. Since the supreme court ultimately will not let them cheat the constitution, no matter how hard they try, the net result of their whole gesture is merely this: they hunt prejudicial votes under false pretenses. Voters, no matter how "wet" their wishes, are fuddle indeed if they permit themselves to be fooled into following such sterile expectations. The constitution can be changed only as the constitution directs, namely: by amendments initiated by two-thirds of congress or by petition of two-thirds of the states. The latter course is automatic. It is the clear, honorable way for those to proceed who want prohibition changed—if they can get the votes. Mr. Hoover, as president, would abide the spirit and letter of his oath to support and sustain the constitution of the United States. Any federal candidate in any other constitutional attitude is to be dropped from the polls.—Grand Rapids Herald.

THRIFTLESSNESS AND CRIME

There is no disputing the fact that crime is steadily increasing in this country. Reliable statistics bear this out. The causes are the subject of much study, but no individual or group has yet been able to offer any convincing explanation. While lack of personal thrift cannot be suggested as a major cause of increasing criminal practices, conditions could be greatly improved if there were more widespread devotion to this modest virtue.

A general application of thrift principles in the lives of the people of this nation would mean a radical reduction in the amount of gambling, drinking, and general debauchery now current. It would mean that the money now spent with bootleggers would flow into the legitimate channels of business. It would mean that thousands who are trying to get rich over night by all sorts of clap-trap schemes, would settle down to sensible methods of saving and investing. It would mean the elimination of a thousand and one forms of immorality, waste and extravagance that now lead directly to the commission of crime.

Those who are determined to get ahead in the world, know that they cannot afford extravagant indulgences. They must save their money. They must put their time and efforts to good use. They must be careful how they spend and how they invest.

While many of our reformers are floundering about in efforts to bring about the millennium through one short cut or another, it should be borne in mind that more attention to the simple practices of thrift upon the part of the people generally would divert many a person from the pathways of crime to the pathways of right living.

There is no way under the sun that thrift can be compelled. No law could ever be passed that would make people thrifty. But great changes can be made through the patient process of education.—Thrift Magazine.

BORROWINGS REDUCED

Hitherto credit, when ample, has been used to a considerable extent to finance industry and especially to finance inventories. But as a result of the practical recognition of American railroads and the unheard of performance which make dependable deliveries a routine assumption on the part of merchants and business men, the necessity for enormous inventories (which wrecked the 1919 speculation for instance) has long since ceased to be a factor, and general business has gone along with amazingly small inventories, thus reducing at once the amount of borrowings necessary to finance business and the operating costs of doing that business.

Thus the efficiency of railroads has been no small factor in the price level attained by industrial stocks, because on one hand American business en masse has not had to tie up large sums of money in inventory, making that money available for stock market purposes, and on the other hand it has increased the earnings of industrial corporations by reducing their operating expenses, thereby increasing earnings per share, dividends that are possible and the selling prices which depend upon the actual earnings and dividend possibilities.—From the New York World.

OUR ANNUAL FIRE LOSS

Of course a great deal should be done with $561,980,751 to speed the nation's progress, if we had it to spend for constructive work, instead of merely paying it out in fire losses each year. This tremendous sum, the largest annual loss ever recorded by any nation in modern times, is the loss reported for 1926. Five hundred and sixty-one million dollars is a great deal of money; so much, in fact, that it is beyond the average mind to readily grasp its actual proportions and the weight of its importance.

HUMAN EMBELLISHMENTS

To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little, and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole family happier for his presence, to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered, to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same condition, to keep friends with himself; here is a task for all a man has of fortitude and delicacy.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

JAMES MARTIN MUST PAY STATE FOR FISH CAUGHT

J. J. Martin, St. Ignace fisherman, must pay the state of Michigan $1,001 for the 7,700 pounds of whitefish he took from the Dahalia Shoal, Lake Michigan, November 2, 1925. Judge Leland W. Carr ruled in Ingham county circuit court recently. Emerson R. Boyles, deputy attorney general, brought suit to recover the amount paid Martin for his catch, ruling that since Martin caught the fish out of season, they were the property of the state when he disposed of them. Martin contested the action on the grounds that after he had paid a fine of $200 in Charlevoix county circuit court for fishing out of season, the fish became his property.

KENT COUNTY PIONEER DIED HERE SATURDAY

Mrs. Johnathan Cook Died at Home of Her Daughter

Martha May Pierce, mother of Mrs. E. L. Dawson of this city, died last Saturday morning at 4 o'clock at the Dawson home on State street. Seven years ago she suffered a paralytic stroke and since that time had been an invalid confined to her bed. During that period she had been a patient and uncomplaining sufferer, and her passing will bring grief to the many who knew her.

Deceased was born in Warren county, New York, November 18, 1859. When a small child she accompanied her parents to Barnaboo, Wis., where they resided until after the Civil War, when they moved to Sand Lake, Kent county, Michigan, being among the early settlers of that district.

On April 25th, 1877, she was united in marriage to Johnathan H. Cook of Sand Lake. She was the mother of six children, two of whom survive, viz: Mrs. E. L. Dawson of Charlevoix and Mrs. James Block of Barnaboo. Two brothers, Warren Pierce of Sand Lake, and James Pierce of Grand Rapids, also survive.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock from the Dawson home on State street, Rev. B. G. Mattson of the Congregational church officiating. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

WHY CONTINUALLY PICK ON THE POOR FLAPPERS?

The modern flapper doesn't wear enough clothes to stop an echo, Prof. Paul G. Andre, chief engineer for a Chicago loud speaker manufacturer, complained in Milwaukee. Amplifying his statement to an audience of radio fans, Prof. Andre explained that in installing loud speakers in a hall it was necessary to eliminate all echoes to insure clear reception. "Four or five years ago a hall full of people had very little echo because clothes absorbed the sound," he said. "Nowadays echoes present a serious difficulty because girls don't wear enough clothes to deaden sound."

Registration Notice

To the Qualified Electors of the city of Charlevoix, state of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the Michigan Election Law, I, the undersigned, City Clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said city not already registered, who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no name for registration during the time intervening between the second Saturday before the day of election, or the day of election.

You are further notified that I will be in my office, March 24, 1928, from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. that day for the purpose of registering such of the qualified electors in said city as shall properly apply therefor.

You are further notified that a primary nominating election will be held in the city of Charlevoix on Monday, April 2, 1928, at central polling place to provide for the expression by the qualified voters of the several political parties of their choice for the nomination by their party for President of the United States, as prescribed by Act No. 351, Public Acts of 1925.

You are further notified that the ensuing city election will be held on Monday, April 2, 1928 at the central polling place in the City of Charlevoix, at which election the following officers are to be voted for, viz:

City—One Mayor; one Clerk; one Treasurer; one Justice of the Peace, three year term; one Justice of the Peace, two year term; one Park Commissioner. Also, one Supervisor, one Alderman and one Constable from each of the three wards.

The polls of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 5 o'clock p. m. of said day of election.

Ray S. Hamilton, Clerk.

By D. S. Payton, Deputy.

Political Announcement

I hereby announce that I will be a candidate for the office of alderman, in the second ward of the City of Charlevoix, at the regular election held on Monday, April 2. As my name cannot by law appear on the regular printed ballot, slips will be prepared for those who desire to vote for me. I have been a citizen of Charlevoix for a great many years, am interested in its advancement, and I believe I am fully qualified to satisfactorily handle the duties of this office. Your support and vote will be appreciated. John J. Zeitler.—Adv. 10-13.

There is no Performance like Chrysler "72" Performance

Demonstration Will Prove it to You

There is a new performance sweeping the land—Chrysler "72" performance—obsoleting everything in its field today as completely as did the first Chrysler four years ago.

75 horsepower from an engine of surprisingly small size for such capabilities, through Chrysler's special genius in design and precision manufacturing.

72 miles and more an hour—now made still more smoothly, more easily because of the counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft.

In traffic, it whisks to the fore in a way that out-Chrysler even Chrysler. Mountain grades literally melt before it.

You owe it to yourself to know this superb Chrysler performance. A demonstration entails no other obligation.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, giving 12% greater torque with greater speed, power and hill-climbing ability; standard equipment on all body models of the 112 h. p. Imperial "80," also standard on the roadsters, and available at slight extra cost for other body types, of the "62" and "72."

Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795.

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments.

FEBRUARY COURT TERM CLOSED LAST THURSDAY

Alford C. Ward Sentenced to Serve 12 Months at Ionia

The February term of court closed last Thursday noon with the completion of trespass cases against Alford C. Ward resulting from his automobile smash-up on U. S. 31 in September of last year.

Judgment in the sum of $4,700 was returned in favor of John Woodworth in his suit seeking damages for personal injuries. In the other case, judgment in the sum of $1,250 was returned in favor of Russell J. Woodworth and John Woodworth, co-partners, in their suit seeking compensation for damages to their automobile. The cases were tried together.

After the close of the damage suits, Judge Gilbert sentenced Ward to serve not less than 6 and not more than 12 months at Ionia on a charge of transporting liquor. The court's recommendation was 12 months.

ANOTHER POLITICAL LIE NAILED TO WALL

Howe Stands Second in Attendance Among Councilmen

A candidate for office in the second ward, and a local newspaper, have informed the voters of that ward that the present alderman, Ernest P. Howe, had neglected the office and been irregular in his attendance at council meetings, and therefore should not be re-elected. Some of those voters have investigated and caused the records to be examined. Here is what they found, and they ask us to publish it.

During the year beginning April 12th, 1926, when Mr. Howe took office, the council held 33 meetings and during this year to date, has held 27 meetings. The council holds two regular meetings each month, with other meetings between as the business demands. The records show that Alderman Geiken of the 3rd ward stands first in attendance with 56 out of 60 meetings. ALDERMAN HOWE STANDS SECOND WITH 50 meetings, two more than the next lowest alderman. Further investigation discloses that Mr. Howe attended every meeting held while he was in town and able to attend. He was ill with pneumonia in April, 1927, and was excused by the mayor for a short time in February and March of both years to secure work outside during the inactive season.

Men who so carelessly misinform the public should be called to account, and should be censured by the voters at the polls in no uncertain manner. It is further found that Mr. Howe is held in high esteem by his colleagues on the council for his courtesy and work on the council. At the primary he received more than twice the total combined vote of his two opponents.

MAYOR ART BERGEON HANDED A BOQUET

Mark of Good Will Sent to Him From Louisville, Ky.

Mayor Arthur Bergeon of Charlevoix was greeted last Saturday morning with a tribute of flowers from Mayor William B. Harrison of Louisville, Ky., on the occasion of the opening of the Ninth Annual Flower Show in that city. Florists of the nation took this opportunity to practice what they preach by "Saying It With Flowers" to mayors all over the country and, through their national organization, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, flowers were wired from Louisville to Mayor Bergeon of this city.

This mark of good will, as displayed between two cities, is a development of modern good fellowship, and the people of Charlevoix will be pleased to learn of their share in this expression of friendliness. The card of greeting on the flowers read:

"Greeting:
Upon this occasion, the opening of the Ninth National Flower Show in our city, allow me to express the good-will of the people of Louisville to the people of your city by saying it with flowers by telegraph. This flower token was made possible through a world wide organization of 3700 bonded members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association.

Sincerely,
William B. Harrison,
Mayor,
Louisville, Ky., U. S. A."

Mason is not a resident of this state, but is a resident of the state of Texas; and that the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees, and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Loskot, deceased, are necessary and proper parties to the above entitled cause, and that the names of such heirs and their addresses are unknown to the said plaintiff.

On motion of R. L. Lewis, attorney for said plaintiff, it is ordered that the appearance of said defendants John F. Mason and the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Loskot, deceased, be entered in this cause within three months from date of this order; and that in case of their appearance, or the appearance of any of them, they respectively answer or answers of such of them as shall have appeared, to the bill of complaint in this cause to be filed and a copy thereof to be served on the plaintiff's attorney within fifteen days after the service on them or each of them as shall have appeared respectively.

Therefore, by virtue of the power of the said bill, and that in default thereof the said bill be taken as confessed by them, the said defendants, John F. Mason and the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Loskot, deceased.

And it is further ordered, that within twenty days the said plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, and that such publication be for at least six successive weeks, or that he cause a copy of this order to be served on said John F. Mason and each of the said unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of said Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Loskot, deceased, and assigns of said Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Loskot, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for their appearance.

The property the subject matter of this cause entitled cause of action, is described as: The northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section eleven (11) town thirty-three (33) north, range eight (8) west, situate in Marion township, Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Parm C. Gilbert, Circuit Judge.

Rollie L. Lewis, Attorney for plaintiff. Business address, Charlevoix, Michigan.

MORTGAGE SALE
Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Henry B. Wood, an unmarried man of Charlevoix, Michigan, unto Albert F. Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated May 11th, 1921, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, May 11th, 1921, in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 81, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at date of this notice the sum of $1,979.75, including the principal sum due with interest, together with an attorney fee of thirty dollars as provided for by the said mortgage, and no proceedings at law or equity having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, the taxes required by the statutes to be paid on said mortgage were duly paid prior to the recording thereof; now therefore, notice is given that, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statutes made and provided, said mortgage premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon together with the costs and expenses of the foreclosure, including the attorney fee provided by the said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder therefor, at the east front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held,) on Saturday, the 5th day of May, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on that date.

The premises described in said mortgage, being the lands and premises situate in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: The south half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the west half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the southwest quarter (1/4) of section twenty-six (26) town thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, including lots eight, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty (26-27-28-29 and 30) of Clifford's addition to the village, (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Dated February 2, 1928.

Albert Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership.

Lisle Shanahan, Attorney for Mortgagee. Business address, 108 Clinton street, Charlevoix, Michigan. Adv. 6-112.

MORTGAGE SALE
Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Michael O'Neil and wife Susan of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Nichols, Butters and company, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated the 15th day of February, 1901, in Liber 33 of mortgages on page 377, and was assigned by Nichols, Butters and company, to Amos O'Neil on the 21st day of September, 1926, which assignment was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 23rd day of September, 1926, in Liber 68 of mortgages on page 327, on which mortgage there is now claimed to be due the sum of one hundred thirty-three and fifty-eight one hundredths (133.58) dollars, including interest computed to the date thereof, also the sum of forty-six and sixty-four hundredths (46.64) dollars taxes and insurance paid by assignee, also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Therefore, by virtue of the power of the said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Friday, the 30th day of March, A. D. 1928, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with seven per cent interest and all legal costs, together with the amount paid for taxes and insurance, and also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars, the premises described in said mortgage as the following described premises, situated in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, viz: Lot number ninety-eight (98) of Upright and Huribut's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan. Amos O'Neil, Assignee of Mortgagee.

Dated December 23rd, 1927.

Keep youth longer!

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

Newest Zane Grey Production Typical in Locale and Action
The current production of Zane Grey's "Under The Tonto Rim," said to be one of his finest efforts, is typical of the many Zane Grey successes brought to the screen by Paramount.
The latest picturization of the famous author's works will appear at the Palace Theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

One of the outstanding highlights of Paramount's previous productions of a Zane Grey story is the background of scenery it provides. Patrons are accustomed to viewing wonderful "shots" of Western scenery in these pictures, and "Under The Tonto Rim" is no exception along these lines.
The location of the picture is the Tonto Basin in Arizona, and Paramount, having already set its standard, ordered a large company of screen players and technical staff under the charge of Hermann Raymaker,

The director, and his assistants to establish headquarters at the exact location that is called for in the story.
A considerable sum was expended by the company in providing headquarters for such a large staff 300 miles from Hollywood. The location arose 'neath the shadows of the

The Smoothness and Snap That All America is Demanding

There's no longer any doubt about it. America is demanding more and more from its automobiles. More power... more style... more speed. And above all else... more smoothness and snap.

Because of its ruggedly constructed chassis... its bigger wheels and suspension... and the super-precision construction demanded in the All-American principle of design.

Smoothness that brings in driving new pleasures and new delights. Snap that responds to the traffic signal as a sprinter responds to the gun. Smoothness and snap that you know are the very essence of motoring satisfaction. Smoothness and snap that you find revealed in the All-American Six.

Once you've experienced its smoothness... once you've witnessed its snap... you'll know why the All-American Six is winning such tremendous success!

You find them there because of Oakland's big, impressive brute of an engine which starts so easily 'way below zero. Because of its famous GMR cylinder head... force feed fuel pump... 79-lb. crankshaft and other vital parts.

DANGERS OF WINTER FISHING

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE OF TWO CEDARVILLE FISHERMAN

Seventy Year Old Man Saved After He Had Floated Ten Miles Into Lake Huron

A longing to feel the tug of a "big'un" in the deep waters off the bay may lure the lover of this kind of sport to venture out on the treacherous ice, but we cannot wonder if he realizes the great anxiety among his loved ones at home during his absence. The experiences of these two men ought at least serve as a warning to those who venture out on the ice from this port. Hardly a winter passes without someone getting caught on floating ice. Charlevoix so far has not went through this experience, and we sincerely hope those who are in the habit of risking the ice, will keep close to shore and watch the wind change and drifting ice.

The following article was taken from the Sault St. Marie News of recent date, and reveals the great risk of winter ice fishing:

Two men in a small launch, ploughed through the black waters of Lake Huron and raced successfully with death while far out an aged fisherman shivered in the biting wind on a great cake of ice which carried him farther and farther from shore.

Cedarville and Les Cheneaux have witnessed heroic deeds in the long history of the settlement but have never become indifferent to adventure and today George Dunn and Robert Hammel, two Cedarville men are village heroes. They were the men who braved a dark night on the lake, with white waves piling high and treacherous ice floes coursing through the water, to rescue Peter Paquin, 70 year old fisherman, who was floating out in Lake Huron on a broken ice pack.

Peter went fishing Monday afternoon, out on the ice near Surveyor's Reef, ten miles east of the village of Cedarville. He had a hole in the ice and a bit of shelter to shield him from the zero wind. Peter was out on the ice two or three miles.

Jack Vizeau was fishing closer to shore.

Cracked by wind and current the ice cut Peter off from shore and in a few minutes he was being carried out into the lake. Jack saw him going. He ran five miles to Prentiss Bay for a boat but there was none there. Then he went back to Lake Side hotel, about seven miles, and still was unable to secure a boat. By that time Paquin was four miles out in the lake.

Jack managed to reach a telephone and called Ed. Stack's camp. Bob Hammel was in the camp and he started for Cedarville where he picked up George Dunn. Together they went to Bruce Patrick who had the key to the boat house. Patrick helped them get out a steel launch, and with a horse they towed the boat two miles over the ice to open water. It was two hours before the engine started and the rescue crew could leave.

"I guess I had better go instead of you," Patrick said to Hammel.

"Nope, you have four kids and I only have three—I'll go," Hammel replied, and he jumped into the boat. In a few minutes they were lost in the dark, the boat headed for the open lake where Paquin was floating ten of twelve miles from shore.

Back at Cedarville the village was agog and within a half hour after the boat had put out, the entire village lined the shore. Signal fires sprang up at intervals.

Ten o'clock and the anxious crowd along the shores was becoming impatient. Not a sign of the boat. Then came the distant sound of a motor. Dunn and Hammel were back and with them was Paquin, shivering from exposure. The two were cake of ice on which he had spent the day and part of the night was located.

"I never gave up hope," Paquin said. "I knew my friends would find me. But if the wind had not gone down I would have frozen to death."

Have you seen the trophy in George Glados window? Well, the boys sure kept faith with us for going over to Petoskey several trips last week. Wonder how many are going to have a business excuse to go to Detroit?

I was able to get down town Tuesday but I went into Don Campbell's Boot Shop and bought a pair of boots, before going home. Had to have them anyway, with the work we are going to do at Boulder Park.

Rented two cottages on the North Side last week and received five letters about cottages on one mail. If your place is not already listed with me, I will be glad to know about it.

Did not expect to sell that house in the Valley in a week with the kind of weather we have been having. Have had two parties to look at it and have two more talking about going to look, so it will surprise me if there is not something doing soon. I know several parties who are paying rent who are going to have to move. They might just as well be naying for a home of their own.

Just Mrs. Saltonstall, and if it takes live chorus girls to make a good show, I think that we had better go to the Old Time Concert at the Congregational Meeting House Friday night.

Would like a good heading for my space. Have you any suggestions?

TAKE COUNT IN OPENER AT DETROIT STATE TOURNAMENT

Detroit Writing of Game, Says
Local Boys Were Nervous and Over-Anxious

We are indebted to what we presume is a former Charlevoix high school student now residing in Detroit for an account of the Charlevoix-University high school of Ann Arbor basketball game, played last Thursday afternoon at the state tournament in Detroit. Inasmuch as the letter was not signed, the identity of the writer is unknown. Following is the account of the game in part:

"About 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon eight young fellows wearing the Red and White of Charlevoix high school trotted onto the basketball court to represent Northern Michigan in class C at the state tournament. A moment later sixteen boys clad in the Purple and Gold of University high school of Ann Arbor made their bow. Charlevoix appeared as good as U. H. S. and it looked like a hot ball game.

"However, before the first quarter had elapsed, U. H. S. scored 5 field goals while Charlevoix was getting a single foul toss. C. H. S. players appeared nervous and over-anxious. Ann Arbor rosters numbering about 200, gave deafening cheers each time their team scored. The quarter ended Charlevoix 1, U. H. S. 10.

"In the second quarter Charlevoix broke through for a couple of field goals and counted on one free throw. Just before the half ended Ann Arbor scored another basket making the count 12 to 6 at the intermission. A couple of U. H. S. cheer leaders called for yells and put a rousing one on the air for Charlevoix.

"The second half opened with another Ann Arbor basket. It seemed they were having all the luck, for Charlevoix was getting as many chances at the net as their opponents, but the ball simply wouldn't go through. When the final gun cracked the champions of the north were trailing 26 to 11.

"However, Charlevoix students may rest assured their team went down fighting gamely. Kling and Williams did not get into the game, but with Marshall, Beaudoin, Supernaw and the Novak boys playing hard, clean ball, it is doubtful if any change would have turned the tide.

This anonymous writer ended the letter by extending praise to Coach Buchen and a rousing "Red and White Forever."

INJURIES PROVE FATAL TO CHARLEVOIX CITIZEN

Harry Porter Died In Grand Rapids
Last Thursday

Funeral services for Harry Porter, who died Thursday evening at 6 o'clock in Blodgett Hospital, Grand Rapids, were held from the Dan Spayd residence here last Saturday afternoon, Rev. B. G. Mattson of the Congregational church officiating.

Mr. Porter's death resulted from injuries received in an automobile accident on M-16 south of Grand Rapids, on Friday, March 16. He was taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition, from which he never rallied.

Deceased was born in Burr Oak, Michigan, August 26, 1872. He came to this county about 44 years ago, and had resided in Charlevoix 11 years. During his residence here he was employed as helper to Jesse Smith in his draying business. Mr. Porter's wife died about ten years ago. Surviving is one son, Rupert Porter of Gaylord, Michigan.

Mr. Porter was well and favorably known in Charlevoix and he will be greatly missed from the activities of the city.

TROLLING PERMITTED AT ANY TIME

MACKINAW AND RAINBOW MAY BE TAKEN IN OPEN SEASON

Lake Charlevoix Exempt From Ruling Prohibiting Fishing
Until June 15th

In response to requests from a large number of local sportsmen, Ed. Deuel, district game warden, recently wrote the state conservation department and has received an opinion from the commission governing early-season fishing in Lake Charlevoix.

By special order this body of water, along with a number of others throughout the state, was exempted from a ruling closing inland lakes to fishing from April 1st to June 15th. The special order permitted pike fishing prior to June 15, and, inasmuch as pike are not found in Lake Charlevoix, local sportsmen were desirous of knowing whether the ruling prohibited trolling for mackinaw and rainbow trout, upon which the season would then be open.

Following we publish in part a letter received by Mr. Deuel from the conservation department covering the matter:

"Under the order exempting Lake Charlevoix from the provisions of the order issued on November 3rd, 1927, closing inland lakes to fishing from April 1st to June 15th, it would be lawful to take all kinds of fish on which there is an open season from the waters of this lake. It would, therefore, be lawful to troll for mackinaw trout, and also for rainbow (steelheads) as provided by Act 290, P. A. 1927."

"Thus Charlevoix county fishermen may start trolling in Lake Charlevoix for mackinaws as soon as the ice goes out. Rainbows may not be taken until after May 1st, as they are classed the same as brook trout and the season does not open until that time. However, inland lakes of the county will be closed to fishing until June 15th unless listed among those covered by special ruling opening them to pike fishing."

MR. AND MRS. ECKINGER GIVEN A REAL SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Eckinger were the victims of a very pleasant surprise Tuesday evening, when a party of 12 of their friends, known as the "Jolly Twelve Club," dropped in on them for the evening. The surprise was brought about after considerable maneuvering on the part of the guests, whose arrival upon the scene took the Eckingers completely unawares. The evening spent at cards, followed by a pot luck lunch, was a very enjoyable one.

WILL PLANT INCREASED ACREAGE

MICHIGAN FARMERS TO PRODUCE MORE FOOD STUFF

Estimated Increase of 35 per cent in Wheat and Increase in Corn and Barley

Michigan farmers are intending to have larger acreages of all important crops except hay for harvest this year according to the annual intentions to plant report issued by Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of the state department of agriculture and Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician for Michigan. The report also showed that in most instances farmers throughout the United States are planning crop acreages that will exceed last year.

There is a prospective increase in spring wheat acreage in Michigan of 35 per cent, however, the intentions for the north central group of states is for a spring wheat acreage only 98.3 per cent as large as last year.

The intentions report for the grain crops in Michigan shows increases amounting to three per cent for corn, two per cent for oats, and forty per cent for barley. In the United States an increase of 2.8 per cent is indicated for the corn acreage and 23.9 per cent for barley acreage, but for the country as a whole farmers intend to plant only 98.6 per cent as much acreage to oats. If the intentions of the farmers in the north central group of states are carried out, this area will have 1.7 per cent more corn, 28.2 per cent more barley, and slightly less oats acreage this year than last.

Potato growers throughout the country intend to increase the potato acreage again this year. The intentions for the United States are 111.9 per cent, for the north central group of states 113.5 per cent, and for Michigan 110 per cent. There was a 16 per cent increase in the Michigan acreage last year, but the production turned out shortest since 1916 because of the small yield per acre. If Michigan farmers actually plant this increased acreage and an average yield results, the output will be a 32 million bushel crop. If the indicated increase for the United States is carried out and an average yield results, a total production of 411 million bushels will be obtained which will be another crop above normal consumption requirements.

The intentions inquiry further indicates that Michigan farmers plan to increase their bean acreage about 15 per cent. The difference with an average yield will mean a total production about 35 per cent larger than the average for the past ten years or 45 per cent larger than last year's short crop.

Throughout the United States the intentions are to cut less hay this year than last with a decrease in Michigan amounting to two per cent.

NORWOOD TOWNSHIP WILL BE FEMINELY POLICED

From the editorial columns of the Grand Rapids Herald we glean the fact that several women living near Elmira walked six miles on snowshoes to attend a caucus at that town says the Mancelona Herald. Huh! That's nothing to brag of. Out in Norwood township four women braved the high drifts and impassible roads, attended township caucus, and now each of their names appear on the township ballot for the office of constable. They will probably be elected, too. Men of Norwood, watch your step.

PROFITABLE WAY TO GROW SPUDS

SHOULD NET FARMER AT LEAST
$1.00 PER BUSHEL

Missaukee Raises 530,000 Bushels,
Practically a Normal Crop,
Says H. L. Barnum

Down in Missaukee county they raise and market a lot of potatoes at a good profit. According to H. L. Barnum, their county agricultural agent, the county is naturally adapted to the production of potatoes. In the following article he tells of some of the "frills" in potato growing. We are reproducing this article for the benefit of potato growers in Charlevoix county.

The 1926 potato crop in Missaukee county was sold at a price which netted the growers $1.00 a bushel. For that year, which was practically a normal one with respect to yield, the total shipments from the county amounted to 816 cars, or 530,000 bushels. The income, therefore, was more than half a million dollars, which puts the potato crop in the same class with dairying as one of the two main sources of farm income.

Missaukee county is naturally adapted to the production of potatoes and live stock, the latter including dairy cows, beef cattle, sheep and poultry. To make the production of these commodities more profitable, farmers must study the "fine points" of each line, just as members of testing associations are doing with dairy cows. The potato grower ought not to depend on hard work alone to make a profitable crop. Some of the "frills" in potato growing such as treating seed, the use of balanced plant food, and spraying with Bordeaux mixture, may not be accepted by every grower; but seed growers, every grower; but seed growers, who are required to use up-to-date methods, have learned it is just such little things that make potatoes more profitable.

Two weeks ago I pointed out two improvements very much needed in the dairy business. They were, first, more home grown feed, and second, feeding balanced rations to the cows according to individual production. Other things might be mentioned; but better stable equipment, purchased sires, etc., will come when the income warrants further improvements. In this and later articles I shall point out some of the little things that influence potato profits.

A common definition of profit is "the difference between income and expense." Potato profits, therefore, depend on market price and the cost of producing a bushel of the crop. But the general price level for potatoes is determined by factors over which the individual growers have very little influence. The difference, or profit, must be increased then by reducing the cost of growing a bushel. That can be done as will be shown in the next paragraph, by producing big yields per acre. Regardless of any man's ideas about the danger of over production as a result of such teaching, it is a fact that no individual potato grower can long afford to produce small crops.

The cost of growing potatoes in Michigan was very carefully worked out in 1919 by government investigators. Grand Traverse and Montcalm, two representative potato growing counties, furnished cost figures from fifty farms each. These figures included everything that rightfully should be charged against a crop, such as labor, seed, seed treatments, fertilizers, spraying, use of machinery, rent on land, taxes, etc. It was not a year of high priced seed, and no commercial fertilizer was used in either county. Other charges were reasonable and would not be much different today. In this investigation the total cost per acre was found to be $84.34 in Montcalm county and $89.85 in Grand Traverse.

If these figures are reduced to $80.00 per acre and applied to Missaukee county conditions in 1927, how many growers made any profit from the potato crop? The average yield, as reported from the whole county was 76 bushels per acre. Figure out the cost per bushel and compare it with the selling price up to March 1, 1928. The average crop was grown at a loss. As this is being written, however, the price is high enough to enable the grower with the average yield to just break even. The average yield for the past ten years has been 107 bushels per acre. Using this yield, the cost of growing a bushel is 75 cents.

But the average yields are seldom profitable. The grower who cannot produce a yield from his farm above

POLAR BEARS DEFEATED AT MEET

LOSE TO TRAVERSE IN OPENING TOURNAMENT CONTEST

U. of M. All-Stars Here Thursday Evening With Harrigan and Gilbert

The Polar Bears, Charlevoix's independent basketball five, met defeat last Thursday evening in their opening battle against the Traverse City independents at the community independent tournament held in that city. The score was 44 to 30. Members of the local team claim the game was featured by ruggedness and was poorly refereed. Their remarks after returning here would indicate the officials in charge of the contest used discriminatory methods, favoring the Traverse City team. Not being present at the game, we are unable to take a side in either direction. The Traverse City Record-Eagle gives the following account of the contest:

Traverse 44, Charlevoix 30
With brilliance and ruggedness well mixed by both outfits, Traverse City's Indies struck their stride in the last half to smother Charlevoix Polar Bears, 44 to 30, in a whirlwind clash that got pretty rough in the final phases. The outcome was in doubt for the first two periods, with Charlevoix displaying a fast passing attack that appeared a sizeable menace. Coach Mac's locals had quite a time getting organized, and in addition, were missing easy chances. The aspect altered considerably in the final stanzas, however, when the "Indies" got the range, and broke through the Charlevoix defense repeatedly for coveted ducats. Assistant Coach Wallace was high performer with seventeen markers, while Coach MacDonald chalked up sixteen, largely through a deadly exhibition of long-distance gunnery. Davenport was Charlevoix's best scorer with eleven, and Todd, with eight, was next. Both outfits used substitutes freely, Charlevoix in Manager Poole's efforts to find an effective combination, Traverse to give some of the tired regulars a rest.

Thursday night the Polar Bears met the University of Michigan All-Stars at the high school gymnasium. This team is composed of Harrigan, 1928 captain; Gilbert, all-American football star; Nyland, Petrie and other stars.

MEN'S CLUB ENTERTAINS BASKETBALL PLAYERS

Members of the C. H. S. basketball team their coach and Principal North, were guests Monday evening of the Men's Club in the parlors of the M. E. church. Rev. B. G. Mattson was the principal speaker of the evening, and in his discourse brought forth many thoughts and suggestions that if lived up to, one would greatly profit from them. At a regular meeting next Monday night, Robert Bridge will show several reels of moving pictures, all local views taken in the past month or so, and Dr. Burns will address the meeting. While the attendance at the meetings is good, there is room for more.

WILLIAM H. POOLE DIED HERE FRIDAY

HAD MADE CHARLEVOIX HIS HOME NEARLY 50 YEARS

Identified With Early Lumbering Industry, He Was Well Known in This Region

William Henry Poole, Sr., age 84, a resident of Charlevoix for nearly 50 years, died at his home on Mason street Friday evening. He had been in poor health for many months.

Deceased was born in Worcheshire, England, December 3rd, 1844. In 1880 he came to America, residing in Eldersley, Canada, for about a year and a half before coming to Charlevoix, where he entered the employ of Upright & Emery. In 1891 he accepted a position with the Charlevoix Lumber Co., and remained with that firm until his appointment to the National Hardware Lumber Inspectors' association in 1906. About ten years later Mr. Poole retired and has since resided at his home in this city.

On August 3rd, 1883, he was united in marriage to Margaret Jane Hamilton at Charlevoix. To this union eight children were born, two of whom preceded him in death. Grace, age 14 months and Wallace, age 11 years. Besides the widow, deceased is survived by the following children: Mrs. William Stephens, Grand Rapids; George Hamilton, Mrs. Charles Martini, William Poole, Jr., and Cecil Poole, of Detroit; Mrs. Ula Wakeman of Reed City, Elmer and Frank of Charlevoix. There are also 16 grand-children and four great-grandchildren.

Mr. Poole was well and favorably known throughout Northern Michigan, having been identified with the early lumbering operations in this region. As a citizen he was highly esteemed by his fellow townsmen, never failing to lend a helping hand to the needy. In his home he was a true husband and loving father. For this exemplary life the children have given their affection and respect in return, and he goes hence with that affection and respect still lingering in their memory.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home and the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating, assisted by Rev. Herman Burns. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

PILGRIM CIRCLE PRESENTS A TREE TO CITY

Planted in Memorial Park At Foot of Antrim Street

Memorial Park has recently received the gift of a handsome Black Hill spruce tree some fifteen feet in height which was safely transported from the Charlevoix County Nursery last Saturday.

The planting of this tree came about as a result of the successful play given nearly a year ago by the Pilgrim Circle ladies of the Congregational church. This play, entitled "The Neighbors," written by Zona Gale, a playwright of considerable note is copyrighted, but the owners of the copyright, being public spirited and interested in tree conservation offered the ladies the option of planting a tree in their own community in lieu of payment of the copyright charge.

As a result of the efforts of the committee in charge, a tree was secured, generously donated by the Charlevoix County Nursery. This was dug and frozen early in the winter and on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, was placed in the hole prepared for it by the city. The weight of the tree and earth ball was approximately a ton and a half.

The tree stands opposite the foot of Antrim street and with increasing growth will no doubt be appropriate; the center of Christmas festivities with lights and decorations as each holiday season comes around.

LINING UP BUSINESS FOR SUMMER MONTHS

An item in last week's issue of the St. Ignace Enterprise said: "John Roemer of Charlevoix, a former resident of St. Ignace, has been in the city looking up conditions for docking gravel for the state paving to the Allondale junction. Mr. Roemer intends bidding on the contract and is securing all information thereto. He is the owner of a 250-foot steel box equipped with derrick and clam."

"What danger? It is snowed in, certainly everybody else will be snowed out!"

He sighed heavily, hesitated a moment, then, with the air of squaring one's self for a sudden plunge, he said earnestly, "Then you will hate me for my errand. I am seeking the owner of your hilltop leucog. I want to buy it."

"Too late, too late! It is mine. I have already bought it, and it is not for sale."

"Anything is for sale, at the right price," he argued. "I must have it. I have bought the old clubhouse down in the woods, and I want to corner this whole end of the peninsula for a nest of cottages. You see, I must have your hilltop to complete the circle."

"Never, never. You cannot have it. Not for sale."

"Oh, come, have a heart! I am willing that you should make a fair profit on me. But I must have it. You see it is really essential to me."

But it was essential to Gay also.

"Think what it means to my bank account," he pleaded.

But Gay thought only of what it meant to her heart.

"No, no," she said firmly. "I should be followed by bad luck the rest of my life, I tell you. If I sold my heart's desire. It would be accursed, it would be blood money."

"You are in love," he said shrewdly, and a shadow fell across his eyes. Gay laughed. She would offer no denial. The very admission was sweet to her.

He told Gay something of his plans for the exploitation of that part of the island. He cautioned her not to discuss his venture too freely among her friends. "For I shall have to buy some land yet, and much material, and if people think there is money being made, prices take wings."

Gay laughingly promised discretion. As he said good night, he took both her hands in his again, and said pleasantly, "After all, I feel a sort of happiness because you would not sell."

Since we are to be neighbors, we must be friends. I shall never feel that you are outside my circle, but a part of it. But if you see me or my workmen pottering about, measuring off yards or acres in the woods behind you, don't put a shot into us with that ugly of yours, will you?"

Gay said she would limit her target practice to the lobster buoys, and he went away at last, smiling back at her.

She did not see Rand until the next morning, when he appeared for coffee at eleven.

"Oh, why didn't you come last night?" she cried petulantly. "Rand Ingram was here. I want you to meet him. He is so nice."

Rand studied her closely. "I knew you were charming—I've known it all along. But his devotion—"

"It wasn't devotion, stupid. Guess what he wanted! Oh, Rand, he wanted to buy my dear little Lone Pine."

Rand gave a startled exclamation, sharply bitten off, and lighted his pipe with slow consideration. He said nothing.

"Yes, he has bought the Little Club house and the woods, and he wanted my hilltop to round off the circle. I laughed at him. Oh, Rand, he offered to give me exactly twice what I paid for it, spot cash. I laughed at him. Wouldn't the administrator like if she knew she could get today twice what she got last month?"

Rand regarded her reflectively. "That settles it," he said slowly. "Whatever that chap is up to, it is not over yet. It is not past, it is present."

Gay stared at him. "That chap is up to," she repeated indignantly.

"You don't think Ronald Ingram—"

"Don't be silly, Gay. Of course it is Ronald Ingram."

Rand had her go back over the story she had told, from the day of her arrival, and placed it all together bit by bit, in chronological order.

"All right, now," he said, when she had finished, "look at this. Some one watching, no doubt in a panic of terror, saw you discover that body in the cave, saw you run for help. Some one took that body away while you were gone, and hid it. Some one watched for your return, saw your curious work with a pencil and paper, had to know what you were up to. And found out—Some one tried to get the sketch from you, tried to beg it, tried to buy it. Some one came in here at night, and stole it. Some one wants to get you away from here, tried to frighten you away, and finally tried to buy you out. And that is no one but your gentlemanly Ingram, Gay, mark that!"

Gay was sorely shaken. The evidence was strong. That something crooked, something queer, had taken place on the good little island she granted willingly, eagerly, indeed, because the mere suspicion added a piquant spice of mystery to the natural charm of her surrounding.

The reappearance of Ronald Ingram, and his desire to buy the cottage, lent a sudden sinister aspect to the whole matter. Assuming that some lawless enterprise was afoot in the hardening woods, Rand quickly realized that the residence of Aunt Almira in the Lone Pine had constituted no menace to their security.

Aunt Almira went to bed promptly with the dusk. Her strolling was limited exclusively to the pier, the grocery store, the church, and the houses of her friends. She never ventured along the shore, nor put foot in the forest, hence there was nothing to fear from her presence in the Lone Pine. The presence of this active, venturesome, keen-eyed young woman in the vantage-point on the fringe of the wood, constituted a constant menace, and her discovery of the body in the cave was evidence of the seriousness of this menace, so that she was subjected to constant unrelaxing attention.

Nor had Rand any difficulty in constructing an explanation of the body that washed ashore in the cave. The rope at the cable showed that the body had been weighted to sink but the waiting of the waves, or the cutting of rocks, and severed the rope and released it. Right, Gay had always felt that body washed ashore, from sea. Rand on the other hand, was strongly inclined to believe that it had been thrown into the deep water of the cave from the rock at the farthest point of the peninsula that it had come, not from sea, but from land, from the island itself, that no order had been done, not in the presence of the wide ocean, but right there on the shore, within stone's throw from where they sat.

Rand knew this since of his birth and his venturesome youth like a book, knew the shore, knew the cave, and understood the movement of the tides and currents. He believed the man had been shot in the club, or clubhouse, perhaps carried out and thrown into the deep water. Perhaps this was before the break of day, and then, with the dawn, the quackeries were horrified to see the corpse washing up on the sand, to hear Gay's terrified shriek at its discovery.

So far, Gay lent willing credence, thrilling to every word.

"The 'Chink' saw you were here, reported to your friend Ingram, who came and tried to frighten, and then to buy you out. To get rid of you because things are going on they don't want you to discover. Why, see how plain it is! When Ingram was here the other night, the 'Chink' watched to assure no interruption, saw me coming, deliberately showed himself and led me into a chase to keep me from discovering Ingram."

Gay's loyalty wavered, but she steeled it by memory of the sympathetic voice, the friendly touch of the strong hands, the shadow in the gentle eyes.

"He looks so honest, Rand," she protested. "He has such soft, and eyes."

"Oh, so's a cow," said Rand rudely, for he was greatly disturbed.

But upon serious consideration, he was inclined to agree that she was in no particular danger as long as she maintained an air of utter innocence, seeming not only to see nothing, but to suspect nothing. Above all, he urged her to betray no curiosity, no interest in regard to things that went on about her, and with Ronald Ingram, if he came again, to continue her warm and friendly but uninquisitive interest.

Rand did not believe that the affair was a simple matter of bootlegging, as he had at first suspected. The favored method in bootlegging is a constant shifting of base, the effecting of surprise landings, first one place and then another. The acquisition of a permanent base for their illicit operations implied a deeper and more deeply enterprise, and with his usual impulsive venturesomeness, Rand had promptly decided to get to the bottom of it, to ferret out, alone and single-handed, this business of crime that had attached itself to the island.

Gay was eager to assist.

"I feel now more than ever," she said, "that I was called to be the avenger of that poor boy in the cave. He came to my very feet, pleading to be avenged, and I stupidly bungled the whole thing from beginning to end. But I shall not huckle it again, not with you to help me."

That day Rand put extra patented locks on all Gay's windows and doors, and connected an attachment to her electric wiring which he carried up into the highest branches of the tall pine at her door, where he placed a small, rose-colored light bulb arranged in a cage of wire. The cage would throw its light to the upper windows of his grandfather's house. This he connected with two switch buttons beside the cottage, one by her bed upstairs, and one in the window-seat in the living room where she usually sat in her chair. This light she was to turn on at the slightest suspicion of any unusual stirring about the house, and he, on the hillside beyond, would keep watch for it.

Gay professed herself frankly thrilled with these precautions for her protection. She said she had never loved Lone Pine so much, she said she could never hear to go away from the island for a minute now, for fear the commission of a crime would occur in her absence.

"Oh, to think of it," she cried ecstatically, "at my age! To think of living on so sordidly, so anxiously, so unexcitingly, for so many years! And then, when I am almost an old woman, and very sensible, to come to a good little lazy island like this, and stumble head-first into mystery, adventure and love. Oh, what luck!"

All day Rand worked about the house perfecting his arrangements to insure her safety as well as he could, and when he left at last, in the early evening, he called back to her gayly, in a loud voice:

"Good-by, Gay. See you in the morning! Eleven o'clock!"

Gay had expected him to come again in the evening, and would have called inquiry, invitation, after him, but he was gone.

When darkness had fallen she wished for him greatly. The very precautions they had taken tended to make her nervous, ill at ease, so that she started painfully at every real or fancied sound and every low complaint of the rheumatic trees in the woodland set her shivering.

When at last came a quick knock at the door, without Rand's assuring whistle, for the first time, her throat loosed naturally to the pistol in her hand, and she ran for it quickly, keeping it in nervous fingers.

"Who is there?" she asked nervously, as she crept to the door.

"It is I, Ronald Ingram. Nothing important. I will come another time if you are busy."

"No."

Mindful of Rand's instructions to be friendly, and her fears instantly assuaged by the pleasant voice, she bravely opened the door. "How nice of you, Mr. Ingram. I was lonely tonight."

His eyes went quickly to the pistol in her hand. "Something frightened you," he said keenly. "Has anything happened?"

"No." She laughed lightly as she slid the pistol back into the drawer. "Nothing has happened, but you have all warned me so much about the deadly danger I am in that first thing you know you will have me frightened." She laughed disingenuously.

In face of his abominable friendliness, his cowardly behavior, Gay felt her suspicions of him eddying away from her. A zig in the cave, yes; a band of murderers, criminals, yes; the watchful Chinaman, yes; but never Ronald Ingram with the affectionately friendly eyes and the frank voice.

EXTRA NUMBER OF LECTURE COURSE

WILL SHOW AT GYMNASIUM
SATURDAY EVENING

Reno, Noted Magician, Has a Bag-ful of Tricks to Please
His Audiences

For thirty-five years Edward Reno, who will appear here on an extranum-

ber of the Lyceum course Saturday evening, March 24th, at the high school gymnasium, has been a magician, and in that time he has traveled all over the world, including India, Syria and Egypt.

Reno is constantly inventing new things in magic and illusions, also in foreign lands he picked up many things not known even to professionals. Magic, like everything else, has progressed with rapid strides during the past few years. Never was there a better demand for up-to-date illusions and sleight of hand than now, but there is no room nowadays for anyone who does not keep strictly abreast of the profession.

Reno has the usual light paraphernalia, but performs his tricks while in ordinary evening dress, and so adroitly as to escape detection in every case. In this respect he is a wonder. He does things that seem absolutely impossible of execution without the aid of supernatural agency.

Not the least enjoyable feature of Reno's performance is the running fire of comment with which he enlivens everything he does. These fragmentary remarks are full of fun and wit, with dash after flash of good-tempered satire aimed at himself or his work. He is a man of fine personality and engaging stage presence, with a keen mentality and an artistic appreciation of the success he has achieved in his profession. In his performance he springs one surprise after another on his audience, keeping all in a state of breathless wonder and delight.

SANTA CLAUSE OF KALEVA DEAD AT MANISTEE HOME

Dr. William E. Coates, 57, "Santa Clause," of the village of Kaleva, near Manistee, died last week after a two weeks illness with pneumonia. For years Dr. Coates has invited all of the village's children to play around a Christmas tree at his home and take their choice of a great supply of gifts. Once an instructor at the physicians and surgeon's college, Chicago, Dr. Coates was prominent in his profession. He had practiced in Manistee county for 16 years and had held several public offices.

Considerations

Last summer one of our summer people said, "Oh, Mr. Young, don't you think the manager of the Charlevoix Hardware is so distinguished looking?" Say! If she could just see him now since the sidewalk hit him in the eye.

We have all heard the story about the Irishman who took in too much territory. Well, the whole state of Michigan was just too much for our boys when they went to Detroit. Wait until next year. We are losing only one man.

Speaking of Irish, I had a stranger at the Hotel Charlevoix at the St. Patrick Supper, ask me if I ever expected to see that amount of wonderful food together again. Sure thing! Next year.

I rented two more cottages since last week. One right on Park Avenue this time. Another one on the North Side.

First day of spring and the sun crossed the line with the wind in the south. Now for some nice weather.

First thing we know Henry Jacobs or Martin Block will have fresh strawberries in their windows.

Prospects for election seem to be "slipping" along. Out at Norwood there are four women running for constables. Now, that is funny thing I would like to know about.

Just because Ken Usher wrote a story about Norwood and some city editor published it a few days ago, they must think that there is an excuse to start something.

A few nights ago some bird called me up after I had gone to bed and wanted to know if I really wanted suggestions for a heading to this space of mine. Then he told me I should head it "BULLETIN" and draw a line through the last four letters. From his voice I am sure he always lets the other fellow drive part of the time himself.

The editor says that he cannot draw any lines. Come again.

SPRING THAW CAUSE OF MANY MISHAPS

Roads Badly Rutted and Water and Slush is Deep

Last week's sudden change in temperature to warmer resulted in long stretches of slush and water, making roads almost impassable. Local conditions were no exception. On main trunk lines, where snow removal had been followed up, motor and horse drawn vehicles were able to make some headway, but on side streets, traffic was almost at a standstill.

Down below Manitou on U. S. 131, a man by the name of John Hewitt, who lives at Manton and drives to his work in Cadillac, attempted to drive through three feet of water on this stretch. The depth of the water killed his motor, and he returned to Manton for help. During his absence the water rose so rapidly only the top of his car was visible on his return. Several men and a boat rescued his driver.

U. S. 31 near Bear Lake is reported impassable, the road in one place having sunk six feet. Autoists making the run between Charlevoix and Traverse City Tuesday and Wednesday found conditions bad, and several gave up their attempt to reach points south. Conditions at this writing are somewhat improved, owing to a drop of temperature, allowing the accumulated water to seep away.

Take advantage of the break in price of Certain-Teed Shingles and Roofing and do your roof repairing now. The low cost will surprise you. Louis S. Orłowski.—Adv. 12-11.

MICHIGAN'S "BIG BOY" PINE SAID TO BE DYING

"Big Boy," Michigan's giant of the forest north of Cadillac, has turned out to be a somewhat normal sized tree, one-third of which is already dead, Marcus Schaff, state forester, reported on his return after visiting the spot. Despite the report Gov. Fred W. Green said that he would pay a personal visit to the tree before giving up hope that something might be done to conserve the "monument." Considerable sentiment was aroused when it was learned that "Big Boy" was about to be cut down by lumber interests.

They're lugging it off. Come quick. White China and Red hordered White Granite. The prices are unusual. Charlevoix Hardware Co.—Adv. 12-11.

The Saving Ages of Man

WALLACE DUNBAR VINCENT

When Bill was ten his father said,
"I've opened an account
For you down at the bank, my boy—
It's not a large amount,
But if you'll add a bit each week
From your allowance, why,
With interest the total will Surprise you, by and by."

When Bill was twenty he had learned
So easily to save,
To put aside what he could spare,
Life's rocky road to pave,
That he could start in business
And borrow not a cent,
And draw on his Bank Account—
Those funds he might have spent!

When Bill was thirty he'd a home
All free and clear from debt,
A loving wife who helped him save,
A Junior Bill to pet;
And, though expenses did increase
With every added year,
Bill had the heart to earn enough—
A Bank Account kills fear!

When Bill was forty, to his son
Of ten I heard him say,
"I opened an account for you,
Down at the Bank today;

Just as your grandpa started me—
The surest way, I guess,
To miss a life of failure and
Be certain of success!"

When Bill was fifty, Junior Bill
Came to him with a grin
And said "Say, Dad, I own a shop—
I've put three thousand in!
No borrowing for me, you bet,
For that I've you to thank—
For every dollar that I owe,
I keep one in the Bank!"

When Bill was sixty, Junior Bill
Was teaching Bill the Third,
To drop bright pennies in his bank—
And recently I've heard
He has a Bank Book of his own,
And fills the left hand pages
With quarters, dimes and nickel saved
From sundry school boy wages.

Now Bill himself is seventy,
Though looking fifty-five,
For worry has not been his lot—
He's never had to strive,
To make both ends meet as we say,
And fight privation grim—
From youth he's kept a Bank Account
And now it's keeping him!

The rates quoted above are Station-to-Station night rates effective from 8:30 p. m. to 4:30 a. m.

A Station-to-Station call is one that is made to a certain telephone, rather than to some person in particular.

If you do not know the number of the distant telephone, give the operator the name and address and specify that you will talk with "anyone" who answers at the called telephone.

Day rates, 4:30 a. m. to 7 p. m., and evening rates, 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., are higher than night rates.

A Person-to-Person call, because more work is involved, costs more than a Station-to-Station call. The rate on a Person-to-Person call is the same at all hours.

AT THE MOVIES

Chandler's Red Hair Is Approved by Star

Hair dye for men threatened to set a new fashion in Hollywood when Clara Bow, Paramount star, insisted that her leading man should have hair harmonizing with her own Auburn tresses. Lane Chandler, however, stemmed the tide by offering his own flaming red head as a play mate for that of Miss Bow.

Miss Bow insists upon accuracy in her production and, in her latest Paramount picture, "Red Hair," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday, requests that her leading man be of the red-headed type. Although hundreds of Hollywood men offered to dye their hair if it meant an opportunity to play opposite Miss Bow, they were persuaded against this step as the dye could not take care of the temperment side of the requirement.

Movie Comedians Turn Warfare to Laughter

A city is steeped in crime and two underworld gangs engage in deadly warfare because one band has encroached upon the other's territory. Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton are on trail of the crooks!

That is the situation in "Partners in Crime," the Paramount melodramatic comedy which opens at the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday nights.

They have sailed the seas, in the inimitable Beery and Hatton. They have scaled the Alps, braved the terrors of the trenches, and made the world happier for the insurance writers but they have never before been as funny as they are as the nemesis of the underworld.

For the first time since they have been starred as team comedians Beery and Hatton are provided in "Partners in Crime" with a straight melodramatic story. A story teeming in thrills, abounding in humorous situations and with an interesting love theme woven through it.

FLOAT BONDS ON A NOTED RESORT

$35,000 Issue On Fisherman's Paradise Announced by Owner

Fisherman's Paradise, one of the best known resort hotels in Michigan, taken a step that only one of the largest summer hotels of the state could take. The hotel is floating a bond issue for $35,000.

H. D. Smith, who cleared the forest on the shore of Grass Lake near Bellaire to make room for Fisherman's Paradise two decades ago, began disposing of the bonds last week. Legal arrangements were completed through the law firm of Patchin and Duncan.

The bonds are in denominations of $500 to $1,000, and are payable from 1930 to 1936. The First National Bank of Traverse City is the trustee, and the bonds are being taken by the several Traverse City banks and the banks of East Jordan, Albion, Mancelona, Bellaire, and Kalkaska.
 The assessed valuation of Fisherman's Paradise is $80,000.

METHODIST CHURCH

John E. Lockyer, Minister

The worship service on Sunday at 10:30 will include sermon on "What Consecration Means to Me."
 A church school for religious education meets at noon. The lesson is on "Jesus Proclaiming the Kingdom." Epworthians at 6:00 p. m. will be studying "Seventy Times Seven." Then at 7 o'clock the pastor will preach on "The Nemesis of an Outraged Conscience" and it will be illustrated by 40 slides describing Coleridge's great poem "The Ancient Mariner."

Something special is planned for the Men's Club next week at 6:15. Come ye.
 Ladies Aid meets at Mrs. Cram's home on Tuesday at 2:30 and every lady of the church is asked to be present.

Tuesday at 7:00 the Epworthians "Making a Historical New Testament."
 Thursday at 7:30 the pastor leads the prayer service.

An Easter class is being formed and the pastor would like to know if you wish to be received into the church Easter Sunday.

Whenever you see a man walking along the streets of Charlevoix stopping at almost every house and walking to the door for a few words with the lady of the house you can bet your last penny that his business is not helping to build up Charlevoix.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Henry B. Wood, an unmarried man of Charlevoix, Michigan, unto Albert F. Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated May 11th, 1921, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, May 11th, 1921, in Liber 62 of mortgages on page 81, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at date of this notice the sum of $1,979.75, including the principal sum due with interest, together with an attorney fee of thirty dollars as provided for by the said mortgage, and no proceedings at law or equity having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, the taxes required by the statutes to be paid on said mortgage were duly paid therefore, notice is given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statutes made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon together with the costs and expenses of the foreclosure, including the attorney fee provided by the said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder thereof, at the east front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held,) on Saturday, the 5th day of May, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on that date.

The premises described in said mortgage, being the lands and premises situate in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: the south half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the west half (1/2) of the east half (1/2) of the southwest quarter (1/4) of section twenty-six (26) town thirty-four (34) north, range eight (8) west, including lots twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty (26-27-28-29 and 30) of Clifford's addition to the village, (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, Michigan and containing ten (10) acres, more or less. Also all of lots thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one and forty-two (37-38-39-40-41 and 42) of Eaton's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Dated February 2, 1928.

Albert Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, a co-partnership, Mortgagee.

Lisle Shanahan, Attorney for Mortgagee, Business address, 108 Clinton street, Charlevoix, Michigan. Adv. 6-112.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Michael O'Neill and wife Susan of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Nicholls, Rutters and company, a co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated the 15th day of February, 1901, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 15th day of February 1901, in Liber 23 of mortgages on page 377, and was assigned by Nicholls, Rutters and company, to Amos O'Neill on the 21st day of September 1926, which assignment was recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, on the 28th day of September 1926, in Liber 68 of mortgages on page 327, on which mortgage there is now claimed to be due the sum of one hundred thirty-three and fifty-eight one hundredths (133.58) dollars, including interest computed to the date thereof, also the sum of forty-six and sixty-four hundredths (46.64) dollars taxes and insurance paid by assignee, also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in such mortgage and the statute in such case made and of this order, it is hereby given that on Friday, the 30th day of March, A. D. 1928, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the circuit court for Charlevoix county is held, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage with seven per cent interest and all legal costs, together with the amount paid for taxes and insurance, and also an attorney fee of fifteen (15) dollars, the premises described in said mortgage as the following described premises, situated in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, viz: Lot number ninety-eight (98) of Upright and Huribut's addition to the village (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan. Amos O'Neill, Assignee of Mortgagee.

 Dated December 23rd, 1927.
 Rollie L. Lewis, attorney for assignee of mortgage. Business address: Charlevoix, Michigan.—Adv. 52-113.

The sixth grade are reviewing their arithmetic.

Spring is here again and we'll soon be playing ball.

The seventh grade are reviewing the study of "Rip Van Winkle."

Seven girls from Hilton school visited McGee's school Thursday.

Our basketball club are working hard to complete their articles soon.

We had no school last Thursday and Friday because our teacher was ill.

The sixth grade have very near finished their workbooks in geography.

Mrs. Hall is home feeling much better after her treatment at the hospital.

The fourth grade have finished the study of geography and are now studying hygiene.

Wilma Wells is driving to High school now. She has two passengers, Joseph and Lauretta Stutzman.

The seventh grade are coming along fine with their geography workbooks, and are reviewing their physiology.

The chart class are coming along fine in their new first readers. They have completed two other readers this year.

Mrs. Snider, Mrs. Stutzman, Mrs. Webster and Miss Ilo Webster and Mrs. John Wells had dinner with Mrs. N. Wells last Thursday.

We are glad the roads are open and the cars can go whizzing by again. Some men are shoveling to help Mr. Spring thaw the snow from the cement.

Sixteen of Elsie Rumisek's friends helped her celebrate her twelfth birthday at a St. Patrick's party Saturday evening. A good time was had by all and a delicious lunch was served with a birthday cake.

WALKER SCHOOL NOTES

(Too late for last week)

The sixth grade arithmetic class are doing some nice work in bills and accounts.

The third grade spellers are working diligently for head marks. Come and see our peppy class.

The third grade reading class is getting more interesting. The best reader scores a head mark.

Someone will shout with joy, "Snow plow." Then all will listen, "No, it is on the other road."

The fifth grade geography class are making maps to explain the growth and development of large cities.

Crows are shouting their spring greeting, which we welcome since we are marooned here in the snow banks with only an occasional delivery of mail.

The eighth grade review are doing fine work. Come and see some of it. Perhaps someone would like to use our key to the Revolutionary war.

Last week Thursday we entertained the patrons of our district. "Pot luck dinner"—just everything good to eat. After dinner we had a spelling contest. We spelled about 1000 words. Five people went down on the last word. Then we amused ourselves with an arithmetic contest and a general good time. Although the roads are full of snow, nearly the entire district were here. Everybody seemed to have a good time and they presented us with a purse of $4.40 for the benefit of our club and exhibit work, which we appreciate very much.

DIGEST OF FISH LAWS FOR SEASON

MANY CHANGES WILL BE NOTED SINCE LAST YEAR

Spear Is Back and Trout Anglers Must Procure License to Indulge in Sport

Since the last session of the legislature which took its hand at juggling the fishing laws of the state the conservation commission also has been busy and so many changes have been made that the average fisherman hardly knows where he is at.

This year for the first time male trout fishermen will be required to take out a rod license at a fee of $1. There has been some question as to the constitutionality of the act but as no one has contested it the department has gone ahead with plans to issue licenses. Minors and female fishermen need no licenses but all males over 21 must have their license if they expect to open the trout season May 1.

The state conservation commission is now having printed a booklet setting forth a digest of all game and fish laws. The booklets will be ready for distribution in about 10 days and will be sent to anyone for the asking. Inasmuch as the postage necessary for the distribution of these booklets comes out of the game protection fund of the department Director Hogarth suggests that applicants send with their application a two-cent stamp to furnish postage and thus save the game protection money for other purposes.

Following is a compilation of the fishing laws for the season. It is suggested you clip this digest for future reference, pasting it in the cover of your tackle box.

Creel Limits and Seasons

Trout and salmon (all kinds except Mackinaw or lake trout)—May 1 to September 1; seven inches; 15 in day; 25 in possession; with hook and line only.

Large and small mouth bass—June 16 to January 1 (in upper peninsula, July 1 to January 1); 10 inches; 5 in day; 10 in possession; with hook and line only.

Wall-eyed pike—May 1 to February 1; 10 inches; 10 in day; 10 in possession.

Grayling—Unlawful to take at any time.

Bluegills—June 16 to March 31; 6 inches; 25 in day; 25 in possession. Calico bass, rock bass and Crappies—June 16 to March 31; 7 inches; 25 of each in day; 25 in possession.

White bass—May be caught in any season; 7 inches; 25 in one day; 25 in possession.

Sunfish—May be caught in any season; 6 inches; 25 in day; 25 in possession.

Perch—May be caught in any season; 7 inches; 30 in day; 60 in possession.

Whitefish, ciscoes and carp—from October 1 to December 30 may be speared with permit. May be taken with hook and line without permit at any time.

Spring Spearing Is Restored

Suckers, mullet, reidsides and carp—Taken in any season; may be speared in designated non-trout streams of lower peninsula during March and April; also speared through the ice during January and February in inland lakes and streams designated as non-trout; may be dip-netted in any stream designated as non-trout during March and April; may be speared from March 1 to May 15 in designated non-trout streams in upper peninsula; may be dip-netted from March 1 to May 15 in streams of upper peninsula.

Grass pike—Taken during any season with hook and line; may be speared through the ice during January and February in non-trout lakes and streams.

All kinds of fish, except large and small-mouth bass, wall-eyed pike and brook, brown and rainbow trout may be speared through the ice in the inland lakes of the state and in streams designated as non-trout during January and February.

Frogs—June 1 to October 31; number and size unlimited; unlawful to spear with artificial light.

General provisions.

Hook and line—Defined by law to be a single line or single rod and line with hook or hooks attached, while held in the hand or under immediate control while being used for still fishing.

Motorboat Trolling Legal on Many Lakes

Casting and Trolling—Defined to mean a single line of single rod and line with hook or hooks attached with a natural or artificial bait not to exceed six inches in length and one or more hooks or gangs of hooks attached, to be used for casting or trolling for fish, and the method of capturing fish shall be by means of fish taking bait or hook in mouth; unlawful to troll from motorboat on inland lakes of state excepting lakes directly connected with great lakes, including Elk and Torch in counties of Antrim and Grand Traverse; Charlevoix county; Round lakes, Charlevoix county; Black lake, Ottawa county; Portage lake, Manistee county; White and Muskegon lakes, Muskegon county; Glen lake, Leelanau lake, Leelanau county; Lake St. Clair; Higgins lake, and Houghton lake, Rosecount county; Crystal lake, Benzie county; Burt lake and Mullet lake, Cheboygan county; Grand lake, Presque Isle county; Hubbard lake, Alcona county; Lake Gogebie, Ontonagon and Gogebie counties; Indian lake, Schoolcraft county; Lac Vieux Desert, Gogebie county;

PARENT-TEACHERS ENJOY FINE TALK

JUDGE PARM GILBERT SPEAKS AT ASSOCIATION MEETING

On April 13th, Professor Edmundson of University of Michigan Will be Speaker of Evening

A crowd of over three hundred people gathered on the evening of the 21st in the new gymnasium to attend the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers association. It was perhaps the largest crowd that has yet turned out at any of their meetings.

Special music, rendered by the quintet from the Men's Club drew round upon round of applause. The quintet was composed of Messrs. Wilkinson, Kirby, Black, North and Lockyer. A mandolin and guitar duet by Mr. and Mrs. Harker Kirby, was followed with a special song number by Mr. Kirby, "When I Got Mine," and "A Hot Time in the Old Town Friday night."

The feature number on the program, and the one which brought many people out, was a talk by Judge P. M. Gilbert of the circuit court. Judge Gilbert talked straight from the shoulder. He drew from his experience as circuit judge and told of some things that had happened in his experiences and how they might have been prevented by intelligent and concerted action on the part of parents and teachers. The sale of vicious literature, and cigarette smoking by teachers or pupils came in for special condemnation.

The judge spoke in earnest and that he carried his audience with him was shown by the applause he received. A ringing vote of thanks was tendered him by the association.

The next meeting of the P. T. A. has been postponed for two days in order that we may have with us Professor Edmundson of the University of Michigan. It will be held April 13, at the gymnasium. No one can afford to miss this talk. There will be special music. Everyone, whether members of the P. T. A. or not, are invited. There will be no admission charge.

COMMUNITY TEACHER CLASSES POSTPONED

New Date is Monday, April Ninth, at Seven O'Clock P. M.

The final meeting of the season for the Community Teacher Training classes will be held at the First Congregational church on Monday, April 9th, at seven p. m., instead of next Monday as originally planned.

Members who can complete the outlining of either or both courses, before the date named may leave the notebooks with Miss Black at the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. office and the instructors will mark them, if possible, before the final meeting.

Those who have performed the work satisfactorily and have not missed more than two meetings are entitled to credits, without examination. Others may arrange with the instructors for examination.

WHY NOT PUSH CONSERVATION?

CHARLEVOIX MUST MAINTAIN HER BEAUTY AND ORDER

City's Supremacy Among Resort Communities Depends On Civic Pride, Urges Club Committee

The following communication, over the signature of the conservation committee of the Shakespeare Club of Charlevoix, is the first one of a series of short talks on civic matters that will appear in the Courier from time to time. As expressions of the carefully considered opinion of a body that has the best interests of the community at heart and excellent facilities at hand for gathering valuable data concerning various phases of civic betterment, this, and the letters to follow, deserve close attention on the part of our readers.

"Our winter sports season is past for another year and the sport of driving in the ruts is nearly over. As the season upon which our livelihood depends is fast approaching, the question arises as to how to make the most of it. What can each of us, in our own way, do that will be of material benefit to Charlevoix, the Beautiful, in the coming resort season?

What would be the local result if every citizen of Charlevoix could have the spirit now being exhibited by the state conservation commission? For the first time in the state's history there is a logical, definite program looking ahead to conservation in a large way. Where its paths will lead cannot be told. With William H. Loutit as executive chairman and George Hogarth as director, our forests, streams, lakes, soils, minerals, fish and game are to receive expert attention. They are to be so preserved and improved that we can truthfully say that a greater Michigan is coming which will be the very best state in the Union. There has come into being an organization known as Greater Michigan, Inc. One of its purposes, which will be of direct benefit to Charlevoix, is to make Michigan as a state a greater "national playground." Each of these things in turn will help to bring more summer visitors to this northern part of the state in which we are particularly interested. With these things Charlevoix must fall in line and make herself what she has always been, one of the outstanding figures.

Action Necessary
Charlevoix cannot become or remain a leader by idle talk. To be

PLAN BEING MADE FOR JERSEY SHOW

GRAND TRAVERSE COUNTY MAY SPONSOR AFFAIR

American Jersey Cattle Club Representative Addressed Meeting at Ellsworth

If the breeders of Antrim and Charlevoix counties and the Reed City and Gaylord districts are willing, Traverse City will have a North-western Michigan Jersey show sometime next summer. It was talked over at a meeting of the Grand Traverse Jersey Breeders association at Hotel Traverse last Monday afternoon, and possible plans were outlined by H. E. Dennison, field representative of the American Jersey Cattle club.

Last Tuesday Mr. Dennison addressed the Antrim-Charlevoix Jersey Breeders association at Ellsworth.

On the same day Mr. Dennison talked to the Jersey breeders of Oscoda county and vicinity at Reed City. Wednesday he addressed a similar meeting at Gaylord, in Oostego county, and Thursday he talked to the Antrim-Charlevoix Jersey Breeders association at Ellsworth. The Grand Traverse association serves Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Benzie and Westford counties.

Mr. Dennison, who is the "official" Jersey cattle promoter for Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, advises that a successful district show—in Jersey parlance, parish show—can be held by the breeders of this section this summer. Although associations have not been organized at Reed City and Gaylord, he expects they will be organized at the meetings this week. Each of the four groups should then hold its own show or contest to pick winners for a district show. He suggested that Traverse City seems the logical location for the district show.

Seven parish shows are being planned in Ohio and five in Indiana this year, he said. Four, including the Northwestern Michigan show, are in prospect in Michigan. At the Western Michigan fair grounds at Grand Rapids last September was held the first district show in Michigan, when eight counties were represented by 114 head of Jerseys. They were Kent, Ionia, Montcalm, Macostota, Oceana, Newaygo, Allegan, and Kalamazoo counties. This year Ottawa, Eaton and Muskegon counties, the remainder of the Grand Rapids district, will also complete, Mr. Dennison said.

In the Jersey shows all premiums are for the same amount, the winner of fourth place, for instance, receiving as much money as the winner of first place. If tentative plans for the Northwestern Michigan show are carried out probably the animals winning first and second in the county contests will come to the district affair.

Jersey breeding is going through a period of extreme popularity, Mr. Dennison told the association. He said that in the last two months two carloads of Jersey bulls have been shipped to Arkansas for breeding purposes.

MEN'S CLUB ENJOYED EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Rev. Herman Burns Gave Talk and Local Movies Were Shown

Attendance at the Men's Club meeting at the Methodist church Monday evening was somewhat small on account of the fierce storm, although those who did venture out to attend the gathering were well rewarded for their efforts by the excellent program presented.

Harker Kirby, president of the Club, called on Rev. Herman Burns, who opened the program with an excellent talk on the present-day status of national prohibition. Dr. Burns severely scored not only the boot-legger, but also the person who buys from him and thereby gives him reason for existence.

The moving picture show which followed Rev. Burns' talk was greatly appreciated. Local "shots," taken by Earl A. Young and Robert Bridge were thrown on a temporary screen by Drew Young, who operated the portable outfit. Winter sports and winter scenes predominated. Music by the Club orchestra added to the evening's enjoyment. The final meeting of the Men's Club will be held next Monday night at the regular hour.

FRESHMAN GIRLS CONQUER SOPHS

SENIOR BOYS DEFEAT "FROSH" OPPONENTS AT BASKETBALL

Tuesday Evening Sees Commencement of Annual Interclass Tournament at C. H. S.

The first lap of the Charlevoix high school interclass basketball tournament passed into history, on Tuesday evening, with the freshmen girls victors over the sophs by a score of 20 to 13 and the senior boys triumphing in a chalk-up of 17 points to their "frosch" opponents' 5. Both games were interestingly fast and snappy and the record crowd which witnessed them more than usually enthusiastic.

At the end of the first half, the sophomore girls lead their conquerors by one point, the score standing 12 to 11 in their favor. This, however, was an advantage speedily lost in the last half when the haughty second year damsels were forced to yield before the impetuous attacks of their peppier though less sophisticated sisters. Claire Kelderhouse, with 10 points to her credit, starred for the Sophs, while Mary Simmons, with 8 points; Mary Lou Parker, with 6 and Angie Scott with 4 were the stellar lights for the "frosches."

Good Material

Those most deserving of the spotlight among the boys were Ted Brown, a senior and Robert McCall and Joe Stutzman of the freshman class. The latter men of the year were not allowed to play on the class team, as they have already had their innings and must give way to the less favored fellows. Coach Buchen has discovered some excellent material among the freshmen for future "varsity" teams.

Tonight, the senior girls will play the juniors and the sophomore boys will play the juniors. Thursday evening, the winners of Wednesday and Tuesday night's games will play off the finals, for which a nominal admission fee will be charged the public—proceeds going to the girls' basketball fund for the purchase of necessary equipment.

WILL TAKE RAINBOW SPAWN THIS SPRING

Plan to Set Trap in Boyne River in Near Future

Plans are being made again this year by Supt. H. D. Dean of the government fish hatchery here, to take spawn from rainbow trout in Boyne river and possibly from other rivers in the county.

A large trap is being constructed to catch the big fellows as they work up the river to their spawning beds. The work of obtaining the spawn and fertilizing the eggs will be carried on at the river, after which the spawn will be brought to the local hatchery for hatching. If the plan works successfully, Charlevoix county will be assured a large planting of rainbow fry. Members of the county conservation force are cooperating with Mr. Dean.

ESSAY CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED

HIGHWAY EDUCATION BOARD OFFERS $6,500 IN PRIZES

Street and Highway Safety Topic for Essays—Pupils and Teachers Eligible

Offering $6,500 in prizes for the best essays and lessons on street and highway safety, the Highway Education Board is announcing to the schools the annual safety contest open to elementary pupils and elementary school teachers of the nation. The competition is conducted each year with the active cooperation of the school authorities.

Based on past experience, officials of the board say they expect to receive essays, not only from each state in the Union and virtually every city of size, but from the territories and outlying possessions as well, such as Alaska, the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone.

The $6,500 in prizes is given by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and this year includes 442 state prizes for elementary school pupils, three national prizes for teachers, the latter totalling $1,000 in cash. In addition, the pupil and the teacher whose essay and lesson respectively are chosen as the best in the nation are given a trip to Washington with all expenses paid, no matter from what section of the country they may come.

This year, according to the rules, pupils are to write essays of 500 words in length on the subject "Why We Have and Practice Traffic Rules." Teachers are given the subject "Objectives and Methods of Education in Street and Highway Safety," on which they are asked to prepare practical lessons for use, not alone in their own class rooms, but by other teachers in the class rooms of the nation as well. Pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades may compete, while all teachers in the eighth and lower grades are eligible participants.

In the past six years it is estimated that more than 2,500,000 elementary school pupils and perhaps half a million teachers have written essays and lessons on the various subjects assigned in connection with these contests, which have proved to be not only the most substantial national competitions open to schools, but among the most popular as well. An average in excess of 400,000 pupils write essays each year, it is said, while approximately from 60,000 to 80,000 teachers write and teach safety lessons to their pupils.

The amount of $6,500 in prizes is divided into three groups, of which more than half goes to pupils as state prizes. Altogether, 442 cash prizes and the same number of gold, silver and bronze medals are offered pupils who find their names on this safety honor roll of the nation.

Each state and territory is entitled to one first prize and one second prize. The first prize is a gold medal and a check for fifteen dollars; the second award is a silver medal and a check for ten dollars. The number of prizes, bronze medals and checks for five dollars, varies in proportion to the elementary school enrollment. New York with its dense population being entitled to twenty-five, Indiana to eleven, Florida to four and Nevada to one.

prizes are distributed through the State Department of Education.

Finally, the essays which are chosen as best from the states are entered in competition with each other. The best of these papers earns for the writer a gold watch and a trip to Washington with all expenses paid, while the second and third national awards are handsome gold watches of suitable design.

Teachers are not given state prizes, but the three best lessons chosen as best of all those written throughout the nation earn for their writers checks in the amount of $500, $300 and $200 respectively, and the teacher whose lesson is ranked first is also invited to come to Washington as the Board's guest.

The third division of the prize money is set aside for the travel expenses and entertainment of the pupil and teacher whose essay and lesson earn national honors.

JUST KIDS—AND HE COULD PROVE IT.

"I feel like the landing of the pit grins, here rock on every hand. It's really a hard undertaking, too big for me. I am afraid, for I haven't much money. What does your Cavalier chap do in the winter? There seems to be nothing going on, shops closed, hotels closed, theaters locked up—"

"Yes, everything is dead, and the Cavalier, being addicted to meditation, is glad of it. He rests. He hibernates."

"I'm sorry he chose the Lone Pine for his hibernating this afternoon. He cheated me out of a pleasant hour. Does he think best in the top of your pine tree? I saw him perching there as if he were quite at home."

Gay laughed merrily. "No, indeed. He was putting up an aerial. He is building me a radio. You are very—sweet. You will not forget me, will you?"

"Half an hour later Rand came, and without waiting for a word from Gay, he launched at once into a long and fervid defense of Ronald Ingram."

"You may be right about some things but on Ronald Ingram you are totally wrong. He's really a nice fellow, and you will like him. Perhaps he'll let you be Chief High Priest of his Chinese pagoda."

Rand laughed at her.

The next day he went to the city to look up the records of real-estate transfers. He found that the entire property of the Little club had been bought outright, for cash, by Ronald Ingram of New York city, and that all publication of the transfer had been withheld from the press at his request, presumably for business reasons. But the date of this purchase was not within the past month, as he had explicitly stated to Gay, but nearly two years earlier, since which time the place had not been offered either for sale or rental, and all taxes had been properly paid.

unspokenness, his honest admission of his financial limitations, how very petty and narrow and mean appeared the cold suspicious nature of New England.

He said he was obliged to return to Portland on the early boat, and Gay went with him to the door. His voice was anxious again.

"You are very game, I know, but do, please, be careful. Keep yourself locked in and everybody else locked out, won't you?"

The gentleness of his solitude touched Gay. "I will be careful," she said. "I wish you were staying all winter. You are such a pleasant interlude."

"Interlude between Cavaliers," he said regretfully. "Still it is something to see you, to touch your hand. I am grateful for that. You are very—sweet. You will not forget me, will you?"

Half an hour later Rand came, and without waiting for a word from Gay, he launched at once into a long and fervid defense of Ronald Ingram.

"You may be right about some things but on Ronald Ingram you are totally wrong. He's really a nice fellow, and you will like him. Perhaps he'll let you be Chief High Priest of his Chinese pagoda."

He laughed at her.

CHAPTER VIII

Rand kept a famous watch over the Little club, and over the bit of forest land that served so effectively to conceal it from the eyes of every day with his gun. He tramped the woods and shore, coming often upon the old names, as if by magic, some of them trying the doors tentatively, as did all casual strangers who passed that way. But in spite of his coming and balance and the lazy aimlessness of his wanderings, he was always sharply alert for signs of life.

With powerful field-glasses he examined the cove from a distance, and watched every day for a cloud of smoke to rise the blue above the woods. But all of his efforts were unavailing.

After the first few tingling, nerve-racked days, Gay's excitement flagged, her interest waned and all of her suspicions rested.

"Oh, it's just a bunch of run-runners. It's nobody at all," she assured him, half-jokingly of his immersion in the mystery. "Pay attention to me. It's none of our business. Besides, maybe he's right, after all—let's let him go. Perhaps the Chink is just no right from Boston."

But Rand would not be drawn from the pursuit. The mass of evidence was too convincing. And now that his suspicions were fully aroused, he was determined to know before he was too late. He had been before the club was adapted for secret criminal exploitation, and was the island itself for that matter, securely bedded in sandily as it seemed.

The occupation of the summer colony continued but for a scant three months of the year, and with its going the entire northern peninsula was deserted. Except for the Lone Pine on the hilltop and the Apple Tree in the orchard below, there was no residence within a mile of the cove, which was admirably protected, shut in snugly by high cliffs to east and west, while directly before it lay the little rock-girt dome of Punkin knob. While the cove offered a perfect landing for small boats, it lay to the west of the course taken by ships going in and out of Portland harbor.

Examining those locked doors and windows afresh, with his suspicions aroused, Rand saw clearly that it was now far more securely shut in than it had been in former years of its desolation. Every crack and seam of the frames that covered windows and doors had been sealed from within. It was locked from chimney to solid rock foundation, as tight as a drum.

Often, in wandering about, both in the woods and near the club, Rand had a feeling that he was watched, but all his efforts to discover the secret source of this were unavailing. Gay admitted that she, too, felt watched sometimes. She said it was the troubled spirit of the body that had come to her in the cove.

And then, after three weeks of keeping a watch so strict that he would have sworn that nothing untoward could possibly have occurred in the island without his knowledge, it was not, after all, the result of his assiduous guard that brought result, but the idle curiosity of the Females Wallace, the thing that Rand particularly disliked and took pleasure in doing.

"Rand," began Miss Lida timidly, as they sat at supper, "you don't know who is moving off the island do you?"

"No," he said briefly. "Is anybody?"

"Well, a big furniture van came by this afternoon. It went up toward the point. I walked up to the end of the lane, but it was out of sight, and I don't know if it went down the back shore or up to Colony corner. But it didn't come down."

Then for the first time Rand turned around with some interest. "It didn't come down," he repeated. "It must have come down. There's nobody on the Back Shore, nor up in the Colony either. It must have gone back to town on the last ferry."

"No, it didn't. Mary Malcolm was watching for it, to ask the driver."

"If I hear anything about it, I'll let you know," Rand said, with unusual kindness.

Quickly he excused himself from the table and went out. At the end of the lane he paused to consider. The Back Shore was a long open road, subject to traffic. If a strange motor van went that way, it had left some business there. But the Colony corner, although nearly half a mile from the Little club, which stood on the other end of the forest, was separated from it only by thick and impenetrable forest. It was not the nearest point from the club to the motor road, but it was by all odds the most desirable for one who desired secrecy.

Anyone, then, who wished to remove something from the Little club without attracting undue attention, would most certainly run a car to the end of the road at Colony corner, for the road ended there, and carry a secret burden through the dark and deserted woods to that point.

With this in mind, Rand turned up to the Colony corner on a dead run. Like every other islander, he carried in his pocket a small electric flash, but like no other islander, he carried also a revolver on his hip.

As he neared the end of the road where it fell abruptly away to a steep decline of rocks, he skirted wider into the woods behind the Shingle shack, and drew up slowly to the fringe of the woods. It was very dark, but distinctly he could make out a huge bulky shadow against the trees that outlined the end of the road. It was the motor van, beyond all shadow of doubt. There was no light attached, no sound from within, no air of life. Rand held his breath to listen, but it was silent as a tomb. Suspecting the presence of a guard, he dared not venture on examination, but as he knew the van could not possibly get off the island until the ferry at six twenty-five in the morning, he felt he had plenty of time.

He waited, then, he waited, and he waited, until the van was at the rear of the cottage, with which he was familiar, and let himself into a basement window and up through the cellar stairs to the front room. There with blankets from an adjoining bedroom, and pillows from the couch, he made himself comfortable on the floor beside the window—too comfortable, for he fell sound asleep.

Hours later he was awakened by the sudden sound of a motor, and cursing his negligence he sprang up. It was not yet full daylight, but the pale gray mist that creeps between day and night, holding a hand of each, lay over the island.

In the driver's seat of the van a man huddled in a great coat, his cap drawn low, his hands encased in slushy gloves. The motor was cold, and he was obliged to press the starter again and again.

When the engine ran smoothly at last, the driver backed it around, carefully, for the road was narrow and the rocky cliff rugged and precipitous, with trees jutting close. As it turned Rand saw the license plates, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, in conformity with the law which requires alternate vehicles to

Important Announcement to every owner of a Model T Ford

ON MAY 25, 1927, when Henry Ford first announced his plans for making a new car, he announced also that he would continue to make parts for the Model T-Ford. He said:

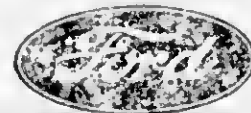

"The Model T Ford car was a pioneer. It blazed the way for the motor industry and started the movement for good roads everywhere. It broke down the barriers of distance in rural sections, brought people in these sections closer together, and placed education within the reach of everyone. We are still proud of the Model T Ford. If we were not, we would not have continued to make it so long."

For twenty years, the Model T Ford led the automobile industry and it still serves more people than any other automobile. Over one-third of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords—an indication of the sturdy worth of the car and its value to people in all walks of life the world over.

The Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts for these cars "until the last Model T is off the road." That is a part of Ford service. That is what Henry Ford meant when he said: "We believe that when a man buys one of our cars we should keep it running for him as long as we can and at the lowest up-keep cost."

Because of this policy a considerable part of the Ford manufacturing plants is given over to the making of parts for the Model T Ford. These replacement parts are made of the same material and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Make it a point, therefore, to see the nearest Ford dealer and have him look over your Model T Ford. You may find that a very small expenditure will enable you to get thousands of miles of additional service, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

DISTRICT G. O. P. MEET AT PETOSKEY

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE PICK-ED MEETING PLACE SATURDAY

Date Fixed at April 23 With Place
At Elk's Temple—Galster is Candidate for Delegate

The eleventh district Republican convention will be held in Petoskey on Monday, April 23rd at 9:00 a. m. at the Elk's Temple, the meeting at Cheboygan last Saturday of the district committee fixing the time and place.

The invitation to the 80 delegates that will compose the convention, was extended to the district committee by Emmet's delegate John L. A. Galster, and was accepted by an unanimous vote.

Delegates to the sixteen counties composing the 11th district are apportioned as follows:

Alger 4; Alpena 7; Antrim 4; Charlevoix 5; Cheboygan 8; Chippewa 8; Delta 7; Emmet 7; Kalkaska 2; Lapeer 2; Mackinac 5; Menominee 9; Montmorency 1; Oostego 2; Presque Isle 3; Schoolcraft 6.

Two delegates and two alternates to the Republican national convention will be named at the district convention, with indications pointing to John L. A. Galster as one of the delegates.

Others who made the trip to Cheboygan and assisted in landing the convention for Petoskey were John A. Lake, Charles J. Gray, C. G. Sanders, Thomas Travis and D. H. Hinkley of Petoskey and E. J. Hanna and George Newark of Harbor Springs.—Petoskey Evening News.

STATE CAR FERRIES TO START APRIL 2

Two Old Boats Are Ready for Biggest Season's Run

Albert Murray, shipkeeper of the state ferries Mackinaw City and St. Ignace, now laying in winter quarters in Cheboygan harbor, reports to the Cheboygan Tribune that the crews of both steamers have received orders to go aboard April 2 and commence fitting out for their summer's run between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. Both craft when they laid up last fall were put in excellent shape in order to be ready for service in a few days notice. No word has yet been received from Capt. May, commander of the line, but it is supposed that he will bring up the new steamer for the route now under construction at the River Rouge shipyards near Detroit.

DIES AT ST. JAMES ON BEAVER ISLAND

Mrs. A. Keller Passes Away After Several Weeks' Illness

News comes from Cross Village of the death at St. James, Beaver Island, of Mrs. Arthur Keller who, before her marriage was Miss Sadie Owens. The deceased was a daughter of James Owen of Cross Village and had spent some time on Beaver Island where her mother resided and where her husband was employed. Her death followed an illness of several weeks.

The remains were brought to Cross Village via the ice route over Lake Michigan, a trip of several hours by horse and sleigh. Funeral services were held from the St. Francis church and burial was at Cross Village.

The Saving Ages of Man

WALLACE DUNBAR VINCENT

When Bill was ten his father said,
"I've opened an account
For you down at the bank, my boy—
It's not a large amount,
But if you'll add a bit each week
From your allowance, why,
With interest the total will
Surprise you, by and by."

When Bill was twenty he had learned
So easily to save,
To put aside what he could spare,
Life's rocky road to pave,
That he could start in business
And borrow not a cent,
—And draw on his Bank Account—
Those funds he might have spent!

When Bill was thirty he'd a home
All free and clear from debt,
A loving wife who helped him save,
A Junior Bill to pet;
And, though expenses did increase
With every added year,
Bill had the heart to earn enough—
A Bank Account kills fear!

When Bill was forty, to his son
Of ten I heard him say,
"I opened an account for you,
Down at the Bank today;

Just as your grandpa started me—
The surest way, I guess,
To miss a life of failure and
Be certain of success!"

When Bill was fifty, Junior Bill
Came to him with a grin
And said "Say, Dad, I own a shop—
I've put three thousand in!
No borrowing for me, you bet,
For that I've you to thank—
For every dollar that I owe,
I keep one in the Bank!"

When Bill was sixty, Junior Bill
Was teaching Bill the Third,
To drop bright pennies in his bank—
And recently I've heard
He has a Bank Book of his own,
And fills the left hand pages
With quarters, dimes and nickel saved
From sundry school boy wages.

Now Bill himself is seventy,
Though looking fifty-five,
For worry has not been his lot—
He's never had to strive,
To make both ends meet as we say,
And fight privation grim—
From youth he's kept a Bank Account
And now it's keeping him!

ATTRACTIONS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Saturday and Sunday March 31-April 1

Lon Chaney in "London After Midnight," with Conrad Nagel, Henry B. Walthall and Marceline Day. Try and solve this exciting mystery! Who killed Roger Balfour? For five years the mystery baffled the keenest of master man-hunters and then Burke, of Scotland Yard—detective, hypnotist, physiologist—tackled it on a plan of his own. Exciting? You won't be able to sit still! Never such a part for Chaney! Never such a breathless drama! You'll simply love it.

EXTRA—Educational Comedy, "A Half Pint Hero."

Wednesday and Thursday, April 4-5

Esther Ralston in "Something Always Happens." O-OH! A wild and woolly mystery! Thrilling, chilling, baffling, amusing. The thrills you've been looking for; the funniest farce you ever saw, with a laugh in every thrill and a thrill in every laugh. Through the haunted house of hilarity with a laugh in every step—and a superb cast to carry you.

Haunted House Is Created for Story
One of the most unusual stage settings ever constructed in the Paramount studios in Hollywood was built for Esther Blalock's latest starring vehicle, "Something Always Happens," which is to be on the screen at the Palace Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, April 4 and 5.

The set comprises of a five room house, a house that is haunted with moving chairs, ghostly figures, mysterious shadows and everything else that goes to make up a thriller.

The story concerns a girl who seeks excitement, so plenty of it is arranged for her. She is thrown in a den of hideous ghosts, and is forced into a number of thrilling, chilling and baffling situations, all of them amusing to the utmost.

Lon Chaney in Mystery Drama
What kind of music is best calculated to make ghosts walk abroad? This is the odd little problem that Sam and Jack Feinberg, musicians on the set during Lon Chaney's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer mystery vehicle, "London After Midnight," coming Saturday and Sunday, March 31 and April 1, to the Palace Theatre, had to solve during the production.

Practically every sequence had to do with ghosts and strange vampires or "un-dead"—so strange creepy melodies had to be selected for inspirational music in the supernatural episodes.

The new picture is an uncanny mystery drama laid in a haunted manor house in England, with Chaney in the role of a Scotland Yard detective who invades the precincts of hypnotism in a scientific way to solve a strange mystery cloaked behind supernatural surroundings.

Tod Browning, who detected Chaney in "The Unholy Three," "The Unknown" and other vivid mysteries, directed the new picture from his own original story, scenarized by Waldemar Young. The cast includes Marceline Day, Henry B. Walthall, Conrad Nagel, Polly Moran, Claude King, Andy - McClellan, Percy Williams, Edna Tichenor and others of note.

hear the license of the car, and Rand had time to look at the New Hampshire number. The car was finally lost to him.

Rand looked at his watch. It was a quarter of six. The first ferry went at six twenty-five.

"Well, I'm going for a getaway," he thought, approvingly. "No time for Mary, Malcolm to ask them any questions."

The guard stepped briskly down from the rocks and threw open the big doors in the rear of the van. A sudden jerk of his head toward the wood was evidently a signal, for on the instant appeared a fine of men, small, stooped and shuffling, who came in a sort of loping run down the narrow path from the woods, single file, their feet making no sound at all, either on the rocks or among the dry dead needles of the pines.

The guard at the back of the car gave each a hand in turn, and swung them up, deftly, into the van, one after another.

And as they turned about, facing him, to make the little spring into the car, Rand saw their faces. They were Chinese, every one, twenty-five of them by count. The guard hastily closed the door, snapping a lock upon it, and sprang up beside the driver, and almost before he was in his seat the car was rolling swiftly away down the cinder road.

For one moment Rand was irresolute. He could telephone to the police on the mainland, and a detail of them would meet the ferry at the pier and take the truck with its foreign freight into custody. But on afterthought, it seemed that the capture of these twenty-five little old Chinese men meant nothing. It was the rule that counted, the hand that had grouped itself together to mock at the law. Making his decision quickly, he hurriedly got out of the cottage and ran through the woods toward the Little club.

Hastily selecting the trail in the rocks where the descent was least difficult, a trail held in his memory from boyhood adventures years before, Rand dropped swiftly down, from crag to crag, until he stood in the cave. The one great door beneath the piazza was securely locked, every seam and crack impenetrably sealed.

Reluctantly he abandoned hope of admission from below and made his way up the cliffs once more. Rand knew the construction of the building perfectly, having assisted indeed in its erection. In the beginning there had been no bank of loose rocks beneath the piazza other than that afforded by nature, and there was a window to the basement on the eastern side, opening just above ground.

Later on, for the sake of warmth, small rocks had been thrown under, and although Rand felt some disquiet for the task, he felt sure that by pulling out the rocks, he could get at the window beneath the piazza floor, and thus into the basement. It was unlikely that the small basement window would be subjected to such rigid sealing, sheltered as it was behind six feet of piazza floor well walled with rocks.

In spite of his profession of indifference, Rand was not averse to labor when the end justified the effort, so he fell steadily to work at a distance which he judged, and correctly as events proved, would lead to the basement window.

It was a long time before his efforts were rewarded by a cleared window, the usual small basement window, perhaps two feet long by eighteen inches high. The glass was covered on the inside with a thick black curtain, so that he gained no view of the interior, and the window itself he found, to his disappointment, not only locked, but sealed with a fine cement, or wax, along the four edges of it.

Convinced, however, that something of great value must be concealed there to necessitate these precautions, he resolved to gain admittance at all costs. With renewed eagerness he attacked the window with the stout knife which had served him well a hundred times in the emergencies of boating, fishing and hunting, and worked it slowly around the edges, pecking at the cement which bound it in place. And finally he felt it give, away slightly beneath his hand, and drew it carefully out.

Cautiously he thrust his hand into the aperture, and drew aside the black curtain which veiled it. The room was in absolute darkness. He listened long, but could hear no slight rustle in any portion of the house. Breathlessly, then, his revolver cocked alertly in his right hand, with the left he extended his pocket flash pressed the button, and swept the yellow light into the room, moving it slowly about, inch by inch, from wall to wall. The silence was like the grave itself.

MORMONS ONCE CONTROLLED VOTE

EARLY POLITICIANS VIED FOR FAVOR OF ISLANDERS

Court Action Against Strang Held Held Up While Political Powers Dodged Responsibility

In view of the approaching presidential, state and county primaries, it is interesting to know that at one time in the history of this country what would now be termed but a mere handful of people, living on an isolated island in Lake Michigan, once practically controlled these important elections.

Unlike "King" Benjamin Purnell, head of the Israelite colony at Benton Harbor, "King" James J. Strang, prophet, revelator and seer, rose to great political heights during his rule over the Beaver Island Mormon colony of Michigan history.

As early as 1847, a portion of the Mormon people under the leadership of Strang, took possession of Beaver Island in the name of the Lord, and commenced a series of acts which finally terminated in the arrest and trial of Strang and a large number of his brother Mormons, and eventually in his assassination in the year 1856 by Thomas Bedford, an islander whom he had persecuted. By the fall of 1850 the Mormons had become an important factor in the elections of Michigan, then closely contested. As the death of Gen. Taylor had left the Whig party confused and the accession of Millard Fillmore to the presidency had detracted to a certain extent divided its supporters. The election of that fall under the skillful manipulation of one John Harmon, had resulted in some 700 Mormon Democratic votes, which in a close contest would determine the success of parties in this state.

During the year 1850, and the early spring of 1851, Strang and his people had by their consolidated Mormon vote, secured nearly all the local offices of Mackinac Island, to which the Beavers were attached for judicial reasons, and by means of such power, controversies arose between the non-Mormon (Gentile) residents of the Island and the Mormon officers. These difficulties finally resulted in an open war in resistance to judicial process from a Gentile justice of Mackinac, a man named Bennett was killed.

But for all the offenses committed by King Strang and his brethren there was no redress in the county of Mackinac where these crimes were committed, and where the criminals had to be arrested and tried, if at all. The Mormon voters outnumbered the Gentile voters, and had secured the election of J. M. Greig, a Mormon, as county judge of the island. Nearly all the other officers were Mormon also, elected by Mormon vote, which at that time was a unit.

The governor and authorities of the State of Michigan at that time were Democrats, and as the Mormon vote might secure them in power, were not very vigorous in their efforts to bring Strang and his people to trial. The entire machinery of county government was in Mormon hands, so there was no legal means to punish their crimes unless by an armed force. And so the then governor of Michigan appealed to the President of the United States to furnish the necessary aid in bringing to an end the disorder and crimes of the Mormon people at Beaver Island. President Fillmore was then laying his plans for re-election, and fully appreciated the fact that the Mormons at Beaver Island might give the casting vote at the next presidential election against him in favor of the Democratic candidate. Being a very cautious and calculating man, Fillmore hesitated for a long time before he could be induced to lend the power and process of the United States to the arrest of King James Strang and his revolting subjects. Webster was then Secretary of State, and he too coveting the presidency, felt that the Mormon vote was worth saving if it could be done, and therefore deemed the best policy would be to let the Democratic state authorities reduce the Mormons to subjection, and leave the Whig president.

GOITRE REMOVED

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

Four sets of supplementary primary reading books have been added to the Charlevoix County Normal library. The department wishes to express its appreciation to Miss Sophia Manson, a former graduate, for her generous gift consisting of three year's complete subscription numbers of the National Geographic. All books are now available to the rural teachers. Come in and see us.

Invitations have been received from Central Teachers' College, Mt. Pleasant, for the Normal class and faculty to attend the Annual County Normal Day program at the college April 27-29.

Miss Bigge is making official visits to Boyne City and Boyne Falls on Wednesday.

The county Normal teachers spent a very pleasant evening at the home of Miss Shearer Friday night, March 16. Miss Shearer and Miss Dougherty were hostesses.

On Friday evening, March 23rd, two members, Miss Cork and Miss Matchett, invited the county Normal class to a dinner and entertainment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levinson. All had a fine time.

METHODIST CHURCH

Identical candidate of 1852 have the credit with Strang and his brethren of having declined to intermeddle with so delicate a question.

Much red tape was cut and many diplomatic notes passed between the secretary of state of the State of Michigan and the secretary of state of the United States as to which power was to subdue this handful of Mormons in Michigan, who might, by their 700 votes, control the next presidential election in the state. The situation was finally saved by Stephen A. Douglas, Illinois Democratic senator, who had dealt with Joseph Smith and his Mormon people in Illinois. He was always for war against anyone and everybody who resisted the constituted authority of the nation, and strengthened by his advice, orders were at once issued through the attorney general to the United States district attorney of Michigan to commence legal proceedings against Strang and his followers for offenses punishable in the federal courts, such as obstructing the mail, delaying the mail, stealing timber from public lands, counterfeiting the coin of the United States, etc., all of which they had been guilty.

What do you look for in a car... a single emphasized element such as style... size... performance? Such as comfort... standing... price? Or do you look for that combination of qualities called value? If you prefer a "one-sided" car we haven't got what you want. But if value comes first, you'll choose an All-American Six.

For here is style attained only in bodies by Fisher. Long, low lines. Smart colors. Grace, poise and swank. Here is size that results from 117 inches of wheelbase... and from Fisher construction famed for scientific distribution of space.

Performance from a whispering brute of an engine... 212 cubic inches in displacement... with a 79-lb. crankshaft and the G-M-R cylinder head. Speed... power... snap... and flexibility. An All-American change of pace.

Thus this General Motors Six leads its field in value... providing everything that everybody wants. If you're going to buy a car for what it will give you, come in and see the All-American Six.

Special Sport Equipment

Available on all body types six wire wheels with tires... special front fenders with tire wells... two special tire racks and locking rings... collapsible trunk rack... $100 extra on open cars... $110 on closed cars... six disc wheels with same equipment, $75 on open cars... $85 on closed models.

SMELT BRIGADE NOW A THING OF THE PAST

State Halls Fish Basket Rush Seen
Each Year At Beulah

There will be no charge of the smelt brigade at Beulah this year. George R. Hogarth announced Saturday.

Whereas in former years hip-booted citizens from all over the state have dashed into the waters of Cold creek with buckets, bushel baskets or what you have and scooped up hundreds of the delectable piscines as they crowded their way to the spawning grounds. This year spectators will be on the banks and behind barbed wire.

Conservation officers will do the scooping and only enough of that to give each visitor one square meal of smelt.

The new regulations will eliminate one of Northern Michigan's early spring events. It has been a great spectacle in past years to watch men dashing into the creek as the smelt, dazzled by the sudden glare of bright lights and crowded in the creek, proved an easy prey.

Last year during the three days of peak run 7,000 persons attended and captured 40,000 pounds of smelt, it was estimated.

ANNUAL MEETING AND BANQUET AT DETROIT

Mich. Livestock Loss Prevention
Ass'n Meets April 10-11

The second annual meeting of the Michigan Livestock Loss Prevention Association will be held in Detroit on April 10 and 11.

The banquet will be held in the evening of the first day. Among those to appear on the program will be Hon. H. E. Powell, commissioner of agriculture, Joe Marshall, of the American Railway Association and J. S. Gibbons, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The annual business meeting will be held at 10:00 a. m. of the second day, after breakfast at the Detroit stockyards.

The year ending 1927 was the first full year the association was active, and a great reduction of losses was noticed at the Detroit stockyards during 1927 over 1926.

The association is supported by livestock shipping associations, the stockyards, the railroads and the packers.

By combining all forces those interested in livestock products and marketing hope to show the slogan "Livestock Losses Can Be Prevented" will be realized.

Political Announcements

To the Voters of the Third Ward:
Upon request of numerous friends, including a number of our influential business men, I have consented to again enter my name in the contest for alderman in the third ward. In doing so I believe I have their sincere support and that they have confidence in my ability to serve them efficiently and economically. WHY NOT PUSH CONSERVATION?

Nothing takes push and if we are to push we must decide upon an object to push against. Could we not take for this season conservation, with its object a better Charlevoix? Would it not be possible for each Charlevoix citizen to do at least one thing in a conservation way. We could aim to make Charlevoix so beautiful that people could not stay away. How much better a mowed lawn looks than tall grass; who would not prefer to gaze upon a little clump of flowers where last year he saw weeds; which is better in your eyes, the old dead trees still standing or a new live one in its place? If each one would take it upon himself to do these little things which are before him every day what a place Charlevoix would soon become! There is no resort city with the natural advantages which are around us, the resort city on three lakes. Where else can you find such water, those fine summer lake breezes, such perfect pictures in scenery, so many beautiful trees, air and sky which fairly speak purity? But to go with these beauty spots we have our ugly places. Most of us know where all of them are. Each of us should make it his duty to abolish at least one of these. The nearest is the best to tackle first.

We have an incongruous landlocked harbor where at the largest boats of the lakes may enter. But, the docks and general surroundings of this are not the best; in some directions they are of the worst. Some of these surroundings need the attention of all, but, when the dock is accomplished, we can hold our heads high in pride rather than keep them low in shame. If Park avenue were opened to Round Lake and the docking places of the large passenger boats was skirted by a wide drive, bounded on either side with well kept lawn and flowers, what effect would it have on the passengers entering Charlevoix, the Beautiful, for the first time? This is among the plans harbored by the city fathers and to make it a reality will just take a little pushing from the citizens. And now we are right back to the place we started from; select something to push which is good for Charlevoix and push on it. If it is a one man job, do it yourself; if bigger than a one man job enlist your neighbor to help you.

DO YOUR BIT TO MAKE CHARLEVOIX MORE BEAUTIFUL

Every Man, Woman, Girl and Boy In City Should Take Hand In Beautification Work

The following communication, over the signature of "The conservation committee of the Shakespeare Club of Charlevoix," is the second of a series of short talks on civic matters that will appear in the Courier from time to time. As expressions of the carefully considered opinion of a body that has the best interests of the community at heart and excellent facilities at hand for gathering valuable data concerning various phases of civic betterment, this, and the letters to follow, deserve close attention on the part of our readers.

Hurray!—It's April!—It's spring and yet how intricate we are when it comes to prising either. Of course, since the beginning of time there have been a lot of springs and they have all been wonderful. And we have said so, so many times that now mere words are stale and have failed us. There doesn't seem to be a real superlative left. Not a single hymn of praise that hasn't been done to death already. Yet here it is April and spring again and what are we going to do about it?

Dame Nature puts forth every effort to beautify herself. The icy fields yield to the warm spring winds and we again have our deep blue water. The buds burst forth unfolding to luxuriant foliage to give us our cool, green shade on a summer's day. Every hill and vale becomes a place of beauty.

But there are places in our city where nature does not have a chance, places where ugliness encroaches upon us through man's neglect. These things are apt to grow with us so gradually that we are unconscious of their presence. Then to help Nature make Charlevoix more beautiful this season suppose you try standing by the side of the road and watching yourself go by. It may be your own ash pile, your own patch of weeds, your own dead tree. After realizing these you may clearly view the situation of your neighbor.

Following the thought of our article last week it will take action and not words to accomplish our aim. Our slogan is "Do Your Bit to Help Make Charlevoix More Beautiful This Season." This should apply to every citizen of Charlevoix, every boy, every girl, every man and every woman. Who will be first to remove his ash pile, to replace his patch of weeds with a bed of flowers, to plant a new tree where a dead one stands? How many persons are there do you think, who are entirely satisfied with their surroundings, who would not like them better, in some respects, than they actually are?

Surely all of us are awake to the beauty and intrinsic value of our native landscape. The possibility of capitalizing this great neglected resource as a basis for a permanent and profitable industry, as well as for our own general satisfaction and personal enjoyment lies before us. This possibility cannot become a reality through dreams, it cannot become a reality through words, nor can it become a reality through thoughts. Our dreams, our thoughts and our words must be brought to the point of action. Some one must plant a tree, some one must have good bonfire, some one must send a good load to the city dump. The one thing we wish to emphasize is that if each one does something a wonderful improvement will be the result.

But by working independently the larger things cannot be accomplished. By doing things in conjunction with the city officials the shores and docks of Round Lake can be made a place where the eyes of all can look on with pleasure. By co-operating with the park commission our natural park on Park avenue can be reforested. Each year it has been necessary to take from this park trees which have either died or blown down. To date none of these have ever been replaced. It is becoming important that this be done for we already have indications that our park without trees would become merely a shifting sand dune. Shall we permit this to reach such a stage that sand piles sufficient to cover large houses be blown into Park avenue?

A condition similar to what we might have can be seen, as you enter Elk Rapids from the north. Our park commissioners are Capt. Partridge, John Zeitler and F. E. Cartier. They will welcome good suggestions and sufficient public opinion with them will get speedy action.

As a citizen each one of us has a privilege or if you please to do so call it a duty to report the little things which come to light which are not just what they should be to the proper city officials for corrections. Unpleasant odors may arise from slight disorders in the street sewers or from other causes just as easily taken care of, unsightly bill boards do not always have to be tolerated, the street name sign on your corner may be in a dilapidated condition, the street lights near you may be in improper places or be out of order, bad spots in the pavements or sidewalks should always be reported. These suggestions or reports should be made to the proper departments of the city work and they will be received with a thank you. With these things accomplished our city will take on a dressed up appearance great enough to be a joy to ourselves and attract attention from our regular summer visitors and from the many auto tourists who pass through every season.

Michigan promises to become the great summer playground of the nation. Already her beauty spots and summer resorts attract thousands of visitors every season which as we know results in

STATE ATHLETIC ASSN. HAD MEET

BASKETBALL COUNCIL TO DECIDE ON REGULATIONS

Lots of Complaint Made Over Way
Tournaments Run This Winter—
Many Schools Left Out

Discussion concerning a probable place for next year's high school basketball tournament was scheduled for last Friday when the council of the Michigan High School Athletic association continued its meeting at Ann Arbor.

The council, at its opening session voted to defray the expenses arising from the district, regional and state tournaments held this year, despite a shortage of $1,800 resulting from the financial failure of the state tourney and of two regional and five or six of the district tournaments.

The state tournament this year was held at the Olympia in Detroit and criticism was made of the fact that the play took place on a concrete floor rather than the customary wood floor. Coupled with that, lack of finances probably will force the state organization to go to another place next year, even though the tourney should be held in Detroit.

The final decision on this question will be made some time during the year.

Plan Fails to Work
Gross receipts of the state tournament this year were $8,800, nearly double the amount taken in last year, according to A. W. Thompson, state director of interscholastic athletics, and the net income $5,100.

Expenses, on the other hand, totaled nearly $7,000. This deficiency will be made up from the general fund, a fund to which all district and regional tournament centers contribute.

Profits were realized in eight of the 10 regional tournaments and from more than 25 of the 32 district tournaments.

The council which met at Ann Arbor was composed of L. J. Perry, Ann Arbor, president; Monte MacFarlane, Ishpeming; H. S. Bates, Petoskey; Fr. R. E. Fitzpatrick, Grand Rapids Catholic Central; D. J. Heath.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY LAKES ARE CLOSED

Order Effects All Except Those Otherwise Designated

From now on all lakes around Charlevoix with the exception of Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, are closed to all fishing.

County Conservation Officers Ed. Deuel and Henry Eike issued the reminder Monday and it will be their duty to arrest any person so negligent as to forget it.

All inland lakes of Michigan except a certain designated few, are closed from April 1 to June 16. The only lakes exempt in this county are Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix.

HOOVER AND HOWE WIN FOR ALDERMAN

CONTESTS IN 2ND AND 3RD
WARDS BRING OUT BIG VOTE

Results Show Herbert Hoover To Be Ten to One Choice in Presidential Primary

A three-cornered fight in the second ward and a two-way battle in the third ward for aldermanic honors brought out another record vote for a spring primary in Charlevoix. Figures show that 615 people exercised their voting franchise Monday, surpassing by 79 the 536 ballots cast March 5th, which was quite a record too.

Ernest Howe retained his office as alderman of the second ward by a margin of 15 votes over Ernest J. Kibbe, who was seeking election via the slip route. John Zeitler was the third candidate for alderman in this ward. He ran on slips also.

The closest contest in the election Monday was between Oscar F. Nelson and Harry Hooker for the office of alderman in the third ward. Hooker, who announced his candidacy on slips last week, defeated Nelson by a margin of 9 votes.

The vote of the three wards follows:

FEW CHANGES IN LAST ELECTION

TOWNSHIPS KEEP OLD OFFICERS FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Two-Ticket Fight in Eveline Township Brought Out a Fairly Large Vote

Election day in adjacent townships lacked the spirit of last year when there were two tickets in the field in all townships with the exception of Charlevoix township. Eveline had a corner on the fight this year and the battle resulted in the election of all candidates on Ticket No. 1. Out in Norwood district Plenny Gennett retained his office as highway commissioner by defeating Anton Holecheck, who was seeking election via the slip route.

Result of the election in various nearby townships was as follows:

Eveline Township
Supervisor—William Sanderson, 133; H. E. Gould, 43.
Clerk—Ralph Price, 136; Wm. F. Johnson, 37.

SEVENTH GRADERS HOSTS TO PARENTS

Pupils Provide Real Entertainment
For Fathers and Mothers

On Friday evening of last week the pupils of the seventh grade entertained their parents at a party, held in the new high school gymnasium—their teacher, Walter Alexander, having charge of the program.

Following an exciting game of indoor baseball between fairly evenly matched teams of boys, picked from members of the class, both girls and boys participated in several lively "stunt" games in which their parents were invited to join. Several of the children accepted the challenge and the fun was fast and furious. Recitations and musical selections, by the pupils, with Mrs. Stelter at the piano, were also greatly appreciated.

During a rest interval, generous portions of ice cream and cake were served to all and the evening's activities closed with a basketball game in which a few of the guests learned that "youth must be served," especially when it comes to making baskets in one of the most strenuous of intramural sports.

Everybody had a good time and Mr. Alexander came in for much congratulation on the success of his efforts as a conductor of entertainment.

JUNIORS WIN ALL HONORS

BOTH TEAMS TAKE FINALS IN INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

Season of 1927-28 Closed With This Series of Games—Letters to Be Given Out Monday

On Wednesday evening of last week—second night of the interclass basketball tournament of Charlevoix high school—the junior boys beat the sophomores by a score of 15 to 9. Helms and Swartout starred for the juniors with 6 points apiece and Bill Foster for the sophs, with 4 points. The junior girls walked away with the seniors to the tune of 25 to 7; Varcera Ripley making 22 of the junior's winning points.

Thursday evening was a night of triumph for both the boys and girls of the junior class; the former vanquishing the seniors, 35 to 9—a veritable "walk-over," and the latter putting it over the senior sisters by 5 points—score, 22 to 17.

Season Closes
This series of games closes the basketball season of '27-28. Next Monday, Coach Buchen expects to give out the '28 insignia to the letter men of the year, indicating their participation on a championship team.

Charlevoix high has made a remarkable showing this year in basketball, especially when it is considered for how few of the games the new gym was available. To win the district championship is quite a feat, but to do it mainly on the other fellow's floor calls for the hero with palms.

BEACH HOTEL PUTS OUT FINE BOOKLET

Appearance is Great Credit to Management and Charlevoix.

A beautiful 24-page booklet extolling the merits of Charlevoix as a summer resort and accommodations offered by the Beach Hotel, cottages and Annex, has just been received here from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur VonDolche of Detroit, proprietors of this popular hostelry.

The booklet is done in sepia color and reflects careful planning in the layout and selections of views. It is very evident that the Beach hotel management has gone to great effort getting up the booklet, which is a credit to themselves and Charlevoix as well.

OLD HORTON BAY LANDMARK BURNS

The Milo Shaw home at Horton Bay was totally destroyed last Saturday morning by fire. The fire was discovered about ten o'clock on the second floor and had gained so much headway that it was impossible to get it under control.

Only the furnishings of the first floor were saved. The loss is said to be partially covered by insurance.

The house was built more than 45 years ago and was one of Horton Bay's landmarks. At the time of burning it was occupied by the Milo Shaw and Perry Davis families.—Boyer Citizen.

THIS COUNTY ONCE NAMED FOR INDIAN

KNOWN AS COUNTY OF KESHKAUKO
KAUKO IN 1840

Article in Historical Society Publication by Brynston Saltonstall Covers Subject

An article in a recent Sunday issue of the Detroit News giving early names of Michigan counties stated that Charlevoix county was once named after an Indian. The story occasioned considerable discussion among residents of this city, who believed their county was named for no other than Pierre Francoeur, Xavier De Charlevoix, French explorer and missionary.

We have delved into the matter and in a magazine published by the Michigan Historical Society found a story written by Brynston Saltonstall of Charlevoix, verifying the statements made in the Detroit News. In his article Mr. Saltonstall states that in 1840 Charlevoix county was known as the County of Keshkauko, the name perpetuating the memory of a famous Chippewa chief. Michigan was admitted to the union in 1837. A government survey of the lands of the lower peninsula was completed in 1840, and in that same year the legislature, foreseeing a great future for the state, made provisions for it by dividing the unorganized portions of the southern peninsula into two counties. Sections 27 of act 119 of the session laws of 1840 is as follows: "That portion of the state lying in Towns 23, 34, 35 and 36 north, and west of the line between ranges 3 and 4, shall be laid off as a separate county to be designated as the County of Keshkauko."

This description comprises all of the present county of Charlevoix except the southern tier of townships and more, but for judicial purposes it remained attached to Mackinaw county, where terms of court were provided for once each year. It is also interesting to know that there are now twenty-one fully organized counties in the territory then attached to Mackinaw county.

Further investigation reveals that Charlevoix county's early cognomen was nothing to be proud of. History tells us that Chief Keshkauko was a dusky rascal, who had an infamous and dishonorable career. At the time these acts were passed there were few white inhabitants in these new counties, some traders, missionaries, government employees, sailors and fishermen. The territory was an Ottawa and Chippewa reservation with the tribal relations maintained.

From the early discovery of the country by the French, the tribe of Saginaw Bay had been distinguished for courage and cruelty. The annals border warfare tell the story of their ravages as far eastward as the country of the Mohawk. During the Pontiac War, no tribe was more relentless than this one; and Keshkauko was of the descending generation, he doubtless inherited the revengeful feelings of his kindred. He was known to have done many things that were not even tolerated by the savage code.

On one occasion, it is said, he was rebuked for an inhuman murder and reminded that he had broken the law. His reply to the charge was "I have altered the law," thus proving that he was a ready fellow as well as a bad.

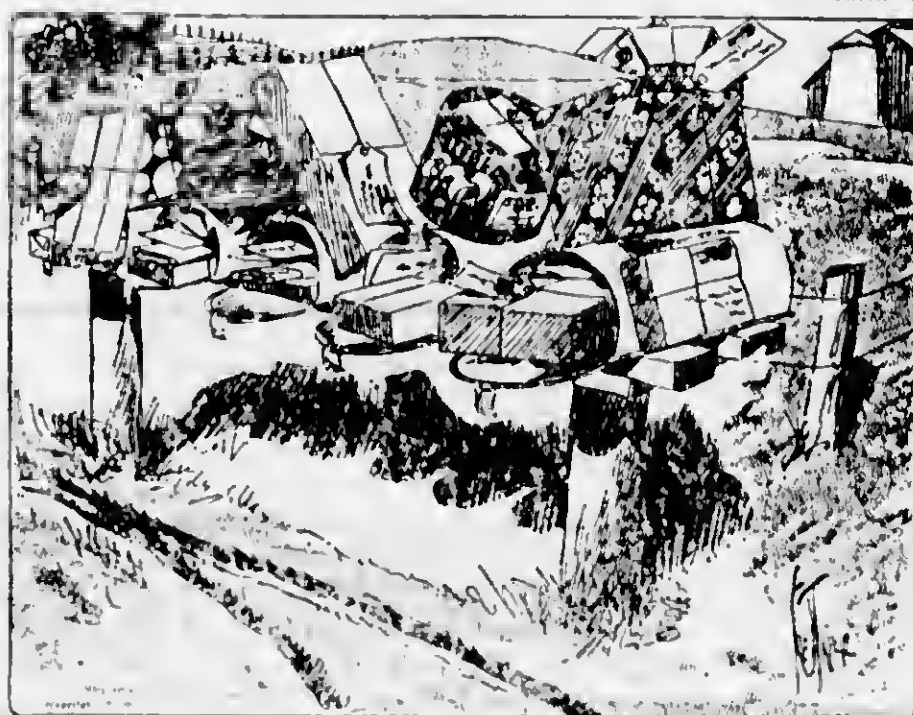

It is further said that Keshkauko was always accompanied on his travels by a body guard of from ten to twelve desperate looking Indians, who were very abusive. He would go into any man's house and take whatever he wanted and no one dared to refuse him. An early settler in the region of Pontiac once related that Keshkauko and his band came to his house and asked for whiskey. The settler had none, so Keshkauko went to the vinegar barrel and not finding this to his taste left it running, took some bread, and then, as he and his guard were leaving, whipped the settler's daughter severely with a ramrod.

Keshkauko's career ended in Detroit, where he and one of his sons were tried before an American court and found guilty for the murder of another Indian. They were both tried and sentenced to hang, but they had agreed among themselves that they would die by means of poison.

No car in the Victory price class can match the all around brilliance of Victory performance.

The Victory is first at the get-away and first on the straight-away—faster on the hills, faster in traffic—smoother on rough roads.

And accelerates as no other car at the price has EVER done: 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/4 seconds! 10 to 45 miles in 13 1/2 seconds!

The public discovered all this even as the stop watch proved it.

More power per pound of car weight made it possible. Rugged Dodge construction made it practical. And the Victory's unusual design made it SAFE.

For the Victory gravity center is lower and there is no body overhang. . . . The chassis frame is the full width of the body—and the body sills are eliminated.

Exceptional charm of line and more headroom and seat width are further vital results of this unique construction.

PLAN TO OBSERVE FOREST WEEK

WEEK OF APRIL 22-29 HAS BEEN OFFICIALLY DESIGNATED

Matter of Utilizing Abandoned Cut-Over Lands Is of Great Importance to Michigan

The emphasis that the Michigan-American Forest Week committee is placing upon Michigan's own special forest situation, forest needs, and forest opportunities in mapping out plans for the state's observance of Forest Week, April 22 to 29, meets with the hearty approval of Acting Director George R. Hogarth of the department of conservation.

"The matter of the utilization of our abandoned cut-over lands is of the highest importance to the people of Michigan," declared Mr. Hogarth. "These lands, which are coming into the hands of the state at the rate of hundreds of thousands a year through the operation of the tax delinquency law, have in the past been looked upon as public liabilities. They have not, in their present condition, borne their share of the state's taxes, nor are they contributing to the economic development and well-being of the commonwealth.

"But in the light of recent research and in view of changes that have come to the state, we may look upon these lands as potential assets that someday promise to be of great value to the people of Michigan. By turning them into forests and game refuges, and, in some cases, into state parks, we can build up and preserve Michigan's wilds as breeding places for wild life, as hunting grounds, as outing places, as recreational attractions, as almost immediate supply places for certain forest products, and as timber reservoirs for the future.

"In the state are estimated to be 12,000,000 acres that seem suitable only for the growing of crops of trees. The sooner we begin growing these trees in organized forests, whether in state forests, in the Michigan National forest, or in county forests, the sooner Michigan as a whole will begin to reap the rewards. That is why America Forest Week is of such direct concern to our state.

"I am particularly in favor of the Michigan committee's suggestion to clubs, school children, and the people at large that they take action for the formation and planting of forests on waste lands in their own neighborhoods, community forests and county forests. There isn't a county of Michigan that hasn't many acres of land now ugly, useless eyesores, that couldn't be turned into beauty spots and future forests, game sanctuaries, and outing places if set apart to be planted by the children and their enthusiastic elders. County and local forests will help make the people of Michigan, and particularly the children of Michigan, forest-minded. Seeing trees grow, that one has planted oneself, is a spur to constructive enthusiasm. And we need constructive enthusiasm in solving the problem and realizing the opportunities of our 12,000,000 acres of unorganized, neglected cut-overs."

Oil, Gas and Other Minerals

It is estimated that upwards of 200 lease buyers are in Michigan gobbling up land under which they have reason to believe lies natural gas and oil. R. A. Smith, state geologist, reports that this great activity has been spurred into a record breaking race since the proving of Saginaw and Muskegon districts.

After reviewing some of the leases that property owners have signed, Mr. Smith has taken occasion to give some advice. It is a new game that needs explaining. Appreciating this fact, the department of geology, a division of the conservation department, has compiled a list of suggestions that Mr. Smith believes every prospective leasee should know. Some land owners are being offered leases that, if signed, will cause them disappointment and financial loss. In many instances the Michigan law covering leases is not known and mistakes are made.

Unprincipled buyers of leases have been attracted in some instances. Lease "scalpers," individuals that go about buying up leases indiscriminately and then later try to dispose of them in quantity to oil companies, have been active. Mr. Smith has taken occasion to warn all parties concerned that they are taking serious risks in signing away their rights until they are familiar with the state law and general conditions. The service is designed purely to protect the property owner. The list of suggestions, about a score in number, is available to all interested parties that may write to the department requesting that the list be mailed.

One oil well for every five acres is something like the ideal ratio in the future development of Michigan's oil fields. R. A. Smith, state geologist, points out that the nature of the Michigan fields work against the crowding of wells. The most economical method of bringing the "black gold" and natural gas to the surface is to keep the holes well scattered. Experience in the Saginaw district has proven that the ideal ratio is something like 1 to 7½, that is, one well to every seven and one-half acres. If the wells are close together, the flow of the oil is divided, thus materially increasing the cost of production.

Survey of State Waters

How many horsepower do the rivers of Michigan conceal within their watery depths? No one knows now, but the state is going to find out. At some future date, figures will be available that show definitely just how much latent power exists in the streams of the Wolverine state and where it can best be harnessed. The economic land survey division of the conservation department is pursuing this information systematically and slowly but surely overhauling it.

Every summer season sees an expert from the department exploring streams, determined to wrest their secrets from them. He patrols the rivers from mouth to source, learns its present, and nearly as possible, its future. At the present time the department points out that the Rifle River is hiding power that could be put to use. Only one power unit exists there now while there is plenty of room for more. As the surveys grow, data will be available in the department offices that may be used by individuals or corporations seeking power. In the end the total potential horsepower may be compiled.

McGEEH SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Heise visited school Monday afternoon.

The sixth and seventh grades are enjoying "Rip Van Winkle."

We have been working on our booklets for exhibit (Monday.)

The Misses Doris Gleason and Hilda Odgen spent Sunday with the Misses Wiles.

The Schneider children have moved to town, where they expect to finish the school year.

The second grade had the story of "The Three Bears" for reading and language on Friday.

Esther Case, who is convalescing from an appendicitis operation, visited school on Thursday and Friday.

Carlton Ager was absent Monday on account of sickness. Do we miss him? Well, I'll say we do, for he is our janitor.

The fourth and fifth grades are making a study of Michigan. They enjoy working from the outline which is placed on the board daily.

The honor students for the month of March are: second grade, Buddy Wiles; third grade, Edwin Gregory; fourth grade, Beth Heise; fifth grade, Chester Schneider; sixth grade, Roy Schneider; eighth grade, Lulu Vandusen.

We had a lively race in arithmetic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Staley promised to treat all those who received 100 in their work. Ten pupils lined up for their candy, while the others looked on with wistful frowns—but their disappointed countenances soon changed to smiles when the teacher gave them their share of candy for "trying."

Take advantage of the break in price of Certain-Teed Shingles and Roofing and do your roof repairing now. The low cost will surprise you. Louis S. Orlewski.—Adv. 12-1f.

BARNARD SCHOOL NOTES

(Too late for last week.)

The second grade have learned the poem "Daisies."

The seventh grade had morning exercises Monday.

We have some good lesson poems on our blackboard now.

The "Happy Hour" Sewing Club held a meeting last week.

Robert Cummings spent last Saturday night with Carl Beattie.

Three of the boys brought their bicycles to school on Monday.

The fifth, sixth and seventh grades had a test in physiology last week.

The Misses Ida Cork and Shirley Block visited school last Thursday.

Elizabeth Dhaseler spent the week end with Miss Courier in East Jordan.

The fourth grade have learned the poem "All Things Bright and Beautiful."

The third grade are reading the story "Saint George and the Dragon."

The eighth grade have finished the World War and are now starting to review.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" performance out-Chryslers even Chrysler. It has jolted the public's preconceived notions of what its money should be able to buy.

Here is a truly marvelous car, in body styles priced from $1545 to $1795, which gives in performance all and more than you have been led to expect from cars costing $1000 more.

Here is a Chrysler triumph that overshadows the foremost accomplishments of the industry.

72 miles and more per hour. 75 brake horsepower. Acceleration that leaves every other car behind. Vibrationless smoothness that only a Chrysler counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft can give.

Experience for yourself the thrill of this brilliant performance. Chrysler enthusiasm invariably follows the realization that even $1000 more than "72" prices does not get you as much in performance, in quality, in style, in value.

Illustrious New "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1755. CHEBOYGAN WINS DEBATING HONORS

Defeats Powerful Grand Rapids
Ottawa Hills High Team

Last Friday evening, Cheboygan high school debaters triumphed over Ottawa Hills of Grand Rapids and are now one of four teams remaining in the state debating championship race.

The contest was held before a capacity audience in the Cheboygan high school auditorium.

Both teams were composed entirely of boys. George Vandenberg, Cecil DeKraker and Harry Glass were the Ottawa Hills speakers, while John Hoss, George Keldersen and Carleton Jacobson spoke on the negative for Cheboygan. The question was the same as used throughout the season, involving the abolition of the direct primary.

The contest was most interesting and involved some very good speaking. Cheboygan won by the use of a driving attack and a more balanced case. Ottawa Hills failed to present any proposition to take the place of the direct primary and seemed unable to establish a case for abolition without something to take its place. Harry Glass, state champion orator last year, speaking last for Ottawa Hills, did the outstanding speaking of the evening.

The decision was rendered by Prof. Robert Hannah of the University of Michigan.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will serve an Easter supper at the church Wednesday, April 11, at 5:30. Price 50c.—Adv. 1411.

SOUTH BOARDMAN LADY DIED VICTIM OF FIRE

Accident Resulted From Starting Fire With Kerosene

Miss Nettie Raymond, 37, of South Boardman was the victim of an early morning disaster last Sunday, when she lighted the kitchen fire with kerosene oil and an explosion resulted. Her body was unrecognizable when taken from the ashes of her home.

Miss Lorna Fuller, postmistress at South Boardman, and who boarded with Mrs. Raymond, suffered painful burns on her face and arms and burned hair when she opened the kitchen door on hearing the explosion and Mrs. Raymond's screams.

Ruth Ellis, 13, daughter of a neighbor, had stayed with Jennie Lee, Mrs. Raymond's 10-year-old daughter, and broke the window of their bedroom in order to escape from the burning house.

Mrs. Raymond had arisen and started to re-build the fire. It is supposed she poured oil on the kindling, and then tried to hustle up the fire by pouring more oil on the flames. The other members of the household, who had not risen, heard her lift the stove lid the second time, and the explosion followed shortly after.

Hand felt the emptiness of the house, sensed it, and unwilling to lose an opportunity he might not have again, he determined to go in, although realizing fully the risk he ran.

To get in he was obliged to replace both his flush and his revolver in his pocket, and drop down, defenseless and in the dark, but this was a chance he felt he was obliged to take. And after that breathless moment of his descent, when he flashed his light into the room again, it seemed surprisingly commonplace, just what one would expect to find the inmate of an old abandoned clubhouse.

There were no guns, no casks, no bottles. The furniture was scant, and of substantial and inexpensive make. There was an oil heater in a corner, and a large tank nearly full of oil beside it. There was an oil cook stove, also, with pans, kettles and rough dishes. There was fishing tackle strewn about, old magazines, and in a corner cupboard a few rough ends of food: beans, coffee, salt and rice. Some canned things, too, and a piece of salt pork. There were old pipes lying about, cigar stubs and scattered tobacco. The room in every respect was exactly as it would be left by a group of fishermen, lumbermen or hunters.

Officers, inspectors, any one might step into the room, examine it from ceiling to rough rock floor, and find it above suspicion. Yet Hand knew that within a space of two hours fully thirty men had left that very spot.

With revolver and flashlight in hand again, he left the basement room and went to the stairs. Heavy curtains, thick and wide, covered every door and window so that no possible ray of light from within could be seen from without.

On the upper floor were sleeping rooms, six in all, and two baths, although the water was not connected and the tubs were dusty and dry. One of these rooms, the one on the north looking down to the cove, Hand knew had been occupied, although the rough blankets were thrown loosely on the bed. Still it had the feeling about it of recent occupancy.

"Gay's gentlemanly Ingram," he thought with a boyish grin. "Couldn't stand it below with the Chinks. No wonder his eyes are red."

Satisfied at last, he went down, careful to leave everything behind him as he had found it, and clambered up through the narrow basement window again, not without great difficulty. Once more he was obliged to crawl out, head first, and return in order to place the window as he had found it, which he did carefully, edging it tightly in, and blocking it loosely with rocks from without. Then he made his final exit.

"I hope nobody hangs me on the head before I have a chance to argue about it," he thought rather anxiously, as his legs sprawled out from beneath the piazza into the open air.

Evidently, however, the intrusion had been unobserved, and very hurriedly he threw the stones back into place to give the same appearance as before his entrance. Then he crossed the woods toward the Lone Pine.

It was after nine o'clock. Hand was not shaved, his face and hands were scratched and bleeding, his hair was matted with dust and bits of earth and moss, his clothes were gray. He glanced down at himself, smiling, but he went on.

"I have no right to cheat her out of such a thrill as this," he decided. But he hurried his steps, for he had no desire to explain his appearance to any other but Gay.

Her amazement at his appearance at her door equaled his expectations.

"Hand—Hand," she gasped weakly. "Let me in, let me in," he urged laughingly. "Don't leave me out here with the burden of crime upon me, for the first Chink to take a pot shot at."

Hurriedly she drew him into the room, closed and locked the door behind him.

"Hand—Hand—what have you done?" she whispered.

She listened silently while he told, in sketchy fashion, the events of the night. Her eyes upon him were terrified and troubled. When he finished his recital with a jaunty triumphant gesture, she turned on him passionately.

Handy He Threw the Stones Back Into Place

"You shouldn't do such things," she cried. "You should not. You have no right to take such chances. Oh, Hand, what do they care for murder? Think of that poor boy."

It was not until he had been well fortified with strong coffee that she asked him gently, for her sake, to give up this ridiculous, dangerous enterprise and pay no more attention to the activities in the Little Club. She said she was sorry she had ever told him anything about the night in the cove, she felt she had led him into terrible danger.

"I know, thinking of that boy, Rand. They are utterly unprincipled, unscrupulous. I know they are. They would stop at nothing. If anything happens to you, it will be my fault."

Hand tried to reassure her, promised to take every precaution, but he would not consent to give up the undertaking. It was sure he had his finger on a thread that would unravel a vast network of intrigue and crime involving many thousands of dollars, perhaps hundreds of lives. He was going to have the reward the unraveling would entail. It was important that he was going to have the sport of unraveling. He would not yield to her.

"And best of all I'm going to show up your sad-eyed friend. He's a crook, and I'll prove it to you. Him, and his red eyes."

"Randie, dear," Gay said, her hands in his hair, drawing his face toward her, "did any one ever tell you that your eyes are sad, too? They are. Very sad. Your lips are merry and your voice is light, but your eyes are always watery. The voice is what one makes it—but the eyes—Yes, open windows to the soul. Sad, very sad."

CHAPTER IX

It was amazing to Gay that the island, enmeshed as it was in a network of lawless enterprise so flagrant as to include open murder, should continue its placid aimless course of every-day, untroubled calm. The Captain fluttered from the hotel drains to the Nixon porch and talked regretfully of the work he did not accomplish on his boat.

Auntalmir who after Mrs. Andover's stern denial of a Christmas party, had remained wistful, quiet and meek, climbed the hill one day with the old bright happy flush on her cheeks, and old bright light in her weak blue eyes. She was laughing.

"Oh, it is a lovely morning, Gay, a lovely morning. Coming on to Christmas now, isn't it, coming on to Christmas?"

"Yes, it is. Did—Alice Andover say you could have the party, after all?"

Auntalmir burst into joyous gentle laughter. "Oh, my dear, when I think of Alice Andover—dear Alice! She is a fine woman, for all her faults, one in a thousand. But when I think of all her administering, and her housing, and her scheming—and all she gets for it—oh, no," she interrupted herself, trying to sadden her exuberance, "oh, no, no Christmas party this year. Oh, no!" She shook her little silvery head, but could not shake away that air of joy.

She said she had only come to borrow a bag, a good-sized hand-bag. She wanted to take—some things—over to town. She said she would like to keep it several days, if Gay did not mind, and promised to be very careful of it. She chose the larger of two hand-bags Gay gladly offered, explaining that she wanted it to hold—well—plenty.

A few days later she came again to explain that she was not yet through with the bag, and to suggest to Gay, if she did not mind, that perhaps it would be better not to say a word about it to Alice Andover.

"She's a fine woman," she said loyally, "one in a million, a credit to the island, a typical Maine character. A capable administrator, too, and all that. But once in a while she gets—well, as you might say—just a wee bit nosy."

Alice Andover, too, climbed the hill to the Lone Pine.

"See anything of that foolish old woman down there?" she inquired, jerking her head impatiently toward the orchard below.

"Once in a while. Not often."

"She's up to something. I don't trust that woman. You watch her, and if you see anything out of the way, you tell me. I'm the administrator, and I've got to keep an eye on her."

It was disappointing both to Gay and Hand that with all the little threads of mystery within their grasp, nothing happened. They kept shrewd watch of forest, clubhouse and shore, but all remained silent and deserted, so that after a few weeks her interest waned. Hand, however, continued faithfully to go to the clubhouse every night, for he knew that eventually the gang would come again, and be ready for them.

He had inquired about boats leaving Portland harbor at the time the Chinese immigrants left the clubhouse, and found there had been several freighters outward bound, two for the south, three for Europe, and one which had called at the port coming down from Canada. He had looked up the records of every one of these boats, and tabulated the information, but the name of Donald Ingram was not connected with any of them. So he was obliged to await their return, and daily scanned the sailing reports for news of them.

October faded goldenly away, and November settled down grudgingly over the islands of Casco bay.

About noon on the third day of November, a cold rain set in, driven by a hard wind from the northeast. By midafternoon the first nor-easter of the season was raging along the coast. The rain had turned to cutting hills of ice, like burning chips from steel. All afternoon Gay sat in her window-seat, listened to the wind lashing the bare trees of the dear little forest, watched the white sheet which tore past the window on great gales of wind, and looked down to the sea, snow white with foam. Finally she fell asleep.

It was evening when a step on the porch and an accompanying whistle awakened her. She sprang to her feet and went forward, dizzily, to meet Rand.

Gay took his hands, let him gently to the window-seat, sat beside him.

"Rand," she said evenly, "if you want me to marry you, I will."

"Now, say it again, slowly. I don't think I understand."

"Yes, you do. If you want me to marry you, I will."

"If I want you to marry me—you will?" Hand repeated slowly. He kissed her. "Thanks, Gay, but I don't."

Gay sighed a little, sighed in relief perhaps. Certainly she smiled, but it was a drawn smile that did not touch her darkened eyes.

The island shivered itself up, more and more, behind the protective screens and storm windows that presaged the coming of winter. The women baked, and sewed, and chatted. The men got in the last of the wood, sorted the winter apples, went over the furnace and the plumbing.

Mrs. Alice Andover came to the cottage, but not often, for she "was" fond of creature comforts, and her enthusiasm for the winter climate of her native state was limited to an oil burner in her furnace, a birch log in her fireplace, and a pretty Parisian knitted scarf about her aristocratic shoulders.

"What's the old fool doing now?" she demanded, with the brusque nod toward the orchard that meant Auntalmir.

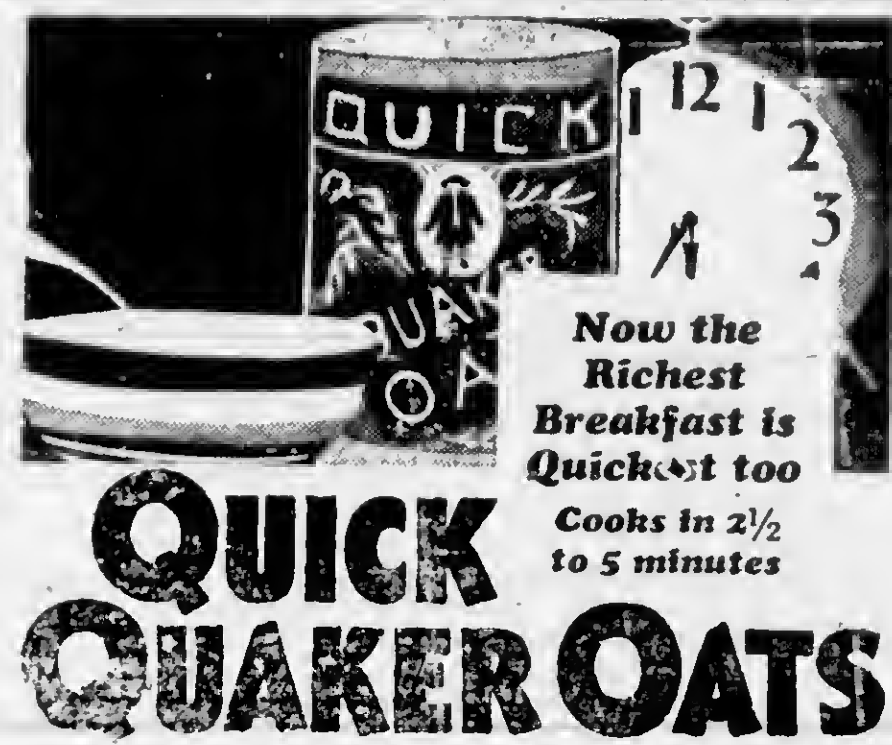

"I don't know," Gay said evasively. "I don't see much of her."

"I've been there a dozen times, and never nobody home," Mrs. Andover complained. "There's no fool like an old one. She's a perfect gadabout. Let's go down and see what she's up to."

So they went down the hillside and knocked at the door of the Apple Tree. There was no answer, although distinctly they could hear slight sounds within, quick shuffling, muffled footsteps, the creaking of a door, then silence. Alice Andover turned the knob, but the door was locked. She marched grimly around the house, Gay following, and tried the kitchen door, only to find it locked also.

Shamelessly she peered in every window, one after another, but there was nothing to see but the tidy house, empty.

Andover said grimly. She rapped smartly on the window. "Aunt Almira, Aunt Almira, come out! We see you—come on out, you big ostrich!"

But there was no answer. "She's up to something," Alice Andover said anxiously. "She's mad about that Christmas party. All for her own good, and that's all the thanks I get. I thought, just to puff her, she said fiercely, 'I'd let her fix little buns of candy and nuts for the children though they don't deserve it. Throwing snowballs, chasing cats, breaking windows— But just to please her. So I ordered fifty pounds of Christmas candy sent to her.'"

"Oh, that's just dear of you—" Alice Andover frowned at her. "John says half. But only the administrator, John says half. She's not full, she's got vegetables, her cupboard full of canned goods, and her cellar full of coal and wood. She can't want for anything. Can she?"

It did not seem indeed that she could. Her larder had been boundedly and gloriously stocked—a hundred pounds of sugar, brown and white, cereals, raisins, dried fruits, beans, canned goods. No, certainly she could not be in need of anything. Besides, there was her charge account at the grocery, and her modest account at the bank.

"You don't suppose she would go on a starvation diet to spite me," said Alice Andover anxiously. "I don't think she knows enough to do that."

When Alice Andover had gone, Gay went down again alone. Mrs. Andover's anxiety had communicated itself to her, and Gay was persistent. She meant to find out if Aunt Almira stood in need.

She anticipated a long wait on the door-step, and she intended to wait. So she was a little surprised when Aunt Almira, who had evidently been watching and knew she came alone, opened the door to her first light tap.

"That was not nice," Gay said severely. "Alice Andover is very uneasy about you. It isn't right to worry her."

Aunt Almira burst into soft but joyous laughter, unashamed. "Oh, the administrator. When I think of Alice Andover—Aunt Almira was quite speechless with secret satisfaction."

"But why did you keep us out?" "Now, Gay, don't be cross. It's just a little secret of mine. You'll know before long. I was doing something. I didn't want Alice Andover to know about. Now let's have a nice cup of tea. It's good to see you again."

But for all her pleasantness Gay returned at last no wiser than she came.

November did not live up to the threat of its coming. The weeks passed. But two days before Thanksgiving, Gay awakened to the morning to find the island thickly blanketed with snow, the trees pendant with it, the valley submerged. And great cloudy flakes whitened the air.

"This is beautiful. It is worth living for," Gay thought. "How childish to live always in a city where snow means only slush, and grime, and murky skies."

She sat in the window-seat and watched it for hours, tracing the course of the great white flakes, and listening for the soft little kiss with which each dropped among his brothers. By afternoon all the low brush and shrubs were thickly covered, the forest was a solid glistening wall, and the line of boats upturned on the shore was like a row of grave mounds. The afternoon waned, and finally, a little depressed with the silence and the loneliness of it all, she was mindlessly tidying up her rooms when she heard a gay voice calling:

"Hello, the house. Come out, and see the sun."

She ran down to find Rand, in snow half to his waist, a her window that led to the valley, which he was struggling to raise from without.

Gay caught up a warm cape, and ran to help him.

"You shivering!" she cried, in warm welcome. He had brought snowshoes for her, along with an invitation from the Captain and Grinn for her to come to the Big House until the snow was over. But Gay did not wish to leave. Now that Rand had come, the beauty of the snowstorm was increased a hundredfold. At his urging, however, she went up to put on stout boots and knickerbockers, for a short run through the woods on snowshoes. Rand helped her through the window, and slipped the clumsy shoes over her boots showing her how best to plop along in them.

Gay floundered clumsily at first, but finally, with Rand holding her hand, they set off into the woodland. There was no breath of wind. The air was stagnant, cold, but not stinging. It seemed to her that the snow that touched her lips tasted of salt. Constantly she cried out with delight, at the festooning of the trees, the draping of the rocks, and on the sea-side, the great caves of ice and snow which glistened and shone like jeweled castles towered and turreted. Never had she seen the water so dark a blue, so cold.

Tears came to her eyes, tears of wonder at the beauty of the snow-white island, and she stumbled and fell, laughing. Rand helped her up and saw the tears that glistened on her red cheeks.

"You have hurt yourself!"

"No." She put her arms around him, looking anxiously into his eyes, eager that he should understand. "It is because it is so beautiful. Doesn't it make all the little things in the world seem petty, and foolish, and not worth struggling about?"

Rand kissed the tears from her cheeks. "I knew you would feel it. It always gives me an idea it must be sort of pleasant to be dead."

"Oh, no. They cannot see it."

"No, but I dare say it feels as good as it looks. Are you happy, Gay?"

"I never knew what a really happy moment was until—just now. I am laughing for joy, I am weeping for joy, I am adoring you for the same reason."

Now and then a small scared rabbit stumbled through the snow-laden brushwood, scurried quickly to cover. A snow-bird chirped anxiously on a burdened bough. Once in a while, loosened by the sun, a little shower of snow pelted them.

"It's great fun being in love with you, Rand," she said. "It seems to give me a sort of mortgage on all the outside world."

When they had returned again to the window on the valley-side, Rand helped her up and unstung the snowshoes from her feet.

She put her hands on his shoulders.

"Rand, I wish it could go on forever."

"Snowing?"

"No. This. Having you like this, loving you like this, being with you like this." She drew him close to her, and held him tightly with her arms. "All of it. I love it. I never knew what it was to be so happy."

Rand kissed her, their cold lips writhing to the caress. But his dark eyes were very dark indeed beneath the long lashes, and his smile was a little stern when he said:

"Would it be as dear, I wonder, if it were going to last forever? Or isn't it all the sweeter because it is just for a year?"

Gay held him closer. She did not answer.

"Because you know, beloved," he said, and his smile was ready now, though his eyes were clouded dark. "I am everything in God's world that you thoroughly do not like."

"Yes. And the one thing in it that I love with my whole heart," she whispered.

"Well, I ought to be satisfied with that," he said cheerfully.

"And so ought I," said Gay. But she was not.

CHAPTER X

In the early evening the snow began to fall again heavily, and the skies seemed fairly bursting with the weight of it. Rand came once more to the window, and swung up slitting on the sill, feet dangling into the snow, as he urged her again to come to the Big House until it was over. But Gay guarded jealously all the little secret intimate joys of her island life. She felt that she would not willingly exchange one month of common luxurious living for the joy of greeting him like this in the pelted snow at her window-sill.

And as they both thought of it at once, they looked at themselves, considering their situation, and burst into merry laughter, for he, in his heavy outdoor garb, sat strutting his feet in the snow, while she beside him, turned satin slippers to the warmth of the cheerful room, and great flakes fell upon them both alike.

"Oh, never," she cried. "I wouldn't give up a minute like this. It is such fun to find you in odd and unexpected moments."

Rand picked a great flake from her hair, and kissed it as it melted.

"You're such a plucky little devil," he said admiringly. "And for a city

"You're Such a Plucky Little Devil," He Said Admiringly.

girl, too. Do they teach you bravery in Greenwich Village? I suppose for safe in the Broadway shops? I don't know a native state-of-Maine girl who would stay here alone in a snow storm."

"Oh, fools rush in," she quoted lightly. "I crave experience. I have never been snowbound. And it is so sweet having you risk the storming elements to see me."

"Now if we were married," he said, "we could be snowed in together, and the rest of the world snowed out—for all the rest of our lives."

Gay's arm tightened about his shoulder. When she spoke, her voice, although she strove to make it light, was husky. "Not for the rest of our lives. The spring would bring a thaw."

"And we'd fight, wouldn't we? Over who should shovel the snow? I'd say, Wife, dear."—and then, as Gay flushed, he repeated it, teasingly— "Wife, dear, you believe to work, you adore work, you worship work, therefore you shovel the snow."

Gay's warm lips silenced his mocking. Then she said, "Run along to the feather bed, then shagard. Sleep, drowsy and be lazy, for tomorrow you shovel my snow."

"But when you are snowbound—lonely, alone—remember what I told you, we might be snowbound together." And then he shot off suddenly into the storm, and Gay closed the window, smiling at it, merely because Rand had sat there. For her joy in his presence was an unceasing marvel to her.

All night long the snow fell, and whenever Gay turned and weakened she could hear the breathless kissing of flakes on flakes. And when morning dawned she was snowbound indeed. All her lower windows were blinded with it. Her piazza was softly banked.

It was Thanksgiving. They had planned for a party dinner at the Captain's, Alice Andover, Aunt Almira and Gay as guests, and after dinner, Rand and the Rudling boys had agreed to take the girls shopping. Now it was Thanksgiving—no dinner, no party, no Rand. It was a desolate day. Gay who wondered, moaning around the pretty house, from room to room.

"Thanksgiving, dear! Not a thing in the world to be thankful for—until the snow melts—and Rand comes."

She had no hope of getting out of her prison that day. The entire valley was plunged in snow. The Apple Tree was just a low white roof showing in a high white plain.

It was noon when she heard voices beside the pine tree that stood at her porch. She ran to the window of her bedroom and looked down. Rand and the Rudling boys were there. They had robes, and a short ladder, and a basket. No need of a ladder to reach to the branches of the pine, for its lower branches were bared and Rand pulled himself up easily into the tree, while the boys below raised a long plunk, steeled it against the tree, raised and shoved it slowly up to him. And wedging it firmly against the branches, Rand shoved it toward her, slowly, and at the end with a little push that lodged it upon her sill.

"I've come for Thanksgiving dinner," he said pleasantly, as though entering a formal reception room to a formal hostess.

"There's nothing to eat—but canned things."

"So I thought. I brought my own."

And then Rand was up on the plank, and slowly, hand over hand, he hoisted his way out and toward the sill, a distance from the tree but a scant two feet, and Gay's hands caught him when he landed.

Then the boys tossed him the end of a rope, and the heavy basket was raised.

"You needn't come back for me," he called. "I'll slide down into the snow. Won't hurt me. Think, boys. So long."

"You darling," Gay said. "I had no idea you would come. I said it was a terrible Thanksgiving, and I had nothing in the world to be grateful for, and I said the snow was hideous. Fancy that!"

All her life, Gay looked back to that as a perfect day. They were like two children in their gaiety, in their love. They giggled joyously over unpacking the basket the Captain's wife had filled for them. There was turkey, yes, with dressing, and cranberry sauce, and a little jar of gravy. Pickles, fruit cake, pie.

"It is Thanksgiving," Gay said solemnly. "It is Thanksgiving. You are my Thanksgiving, Rand. I am very grateful to you."

After dinner they pulled up the divan before the fireplace, and sat together, very close, and Rand smiled while Gay, both arms about him, stroked his hair, ran slender tapering fingers under his collar, touched gently the heating pad on his forehead.

"I never expected to be so much in love," she said happily.

"Don't you ever expect to be more in love than this?"

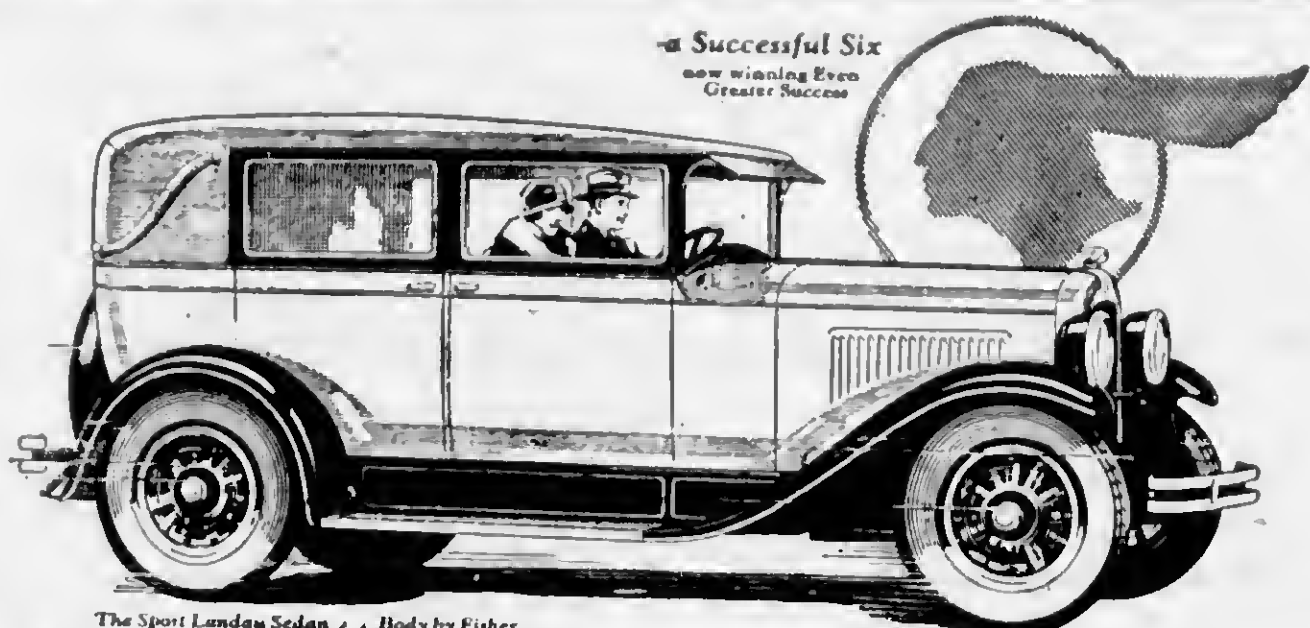

"No, no. Oh, no. I hope not. I should die of it." Then she added slowly, "Rand, you think I do not really love you. You think I am sort of half-fun, half-thrill—sort of a fly-by-night affair, don't you?"

"I think you love me as much as you can, perhaps. But you and I—we are alike—we cannot love—love greatly. Too selfish. You think too much of getting things done. I think too much of my own pleasure. We can't love greatly because we always put ourselves first."

"I love you greatly," she said indignantly. "Too greatly. So greatly I cannot eat, sleep or work for thinking of you."

"That's not love. That's sensation. How long do you think that sort of thing will last? It will be over in a year—if it endures so long."

"Do you honestly think that, Rand? That this beautiful feeling I have for you will last only a year?"

Nowhere Else Such Features for

At the right is listed a group of advancements in design which never before have been combined in any low-priced six! Some of them—such as the G-M-R cylinder head and the cross-flow radiator—rank as master strokes of engineering. Yet these are only the new features that have been added to the basic design which enabled the Pontiac Six to make automobile history in the past two years!

You still get the largest engine used in any low-priced six. You still get an oiling system which forces 250 gallons an hour through the engine at 35 m. p. h. You still get the ability to maintain 50 miles an hour or more for as long as you like. Come in! Learn by comparison and by driving that you get the biggest, staunchest, most beautiful low-priced six the market affords today.

Sire for Dairy Herd

Most dairymen prefer to purchase a young bull. By so doing they save express charges, they run less chance of introducing disease into their herds, and they get a bull that is easily handled. It is a safer practice, however, to buy a proven bull. The get of a bull furnish the best proof of the kind of individuals he will sire. An inexperienced breeder should have some one familiar with pedigree to advise him about the breeding of a bull before purchasing.

If you have a surplus of pasture, you can make a good investment by buying young animals that are thin in flesh, then letting them run until fall.

Sheep are first-class weed killers. They eat over eighty known species of weeds, and although not as good brush eaters as goats, can clean an light brush land in a very few years.

A large number of boys will go to Camp Charlevoix as "Day Campers" this summer. A bus calls for them at Charlevoix each morning at 8:30. They are given the same routine the regular campers get during the day and are returned home at 5:30. They eat dinner at the camp.

The boys will take part in forest ranger work, horseback riding, fencing, swimming, scouting, "overnight" hikes, Indiancraft, boating, canoeing, archery, "archery golf," and many other fine sports. Allie Moore and his pirate ship "Golden Rule," will be at the camp this summer to teach navigation and sea scouting. Merrill Hamburg of the American Boy will be at the camp this summer to teach airplane and speedboat building, archery tackle and handicraft articles.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD LAST FRIDAY

William Russell Had Been a Resident Here 40 Years.

Funeral services for William Russell, who died at his home here last Tuesday, were held Friday from the Baptist church, Rev. Herman Burns, officiating.

Deceased was born in Harmony, Ontario, Canada, May 11, 1851. In 1877 he was married to Margaret Jane Dougherty. To this union were born four daughters and two sons. Two daughters survive, viz: Mrs. Mellissa Murray of San Francisco, Calif., and Mrs. Myrtle Raymond of Muskegon. Mrs. Russell preceded her husband in death 21 years ago. On October 20, 1910, he was married to Clarissa Evans of Kingsley. Besides the widow he is survived by four grandchildren.

Mr. Russell came to Charlevoix 40 years ago and was a painter by trade. He was a kind husband, a loving father and had a host of friends in this city who will mourn his death.

WALLOON LAKE PIONEER DIED LAST WEEK

Harlow Wheaton Dies at Home After Extended Illness

Harlow E. Wheaton, one of the long time residents of Northern Michigan, died last week at his farm on Walloon Lake at the age of 86 years. Mr. Wheaton came to this region in 1868 with his parents from Brantford, Ontario, and after several years at Norwood came on north to Resort township where the family established a fine farm.

Mr. Wheaton was born December 17, 1861 at Brantford. He married

Miss Elizabeth Wheaton in Petoskey, July 19th, 1891 and the widow and one daughter, Mrs. Harry Eaton, of Boyne City, and one son, Dewey, survive him. He was member of the Maccabees.

The funeral was held from Stone's chapel last Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. C. A. Weaver, Northern Michigan minister, in charge. Burial in Greenwood cemetery, Petoskey.

THEY SELL THEIR WARES BY ADVERTISING

$60,000,000 to Be Used for Cigarette Ads in U. S.

Liggett & Myers and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Companies will each match the $20,000,000 appropriation of the American Tobacco Co. to be invested in advertising entirely for cigarettes in 1928, the Wall Street Journal recently declared.

The P. Lorillard Co., fourth contender in the battle of the tobacco giants invested $6,000,000 last year to promote Old Gold Cigarettes and results were so satisfactory that the campaign will be extended this year it was announced.

Newspapers will be used by all three companies. Lucky Strike will invest the major portion of the American Tobacco Company appropriation in newspapers as was announced in the February issue of the American Press. Chesterfield is also expanding its newspaper campaign.

Lucky Strike advertising is directed by Lord & Thomas and Logan; Chesterfield, a Liggett & Myers product, by the Newell-Emmett Co.; Camel, a Reynolds product by N. W. Ayer & Son; and Old Gold by Lennen & Mitchell.

EDNA S. FISK SELLS HARDWARE

Guy Watkins of Petoskey, Becomes New Owner of Local Store

A deal was consummated Monday whereby Guy Watkins of Petoskey, became the successor to Mrs. Edna S. Fisk of the Fisk Hardware. Mr. Watkins took possession of the business Monday afternoon.

Mr. Watkins is familiarly known in the hardware business, having been employed with Breyer and Bain of Petoskey for the past eight years. Mr. Watkins expects to take up his residence here within two or three weeks.

Mrs. Fisk has not made known her future plans, but no doubt will reside in Central Lake for the present. She has made many friends during her twenty-two years residence here and it is with many regrets that she is retiring from business. The Torch and citizens extend best wishes for success in whatever plans she undertakes to put through in the future.

On the other hand, we welcome Mr. Watkins among us and wish him success in his business venture.—Central Lake Torch.

cote, Kelamazo; H. R. Atkinson, Battle Creek; V. S. Blanchard, Detroit; Earl Tatch, Trenton, and Howard Beatty, Saginaw.

Committee to Charge

The basketball committee, which had the complete running of the tournament was made up of Tatch, Blanchard, and for the third man, Principal Hiers of Wyandotte, Detroit, not a member of the council. This committee was named by President Forsyth. It is said that the change in playing regulations in class B, also objected to by Northwestern Michigan, was asked by the non-council members, who had worked for such a change for several years.

While the plan worked out to the satisfaction of some schools in the Detroit section, it was a failure in Northern Michigan, tournament managers claiming that the elimination of so many "crowd drawing" schools had resulted in a decided falling off in attendance and interest.

YOUNG DEER DIE FROM SICKNESS AND HUNGER

A communication in the Soo Evening News of Wednesday states that many young deer have died in the northern woods during the last winter due to starvation and stomach trouble caused by eating too much lichen. John M. ... the St. Albert region, says several citizens there inspecting the feeding grounds counted twenty dead fawns in a single day. The sportsman criticizes the conservation department employees for lack of proper feeding. Late winter feeding came to late to save the deer, he says.

ENROLLMENT CAMPAIGN TO COMMENCE APRIL 1

Michigan Quote to C. T. M. C. L. 1,878 Young Men

Aa intensive campaign to enroll Michigan's quota for the Citizens' Military Training Camps will start on April 1, according to Phelps Newberry, civilian aid for Michigan to Secretary of War Davis. Michigan's quota this year is 1,878 young men for the two training camps at Camp Custer and Fort Brady, and of this number 470 young men living in Michigan have already enrolled. Everyone of these young men attended one of the training camps last summer.

Every effort will be made by Mr. Newberry and his county committees to get Michigan's quota by May 15, although the two Michigan training camps will not open until July 26, and close on August 25. Newberry reports that many prominent men and women from all over Michigan have signified their intention of assisting in the enrollment campaign this year.

They left in tears, and later the old chief was found dead in the jail. However, his son's courage failed and he did not take the poison. He later broke jail and fled, after which he was pardoned by President John Quincy Adams.

CHANCERY NOTICE

The circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery. At a session of said court, held at the court house in the city of Charlevoix, in said county, on the 24th day of February, A. D. 1928.

Present, Hon. Farm C. Cilibert, circuit judge. Frank Novotney, Plaintiff, vs. Oscar D. Mason, John F. Mason, Ida S. Ackert, Lottie Markham, Julia Ackert Beattie, and the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees, and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Lookot, deceased, defendants.

In this cause, it appearing by affidavit on file, that the defendant John F. Mason is not a resident of this state, but is a resident of the state of Texas; and that the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees, and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Lookot, deceased, are necessary and proper parties to the above entitled cause, and that the names of each heirs and their addresses are unknown to the said affiant.

On motion of R. L. Lewis, attorney for said plaintiff, it is ordered that the appearance of said defendants John F. Mason and the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Lookot, deceased, be entered in this cause within three months from date of this order; and that in case of their appearance, or the appearance of any of them, they respectively cause their answer or answers, or the answer or answers of such of them, as shall have appeared, to the bill of complaint in this cause to be filed and a copy thereof to be served on the plaintiff's attorney within fifteen days after the service on them or such of them as shall have appeared respectively, or their attorneys, of a copy of the said bill, and that in default thereof the said bill be taken as confessed by them, the said defendants, John F. Mason and the unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Lookot, deceased.

And it is further ordered, that within twenty days the said plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed, published, and circulated in said county of Charlevoix, and that such publication be continued therein, once in each week for at least six successive weeks, or that he cause a copy of this order to be served on said John F. Mason and each of the said unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns of said Cora Ackert and Edith Mason Lookot, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for their appearance.

The property the subject matter of the above entitled cause of action, is described as: The northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section eleven (11) town thirty-three (33) north, range eight (8) west, Twp. 33 N., R. 8 W., Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Farm C. Cilibert, Circuit Judge. Rolie L. Lewis, Attorney for plaintiff, Business address, Charlevoix, Michigan. Countersigned: George Roderick, Clerk. Adv. 9-10.

Order for Publication

State of Michigan, the probate court for the county of Charlevoix. At a session of said court, held at the probate office in the city of Charlevoix in said county, on the 29th day of March, A. D. 1928.

In the matter of the estate of Sarah Ann Ecker, deceased. John W. Colden, having filed his petition, praying that an instrument be admitted to probate as the last will and testament of said deceased and that administration of said estate be granted to petitioner or some other suitable person. It is ordered that the 25th day of April, A. D. 1928 at ten a. m. at said probate office is hereby appointed for hearing said petition.

It is further ordered, that public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy hereof for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county. Servetus A. Correll, Adv. 14-13. Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Henry B. Wood, an unmarried man of Charlevoix, Michigan unto Albert F. Bridge, Cashier of the Charlevoix County Bank, co-partnership of Charlevoix, Michigan, dated May 11th, 1921, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for Charlevoix county, Michigan, May 11th, 1921, in liber 62 of mortgages on page 81, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at date of this notice the sum of $1,979.75, including the principal sum due with interest, together with an attorney fee of thirty dollars as provided for by the said mortgage, and no proceedings at law or equity having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, the taxes required by the statutes to be paid on said mortgage were duly paid prior to the recording thereof; now therefore, notice is given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and of the statutes made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount then due thereon together with the costs and expenses of the foreclosure, including the attorney fee provided by the said mortgage, at public auction, to the highest bidder therefor, at the east front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, Charlevoix county, Michigan, (that being the place where the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix is held,) on Saturday, the 5th day of May, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon on that date.

The premises described in said mortgage, being the lands and premises situate in the city of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: The south half (½) of the east half (½) of the west half (½) of the east half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-six (26) town thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, including lots twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine and thirty (26-27-28-29 and 30) of Clifford's addition to the village, (now city) of Charlevoix, Michigan, as per the plat thereof, duly recorded in the office of the

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

TO SPEAK ON CONSERVATION

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE OF STATE COMING HERE

James McGillivray Will Show Moving Pictures of Michigan's Wild Birds and Animals

A special treat is in store for the people of Charlevoix, credit for which is due the Charles Dickens Club of this city, through whose efforts it has been possible to secure James McGillivray, special representative of the Michigan conservation department, to deliver a lecture here at the new gymnasium on Tuesday evening, April 10th.

James McGillivray

Mr. McGillivray is sent out by the department to stimulate interest among the people of Michigan in the preservation of the wild life of the state. He will display a number of very interesting moving picture views of birds and animals, including some remarkable studies of beavers and their uncanny cleverness as dam builders.

The lecture will commence at 8:00 p. m., and it is hoped that the gymnasium, which seats 700, will be filled to capacity. Considering the importance of the subject to every citizen of the state, it should be.

FAMOUS COACH WILL TALK AT TRAVERSE

High School Auditorium Is Place;
Next Tuesday Is Time

Many people will probably drive from here to attend Knute Rockne's lecture at the high school auditorium at Traverse City next Tuesday night. For the many football fans and friends of Notre Dame University in Northern Michigan it will be a great event and Coach Rockne's reputation as a character builder and his success as a speaker give his lecture a wide appeal.

He will talk on "High Lights of Football as Applied to the Game of Life," and he will illustrate the address with his own moving pictures of the Notre Dame teams, showing scenes from the games that have made football history. He was secured to speak in Traverse City early in March but a sudden illness forced him to postpone the visit. Now he takes two days from his spring football practice to make the trip and deliver this one lecture.

Coach Rockne recently concluded a lecture tour of the great cities of the East and Midwest, and everywhere he was greeted by capacity audiences. He is of some note as a humorist, and when he lectured at Orchestra hall in Detroit this season one of the Detroit newspapers called him "Will Rogers' only rival." On his phenomenal record at Notre Dame he is regarded as America's greatest football coach. Mail orders can be addressed to the Chamber of Commerce at Traverse City.

the production of a great source of revenue. For this reason we must make our city more interesting, attractive and distinctive in landscape beauty. Of all the state's sources of beauty none surpass the landscapes of Charlevoix.

Let us entice the tourists and visitors with a few directing signs to our beauty spots to travel leisurely through our community. We should entertain them as they go with the particular kind of enjoyment that they are, naturally seeking, the enjoyment of our scenery, air and water. Poultry Brooder House Demonstration Farm of Wm. Sanderson

April 13

The most modern and approved Michigan type brooder house will be actually supervised and erected by specialists of the Michigan State College, at the farm of Wm. Sanderson, East Jordan, located 1/4 mile East of Ironton and 3-4 miles south, on the afternoon of Friday, April 13.

This brooder house will be 10x12 feet in size, properly insulated to insure warmth, and of sufficient size to house from 300 to 400 baby chicks. Many new features will be incorporated in its construction that will assist materially in raising healthy and vigorous chicks.

By means of a power saw erected on a motor truck, and the assistance of three experienced specialists the house will be constructed in the one day. Not only will you see the new brooder house, but in addition you will see the most approved type of laying house as Mr. Sanderson only recently has erected one.

The poultry public is cordially urged to attend this demonstration beginning in the afternoon at 1:00 o'clock on Friday, April 13. This will be the only demonstration of its kind conducted in Charlevoix county, so if interested in poultry in any way by all means be present.

Achievement Day Next Event

The leaders enrolled in the Nutrition Project started last fall and being conducted this winter held their last meeting at a very recent date. This concludes the instructions given to the various leaders. After one more meeting that the local leaders will conduct for their community groups the project will be concluded with a big County Achievement Day that will be held in Boyne City on May 3.

The interested ladies enrolled in the various groups are very much pleased with the information and advice received and are anxious to continue the work another year. At the Achievement Day an interesting and instructive program will be given, exhibits arranged showing the main features of the nutrition lessons and a final report given covering the results of the project. At a later date a complete announcement will be published.

Better Chick Campaign Progressing

The second meeting in the better chick campaign was held at the Cherry Vale Hatchery, owned by Mr. Al Warda of East Jordan and was very well attended by the local leaders and others.

J. A. Hannah, poultry specialist of M. S. C., was present and gave valuable information concerning the subjects of brooding, feeding and diseases of baby chicks.

At a previous meeting Mr. Hannah discussed the subjects of housing and source of baby chick and as a result a very complete course is being made available for the poultry raisers of the county.

Any person wishing to enroll and get the benefit of these meetings should get in touch with any one of the local leaders, who are as follows: Al Warda, East Jordan; Archie Murphy, East Jordan; Mrs. Geo. W. Brown, East Jordan; Wm. Sanderson, East Jordan; Mrs. A. J. Geary, Boyne City; Roy Kane, Charlevoix; James Heeres, Charlevoix; and Charles Mascho, Charlevoix.

Each of these leaders will put on a meeting after each visit by Mr. Hannah and give the information received on to their community.

"The Little Stone Church With the Big, Warm Heart."

Sunday services: 10:00 a. m. Sunday school, 11:00 a. m., preaching by the pastor. Subject, "The Stone Rolled Away." (Easter sermon).

At 2:30 p. m. there will be a union service with preaching, followed by the ordinances of the church. The churches from East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey are expected to unite in this service. All Christians of Charlevoix are cordially invited to attend this union service. The service of the day will be what is called an "all-day meeting," and those coming prepare to spend the day and bring a basket-lunch which will be served in the basement of the church.

At 7:30 p. m. there will be a "Candle Service," and Easter exercises by the children of the Sunday school.

Let all prepare to come to these inspirational services, and make the day commemorative of our Lord's resurrection; a day in which there will be a resurrection within our hearts of great possibilities in the Kingdom of God among men.

Day after day it becomes more apparent that the unrivaled popularity of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is due to its basic elements of superiority.

And the greatest factor of all is the effortless driving it provides. It steers with the weight of the hand—for the worm and gear steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout... even at the front axle knuckles. The clutch is velvety smooth in action and the gear-shift lever responds to the lightest touch. Acceleration is swift and certain, while big non-locking four-wheel brakes assure perfect control under every condition of highway and traffic.

You'll never know what a great car it is until you sit at the wheel and drive! So come in today for a demonstration!

PYTHIANS HAD ENJOYABLE PARTY THURSDAY

Grand Chancellor McKimmie Addressed Large Gathering

Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, Knights of Pythias, had another of its enjoyable meetings last Thursday evening. The occasion was a visit of the Grand Chancellor, Thomas P. McKimmie of South Haven.

After ceremonies of initiation and one of "Billy" Cowan's celebrated lunches, Robert W. Paddock took charge of the program which he directed in his usual easy and pleasant way. Claude Greenway of Petoskey, formerly of Charlevoix, gave several musical numbers which were greatly appreciated. The Grand Chancellor then gave the members an address of the kind which has made him popular and admired throughout the state. He is a forceful speaker with a message in every sentence.

Ira Bartlett, who was one of the delegation from East Jordan, spoke briefly in his characteristic and sincere way. Mr. Bartlett is widely known throughout the state as a typical Pythian of the old school and is popular with the boys in Pine Lake. Of course "Washy" was in evidence and spoke as a representative of the bachelor members.

A good attendance was present to enjoy the whole affair. Absentees missed an event.

METHODIST CHURCH

John E. Lockyer, Minister

The pastor is conducting evening devotions each day at 7:30 on the theme of the Passion of Our Lord. But the Good Friday service will be in this church at 1:30 when all Charlevoix pastors will co-operate and the sermon be preached by Dr. Bernard Mattson.

We express our thanks to the business men for their co-operation to make this service a success in attendance by closing their stores between 1 and 3 o'clock Friday.

The public is invited to step into the church on Good Friday for communion any time after 9 a. m. The sacrament table will be spread for your communion; come and go at your convenience.

SEES BORER CONTROL AS LIVESTOCK FACTOR

Manager of State Elevator Exchange Calls Attention

The importance of European corn borer to the livestock industry of the state is shown by the fact that since last November Michigan feeders have been paying over one million dollars monthly for corn imported from other states, according to L. E. Osmer, manager of the Michigan Elevator Exchange.

"The corn crop was short in Michigan last fall," Osmer says. "A year ago in February, only 40 cars were purchased through the exchange, while this year 140 cars were bought. Even when the state's production is up to normal, millions of dollars are spent each winter by feeders for corn imported from Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa."

"The state is vitally interested in prevention of the spread of the corn borer. The establishment of the pest in the great corn producing states will mean an increased price for corn and will result in greater feeding costs. If the borer is not controlled, the effect will be felt not only by feeders of livestock, but also by country elevators in which many farmers are interested."

BAPTIST CHURCH

The church records its sorrow in the death of Deacon Nathan Jarman of the Parr Memorial church of Petoskey. He came to this northern country when it was a wilderness and for many years has been active in all work of the Baptist denomination. We will greatly miss him.

Sunday morning at 10:30 the Sunday school will give a short Easter program, the pastor will give a short Easter address and administer the ordinance of Baptism. A session of the Bible school will follow.

The church chorus will take part in the afternoon services at Eastport. The B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:00 p. m. and the pastor will preach at 7:00 p. m.

Every church in the city should be filled at every service Sunday. Make it a "Go to Church" day. You will feel better for it.

Railroad Will Keep Man On Job Only During the Summer

The Michigan public utilities commission last week authorized the Pennsylvania railroad to discontinue its passenger and freight station at Brutus as an agency station from September 16 to June 25 of each year, effective after September 16, 1928.

During the nine months the station is without an agent, the company was directed to maintain a caretaker, whose duty it shall be to see that freight is properly taken care of and the station heated, lighted and kept in a sanitary condition for the patrons of the railroad.

The Pennsylvania at first asked that the station be closed entirely, reciting that the business from Brutus was growing less and less each year. Brutus shippers and residents requested the company to maintain an agent-operator during the reort season, which was agreed to by General Agent and Superintendent Taber Hamilton. The order from the commission was then issued as above, being an acceptable compromise to the active parties concerned.

PATHOLOGIST ADVISES ORCHARDIST TO SPRAY

Early pruning will be necessary in Michigan apple orchards this year if a repetition of the disastrous scab epidemic of 1927 is to be avoided, says C. W. Bennett, Michigan State College pathologist. The depredations of the scab were so thorough last year that southern Michigan applemen may expect them to return with the first rains that come after the buds have opened, Bennett said. He suggests orchardmen get their pruning and other preliminary work out of the way before the early apple varieties break into leaf. Spray material should be on hand by April 15 and spraying for peach leaf curl should be completed by the time the apple buds open.

A MAN

Republican Michigan fortunately did not wait until his death to pay its most generous tribute to one of the state's finest citizens and one of the most commanding figures in its politics. Michigan voters felt no deflection from Republicanism when twice they elected the democrat Ferris to the governorship and once to the United States senate. They voted for Woodbridge N. Ferris, the man. They chose to elect a candidate known not by his political works nor his party standards, but by his personal principles and by his character. Occasionally there is such a man who transcends party loyalties.

In every neighborhood in Michigan there are many who feel a personal loss in the passing of Senator Ferris. Many are the former students of Ferris Institute, who perhaps know most intimately the lovable genius of Michigan's greatest schoolmaster.

THE TALE BEARER

In addition to being one of the most successful merchants in this country ever produced, John Wnna-maker was a shrewd student of human nature. He left behind him not only three large department stores, but also some very wise sayings, of which the following regarding gossip is one: "You will find it a good rule not to listen to anything a tattler brings to you against your neighbors. Talebearers have no rights and should have no standing. Some wise persons say, 'We never repeat what we hear.' But why listen to it? If scandals or jealousies had no ears to hear them, there would be fewer tongues doing the scandalizing, wasting their own time and yours and mine also."

ATTRACTIONS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Saturday and Sunday, April 7 and 8

Paul Jannings' "THE WAY OF ALL FLESH," with Belle Bennett, Phillips Haver and Donald Keith. You ask for strong drama; fine acting; powerful directing. Well, here is Jannings, the screen's emotional giant; as he who dared to defy—a man who goes "The Way of All Flesh." A characterization you'll never forget! The drama you'll always remember!

EXTRA—Pathe comedy, "SHOULD SECOND HUSBANDS COME FIRST?"

Wednesday and Thursday, April 11 and 12

Hey Folks! The circus is coming to town with Ken Maynard in "THE WAGON SHOW." Hurray! The circus is coming! Tell all the folks—round up the kids! Everybody from six to sixty will enjoy it because Ken Maynard is the star. And the circus is only a part of this great out-door adventure drama. Ken was a star circus rider before he joined the movies. Now you can see him do all his circus stunts and the riding, roping, loving and fighting that have made him the best-liked of all Western stars.

Considerations

Well, some of them slipped and some of them just blew away. The big wind in the third ward has died down now to just a little breeze, as one of the voters remarked.

One of the slipped aldermen of the second ward says that he has money enough to treat all who really voted for him if they will just ketch him sometime.

Remember the time Willard Smith also ran in the second ward and after the votes were counted said that he did not think that there were so many liars in the whole town, let alone in just his ward?

Everybody knew that Herbock and his wife would come back from Texas so no one was surprised.

You have to work harder to make a living some places than you do right here in Charlevoix.

Was not quite so sure about Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Lewis, but we are all glad they are with us again. Evidently those wonderful mountains in California could not make up for good old Lake Michigan to Rollie.

If present plans materialize the Steamship Manitou will spend two hours in Charlevoix on each of its trips to the Soo this summer. How Petoskey would like to be able to say that.

It's like Fred Cartler said after attending the Petoskey Association of Commerce banquet last week. It was a fine feed and a fine meeting, but when he heard the different ones from Petoskey get up and talk about some things like bathing beaches, rest rooms and other things that they should try to have, which we are already favored with when you appreciate a little more what we have at home.

If you read the letters and editorials last week about what some of our club ladies are suggesting along the lines of conservation of our natural beauty around town? There is plenty to be said right here at home and no doubt I will tell you more about this.

I had to laugh over at Petoskey Monday when John Galster told me they were voting on changing to fast time and if it carried, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs would HAVE to change also, that we could not get along with different time from Petoskey.

Don't forget that Hattie McNeil is having an auction sale of her household furniture next Saturday afternoon. YES, I have the house for sale at a real bargain price, but not at auction.

Tuesday I got stuck up to my neck out on a cross road in Marion and had to get one of Paddock's teams of mules to come help another one in distress (you may think that sounds funny but it's true) Amos Webster was in the same hole before I was or my Nash could have gone through.

Franklin Sears told me this morning he would appreciate it if I could help find a cat ready and willing to wet nurse a couple of black fox pups. Don't see any commission in sight there, but am willing to help anyway.

You certainly want to see one of the new booklets just out for the Charlevoix Beach Hotel. This is one of the finest pieces of advertising ever brought out about Charlevoix.

Have you got your Easter hat yet? I will see you in church Sunday.

CONSERVATION IS A BROAD SUBJECT

MUST BE CONSIDERED FROM MANY IMPORTANT ANGLES

Covers City Zoning, Beautification,
Constructive and Preservative Conservation

In their article this week the conservation committee of the Shakespeare Study Club have continued with their series of articles commenced three weeks ago by pointing out to the public the many angles from which conservation may be considered. The article follows:

"Conservation means different things to different minds. Probably, its most popular conceptions have to do with the preservation of forests, and of wild life. But this is narrowing the term to a point where a large part of its usefulness is lost. In these two main aspects, it is apt to be regarded by the average citizen (and especially the city dweller) as representing activities, carried on in a large, impersonal way by the state, with which he, himself, is but remotely concerned.

"But the idea of conservation has a much wider application to many phases of both country and city life and in many of these, not only directly affects the citizen, himself, his welfare and that of his family, but depends for its support and furtherance upon his own individual effort.

"For instance, there is conservation of order. In Charlevoix, this might mean the enactment of a zoning ordinance to limit the spread of the business district within certain areas; not permitting barns, noisy garages or garish oil stations to encroach upon residence sections, where beauty should meet the eye and no harsh sound or offensive odor offend ear or nostril. Examples of such encroachment may be found on Antrim, Mason and Clinton streets; at one or two points on the south side and on the Round Lake waterfront. Painting of store-fronts, dwellings and fences; elimination of billboards and unsightly shacks; clearing of alleyways and backyards—all would come under this head.

And, on the constructive side we can place the stimulation of garden cultivation and the planting of flowers, vines and shrubs. The recent planting of a community tree in the city park on Round Lake by ladies of the Congregational Pilgrim Circle is a sample of the kind of effort we are urging. Our new school grounds will need an intelligent and artistic landscaping treatment; also our library and city ball site. Charlevoix's half-completed natural park on the shore of Lake Michigan is badly in need of attention. No doubt the pupils of our schools can be interested in the work of beautifying Charlevoix by the formation of garden clubs (for both flower and vegetable cultivation) and the awarding of prizes for the best results obtained. This plan has been worked out with great success in other progressive towns. The children's work would also represent conservation and direction of energy.

"Under conservation of health

PLAN SUMMER
CLAMP ON ALL
RECKLESS DRIVERS

Reckless drivers are to have a hard time in Michigan this summer. It was the sense of a meeting held in Gov. Fred Green's office last week.

and failed to impress all drivers and that the only way to curb these menaces was by larger doses of law swiftly applied.

A committee of Gov. Green, William P. Rutledge, Detroit police commissioner; Oscar J. Scarvada, chief of Flint police; W. S. Glibreath, Detroit Automobile Club; Charles W. Seymour, chief of Highland Park police and A. R. Carroll, chief of Grand Rapids police, was appointed to evolve a plan which will combine both the educational and penal features.

With the introduction of the state traffic code last year, state officers found it difficult to secure conviction because of the discretion given a driver in the matter of speed. This year approaches to hills—the scene of many accidents—will be marked and drivers will be forced to slow down and not attempt to pass other cars.

City ordinances will be enforced vigorously and there was a feeling that each and every offender must be tagged without exception before 100 per cent law observance could be obtained.

would come first, as of prime importance, the elimination of ragweed and other noxious plants from gardens and backyards, especially in outlying portions of the city. We have town-ship weed regulations, but, in most cases, these are but laxly enforced. To a resort that advertises immunity from hay fever, the destruction of irritating pollen-bearing weeds is of especial importance. This also might come under head of conserving natural resources, as our resort business is our mainstay. Low, marshy spots, or conditions likely to afford breeding places for mosquitoes and the deadly housefly should be vigorously attacked.

"Now, most of these things to which we have been calling attention do not require the expenditure of much actual cash. Many of such improvements can be effected by the property owner, himself, and do not represent a sacrifice, as they are of as much value to him as to the community. He should be inspired to do what he can, as less by enlightened self-interest than by civic pride.

LELAND CRAM DIED AT HOME IN FLINT

HAD BEEN ILL WITH PNEUMONIA ONLY FOUR DAYS

Mr. Cram, a Former Charlevoix Boy, Was Widely Known Athlete in School Days

Charlevoix citizens were grieved Monday to learn of the death of Leland Leslie Cram, who died at 1:00 o'clock that morning at his home in Flint, Michigan. Mr. Cram's death was caused by pneumonia, with which he was ill only four days.

Leland was born in this city October 13, 1893, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cram. He was educated in the Charlevoix public schools and graduated with the class of 1912. He was widely known throughout Northern Michigan for his athletic ability during his high school days, particularly as a basketball player.

On February 20, 1915, he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Price of Charlevoix. The couple moved to Flint 12 years ago and since 1920 Mr. Cram had worked for the Marshall Furnace Co. as installation manager for the Flint branch, later being promoted to salesman of the Port Huron branch. Besides his wife he is survived by his three children, viz: Leslie Jane, 11; Willard G. 9; Peggy, 7; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cram, and grandmother, Mrs. L. E. Jenkins of Charlevoix; and one brother, Verl Cram of Flint.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 Monday afternoon, April 9th, from the home, 538 E. Dewey street, Flint. Other outside relatives and friends who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. A. Mayne and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Perry and Mrs. Gertrude Morse of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Barr of Pontiac; Mr. and Mrs. Brown and daughter of Port Huron; C. S. Stout of Marshall; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ward of Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ripley of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ellis of Grand Rapids; Dr. and Mrs. John Taylor of Marquette. Burial was made at Grace Lawn cemetery, Flint.

PROF. H. H. RYAN TO LECTURE HERE FRIDAY

Public Invited to Hear Address in High School Gymnasium

A special treat is in store for the Charlevoix public on Friday evening of this week, when Prof. H. H. Ryan of the University of Michigan Lecture Bureau will give a public address in the high school gymnasium at 8:00 o'clock.

It had been originally planned by school officials to have Prof. J. B. Edmunson of the U. of M. here that evening, but he was unable to keep the engagement. However, Prof. Ryan has been obtained in his place, and his address entitled "Innovations in Education" will be interesting and instructive to all.

A special invitation is extended to women's organizations and clubs of the city to hear Prof. Ryan.

The Congregational Ladies will hold a baked goods sale at the Polly Kay Shop, Saturday, April 14.—Adv. 15-11.

November 6—General Election.

November 23—State canvassers meet.

FILL CHURCHES EASTER SUNDAY

LARGE CROWDS BRAVED STORM FOR SPECIAL PROGRAMS

Cantatas, Playlets and Special Musical Programs and Sermons Marked Day's Activities.

Despite the cold and storm, Easter proved a big day in Charlevoix, especially for the churches giving Easter programs. For these occasions the churches were filled. Very delightful and effective pageants and cantatas were given throughout the day at the several churches.

Congregational Church.

The day's observance of Easter at the Congregational church began with a sunrise prayer meeting of the Endeavor Society led by Billy Novak.

The morning church service was conducted by A. F. Bridge and A. J. Stelter on account of the illness of the pastor. Mr. Stelter read a sermon on "Immortality," written by Dr. Charles E. Jefferson of New York City. The choir provided inspiring music and the church was liberally decorated with flowers and potted plants. The Sunday school provided an interesting program in which many of the pupils participated. A generous Easter gift was collected for the hospital work in India.

At the choral vesper service at 4:30, a large audience enjoyed the noble cantata, "Easteride," by Daniel Protheroe, which was presented by the choir and singers from other churches. Solo parts were taken by Mrs. Archie Livingston, Mrs. Clair Webster, Dr. F. H. Wilkinson and Frederick V. Taylor. Rev. John Lockyer gave a brief introductory address, particularly welcoming Petoskey Ivanho: Commandery, Knights Templar, who were present in uniform as special guests. Dr. Mattson was able to be present and greet the Knights at the close of the service.

Baptist Church Filled.

A large audience greeted the primary department of the Baptist church in their Easter program. The numbers rendered were greatly appreciated and the teachers have reason to be proud of their training of the little folks. The ordinance of baptism was administered to several. The choir accompanied the pastor to Eastport for the afternoon service. They delighted the audience with their Easter music and received a hearty invitation to come again.

Big Day at Methodist Church.

From the sunrise service at six in the morning until the Epworth League playlet at 6:00 o'clock in the evening, the day was filled with delightful services at the Methodist church. The church was beautifully decorated and at the 10:30 service a special choir rendered several selections. The pastor delivered an Easter message, followed by baptism and reception of members. Closing the day was the Epworth League playlet at 6:00 p. m.

Church of God Union Service.

Easter Sunday at the Church of God was featured by a union service with preaching, followed by the ordinances of the church, with East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey churches participating. At 7:30 p. m. there was a delightful "Candle Service" and Easter exercises by the children of the Sunday school. All services were largely attended.

PETOSKEY WILL BE ADVERTISED

Emmet City Votes Summer Fund
Equal to Dollar Per Person

Petoskey will spend $5,000 this year to advertise itself, one dollar for every citizen.

This is not a Chamber of Commerce fund but is a municipal advertising fund authorized by the voters of Petoskey at the spring election.

The 1920 census credits Petoskey with a population of 5,064, or, according to the same census, approximately half the population of Traverse City.

The Petoskey Evening News reports that "Petoskey people voted to continue the yearly advertising appropriation of $5,000 for use in advertising the city as a tourist and industrial and farm center, each of the four wards showing favorable sentiment for this worthy and very necessary effort."

Petoskey and Cadillac both adopted daylight saving time for the summer months at their election this week. Petoskey's vote was 646 to 429; Cadillac's was 874 to 330.

WILL ORGANIZE FOR ATHLETICS

C. H. S. WILL PUT TRACK TEAM
IN FIELD THIS SPRING

Indoor Tennis Practice in Gymnasium Has Shown Some Good Material for Competition

According to present plans announced by school officials early this week, Charlevoix high school will be represented in the field of athletics this spring.

Cosch Buchen has a good bunch of material for a track team and as soon as weather conditions permit, outside practice will be started. It is planned to have the local high school represented in several events at the district and regional meets to be held in the near future.

Tennis practice has been in progress in the gymnasium for some time. Several of the high school boys have shown excellent form in this sport and should give a good account of themselves in competition.

The success of tennis as a school sports this year, however, depends on whether the two courts on the school grounds are placed in condition for play. They are in poor condition and badly in need of re-surfacing. If the work of re-conditioning was started at once the courts could be placed in shape for a local school tournament and any outside competition that might be arranged.

The annual school tennis tournament has drawn considerable interest in past years. Charlevoix has had some very good material and have been represented in tournaments of the region.

IMPROVEMENTS ON COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS

Work Started on Construction of Grand Stand and Pavilion

Richard Lewis, Kit Carson and Pete Bulow, of East Jordan, Charlevoix County Fair officials, were in the city Tuesday arranging for the distribution of tickets for the $2000.00 in prizes to be given away during fair week this year.

According to these gentlemen, work has already started on the construction of a large, commodious grand stand and a dance pavilion on the fair grounds, improvements that were not only greatly needed, but which will be greatly appreciated by fair patrons.

KORTH'S MARKET SET- TLED IN NEW LOCATION

R. C. Korth moved his grocery and meat market to its new location in the Bridge building the latter part of last week and is now doing business in the new stand. The present site offers better facilities in larger display windows and floor space and should prove a profitable move for the owner. New fixtures are being installed and when finished the store will present a very inviting appearance.

W. R. C. Baxter Post will give a 15c tea at the home of Mrs. Jack Rugbee, on south State street, Thursday afternoon, April 19. Everybody welcome.—Adv. 15-11.

The Pythian Sisters will hold a Baked Goods Sale at Korth's Market on Saturday, April 14.—Adv. 15-11.

BUSINESS PLACES ARE DRESSING UP

MANY IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY FOR SUMMER SEASON

City Hums With Activity As Store Owners Make Preparations For Resort Trade

Charlevoix business places are busy in preparation for the summer season. On every hand one may see improvements being made from day to day where owners of business establishments are making changes aimed to make their stores more attractive, and facilitate handling trade.

This week we see work in progress at the Charlevoix Hardware company, where new floors and back-grounds are being built in their display windows. The floor has been raised nearly six inches to a level with the bottoms of the large plate glass windows. The solid back-grounds have been replaced with a rail and lattice effect, which adds more light to the main floor of the store.

Work of re-decorating and re-furnishing the reception room of D. T. Mellugh's office on Park avenue is now nearly completed. The wall finish is done in a plastic wall composition of beautiful green shade with the woodwork and doors of the same material only in a lavender color. An imitation fireplace on the west wall of the room is of the same plastic composition with a brick hearth and hardwood mantle of mahogany finish. This piece of work is very attractive and an innovation along this line. The finish above mentioned which is the same as was used in Dr. Wiader's new offices, follows the finish used extensively by Spanish and Italian architects. Mr. Mellugh invites inspection of his offices at any time.

Extensive improvements are also under way at the Hotel Charlevoix. Table space in the dining room is being enlarged by removal of counters formerly used for restaurant service. This service will be continued as before with patrons using tables instead of the counter. The dining room is also being re-decorated. Other improvements are being made in the suite of rooms occupied by the Winder family. Walls have been re-plastered, hardwood floors laid and new plumbing fixtures installed. The addition of a fireplace has greatly enhanced the appearance of the suite, which has been re-modeled to a great extent. It is the intention of the hotel management to use these rooms for private parties when an occasion requires.

The new location of McCann's bakery is the scene of great activity as we go to press. The interior of the store has been re-modeled to suit the requirements of a bakery and machinery is being rapidly installed. The oven was installed early this week and baking done in the new location for the first time Wednesday. It is planned to have the two display windows enclosed in glass, and windows will be cut through the south wall to give more light in the work room, which has been separated from the salesroom by a partition. The entire interior of the store will be re-decorated. Announcement of the opening day, which will be featured by lunch free to all visitors, will be made later.

TEN MEN WILL ON BASKETBALL SQUAD

Presentation Made Monday Morning
by Coach Buchen

Ten members of the 1927-28 C. H. S. basketball team, who won the district championship at Boyne City and then repeated for the regional title at Petoskey, were presented with letters Monday morning.

The presentation was made in the high school assembly room by Coach Tex Buchen. Those receiving their "C's" were Lyle Beaudoin, Billy Novak, Maxwell Novak, Dick Marshall, Billy Supernaw, John Williams, Elwin Kling, Vick Smith and Bud Gill, student manager. The presentations were made amid generous applause from the student body.

BYERS ANNOUNCES A COMMUNITY AUCTION

W. E. Byers, local auctioneer, has announced that he will hold a community auction sale in Charlevoix in the near future. Anyone having goods they wish to dispose of are requested to communicate with him.

CORRESPONDENCE

NORWOOD

Ralph Price of Ironton, was a business caller in Norwood one day last week.

J. K. Ypma has begun his summer's work of painting and decorating in Charlevoix.

Lynn Mayne, who has spent the past month with his parents, left for Grand Rapids Saturday.

George Lord is spending a few days in Charlevoix with his daughter, Mrs. Colen McKenzie and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Pearl of Charlevoix, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull Friday evening.

Several farmers made a trip to Ellsworth last week to get seed peas to plant for the Leonard Seed Co.

Mrs. Plenny Genett had "cherry blossoms" for Easter Sunday table decorations instead of Easter lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Henry and daughter returned Monday from a very enjoyable trip to Muskegon last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Allen of Charlevoix, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Publow Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Beard, accompanied by Mr. Beard's mother from Petoskey, were Easter Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Dice.

Mrs. Rosie Genett, who spent the winter at Bellaire with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Genett, is now with Mr. and Mrs. Plenny Genett.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Empey and son, Guy, visited Mr. and Mrs. Percy Empey and family, who recently moved onto the Waller farm, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Merrill Richardson spent Saturday with her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dunn of Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunn returned with Mrs. Richardson and enjoyed Easter Sunday with the Richardson family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Light and son, George Jr., closed their home in Norwood and left for East Jordan Sunday, where Mr. Light has accepted a position with the Northern Auto Co.

The community regret to see them leave Norwood and wish them success in their new location.

R. T. Davis, road commissioner, has made a special effort to keep U. S. 31 in a passable condition by packing the holes and ruts with baled hay.

The frost leaving the ground in the early thaw and heavy rains left the road in bad condition.

Geo. Dougherty of Barnard, was in this locality Monday, writing insurance for the grange.

Take advantage of the break in price of Certain-Teed Shingles and Roofing and do your roof repairing now. The low cost will surprise you. Louis S. Orlovski.—Adv. 12-1f.

HORTON, BAY

Mrs. Robert West, who was very ill, is able to be up again.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Shaw and family left Thursday for their new home in Detroit.

Miss Violet Ward was the guest of Miss Virginia Smith during the week vacation.

Our young people are again at their school work after enjoying the spring vacation.

Mrs. Robert West entertained the E. V. Ladies' Aid Society Thursday. A large crowd attended.

Feel Miserable This Spring?

To Be Well Your Kidneys Must Function Properly.

SPRING find you tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and aching, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage? Too often this indicates sluggish kidneys and shouldn't be neglected. Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's are endorsed everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Millions of Model T Fords are still in active service

FOR nearly twenty years, the Model T Ford led the motor industry and it still is used by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service today—an indication of their sturdy worth, reliability and economy.

Because of the tremendous investment which people have in these cars and because so many of them will be driven for two, three, and even five more years, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make replacement parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

For the Ford Motor Company has always believed that its full duty consists not only in making a good automobile at a low price, but also in keeping it running efficiently for you as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

No matter where you live, therefore, you can still buy Model T Ford parts with the same assurance as formerly, knowing that they will give you the kind of service you have a right to expect, and at the same time protect the money you have invested in your car.

All Ford replacement parts, as you may know, are made of the same materials and in the same way as those from which your car was originally assembled, and are low in price because of the established Ford policy.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T Ford over the longest period of time, we suggest that you take the car to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts which may be necessary. You may find that a very small expenditure will maintain the value of your car and will be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

Never again say--

Is that all you paid for this . . . ?

Where did you ever find these . . . ?

Why, it cost me nearly twice that much!

Do tell me where you get them for that!

How do you ever manage so well on so little?

But aren't they awfully expensive?

I wish I could do it.

Read the advertisements. Know what you want before you go to buy. Get most for your money by knowing what manufacturers and merchants are offering.

Advertisements will keep you abreast of the times. They will enable you to spend the family income wisely.

They will help you to live better at less cost. Merchants who advertise are deserving of your patronage.

Then—when remarks similar to those above are made to you, pass on this good advice, for all who want the best at the least cost—read advertisements.

AT THE MOVIES

Bancroft's Film About Oil
George Bancroft's first starring vehicle for Paramount is a powerful drama built about the oil fields, entitled, "The Showdown," which comes to the Palace Theatre for a two-day run Saturday and Sunday.

The play has been adapted from the stage play, "Wildcat" by Houston Barnach which enjoyed a long run in the cities.

"The Showdown" will present the smiling "Bull" Wood of "Underworld" as a happy-go-lucky wild-catcher, a man with an uncanny sense in locating oil.

Melphie Menjou is New District Type of Role

Adolphe Menjou, the world's most famous "other man," by virtue of his ability on the screen—of stealing feminine hearts, plays the part of the dashing Captain Ferrol of the French-American Chausseurs in his latest Paramount starring vehicle, "A Night of Mystery," which comes to the screen of the Palace Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

Adapted from the stage play "Captain Ferrol," by Sardou, this Menjou production is hailed as one of the most distinctive in which he has ever appeared.

He spurns the love of a married woman for the sweet affection of a single girl; he appears in several scenes as a Sahara desert heik, riding a camel and wearing a tropical headress and burnous. He sees a man murdered, then voluntarily confesses to the deed in order to save the reputation of the married woman who love him, at the same time saving the life of the brother of his fiancée.

Why buy performance that CHRYSLER "72" has obsoleted?.....

Illustrious New Chrysler "72"
Crown Sedan $1795

CHRYSLER "72" performance obsoletes all other performance at its price or even for $1000 more.

The first Chrysler, four years ago, put in the discard the cumbersome, bulky vehicles of its day.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices

Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments.

Chrysler "72" performance widens that margin of superiority.

No other car today approaches it for roadability, hill climbing, acceleration, dependability, comfort, ease of handling, style, safety, long life and appearance.

For Chrysler's engineering genius and precision manufacture have gone steadily forward to greater heights.

That is why the "72" today gives you performance that sets the pace for the entire industry for years to come. 75 brake horsepower. 72 miles and more per hour. Vibrationless smoothness that only a Chrysler counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft can give. Flashing acceleration in traffic. There are no hills to the "72."

Longer chassis with no side-sway—spring ends mounted in rubber shock insulators give consummate ease of riding.

Why pay a premium for the out-of-date performance others give? See and ride in the Chrysler "72." You will realize then how Chrysler "72"—at less money—makes a dead letter of all other performance in its field today.

BUSINESS IS SOUND

There are many opinions and few facts offered at the present time concerning both trade reaction and employment. Exaggerated figures announcing an apparent slump are widely circulated and with the so-called unemployment figures there has been political ballooning. If a statement is repeated often enough and emphatically enough it may produce a psychological effect of a serious character. Therefore it would be wise to pay little attention to this talk of trade reaction and unemployment so far as general statements are concerned, while at the same time making your own survey and establishing your own indefinite facts before arriving at a conclusion. There are those who appear worried over what they read in the newspapers which voice political, communistic or unionistic statements. How does it come that some time ago when there was a 20 per cent decrease in monthly steel production there was no particular clamor about trade reaction. Today, however, when the decrease is only about 6 per cent, there is a hue and cry of prospective trouble. It is a fact that there has been no industrial speculation, no bidding up of prices, no over-production and there are no forced sales by producers worried about their inventories. In other words, the fundamental situation is sound even if there be a seasonal or normal reaction.

A LESSON IN COMPARISON

Suppose armed thugs were to slay on an average of 3,100 people in this state during a single year, how long do you think it would be until Michigan resembled an armed camp until they were driven out of the killing business? Do you think for a moment the public would sit idly by and allow this useless waste of human life to go on year after year without hardly a single protest? We don't think so. Yet that is exactly what is happening today, only instead of thugs and bandits it is tuberculosis that is yearly exacting this terrific toll. From 1917 to 1927 there were 31,895 deaths in Michigan directly attributed to this dread disease. And yet outside a mere handful of medical men and patriotic citizens not a single effort was made to stay its progress. During the month of March—right this very minute—there is a campaign under way to encourage those who suspect they have symptoms of the disease to consult their family doctor and let the decision rest with him. Physicians are being trained in clinics being held all over the state in the practical ways of conducting tubercular tests. If you tire easy, if you have a cough that lingers, if you are experiencing loss of weight, your appetite is slowly failing, if you have an afternoon fever, any of these symptoms may be a sign that something is wrong. Don't delay—delays are dangerous—let your doctor decide.

EDUCATION IN POLITICS

It is generally true that the people who do the most criticizing of politicians, of the way our political parties are conducted and the way our government is run, are the ones who take the least interest in fundamental politics themselves. The only way, of course, that politics can be made better and government improved, is by educating more people in politics and inducing them to take more interest in the great American game.

In a recent magazine article no less a personage than Chief Justice William H. Taft expressed the hope that the day may soon come when the young men and young women of the United States will take a greater interest in politics, and will be encouraged to become real politicians in the best sense of the word. Judge Taft is aware that some of the best people in the different American communities have little, if anything, to do with politics so that such matters are continually left to the professional politicians. Now the professional politicians may be pretty good fellows but they need the support and co-operation of the real constructive people of the country.

When the politician fails to live up to expectations, there is a loud complaint from the press and the public. Yet the people who ought to take part in politics and fail to do so, are partly to blame. They have failed to exercise all their duties as citizens and disappointment is naturally the result.

Why not have educational training in politics as well as in other branches of public effort? The youth of the land have been taught to avoid politics. They have been told that there is more money and more honor in business and other professions. Perhaps this is true, but it remains the fact that politics is very important to the welfare of the community, the state and the nation. If neglected, it is not the politicians alone who will be ruined. Business will suffer too, just as it always suffers when we depart from the fundamental principles of American government. Why not a little more education in politics for all of us?

THE JOY OF WORKING

Most of us are getting more fun out of our work than we realize. Looking back, how amusing were those early years between twenty and twenty-five or between twenty-five and thirty. What jokes we played, what parties we had! The days which seemed hard now enrich our memories.

This year's this decade's struggle will seem equally sweet and eventful when time has healed a few of the scars. What I hope to suggest is that with effort to overcome obstacles, without a fight to master our circumstances, we are scarcely living at all. The harder and more vividly we live the more happiness we get out of life. The best hours are those that involve making a living—William Feather in the Imperial Type Metal Magazine.

STABLE AND RESPECTED

The agitation for farm relief comes from two different groups of people, those who sincerely care for the farmers' welfare and those who love him for his vote.

Of the first group there are many, of the second many more.

No doubt agriculture is confronted with serious problems, not so much of production as of market. No doubt we should do everything in our power to improve the status of this fundamental industry. If it is poor, let us help it. If it is good, let us make it better.

But we often wonder if those who talk of depressed agriculture fully realize the conditions in other industries with other peoples.

We read the earnings of General Motors, but we do not remember that a vast majority of those companies which started in to make cars have failed with tremendous losses in capital and investment.

When the United States Steel Corporation distributed some of its accumulated earnings of a quarter century, we talked of steel prosperity. But the iron and steel industry of the United States earned 3.67 per cent on its investment in 1926 and harassing competition is forcing consolidation or failure.

We hear of the profits of mining and oil, but the last report of the federal income tax division shows that the general mining and quarrying industry, with a gross volume of business in excess of four billion dollars, operated at a loss. We read of the strikes in oil and minerals, not the failures. If we stressed the failures the mining industry could demand recognition for its relief.

The local mercantile business was once confident that it was well established. Then came the catalogue house. Local grocery stores represented the most stable mercantile establishments, then came the chain stores, which within ten years have developed to take a third of the retail grocery trade.

Experts in business tell us that when they hear of a hundred new stores of a certain type they know at the end of a year only 35 will be left and only three business enterprises out of a hundred started eventually succeed.

But many farmers are jealous of those who work for wages, and high wages in a city do look attractive from the distance.

Yet, here again we look upon the wages of those who are employed. We do not see those who may be tramping the streets looking for work and envious of the food and comfort of the farm. We do not see the pay check after it has been diminished by rent, fuel and necessities which the farm produces. We do not see the remnant of the pay check because there is nothing left to see.

All things are good or bad by comparison.

There was a time when agriculture represented serfdom. In many countries it still does.

In the United States, decade by decade, year by year, agriculture represents the most stable industry.

Let us recognize this fact. It need not deter us in any effort to further stabilize and improve that industry.

"AMERICAN FOREST WEEK"

President Calvin Coolidge has officially designated the week of April 22-28 for a nation-wide observance of the annual "American Forest Week." Michigan is vitally interested in such a movement. Our forest problems practically transcend all other problems confronting the commonwealth. How to restore, how to preserve our forests is a vital question. Not only do we need to restore the once beautiful timberlands of the north country for their intrinsic value, but also for the scenic beauty of growing trees as a perpetual attraction to summer tourists. We must grow trees, not for this generation alone, but for all the generations to follow. We must provide adequate fire protection, we must encourage reforestation, we must instill love for growing trees in the heart of every citizen, for growing trees are the supreme handiwork of nature, and the dividends they pay are a thousandfold.

ATTACKS ON CORPORATIONS

Every demagogue on an average of five times a year takes a fall out of the corporations. He pictures them with a sinister conscience, a malevolent brain and a purpose to destroy the common people. Of course, he carefully avoids mentioning that the corporations are made up of individual stockholders, most of them investing their savings in the stocks of the corporation, and if a public mass meeting of these stockholders were held there would be revealed probably the mildest mannered assemblage that it is possible to imagine. Some of them would be union men themselves, some of them would be small shopkeepers, there would be plenty of widows and orphans, there would be some builders and workers of the soil, there would be the backbone of the American nation. But they would be ignored by the demagogue. He pictures the corporation as something inimical to the public welfare. But some of these corporations are not so wealthy after all. In the nine years ending 1926 nearly 34 per cent of all corporations reported no net income, and in 1921 about 52 per cent of them reported no net income. But what would the demagogue do for a living if there were no corporations, if there were no railroads owned by the people, if there was not something for him to condemn? This is a presidential election year and woe betide the corporations, the railroads, industry, the bankers and those others who are really the principal assets of our demagogic critics.

BUY AN INCOME

Many persons seem to feel that if they should save money they would lose the use and benefits of a portion of their income and that they would rather have the use of this money for the pressing needs or desires of today than set it aside for the indefinite demands of the future.

But when you save money through deposit in a bank or through investment in a good bond you are in reality buying an income.

This thought should be given greater currency, for we are all looking for greater incomes.

The distinction between speculation and investment should not be overlooked. Those who are seeking an abnormal return on their money are not investors, and the money they put out does not necessarily buy an income. For the possibility of securing larger returns on their funds than the average sound investment yields, they accept the chance of recovering nothing or even risk the loss of their principal.

The surest and safest method of getting an increase in your income is to buy it.—Thrift Magazine.

Savings represent much more than mere money value. They are the proof that the saver is worth something in himself. Any fool can muddle, any fool can waste, but it takes something more of a man to save and the more he saves the more of a man he makes of himself. Waste and extravagance unsettle a man's mind for every crisis. Thrift, which means some form of self-restraint, steadies it.—Rudyard Kipling.

WE BELIEVE IT

"I believe that, because of the low prices at which land can be secured, now is the most opportune time we have experienced in thirty years for the procurement of a farm. The young man who wants to follow agriculture should not overlook this wonderful opportunity.

"Agriculture in this country is, always has been, and I believe, always will be a sound, solvent business.

"Practically all of the acceptable farm lands are now under cultivation. Increased population places 4,000 more mouths at Uncle Sam's breakfast table every morning.

"The farmer of the future will most certainly have more reason to be thankful than the farmer of the recent past. There is plenty of evidence to bear out that view.

"The best informed men in the agricultural field are convinced that the next ten or fifteen years will see farming advance into a period of remarkable prosperity."—Secy. of Agriculture Dunlap.

UNFAIR INVESTIGATIONS

A vote will be taken in the United States senate this week on the Walsh resolution, demanding senatorial investigation of the utilities of the country without regard to their past conduct, honesty or business efficiency. Here is the spectacle of a man, himself a presidential candidate, who for the sake of notoriety would imperil the greatest single agency in this country for prosperity. The utility companies have no objection to an honest investigation, conducted by a commission possessing the necessary means and qualifications to conduct such an inquiry, such as the Federal Trade Commission or the Interstate Commerce Commission, but they do have a right to protest against any investigation brought for the purpose of advancing the personal interest of a self-starting seeker of publicity at the cost of the business interests of the nation. It is time that the citizens of this country, who are served, and whose prosperity and comfort so much depends upon the honest treatment of our industrial structure, should arise and drive these destroyers from high public places.

THE TIDE IS TURNING

The farm-to-city migration, which has been so pronounced in recent years, seems to be slackening, according to a report of the bureau of agriculture economics for 1927, which has just been made public. The report finds that the net gain of cities from rural population last year was 604,000. In 1926 the gain was 834,000, while in 1925, there was a peak movement of 1,026,000 cityward. This is an encouraging situation, because the country needs a well sustained population on the land to continue our national prosperity, and no movement towards the country will take place unless it is apparent there are prospects for betterment for those making the change. Of those returning to the country last year, 87 out of each hundred had had farm experience. With conditions on the farms growing better, with land prices the lowest in years, it would seem that there is still an opportunity for those who would wrest health and fortune from the soil.

SMILE AND THE WORLD SMILES WITH YOU

A truer statement was never made. Test it out for yourself. When you get up in the morning, get up with a smile, meet your family and your friends with a smile—see what a big improvement it makes in your day.

Smiling will get work done quickly and efficiently. Smiling is so much easier to do than frowning. The frown of determination may well and profitably be replaced by the smile of willingness to serve.

Smile at neighbor Jones and he will smile at you.

Smiles tend toward happiness in the home and in the community. It carries with it its own reward—a knowledge that each day we are doing our share toward making this a better and happier place in which to live.

Smiles make little troubles out of big ones, and little troubles disappear entirely when met with a smile.

Let's make this a town of smiles and miles of smiles.

LIBERTY

What constitutes the bulwark of our liberty and independence? It is not our frowning battlements, our bristling sea-coasts, our army and our navy. Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prizes liberty as the heritage of all men in all lands everywhere. Destroy this spirit and you have planted the seeds of despotism at your own doors.—Lincoln.

VALUE OF A DOLLAR

The value of a dollar is to buy just things; a dollar goes on increasing in value with all the genius and all the virtue of the world. A dollar in a university is worth more than a dollar in a jail; in a temperate, schooled, law-abiding community than in some sink of crime.—Emerson.

FRESHENING BREEZES

About all that appears left for Mr. Kresge is to endorse some brand of cigarettes.

What has become of the old-fashioned hired man who used to get back in time to help with the chores on Sunday evening?

The old-fashioned wife who used to reach for a rolling-pin occasionally during a family argument, now has a flapper granddaughter who shoots first and afterwards makes goo-goo eyes at the jury.

What a lot of pleasure Mr. Darwin could have if he were only here this coming summer to watch the boys put tiger stripes on the mule.

The farmer who fails to have a field of alfalfa can be sure of two things: Both he and the cows will have slim picking.

The cotton stocking manufacturers should not complain. Just see what happened to the rag peddlers.

The best we can hope for now is to arrange an armistice with Mr. Borah.

So far as we are concerned the favorite son movement will never be a success until some state endorses Dr. Cook.

A pioneer is a fellow who can remember when just the castoff petticoats kept the family in tinware.

State taxes on general property are only a small portion of the taxes we have to pay. The bulk of them are the county, school district and city levies.

Prof. Irving Fisher predicts that by 1999 the average span of human life will be eighty years. Not if the present increase in traffic continues.

The divine sanity of noble minds, that never falters, nor abates, but labors, endures, and waits, till all that it forces it finds, or what it cannot find creates.—Longfellow.

Pedestrians are being warned to walk on the left side of the road. They are safer from woman drivers.

If everybody had the optimism of a seed catalogue what a wonderful world this would be.

AND NOW IN CLOSING—

When we get so we can remember that a home in the country, a cow, a couple pigs, a flock of hens and an old-fashioned curd are never in need of a spare tire or a quart of cylinder oil, then it can be said we are safely on the way towards the millennium.

Dr. Claire Cartier of Grand Rapids, spent the week end in the city with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cartier. He was accompanied by his brother and sister, Stanley and Betty, who had been spending a few days in the Rapids.

E. V. Madison of Rainy River, Ontario, arrived in Charlevoix Monday for a few days visit among old friends and acquaintances. E. V. says winter has been a mild one in his territory, expressing great surprise at local weather conditions.

Funeral services for Alfred Thompson, former Charlevoix resident who died in St. Louis, Mo., were held last Friday morning at 11 o'clock from the home of his sister, Mrs. William Taylor on Dixon avenue.

Rev. John E. Lockyer officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shapton and son, Dick, who have been spending the winter in Miami, Florida, left that city April 9 for Charlevoix. We hope they will blow in on a balmy summer breeze—something like they have been accustomed to where they have spent the winter.

Mrs. Mary Wyers and daughter, Mrs. Ruth Myers and her son, Delbert, of Holland, Michigan, were in Charlevoix the first of this week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Delbert Wyers, held Monday afternoon in Boyne City. Mrs. Delbert Wyers died last Friday in Detroit.

A large representation from Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, Knights of Pythias, went to East Jordan Wednesday for a get-together meeting. The afternoon was featured by an indoor baseball game between the Charlevoix and East Jordan lodges, followed by a "feed" and degree work in the evening.

Oluf Nordrum returned last Saturday from an inspection trip of Booth Fisheries interests on Lake Michigan. He reports fishing operations in progress at Ludington, Manistee, Frankfort and other places along the line. There is a great demand for fish at the present time on account of the Jewish holidays.

Paul Winder, accompanied by his friend, Miss Louise Ratcliff of Shreveport, La., are spending their vacation from the University of Michigan at the home of Mr. Winder's parents here. They will return Saturday in company with Dr. Winder, who goes to Detroit to attend the state dental convention.

"Oh, there's no danger, Gay, not a bit of it. I'll be careful, I promise you. Just a little weather eye out for squalls. No, I am going to Boston. I have gone to Boston. Get that in your mind, and stick to it. I shan't be able to write you, and I may not be home for several days. Just wait for me, and don't worry."

But Gay did worry, worried heart-breakingly. But she would not go to Aunt Lucretia. Rand might come, and she wished to be there, waiting for him where he left her. He might need her—a shot in the night, a scream of terror—Gay set her small sleek head determinedly. Nothing, nothing in the world should keep her from going to him in answer if he called for help.

She was glad for the excitement of the Christmas preparations to occupy her hands, if not her thoughts, through the dreary days that intervened.

It never occurred to her that he would not be back by the twenty-fourth of December for the party on Christmas eve. But the morning passed, and he did not come. Gay had no heart for the laughter, the young excitement of the island lovers, the flushed joyousness of Aunt Lucretia. Rand did not come. It would be Christmas eve, her Christmas eve, and Rand did not come.

At three o'clock Gay took Aunt Lucretia by the hand and led her down to the Apple Tree, where she put her bodily to bed, tucking the blankets about her and begging her to take a sally needed rest.

So it could have been but very little after three when she softly closed the door of the Apple Tree behind her and set her feet in the path through the snow to the top of the hill. And glancing up, ahead of her in the path, saw a man walking toward the cottage. Gay almost called out to him, expecting Rand, because she wanted Rand. But before sound left her lips she silenced the call, for she saw that it was a stranger, one who seemed to make his way unsteadily in the face of the brisk wind from the sea, staggering a little.

When he reached the piazza of the Lone Pine, he did not wait to knock, not opened the door slowly and went in, closing it after him. Gay was but a little way behind, and she ran in breathlessly, hat stopped short in surprise when she did not find him in the living room nor the kitchen.

"Hello," she called. "Hello! Anybody up there?" But received no answer.

Frightened by the unnatural silence, and mindful of Rand's words of warning, she went to the desk, slipped her pistol deftly into the pocket of her heavy coat, and then she climbed the stairs, watchful and alert.

And there indeed she found him, lying face downward on the soft rug of the bedroom floor.

"What are you doing?" she demanded foolishly. "What do you want?"

He neither moved nor answered. So Gay went to him timidly and bent over him that she might see his face. His eyes were closed, his lips hard set. She tried to raise him, but his head fell limply from her hands.

She shrunk away from him, shuddering with fear.

EDITORIALS

HOOVER AND THE FARMERS

Primary election takes place April 2. Because of the fact that there is no contest, the interest in the election is diminishing. Hoover sentiment among the republicans was definitely evidenced in the very general signing of petitions. Signatures totalling 104,000 were filed for Mr. Hoover in Lansing, February 29. The Hoover committee later reported over 12,000 additional signatures on petitions which did not reach them in time to be included. The obvious lack of necessity for the primary is not discouraging friends of the Hoover program. Strange though it may seem, the most enthusiastic Hoover friends are now found among the agricultural interests in Michigan. When the campaign first opened, wise politicians believed that the two candidates likely to contest for the support of Michigan republicans would be Hoover and Lowden. Farmers throughout the state have carefully investigated Hoover's attitude with regard to the price of wheat.

Economists generally recognize the problem which faced world-wide business interests at the conclusion of the World War. Every large business and industry suffered from the extraordinary inflation and price advancement incident to a continuance of the war. The slump which followed in every line would have resulted in economic disaster unparalleled in the world's history, if there had been a crash in wheat similar to the deflation in other lines. The inside story of the prevention of that crash proves conclusively that Hoover stood out against the united democratic influences, led by Carter Glass, who at that time dominated the financial aspect of the democratic organization. Hoover likewise found it necessary to contend against the united front of the political and financial activities of the allies, headed by Great Britain. The wisdom of his stand for the maintenance of a reasonable price on wheat was definitely demonstrated later on. The facts concerning the inside history of that stand now are rising to confound his opponents and to increase his popularity among the farmers.

THOSE WHO SERVE

Without the financial support offered to the women of the congregation, many country churches would be forced to close their doors. There is nothing that makes one feel that there is a case of declining community spirit, like seeing a country church that has been abandoned to the elements. It strikes a feeling that the old-fashioned faith of the forefathers has been discarded for modern day idols that speak of the flesh instead of the soul.

Here is how the ladies of the Prairie Dell church of Watseka county, Illinois, solved the problem of church finances in a rural community that had more than its share of financial ailments during the past few years of farm depression: When ever an auction sale was advertised in the neighborhood of the church, a line, "The ladies of the Prairie Dell church will serve lunch," was placed at the bottom of the sale bills. In a little while the ladies became famous for the excellence and cheapness of the meals they served. Many people were attracted to sales on that account. Instead of serving lunch at a few local sales, they were soon being invited to different parts of the county. Their church is now enjoying prosperity and many social problems of the rural section are being worked out.

Religion entails a sacrifice now, as it always has. It might not be possible for every rural church organization to follow the example of the Prairie Dell ladies, but where there is a determination to keep the bell in the country church ringing on Sunday mornings, a way can be found. Don't let the doors of your neighborhood church be closed. It is the solid rock foundation upon which a nation, tired with jazz music, companionate marriages, easy divorces, crime waves and so-called religious freedom, will some day come to rest upon again.

PUBLIC BUILDING YEAR

From all indications it is going to be another big building year. In 1927 the nation invested $6,000,000,000 in construction work, and it is expected that the amount will be larger in 1928.

It will not be so much in homes. The housing shortage has been about made up. There will still be plenty of house building, but there will not be much urgency about that. Those who have money, and there are many, will build bigger or better houses; but generally speaking, people won't feel driven to it.

The big things this year will be public works and public utility construction. Roads, bridges, waterways, power houses and other power lines, factories, railroad stations, school houses, city halls and other public buildings, for these it will be a notable year.

First necessity, then beauty and grandeur—that's the way it goes. The American building area has just started. What Athens and Rome were once, in architectural beauty, many of our cities will be within a few decades.

THE SENSE OF DUTY

I honor any man who in the conscious discharge of his duty dares to stand alone; the world, with ignorant, intolerant judgment, may condemn; the countenances of relatives may be averted; and the hearts of friends grow cold; but the sense of duty done shall be sweeter than the applause of the world, the countenances of relatives, or the hearts of friends.—Charles Sumner.

Don't forget to greet the stranger within Charlevoix with a pleasant smile.

THE DODGE STANDARD Six

GETS AWAY QUICKER AND GOES FASTER THAN ANY CAR UNDER $1000 STAUNCH AND DEPENDABLE

Flashing suddenly into the American market, the Dodge Standard Six has swept instantly forward to spectacular success. . . . Not alone because it is the fastest Six in the world selling below $1000, but also because it possesses more style, luxury and roominess.

And because it is Dodge-staunch and Dodge-dependable; built to carry one horsepower for every 47 pounds of car weight! A fact that explains its amazing speed, pick-up and power on the hills.

Drive this remarkable car today and you will understand why its performance is the talk of the country.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Chicken shortcake is boned stewed chicken in its own gravy, slightly thickened, served on biscuits.

A few glasses of strawberry or rhubarb preserves made this spring will be handy for Christmas gifts next winter.

Try borax and water for a tea stain, or keep the stain moist with lemon juice and expose it to the sun for a day or two.

Cotton charmeuse is an excellent material for smocks and house dresses, and, because of its smooth, soft texture, for baby's first rompers.

The way to get rid of flies is to eliminate their breeding places. Destroy any that get in the house or hatch unnoticed. Put up screens at the earliest possible time in the spring. See that all screens and doors fit closely.

Paris green, it was discovered recently, is effective in killing malarial mosquito larva in swamps. The bureau of entomology of the United States department of agriculture has found that Paris green dust may be successfully applied from the air by airplanes. The demand for the poison has been increased by this new use.

The incubator should be disinfected thoroughly after each hatch, the disinfectant being thoroughly applied to all interior parts after the machine has been cleaned and all dirt and down removed. Care should be taken to use an efficient disinfectant, such as saponified cresol solution. After the hatching season is over, clean and disinfect the incubator, empty the lamp, and carefully store the parts inside the machine.

The large losses to oat growers caused by the smut diseases can be almost wholly prevented by disinfecting the seed with formaldehyde shortly before sowing. One pint of formaldehyde added to 40 gallons of water is enough to treat 50 bushels of seed. Sprinkle the solution on the seed while it is being shoveled from one pile to another, cover with blankets and leave for at least two hours, or over night. Care to avoid freezing or heating is essential, and if sowing is delayed the seed should be spread out and dried.

Farm fires each year take the lives of about 3,500 people and destroy or damage property to the extent of $150,000,000. The principal causes of fire in order of their national importance, according to David J. Price and Harry E. Roethe of the United States department of agriculture, are: lightning, defective chimneys and heating apparatus, sparks on combustible roofs, careless use of matches and smoking, spontaneous ignition of hay and other agricultural products, careless handling and storage of gasoline and kerosene, and faulty wiring and improper use of electrical appliances.

LAST TRIP OF SPRING TO BEAVER

Mail Carriers Cross In What Likely Will Be Closing Effort

Alfonzo Sandenberg, St. James to Cross Village mail carrier, in company with his brother, Joe Sandenberg, made what probably was their last trip between the Lake Michigan islands and the mainland last weekend. They crossed by ear after deciding the ice was too weak to support a pony.

Crossing from the Islands they brought a load of outgoing mail, and in the return home carried their car entirely filled with letters, papers and packages for the residents of St. James and the farm section of the Beavers.

Cross Village residents showed surprise at the appearance of the men, having considered the ice too weak for another attempt. They expressed concern at the start of the return trip, but were relieved with word that the men had reached St. James safely.

Continued warm weather and last night's rain storm have caused the ice to weaken and become honeycombed and dangerous to both men and beast.—Petoskey Evening News.

NEW VARIETY OF BARLEY RELEASED

Five Bushels to Be Grown By Marion Center Farmer

Charlevoix county farmers, who are interested in growing barley, will be highly elated in the knowledge that the new variety, Spartan, just released by the plant breeders of the Michigan State College, will no doubt be available this fall.

Five bushels of this new barley has been purchased by Jay Adams of Marlon township, who will grow it under the supervision, inspection and requirements of the Michigan Crop Improvement Association for the purpose of maintaining its purity and for furnishing a foundation stock for farmers who wish to grow this highly improved variety of barley.

It is a white, barless, two-row barley and in the recent tests covering a period of several years has out-yielded the Michigan black barless and the Wisconsin pedigree by quite a large per cent.

With a larger acreage devoted to barley, every year every farmer should be interested in securing seed this fall from this high yielder. From time to time more information will be given on the progress of this demonstration.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Notwithstanding the severe and unpleasant weather, Easter was greatly enjoyed. A large audience greeted the primary department in their Easter program. The teachers have reason to be proud of their training of the little folks.

The ordinance of baptism was administered to several and others are asking for it, not as a "sacrament," but as a "testimony of discipleship." Baptists do not believe baptism saves.

The choir accompanied the pastor to Eastport for the afternoon service. They delighted the audience with their Easter music and received a hearty invitation to come again. We will hope for better roads and more pleasant weather next time.

The pastor will preach morning and evening next Sunday. All other services will be as usual.

A cordial welcome for all who come.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN BOYS CONFERENCE

Will Meet in Petoskey on Saturday, April 21st

The first conference for boys of Northern Michigan will be held at Petoskey, April 21, under the auspices of the state Young Men's Christian Association and a cooperating committee, representing participating towns. Indications point to attendance from twenty-seven different communities, representing boys and young men and adult leaders from schools, Sunday schools, churches and other interested organizations.

It is estimated that two hundred boys will be present for this meeting which will begin at 9:30 central standard time and carry through an evening banquet.

Boys from 14 to 20 years of age—accompanied by adult leaders, will be permitted to come. Boys living in isolated districts unattached to groups, may get information and registration cards by writing to Lawrence Foley, Petoskey or E. A. Byrum, 423 Association Building, Detroit.

At a meeting at Petoskey Saturday night, it was decided to charge a registration fee of one dollar and a half, which includes noon luncheon and banquet in the evening. Prominent speakers and leaders from over the state will be present.

A conference for adult leaders on "Work With Boys" will be held during the day. Schools, Chamber of Commerce, Business Men's Clubs and churches are cooperating in sending the boys. Registration should be in Petoskey not later than April 19.

FAKE EARL IS IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Man Who Defrauded Woman of Savings Again in Jail

Deported from the United States, Alfred J. W. Greig, 53, alias the Earl of Dunblane, and his two sons, Alfred Law Greig and Alexander Greig, 30, were arrested in Windsor, Sunday for Toronto authorities charged with fraudulent sale of stocks and bonds. Northern folks remember the "Earl to their sorrow."

Six years ago the "Earl" as manager of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of America, with headquarters in Windsor, promoted a huge investment scheme that netted him $300,000, authorities said.

Most of the investors were from Northern Michigan, and Greig was convicted at Charlevoix in November 1922, of defrauding a widow of $800. He was sentenced to two and a half to five years at Jackson prison.

At Greig's trial, it was found that he had two wives, one living in Toronto and mother of the two sons arrested with him Sunday, and the other living at Cheboygan with two children, and known as the Countess of Dunblane.

The Greigs were arrested in Chicago two weeks ago and ordered deported.—Petoskey News.

METHODIST CHURCH

John E. Lockyer, Minister

On Sunday we begin a series of sermons looking toward Pentecost Sunday as the next great Sunday in the spiritual life of the church.

At the evening service 7 p. m. there will be shown a fine series of pictures on "The Women of the Bible" or "The Mother of Jesus in the Art of the World." This promises to be an evening with great thoughts and great pictures.

The church school at noon teaches "The Transfiguration Lesson." Epworthians at 6 p. m. will have for topic "Seeing Life Whole." This should have interest for all young folks.

Tuesday at 7 is "Retreat Hour" for Epworthians.

Thursday at 2:30 Literary and Sewing Club meets with Mrs. Henry Bloek on State street.

The mid-week devotional hour is at 7:30 Thursday.

HORTON BAY FARM HOME BURNS TO GROUND

The farm home of Bert Van Hoesen, located about a mile west of Horton Bay on the lake shore, was burned to the ground, Monday, April 2. The fire originated in the upper story gaining considerable headway before discovered and it was only possible to save a few clothes. There was no insurance. Mr. Van Hoesen's aged parents, who made their home with him, are both suffering from the shock.

CHURCH OF GOD

Considerations

Just cannot satisfy everyone. Had one party tell me that if I ever mentioned him here that he would knock my block off. I'll take a chance, tho if he ever does anything worth mentioning. Had another party offering to pay me three times the regular Courier rate if I would slip some stuff in for him. This space is not for sale to anyone, but suggestions will always be most welcome. Still looking for that good suggestive heading.

Clarence Wood had 23,000 little brook trout arrive Tuesday and the water is so high in the streams that he is having to nurse them along for a few days until they can be planted.

Superintendent Dean of the Fish Hatchery told me this morning that he had twenty million white fish and about ten million lake trout, nearly ready to plant. Some mess of fish.

They sure are having a heluva mess up to East Jordan over election. After everyone in their town getting into it, they called on some of the County officers, and now they don't know whether they have even attempted to have an election. Been a lot better if no one had said anything about recounting.

Have rented both of Andy Ross' cottages for the season now. Always do like to get the Scotch taken care of first. They worry so, you know.

Elmer Johnson got his picture in the Grand Rapids Press Tuesday, but for real beauty you still have to hand it to Fred. Elmer can never get the comments from the ladies.

Rented Clarence Wood out of a place to live for the summer. Clarence would never get out before—now see how he likes moving twice in a few weeks.

The Dickens Club should be complimented on securing the Michigan Wild Life lecture and moving pictures presented here Tuesday by James McGillivray. There was a lesson for everyone.

Don't think Miss Flanders would be surprised if someone called and took her for a ride in her own car. They are taking the car right along—without her.

Have twenty-three letters about cottages and if the weather will just warm up it looks as though we would have a good season.

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK APRIL 22-29

SHAKESPEARE CLUB SPONSORING LOCAL ACTIVITIES

Following Article by Arthur Stace Has Bearing on "Michigan Forests of the Future"

Throughout the entire country the week of April 22 to 29 will be observed as American Forest Week. In every town and community of Michigan special effort is being put forth to further the development of state and national forests and the establishment of community and county forests.

Forward in this movement in Charlevoix is the Shakespeare Study Club, which has been sponsoring a conservation and city beautification program for several weeks. At their request we are publishing the following article dealing with American Forest Week, written by Arthur Stace, formerly of the Grand Rapids Press.

"What kind of a Michigan shall we have if we set ourselves in earnest at the job of restoring to forest the lands of the state that are not useful for some other purpose?"

We shall have in southern Michigan and in the hardwood regions of the north agricultural lands sufficient to supply food to a large population.

We shall have a busy industrial and commercial region where men and women may win the rewards of enterprise and work—a good living, comfortable homes, cultural advantages, amusements, and time for play.

We shall have our coasts, our lakes, our streams, our scenic charms—our whole vast wealth of recreational attractions and opportunities.

And we shall have added to all these our new forests—forests occupying at least one-third of Michigan's land area.

These forests will be of various kinds:

Private forests owned by individuals or by groups of men who have set apart land for their own use as hunting grounds, as game preserves, as hunting grounds, as timber heritages for their children, or as sources of raw material for forest product industries.

Community and county forests, occupying the so-called waste areas that are found in the most fertile agricultural regions and the busiest industrial sections—comparatively small forests serving to beautify the landscape, to grow wood supplies, to harbor wild life, to afford city-weary nature lovers a chance to escape occasionally from the hurly-burly of urban life into the realm of trees, birds, brooks, and breezes.

State and national forests, each occupying hundreds of thousands of acres, and totalling together millions of acres, possibly as many as five to eight millions or even more.

These millions of acres of state and national forests will be transformed rapidly from stump-lands to wood-lands, once they are put under intelligent and enterprising management.

It will not be necessary to plant them artificially. Nature, if given a chance, will do the biggest part of the job. Only where seed trees have been entirely destroyed, or where man desires to grow superior timber, such as White and Norway Pine, will planting be found expedient.

The forests will begin to yield their products very soon. At first inferior wood, for wood pulp, fence posts, railroad ties, box lumber, fuel, and various other purposes. Then in 40 to 50 years, superior timber may be logged, including the White and Norway Pine now in its teens or in its twenties.

Industries using these forest products will gradually develop through the forest region, around its edges, and in the settled parts of the state—just as industries grew out of the old lumber industry. But these new industries will doubtless be more lasting than the old, for now that our Michigan forests are practically gone, we know that if they had been wisely conserved, carefully logged to protect the young growth, and protected from fire, they could have been perpetuated indefinitely furnishing a constant supply of timber to meet state lumber needs and a constant supply of raw material for now vanished industries.

While the forests are growing, immediate benefits will come from them.

They will breed valuable wood life. They will restore the disfigured beauty of the northland. They will furnish vast refuge for the busy people of the state from the noise, the bustle, the cares, the worries of modern existence. They will help regulate the climate. They will help guard stream flow. They will be all around assets of the tourist industry.

J. B. JOHNS GOES TO CEMENT CO. DOCKS NEAR PETOSKEY

Beaver Island Mail Boat Follows Larger Vessel In Attempt to Reach St. James Harbor

Huge ice floes, packed into the bay between North and South points by prevailing northwest winds and then held fast by nightly freezing temperatures, contrived to hold navigation out of this port to a standstill up until Wednesday afternoon.

The steamer J. B. Johns of the Petoskey Transportation Company, scheduled to leave here early Monday morning, held to her dock in Round Lake until shortly after noon today and as we go to press she is heading north with fair progress toward open water. It is thought she will make her way through without much difficulty.

Following closely behind the Johns is the Beaver Island mail steamer James B. Sniford. If she is successful in reaching the island, it will be her first trip of the season. A couple attempts made last week were futile and the boat was forced to turn back. The Sanford is carrying a large accumulation of mail from the local postoffice, besides a passenger list of about thirty Beaver Island residents who have been waiting in Charlevoix for the first opportunity to reach their homes. Among those who were marooned here are T. J. Bonner, keeper of the lighthouse at the head of Beaver Island, and Owen McAuley, keeper of the Squaw Island lighthouse, who had been unable to reach their stations.

Local fishermen have been taking a big daily loss on account of inability to reach nets set when the ice went out over two weeks ago. Nearly every fishing tug in the harbor has at least two gangs of nets out. It is thought the Gray's Reef and Manitowish lights will leave here within a very short time now the bay is clear of ice.

Reports come from the Soo that the Great Lakes shipping schedule will be about one week slower this year. Last year on April 13 the first steamer arrived at the Soo to take the mythical "Harbor Master's Hat."

This year ice and reverse weather conditions have held the ships in their winter quarters.

SCROGGIE RESIDENCE DAMAGED BY BAD FIRE

Defective Wiring Thought to Have Caused Tuesday Blaze

Fire at the William Scroggie residence on Petoskey avenue was checked Tuesday afternoon after an hour's fight by the local fire department.

The attic and a large portion of the south roof was destroyed, although damage to the house was kept down to a minimum by the use of chemicals in fighting the blaze. The damage is fully covered by insurance.

There were no fires in the house at the time the blaze was discovered and no other cause could be determined other than defective wiring.

Monday, April 30, is the date when Dr. Leach, the Optometrist, will be at the Hotel Charlevoix. Hours: 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.—Adv. 16-12.

EMMET COUNTY TO GET MORE PAVING

SURVEYS ORDERS FOR PROJECTS NEAR PETOSKEY

Road From Bay Shore to be Relocated to Avoid Marquardt Hill—Other Jobs Planned

Several miles of paving in Emmet county was assured last Saturday when State Highway Commissioner Rogers had his department start preparing surveys for several projects preparatory to advertising for bids.

Included in the proposed work for this season is three miles of reconstruction, including paving of the short section now being graded on the relocation of U S-31 west of Petoskey. A twenty foot pavement is planned on this highway. The other project is pavement through Bay View and north for some distance. The job includes the relocation of U S-31 between Keweenaw and Conway. The total length of the stretch to be relocated, graded and drained is seven and one-half miles.

Work on the relocation west of Petoskey was started last fall and it is to be completed and the paving done this season. It is also understood that the road from the cement plant to Bay Shore will be relocated by the state so as to avoid Marquardt hill. Preliminary surveys disclose that the road likely will be constructed farther north near the Pere Marquette tracks and would enter Bay Shore near the filling station.

It is said in highway circles that U S-31 north of Petoskey will be relocated from Keweenaw to Conway, from Ponshepaung to Alanson, and from Alanson through to the crossing just south of Brutus. This would keep the highway on the east side of the tracks to Levering. There also is some talk of relocating the road from Levering through Carp Lake on the east side of the tracks. The creek in the road through Oden will be changed considerably into wider curves.

Already plans have been completed and road surveys ordered for a road to connect with U S-31 with the state ferry wharf in Mackinaw City along the south side of the railroad tracks to give the traveling public a more direct route to and from Emmet county. This stretch will be paved with concrete. It is also understood that the road down into the state park at Mackinaw City from the present north end of U S-31 will be paved this year.

The balance of the road from Cheboygan into Mackinaw City has been ordered prepared for paving this year.

This section is a distance of nearly nine miles and will be 20 feet concrete, giving a fine cement highway all the way from Cheboygan to the Straits city and connecting with the highway leading to Petoskey.

WILL BE FORMALLY DEDICATED THIS MONTH

Cheboygan's new $50,000 locks and canal for the inland water route from Lake Huron to Conway, two miles from Lake Michigan and near Petoskey, probably will be formally dedicated this month. The county board of supervisors appropriated $1100 for the ceremonies and Governor Green and other prominent speakers will attend.

Safe, beautiful in color combination, in triangular, square and long. "By Jords" for spring! New colors and combinations $1.50 to $2.95 at Holley Gift Shop.—Adv. 16-12.

SPRING HIGHWAY WORK OUTLINED

COUNTY WORK WILL BE STARTED IN SHORT TIME

About $41,000.00 Will Be Used for State and County Maintenance; $15,000 for Construction

The work of construction and maintenance of roads in Charlevoix county which has been delayed somewhat on account of the late spring, will be started as soon as conditions permit.

The amounts appropriated and specifications for the work to be done on the trunk lines have been received from the state highway department, the total allotted to this work amounting to $29,193.00. A total of around $56,000.00 will be spent on road work in Charlevoix county this year, of which $29,193.00 will be spent for maintenance on state trunk lines, $15,000.00 for construction on county roads, and $12,000.00 for maintenance on county roads to which will be added this county's share of the weight tax.

The amount to be expended on the several roads divisions for maintenance is as follows:

US31-1, from the concrete south of Charlevoix to Eastport, also stretches north and south of the city between cement, 19.5 miles, $5,789.50.

US31-2, cement roads north and south of Charlevoix, 13.3 miles, $3,562.50.

State trunk line 75-3, from Boyne City to Boyne Falls, 6.2 miles, $4,302.00. 3.6 miles of this stretch will be given tar treatment.

State trunk line 75-4, from Boyne City through Walloon Lake to M131, 7.5 miles, $6,430.00. 3.6 miles of this piece will be given initial tar treatment.

M131-5, from Boyne Falls north to county line, 9.5 miles, $9,100.00.

All of this work, although paid for by the state, will be done under county supervision, in addition to a program of considerable proportion covering various county roads.

A large part of Charlevoix county's maintenance appropriation of $12,000, which is $3,000 short of the amount allotted last year, will be needed to repair roads damaged from frost during the spring break-up. Quite a portion of this fund was also expended during the winter for snow removal.

Two pieces of new construction are assured at this time, one a three-quarter mile stretch on the Norwood road and 1.6 miles on the Boyne Falls-Deer Lake road. Other projects are also under consideration.

DR. ERNEST BURNHAM SECURED AS SPEAKER

Will Give Address at Normal Commencement Exercises

Arrangements have been completed to secure Dr. Ernest Burnham, head of the rural education department of Kalamazoo Teachers' college, as County Normal commencement speaker, Wednesday, June 6.

The Normal class consider themselves very fortunate in securing a speaker of such state and national reputation in the field of education. They invite the public to share their good fortune at the commencement exercises.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN MUST ALL BE LISTED

Michigan Laws Provide That All Be Enumerated

Michigan laws provide that every crippled child in the state up to 21 years of age shall be enumerated and reported by the school census enumerators this year.

There are many crippled children in the state who are unknown, and only by the house-to-house canvas of school census takers can they be discovered. Many of them, if nothing is done, will grow up to be state and county charges. If they are found now, most of these children can be physically helped, educated and made wholly or at least partly self-supporting.

Census enumerators can help to bring relief to crippled children, and at the same time render a distinct service to their communities and to the state.

The state is very anxious that over school census enumerator understand the importance of listing every crippled child from birth to the age of 21 years.

The extra expense is born by the state.

COUNTY CONVENTION HARMONIOUS

STATE AND DISTRICT DELEGATES CHOSEN WEDNESDAY

County Convention Went on Record As Supporting Entire Republican Ticket—No Endorsements

The Republican county convention, held last Wednesday at the Wolverine Hotel, Boyne City, went on record as a very harmonious affair. The convention was called to order by Lyle H. White, secretary, who stated its object and purposes. More than 60 delegates from the townships, wards and cities of the county were in attendance.

Although not endorsing any specific candidates, the convention adopted a resolution to support the Republican ticket in its entirety.

Wm. J. Pearson, of Boyne Falls, and Lyle White of Boyne City, were chosen temporary chairman and secretary, respectively, and later were appointed permanently to these offices. A committee composed of George W. Weaver, J. R. Dean, Retta L. Londe, W. H. Seals and W. A. Strobel selected the following delegates to represent the county at the state convention in Detroit:

Lisle Shanahan, chairman; alternate, Mrs. Brayton Saltonstall; Frank Kenyon, alternate Miss Agnes Porter; J. M. Harris, alternate J. R. Dean; E. N. Clink, alternate Leo Balch; George W. Weaver, alternate Oscar Nelson.

Another committee composed of W. J. Gallagher, F. J. Beals, Sarah McNeal, Oscar Nelson and F. H. Wagemann selected the following delegates and alternates to the district convention at Petoskey, April 23:

W. J. Pearson, Boyne Falls; Oscar Nelson, Charlevoix; Sarah McNeal, Boyne City; W. J. Gallagher, St. James; Alex. Heller, Boyne City. Alternates: H. Myer, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong, Floyd Newville, Mrs. Jacobs, Clarence Schaub.

A. L. Fitch, chairman of the resolutions committee, made a talk in support of resolutions which was forceful and well received. Other speakers were E. N. Clink and Mrs. Secord of East Jordan, William J. Pearson of Boyne Falls, and Lisle Shanahan of Charlevoix.

SCHOOL DEDICATION DATE SET AS MAY 4

State Supt. of Public Instruction Is Principal Speaker

The formal opening of Charlevoix's new grade school and gymnasium will take place Friday, May 4th, according to an announcement made public Tuesday by the board of education.

Webster Pierce, state superintendent of public instruction, has been secured for the principal address. The Parent Teacher association is cooperating with the board of education in making arrangements for this important occasion and a program which is planned for both afternoon and evening will be announced later.

STRICTLY HONEST ---JUST HARD UP

THIS FELLOW IS WELCOME TO OUR SHIRT IF HE NEEDS IT

By the Closest Figuring and Strictest Economy We Believe He Will Make the Grade

One of our R. F. D. Subscribers sends us a remittance for the Courier and with that remittance, replies to our letter in the following terms which we feel are so good and peppy and so cleverly portrays the dilemma that the average farmer is in or has been for some time we believe our readers will enjoy the letter as we have enjoyed it, and they will come to feel that they are not the only ones hard hit, but their neighbors around them are having as much of a neck of a time to get by as they are. It is just because of these conditions we have not been more insistent in our appeals for money on subscription. We have realized the farmer had little to sell to get living money out of let alone paying out anything for luxuries. Here is the letter:

Charlevoix, R. 4, April 11.

The Charlevoix Courier, Charlevoix, Mich.
Friend Usher—Heeding your most earnest and generously expressed solicitation for some sort of response from a delinquent subscriber, who, (as it might appear) is afflicted with a chronic symptom of negligence or acute discourtesy, I beg to state that in spite of a seeming hopeless effort during the past three years, a sparrow dollar or two could not be rounded up, and used for one of our four most highly prized possessions.

"Though we feel that any paper under dire necessity might be dispensed with, as our daily Grand Rapids Press has been, we have hoped that every week would find us a chance to send in a mite, at least. We are forced to believe that the poor widow who could spare even that, had less overhead accordingly.

"Now, friend Usher, here you have it: We annexed five extra cows about the time our paid up subscription expired and to hold them up to normal we followed kindergarten rules, with very satisfactory results as to production.

"It requires a little over two years of hazardous seasons, including drouth, long feeding periods and hauling home feed to dispel the illusion so many others are still laboring under. Seven cows have eaten up everything but our clothes, and in February we disposed of the five boughten ones and are trying to wade ashore.

"Lots of feed in sight for two cows and a horse and that terrific scourge of overhead is vanishing.

"We are thankful that we have retained our health all this time and the realization that we can still look that party in the mirror square in the eye every morning for we have stayed continually on the job and intend to fight all the way back.

"It grieves us, Mr. Usher, that we have been unable to come square with you all along, as does it to read the very, very considerate letter recently received.

MOTORISTS ARE URGED TO BE VERY CAREFUL OF ROADS

A plea for co-operation of all car owners during the spring break-up has been issued. If motorists will make as little use of unpaved roads as possible during the period when the frost is going out, it will greatly hasten the time when the roads can be put in their usual summer condition, it is declared by Frank Rogers, state commissioner of highways.

Last year a great deal of money was spent trying to fill mudholes and keep traffic moving. In many cases the gravel or cinders simply disappeared. In other cases filling one hole so that traffic started moving only helped develop other bad spots.

During the spring break-up gravel will carry only a limited amount of traffic, and machines plowing through when a road is bottomless will not only cause a heavy loss of gravel but will postpone the day when the road can be put in good condition.

Don't Neglect Your Kidneys!

You Can't Be Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly.

Do you find yourself running down—always tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and aching, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions scanty, too frequent or burning in passage? Too often this indicates sluggish kidneys and shouldn't be neglected.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's are endorsed everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

BUILDING FOR THE AGES

[Built centuries ago, yet built so well that it will withstand many more centuries, the Sphinx stands as a lasting monument to honest effort]

So May we of CHARLEVOIX build, not alone the material creations which go toward making up this community, but may we also build good will upon a foundation of honest trading with our fellow men, so that it will outlast even the most substantial of concrete erections.

To make our dreams of a greater community come true, we must start to build from the very foundation. Confidence in our home institutions, as evidenced by our trade relations with them, is the cornerstone—careful and conscientious regard for our credit standing in our dealings, and a willingness to do our full share in any and every enterprise that tends to the good of our community, are the materials we should use in our building, if it is to outlast the ages.

THEN WE WILL HAVE A COMMUNITY OF WHICH WE MAY WELL BE PROUD.

MICHIGAN PLEDGE TO HOOVER

The Republican party in the state of Michigan never entered a national campaign with any more favorable outlook than this year. As pointed out by J. Walter Drake, chairman of the Michigan for Hoover committee, the Republicans of this commonwealth have expressed themselves definitely and positively. The primary vote was impressive. First of all, the fact that Hoover received 99 per cent of all the Republican votes cast is most conclusive evidence of his popularity. Another important fact to be considered in analyzing the recent primary is that the vote was proportionately heavy in all the agricultural sections of this state and light in the industrial centers. That the Lowden and Dawes friends should hold only one per cent of that total vote cast is significant evidence of the fact that Hoover strength is just as pronounced in the farming centers as in the cities in Michigan.

The Republican party, starting out with so conclusive a background, is united in its backing of this one candidate—Mr. Hoover. The state convention, called for April 25, and the congressional conventions called at intervening dates, will undoubtedly select delegates to the Kansas City convention who will carry out the wishes of the people, as expressed at the primaries. There will be no opportunity, and there is no evidence of any desire, on the part of Republican leaders anywhere in the state to even intimate the possibility of any back-room political skulduggery.

Among the leaders of the party, there was unanimity of expressed opinion in favor of Hoover long before the primary took place. These leaders are enthusiastically pleased that the rank and file of the party are united with them in this opinion. Six or eight months ago, the situation in the Republican organization, nationally and in Michigan, was quite different. At that time, there was considerable element among the practical politicians and among the people, as well, who felt that the party was in an unfortunate position, because of the decision of President Coolidge not to be a candidate for re-election. The practical politicians wondered if Hoover could develop the popular support. They now are convinced that he has demonstrated a popular enthusiasm quite as unexpected as anything in the political history of our times. The fact that it was spontaneous in its expression and that it every opportunity given the people there is further endorsement of their enthusiasm for Hoover is, of course, due largely to the recognition by all classes of his unusual capacity for this, the most important executive position in the gift of the public.

The practical politicians all took the attitude early in the campaign that Hoover's election was a most desirable hope, but, at the same time, they kept insisting that all of his good works for the benefit of the people would count naught because they wondered if he could develop the attractive personality so necessary to success in a presidential possibility. Now they are sure he has all of these qualities. Therefore, the Republican organization considers itself fortunate, first, because the people are so enthusiastic over the Hoover candidacy; second, because the organization itself is now convinced that he will be selected by an overwhelming vote; third, because in the unanimity of the forces back of the Hoover movement, there has come about a very general elimination of the petty political differences which had made themselves evident in some of the state Republican organizations. In Michigan, there is just the one practical problem of selecting the right delegates to the Kansas City convention. There is a plethora of high-class Republican material willing to sacrifice itself on the altar of the party's service. Altogether, it looks like a big political year for the Republican organization and a fortunate condition for the American people. Even the political opponents of Mr. Hoover are frank to acknowledge that no other man in the country today possesses such qualities of capacity for successful executive direction in the presidential chair as does Mr. Hoover.

Senior class play, "The Lottery Man," high school gym, Thursday evening.—Adv. 16-11.

SENATE INVESTIGATIONS

It would seem as if the senate of the United States is striving to outdo itself in the matter of investigations. This is a delicate subject to discuss because the sensitiveness of the senate is well recognized, but there are times when common sense seems to be a quality that is not in evidence. The fundamental purpose of the senate should be to foster the economic stability of the country. There is no warrant in the constitution or in any interpretation of the powers of the senate to permit that body to become a sort of national fish-wife, attacking and branding those whom it hates before it.

Someone will immediately suggest that we are opposed to the publicity given to the oil scandal or the coal strike investigations. Nothing of the kind. Investigations by the senate should be, like trials before either the state or federal supreme courts, conducted with dignity and directness. No purpose other than the eliciting facts should enter into the problem.

Milton Block

We do not find justices of the various courts carrying on a controversy in the newspapers concerning a case before them. Why should senators? If we must have investigations, are they to be conducted like old heresy hunts? Everything that is conceivably political is being investigated and many things that ought to be investigated are not.

Who ever heard of a proposed investigation of the American Federation of Labor, or the Structural Iron Workers, or the United Mine Workers, or the bridge workers or even the I. W. W.? We do not have investigations of communist propaganda and attacks of the government. If any specific business commits errors, either moral or legal, it ought to be exposed, but why beat tom-toms continually to the detriment of all business? If the senate must investigate something why not investigate the "Entertainment Committees" of the unions, and other political organizations that have broken the laws with impunity and are a menace to the United States. Let us have a little heresy hunting outside of business. Let us investigate the parlor socialists and communists who are spending enormous sums to destroy our government.

Why is it the business man, who is really the great supporter of the government, is continually under attack and always subject to taxes, restraints, prohibitions and persecutions? Why the discriminatory attitude of those senators conducting the investigations? Can it be that presidential aspirations suggest these misguided efforts?

Large Bath Towels, best quality at 35c. Withers' Variety Store.—Adv. 16-11.

THRIFT OF YEARS

While it is true that there are some lines of work that can be performed by young men or young women, it is a false doctrine that the burdens of a human advancement fall entirely upon youthful shoulders.

No phase of thriftlessness is as cruel in its manifestation and as false in its philosophy as that which pronounces the uselessness of the so-called old man.

It is just as much a part of thrift for a man to remain active and useful to the very last possible day as it is to conserve money or material resources.

Thrift of time means putting as many years of accomplishment as possible into the span of one's life just as it means putting as many busy moments as possible into each day, and as many dollars as possible in a bank.

The sum of human accomplishment will be immeasurably increased when humanity learns the lesson of the thrift of years.—Thrift Magazine.

CHAPTER XI

The crisp voice of Alice Andover had never sounded so sweet to Gay's ears as at that moment.

"Gay! Where are you? I saw you take that foolish creature home, so I came to see if I could—What is the matter?"

Gay beckoned to her sternly from the top of the stairs. "Come up," she said, and her voice was hollow. "Come up."

Alice Andover was never one to hesitate in a crisis. She came at once, breathing hard. Gay pointed dramatically to the bedroom.

Alice Andover gave one wide-eyed glance and saw the prostrate form. "Good heavens, oh, good heavens! Where did he come from—where did you get him—I mean—"

"He came up the hill just ahead of me. Walked right in. Came upstairs, and evidently fell down there. Or lay down. There he is."

Alice Andover crossed the room and stood above him, touching the inert body tentatively with the toe of her shoe.

"Drunk," she said disgustedly. "Dead drunk."

Gay breathed more freely, in some relief. "Oh, is that it? I—was afraid of—oh, terrible things!"

At that moment, spasmodically he moved, and his face rolled back into the light.

"Oh, oh!" Alice Andover's explanation was a startled gasp. "Oh, my God, I believe— Oh, poor Almyr. I believe it is Buddy Bridges. Come home to his poor trusting mother—dead drunk. Oh, it is all my fault. Oh, what in the world have I done? Buddy Bridges—poor Almyr. All my fault."

"Buddy Bridges? Oh, really? Oh, Auntalmiry—how happy— Then came sickening realization of the pain it would be to the little old woman to have him come home to her like this, dead drunk. Better a thousand times for her to live on in her trusting ignorance, fondly believing him an unknown hero, pure and fine. "Oh, poor Auntalmiry! See here, Mrs. Andover, this drunken creature shall not spoil the poor dear's Christmas party. The way she has slaved, and saved, and starved herself— He shall! Let her have one happy night—let her have her last, since Buddy came home like this. He shall spoil it. Not if I have to poison him!"

Alice Andover, I tried to efficiency by you of hard administering, and deny to me practical and decided being in charge of things always aroused her latent cleverness.

"Well, just roll him over in the corner out of the way," she said briskly, and cover him up with the rug, and let him sleep it off. We'll lock the door, and keep him here till it is over."

"Will he stay drunk all night?" Gay asked. "Shouldn't we give him something—"

"Whisky! I wish we had some whisky. If we had time—maybe we could keep him drunk for a week. I don't know just how long it does last, but I know the party lasts all night. He may sleep it off."

"I have a little cognac. Brought it in myself from Paris—in the toe of my dancing slipper. Real stuff," Gay said proudly. "I was keeping it for a wedding, but I can have that." "Good! We'll give him a big swig—of it." She brought out the nautical term with a nautical swagger, both doubtless inherited from the long line of seafaring ancestors. "We'll keep him as tight as a lard—until the party's over."

Carefully but sternly they rolled him over half out of sight beneath the window seat, and covered him.

So Gay brought the precious unglazed bottle of cognac, never yet unsettled, and they gave him a generous swig, forcing the bottle between his teeth not without much difficulty. He choked over it and coughed painfully, while the conspirators held their breath in a panic above him. But presently he relaxed into troubled breathing again.

"He'll hold him for a while," said Alice Andover grimly.

They locked the door upon him and went downstairs. But when Alice Andover moved as if to go to her own home, Gay refused to be left alone in the house with the drunken creature upstairs, and Alice Andover was obliged to remain, fixing herself up for the party as well as she could with Gay's face powder and electric curlers.

They had tea to strengthen their shattered nerves, and at five o'clock slipped up to the bedroom to give him another potent draught of the cognac. He swallowed this time with less difficulty, and as he drank, to their horror, his eyes opened, eyes large and dark, Gay noticed even in that horrible moment, eyes now visionless, not seeing. When the muffled heavy breathing recommenced, they slipped from the room.

Alice Andover, because the opening of his eyes had frightened her, was freshly furious. She shook her fist at the door when it was safely locked behind her.

"Oh, you monster—the poor dear trusting heart," she muttered, all in the same breath.

Auntalmiry, flushed and radiant with excitement, was the first to arrive for the party. She was joyously pleased at the unusual tenderness of Alice Andover's greeting, and took her all about the room to point out to her, with shy pride, how cleverly she had managed things, explaining all the little economies she had used, the ruses to which she had resorted, in her desire to make least money go farthest. Alice was sympathetic, so-felicitous, warmly approving, but kept always one sharp and terrified eye upon Gay, both of them in a panic of fear lest the creature upstairs regain his sober senses and spoil the party for which Auntalmiry had worked so hard.

At Gay's direction, Auntalmiry took up her position by the window, with Alice Andover and Gay on either side, and pressed the electric button which set the solitary pine lamp to light, colored lights from top to bottom, flashing a brilliant holiday greeting all over that end of the island.

"It is the last invitation," she cried, and her thin little voice quavered with excitement. "Come to my party, come to my Christmas party! Everybody can see it. It will guide them up the hill. How the children will laugh! It is very nice, Gay."

The island trooped to the party in a body, a long stream pouring up the hill through the snow, so that all in a moment it seemed the Lone Pine was a surge and a throb with it. There was much laughter, much shrill squealing, the piercing shrieks of children's voices, the high nervous laughter of young girls, and deeper older voices, calling loud and cheery greeting.

"If this babel doesn't wake him up, he might as well be dead," whispered Alice Andover.

"I'll go and have a look," said Gay. "It is enough to bring the trees to life."

Gay listened outside the bedroom door a moment, hoping to hear the muffled, heavy breathing that presaged the sleep of their unwelcome guest. But with the din from below she could hear nothing, so she opened the door quickly and stepped in. The room was wrapped in silence, after and heavy, and in the darkness she could not distinguish the shadow by the window-seat that was Buddy Bridges. She pressed the button that flooded the room with light and stared in a flash its emptiness. The rug lay in a rumpled heap upon the floor, but Buddy Bridges was not there.

The window was open. Gay ran over and looked out, but in the shadow of rocks and trees by the house she could distinguish nothing. Her eyes swam giddily.

"Such—a Christmas," she stammered. Already with that vividly creative mind of hers she could see him lying on the rocks, a bleeding mangled shape, Auntalmiry's son. Suddenly she was afraid to be alone, and ran downstairs. Alice Andover awaited her coming at the foot of the steps. She read fear in Gay's eyes.

"What new, good heavens, what now?"

"He is gone. He is not there."

"Gone! Gone where? Gone how?" "Come! Let's look." In the joyous confusion that reigned about the Christmas tree, with Santa Claus noisily distributing the pretty gifts, with the babble of his bells, the laughing voices, the crackle of tissue paper, and the treble of children's voices over all, they went out unnoted. And with an electric flashlight, looked beneath the window for the crushed and bleeding—

Yes, he had certainly dropped down into the heap of tramping, footprints, but the white snow bore no stains of red. And Buddy was not there. The outraged divinity whose patience still is infinite had garbled Auntalmiry's boy that night.

So they went back, with what nonchalance they could muster, and joined the merriment within. But Gay was sick at heart. Everybody had come to the party, the Captain was there, the two ministers were there, even Buddy Bridges had come home. But Rand came not.

"Well, well," boomed Santa Claus, "well, well! Here's another present for little old Auntalmiry! Aunt almyr!"

Santa Claus, powerful young giant that he was, caught her up bodily into his arms, so that she was quite crushed in the sluggish fur of his big coat.

"Auntalmiry, Auntalmiry!" chorused the children gaily.

And then, on the wave of that loving joyous call, the door opened, and he stood there, soft but crushed low on his forehead over the big dark eyes, collar turned up about his chin, tall, thin, and weak, very pale, Buddy Bridges.

Santa Claus, with little Auntalmiry still in his arms, turned as the others did, to look at this one who came so unceremoniously into the party, his face alone unsullied, set and grim.

He crossed without a word into the center of the room, walked swaggeringly, perhaps to hide the fact that he could not stand erect without swaying weakly, and stood before Santa Claus, with Auntalmiry in his arms. It was she who moved first, moved vaguely, slipping to the floor, and then, not seeming to walk, seeming to float rather, she was beside him, her eyes riveted to his eyes, haggard and dark-lined, and her fingers crept softly up his coat toward his face, touching the curve of his chin uncertainly, inquiringly, as though it were by feeling she would be convinced.

"Almyr, come away," broke in Alice Andover harshly, but it was pity that hardened her voice. "Come away. He's drunk."

"It's Buddy," Auntalmiry said faintly. "It's Buddy. It is Buddy."

"Come away, I tell you; he's drunk."

Then suddenly Buddy Bridges laughed. "Drunk," he shouted weakly but with derision in his voice. "Oh, it's you, Alice Andover, up to your old tricks! Drunk! So that's what you thought. Well, I thought you were crazy, the pair of you, stuffing me up with cognac, locking me in—I'm not drunk, mom, I'm sick. They couldn't tell the difference."

Every eye in the bright, disordered, crowded room was intent upon Buddy Bridges, who held his mother in his arms, and laughed with her, wept with her, and talked to her in a fond weak voice. "Sick as a dog. In the hospital—weeks. Weak as the dickens. I was in the hospital when they told me you were here. I got out of bed—knocked two internes down—sick as I was. Came on here—clear from California, mom. Twice I fainted away, and when I came to, they had me off the train and in hospital again. But as soon as I got my wind, I beat it again. Came on. Drunk! Isn't that like her, mom? I'd know in a minute it was Alice Andover! You haven't changed much, mom—a little." How his eyes crossed her! "Twenty-five years, mom. Not a word from you in twenty-five years. I wouldn't have believed it, mom. It was—not—just—like you. Was it because they sent me to the pen, mom?"

"The—the pen, Buddy? The pen?" "Oh, hush, you fool," begged Alice Andover.

"In Jersey. Twenty-five years—" "Buddy, you don't mean the penitentiary—Buddy—"

"Mom, didn't you know it? Didn't you ever know it?" "Buddy—"

"Mom, you've just forgot. You knew it. You must have known it. It was in the papers—Is—Is she all right?" he asked flusteringly of all the room. "You must have known it."

Alice Andover was tall and fine in her dignity. "Yes, Buddy Bridges, we knew it. We all knew it. But nobody told her. Almyr never knew to this day—"

"Nobody told her—" Alice Andover's dignity was simply killing. "On our island, Mr. Bridges," she said gently, "we tell one another no news unless it's good news. There was nobody here low-down enough to tell Aunt Almira that her son had gone to jail."

"Buddy—" Aunt Almira's voice was pleading.

"Aw, mom, it wasn't much. A roughhouse, a row over a game. You know I was always quick in a scrap. It wasn't much. But a man was hurt. So they sent me up for it. But, mom, since then, everything fine and dandy. No nonsense since. Got a fine woman, got three nice kids, made a lot of money—Great, mom." And then, suddenly, mercurial man as he had been a mercurial boy, he glowered, glowered with sudden anger around the room. "See here," he demanded sharply, "who sent me that paper—marked Portland paper—that told me mom was dead? Twenty-five years ago! One of you sent me a paper—that told!"

The silence throbbed. Everybody looked at Alice Andover. She was the administrator, and this was a terrible charge he brought.

Alice Andover did not flinch. She turned directly on the Captain.

"John Christian Wallace, do you mean to tell me that you dared to take it upon yourself—without consulting me—the natural administrator—"

The Captain removed his pipe and smiled amiably into the arena, a gentle, dignified little old figure. He put an affectionate hand on Buddy's arm. His voice was wavering with age and with excitement, but he was not daunted.

"Buddy, I says to myself, 'Jalbird or no Jalbird, he's Aunt Almira's son. He's got a right to know she's gone.' We said plenty of hard things against you, times enough, but nobody ever said that Buddy Bridges didn't love his mom. 'No,' says I, 'he's got a right to know it.' So I marked the paper, and sent it right off to you, Buddy, in jail or what-not, for I don't hold to them as says—"

"But, Gramp," he interrupted, for everybody called the Captain Gramp, "Gramp, she was not dead! She was not dead!"

"No, but we thought she was. It said in the paper she was. We didn't know till next day, or day after, that she pulled through after all. 'No,' says I, 'he's her son,' and as soon as I read in the paper she was dead, I marked it and mumbled it, and—" "But, Gramp, my God, when you found out—that she wasn't dead—that she had pulled through—Why, in God's name, didn't you let me know?"

The Captain was crestfallen, taken aback. But he rallied, slowly. "Wh—what say?" he asked feebly, hand to his ear.

"Why didn't you send me word—let me know—when you found out that it was a mistake, and she had not died? I never knew. When I got out I headed west and never came back. Never wanted to come back if mom was gone. Why didn't you let me know?"

"God bless my soul," ejaculated the Captain feebly. "Didn't you know she wasn't dead? Just think of that now. His own mother not dead, and he didn't even know it. Dear, dear, Buddy, I never thought of it from that day to this. I supposed of course a boy would know it if his own mother wasn't dead."

When the last tired but happy voice had sent its final "Merry Christmas" ringing back across the snow, when Aunt Almira, with Buddy's weak arm against her, had disappeared beyond the arc of light that underlined the solitary pine, Gay turned back into the bright disordered rooms and closed the door slowly. She was very sad. The brightness of the room in all its gay confusion depressed her, and she stood, a tired dejected figure in the midst of it, and pressed her burning face into her cold clasped hands. Tears came to her eyes. A sob swelled in her throat. She wept noiselessly. What was the success of all the noisy merry party to her, when Rand had not come, and she knew not where he was?

In her heart she knew that Rand had not remained away of his own volition, that something had kept him against his will. He had pledged her to solemn secrecy in regard to his movements, but his prolonged absence without word or reassurance terrified her greatly. She sank down into the window-seat and looked out. The tall, gayly lighted pine was hateful, painful to her saddened eyes. Impatiently she pressed the button, and the hillside was plunged into darkness.

"It's that d-d old clubhouse," she said bitterly. "I have a big notion to—burn it down."

With the passionate words came sudden determination. She could not bear this anxiety, she must know the worst, however bad it be. She would slip into the forest, and reconnoiter. Rand had sternly ordered her to keep entirely out of the woods and away from the Little club, but Gay, in an emergency like this, and goaded by her fears for him, was not one to be balked by obedience. If she found the gang in the Little club, she would call the police, immediately, have the place raided, and demand Rand of them. In her thoughts, vividly, she saw the slim worn face, the shapely strong hands of the man who had come to her on the waves in the Little cove. Almost she saw Rand's face, like that, with the merry eyes closed, the mocking lips set hard, swept by salt water. "Oh, no," she cried fully. Then she sprang to her feet, and pounded hoily up the stairs. She was feverish with excitement now, her face flaming, her lips parched, her eyes tingling hot. But her slender, strong hands were like ice.

"If they catch me, I do not care," she told herself hoily. "I've got to find him." She could not bear that recurring, evanescent vision of Rand's face on the winter sea.

The cold fingers tore her party dress from her, pulled on heavy silk and woolen undergarments, her thickest woolen stockings, stout boots. She donned her warmest blouse beneath the fawn-colored suede wind-breaker, and bloomers beneath her heaviest knickers. The leather cap she pulled down to her ears, caught up her leather-fur-lined gloves, and then her dark-colored slicker enveloped all.

"If they see me, they'll think I'm a man," she said sturdily to her stout reflection in the glass. "With this cap, this slicker, these boots."

Schooled by the experience of six months on the island, Gay slipped a flashlight into one pocket, and her pistol in the other. She was trembling all over.

"But I'm not afraid," she said firmly. She pressed the last electric button, and the cottage merged into the darkness that covered all the coast. She opened the door gingerly an inch at a time, listening intently. The island was asleep in the darkness. There was no moon; the stars, remote and cold, were pin-points of ice.

She did not hesitate. She quite confidently believed that she would rather die than endure the suspense of uncertainty. Not daring to use her flash, she made her way through the snow slowly, from tree to tree, toward the Little club, stumbling often, running into unsuspected piles, falling over hidden abruhs. But she went on. When she came at last to the row of trees that circled the clubhouse, she stood for a long moment, as Rand had taught her, flattened against the bark, listening.

Neither sound nor sigh from within. "Recked," she thought, "hermetically sealed."

She crept cautiously around the corner, feeling her way inch by inch until she reached the spot where Rand had taken out the rocks to get under the piazza. It had seemed ample enough as she had watched him, and Gay felt she could easily do the same thing, and thus obtain a view of the interior, perhaps confirmation, or denial, of her fears. But for all the strength of her young arms, for all the power of her stubborn will, she could not so much as stir the smallest of the rocks, which were now deeply wedged into the frozen soil, packed solidly, presenting a firm and immoveable barricade to entrance under the piazza.

Thus balked, she started a moment

A six at a price actually lower than that of some fours! A Six embodying an array of mechanical features worthy of a car costing two or three times as much. This is Willys-Overland's latest achievement.

The new Whippet Six revolutionizes all standards of six-cylinder motor car value. In its field it establishes a trend of design as outstanding as that created by the Whippet among fours.

This remarkable new motor car is powered by a high compression poppet-valve motor that through months of test has proved what great strides have been made recently in automotive engineering by Willys-Overland.

In a 24-hour run it averaged 56.52 miles per hour—the record for cars costing less than $1000. In other tests it demonstrated remarkable economy, flashing pickup and ability to travel at 60 or more miles per hour.

Long, low-slung bodies in harmonious lacquers and smart, roomy interiors, give a distinction and custom car luxury that will evoke your admiration.

Equipment is unusually complete, including automatic windshield cleaner on closed cars, dome light in Sedan and Coach, combination stop and tail light, snubbers, 80-mile speedometer, motor-driven horn, a spare rim and tire carrier.

Mrs. Arthur Ranger and daughter, Virginia, returned Wednesday from Horton Bay, where they have been spending the past two weeks with Mrs. Ranger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert West.

Mr. and Mrs. William Scroggie, Sr., accompanied by their grandson, Val, returned Monday from Detroit, where Mr. Scroggie had been receiving medical attention. His condition is somewhat improved at this time.

Headquarters and information bureau for the Charlevoix Association of Commerce will be located in the south room of the Benjamin Brown store for the summer season. The opening date will be announced later.

We are told by a south side resident this morning to warn Sandy Shearer to hang on to his cane for a while yet. Don't know what it's all about, but figure there must be something to it or they wouldn't have told us.

Attention Rebekahs! All Rebekahs are requested to meet at the I. O. O. F. hall Sunday morning, April 22, at 10:00 o'clock, from there to march to the Methodist church in a body to attend the morning service. The Odd Fellows will also attend in a body.

Connected with the big upheaval in Illinois politics and the overthrowing of Big Bill Thompson and his gang was Raymond Paddock, kid brother, as Bob says, of R. W. Paddock of this city. Mr. Paddock won the nomination in the 8th senatorial district for United States senator.

A card from Muskegon states that Charles Howard, who has been confined in a hospital in that city for several weeks, is on the road to recovery. Mr. Howard suffered a bad case of blood poisoning which resulted in the amputation of his right index finger. For a while it was thought he would lose his arm. He has been in the hospital over six weeks.

The following Charlevoix citizens attended the Republican county convention, held at Boyne City last Wednesday: Mesdames H. B. Jacobs, A. J. Hamilton, B. Saltonstall, E. E. Cross and Chas. Arnold; Messrs. Clarence Wood, Frank Bird, Wm. C. Palmer, Geo. Weaver, Lisle Shanahan, Oscar Nelson, Jos. Cooper, Wm. Finnders, A. L. Fitch and George Roderick.

It cost Orville Davis, 19-year old Readmond resident, $57.75 to kill a deer out of season. Complaint was made by Thomas Bryant of the department of conservation, who charged that Davis hunted without a license and killed a deer out of season. The fine and cost were paid. Davis also was placed on probation for one year and must report monthly to a Petoskey judge.

WALLS AND FLOORS OF COOLER RE-SURFACED

The Northern Creamery Company's Charlevoix branch is making preparations for the summer business this week. The walls and floor in the cooler room are being re-surfaced with a half-inch layer of cement put over metal lath. William Cook is doing the work.

PFEISTER BUILDS PLAT. FORM ON NEW LOCATION

A platform was completed on the lot south of Lusk's store last week for Adam Pfeister's pop corn machine. Widening of Clinton street through to Round Lake last fall deprived Adam of his former stand, hence the new platform.

POMONA GRANGE WILL MEET NEXT SATURDAY

Boyer River Grange Entertain With Extensive Program

Extensive plans are being made for the meeting of Pomona Grange to be held Saturday, April 21 with Boyne River Grange.

The meeting will be called to order at 11 o'clock that day by Worthy Master J. E. Chew. Several important questions will be brought up and discussed at that time. One of the features of the program will be the play, "Our Awful Aunt," to be presented by the young people of Boyne River Grange. B. C. Melencamp, county agricultural agent, will be present to speak before the meeting.

A fifth degree team has been organized for the meeting and a large number are expected to take the work. Boyne River Grange has made big plans for the meeting and desire a large attendance from every Grange in the county.

Dr. J. Leahy, the Optometrist, who recently returned from his ranch in Idaho, will visit Charlevoix Monday, April 30.—Adv. 15-11.

Charlevoix Garage Has New Low Priced Car on Display

Wyers & Smith, distributors for the Willys-Overland company for this region, have two of the latest Whippet sixes on display at their salesroom. The car has the unique distinction of being the lowest priced six-cylinder car in the world and has successfully undergone severe tests during the past six months in every section of the nation. One of the outstanding features of the motor is the seven-bearing crankshaft which heretofore has been confined to the more expensive cars.

The body has striking lines which add to the beauty of the car, while in the interior the seating arrangement has been planned to provide utmost comfort for driver and passengers.

Sensational Success
—based on sensational value

You need to know only a few of the exclusive superiorities offered by today's Pontiac Six to understand that its sensational success is based on sensational value. It is the lowest priced six in the world with body by Fisher. It is the lowest priced six offering the G-M-R cylinder head, the cross-flow radiator and the AC fuel pump.

Add to these evident advantages in design the fact that it is the lowest priced six built by General Motors—and then you will know why Pontiac Six sales are continually reaching new record-breaking heights!

SMALL TOWNS

The Mesick Sun-Pioneer steps up its editorial searchlight as follows:

A Town's Worst Enemy

We overheard a traveling man say recently that the greatest happiness is to be found in towns like Traverse City. It left us an opening to ask why, if he felt that way, he didn't move to a small town, and his answer contains something for all of us to think about.

"The only drawback to living in the smaller towns of the country," he said, "is that it's pretty hard, almost impossible, to find one where there isn't one or more chronic gossipers—and I detest gossip above everything else. I've always made it a rule never to listen what a tattler brings about a neighbor or business acquaintance. I know that if they will tattle about someone else to me they'll tattle about me to someone else. And the trouble is that it isn't a lie alone that hurts. A gossip can even take the truth and peddle it around in such a way that it becomes damaging. I don't want to say your town is as bad, or any worse than the average town, because I don't believe it is. I believe, all things considered, this town is as good as any in America, and I never met finer people. But the gossips sored me on smaller towns of the country years ago, and I can't help but feel that every town has its gossips, the worst enemy a town could possibly have."

This is something worth thinking over seriously. Are we actually in the class of towns the gentleman has in mind? When you've answered that question, ask yourself this one: "If we are, then how are we going to get rid of the gossips?" We'll be glad to print your solution if you will bring it in.

PLANT A TREE

By Lucy Larcom

He who plants a tree
Plants a hope.

Rootless up through fibers blindly
grope;

Leaves unfold into horizons free.
So man's life must climb

From the clouds of time
Unto heavens sublime.

Canst thou prophesy, thou little tree,
What the glory of thy boughs shall be?

He who plants a tree
Plants a joy;

Plants a comfort that will never eloy;

Every day a fresh reality,
Beautiful and strong,

To whose shelter throng
Creatures blithe with song.

If thou couldst but know, thou happy tree,

Of the bliss that shall inhabit thee!
He who plants a tree—

He plants peace.
Under its green curtains jargons conceal.

Leaf and zephyr murmur soothingly;

Shadows soft with sleep
Down tired eyelids creep,

Balm of slumber deep.
Never hast thou dreamed, thou blessed tree,

Of the benediction thou shalt be.

He who plants a tree—
He plants youth;

Vigor won for centuries in sooth;
Life of time, that hints eternity!

Boughs their strength uprear;
New shoots, every year,

On old growths appear;
Thou shalt teach the ages, sturdy tree,

Youth of soul is immortality.

He who plants a tree—
He plants love;

Tents of coolness spreading out above

Wayfarers he may not live to see.
Gifts that grow are best;

Hearts that bless are blessed;
Plant life does the rest!

Heaven and earth help him who plants a tree,

And his work its own reward shall be.

Keep youth longer!

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine; less; contains no gas or gripping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ENTITLED TO EIGHT

Application Now Receivable for Training Camp Period

Dr. F. H. Wilkinson, county chairman for the Citizens Military Training Camp, reports that applications are now being received for the coming training camp period at Fort Brady, July 26 to August 24. Plans for this summer's camp, provide for the apportionment of separate quotas to each county, to obtain an equitable allotment of vacancies to all counties in the state, on the basis of population. The apportionment for our county is eight. Three applications have already been passed on and accepted and three others probably will be within the next week.

Despite the fact that more camps will be held this summer than ever before, the response to the government's offer of 30 days outdoor training, without one cent of personal expense, is expected to exceed the number of vacancies allotted. Only those who obtain complete enrollment at an early date can be assured of the trip. Those interested should see Mr. North, at the high school, or Dr. Wilkinson, at an early date. Last year the quota in Charlevoix county was filled in the month of April, and it doubtless will be the same this year. The boys who went last year were all enthusiastic over the work and want to go again this year. The Union Trust Company of Detroit, are so enthusiastic over the improvement of some of their boys who went last year that they are sending them again this year without stopping their pay.

I trust you will credit us as being worthy of future confidence as we are earnestly trying to merit our neighbors' esteem."

"Accept our thanks for your unalloyed courtesy in our behalf."

NO HELP FOR POOR SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Primary Money Must Be Distributed on Number of Children

The aid the 1925 legislature attempted to extend to the poorer school districts of the state was nullified by a recent ruling of the state supreme court. A decision by Judge Leland W. Carr of the Ingram circuit court, holding unconstitutional the 1925 act setting aside five per cent of the fund for distribution exclusively to the poorer districts, was upheld. It was a victory for the Detroit board of education, which instituted the litigation.

As a result of the supreme court ruling approximately $1,600,000 which has been held up by the auditor general for two years, will be apportioned to all counties in direct ratio to the number of children of school age rather than only to those counties where the number of children is out of proportion to the assessed valuation of property and the ability of the tax payers to maintain schools.

The court held that the constitution has laid down the tenet that the fund, which amounts to about $1,600,000 a year, must be distributed on the basis of the count of school children and no other. The decision evidently bars further primary school legislation in the interests of the poorer districts unless a constitutional amendment is authorized by the voters.

MANY ATTEND RECENT DEMONSTRATION

Brooder House Meeting Held at Will Sanderson Farm

The brooder house demonstration on the farm of Will Sanderson conducted April 13 proved to be one of the outstanding demonstrations put on in the county from both the standpoint of interest and attendance, which numbered 35 interested poultrymen.

The house itself was completed in the one day's time and is simple in construction, yet durable, and contains many new features. The house was erected on skids, so that it may be transported very easily on new clean ground every year. It is completely insulated with celotex which makes it warm, and also saves considerable lumber bill as it adds support and strength to the house.

Space does not permit any more details of its construction but the next time you get the opportunity stop in and see it. If you are planning on building don't fail to note the necessity of using some form of insulating material.

If you wish to have the latest material on feeding and brooding chicks, or want the plans for the house your county agent will be glad to supply you with same.

FIRE DESTROYS LEVERING SCHOOL BUILDING

Town Folks Stand Powerless and Watch Its Burning

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Levering school building early Saturday morning, April 7. The fire was discovered at about three o'clock in the morning and at that time it had gained such great headway there was no possibility of staying it or saving anything in the building, and the town folks could do nothing but stand by and watch it burn, turning their attention somewhat to preventing the spread of the flames to other buildings from the burning structure.

The building was a two-story four room frame structure and furnished rich food for flames. It was erected 20 years ago and gave the village adequate facilities for housing their school population very nicely. It was a fairly good looking building and had been kept in good repair.

It is estimated the loss will be in the neighborhood of $25,000 and only a six thousand dollar insurance was carried by the board.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The storm did not prevent two good audiences from gathering last Sunday. The warnings of Jesus were studied in the morning and special attention called to his warning against selfishness. Nearly all our sins are in some way an expression of our selfishness. A broad-minded, generous consideration for others, and recognition of Jesus in our daily living would make all of us far better men and women.

Services will be held next Sunday as usual at the usual hours, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to worship with us.

Service of the Eastport Federated church will be held at 2:30 p. m. in the school house. Work is being started on a new church building at this place.

SHORT WHEAT CROP IN STATE

SUCH IS PRESENT CONDITION FOR MICHIGAN FARMERS

Wheat and Rye Started in Winter in Good Condition But Was Injured
by Freezing and Thawing

The present prospects are for a short wheat crop in Michigan this year according to the April crop report issued by Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of agriculture and H. Church, agricultural statistician for Michigan. The April 1 condition of Michigan winter wheat was, except for 1918, the lowest on record for this date; and the condition of winter rye was the lowest on record for April 1. Both wheat and rye started the winter in good shape as was shown by the December 1927 condition of 94 per cent for wheat and 92 per cent for rye, but snow did not cover the ground for long enough periods to afford much protection and there was too much successive freezing and thawing during February and March. In some sections the fields were also damaged by ice cover for several days. The April 1 condition of winter wheat was 74 per cent compared with 86 per cent last year and the ten-year average of 84 per cent. The condition of rye was 79 per cent of normal which was seven points below last year and nearly eight per cent below the average for April 1.

The United States April 1 condition of winter wheat was only 68.8 per cent compared with last year's high condition of 84.5 per cent and the average of 81.9 per cent. The winter rye condition for the whole country on the same date this year was 79.3 per cent of normal which is 6.5 per cent below average and 7.1 per cent below last year. The first forecast of production will be made

THREE AUCTION SALES ARE LISTED IN COURIER THIS WEEK

The spring auction sale season, which has been slow to get underway on account of cold weather and almost impassable condition of roads, is now in progress. Three sales are listed in this week's issue of the Courier as follows:

On Monday, April 23rd, Loren E. Hamlin will dispose of a large list of livestock and farm implements at his farm located 1/4 mile south of Burgess school house. See adv. on page 5.

On Wednesday, April 25th, Hans Jensen will hold a sale at his farm 7 miles south of Charlevoix on the Charlevoix-East Jordan road. He has a large list of farm implements and household goods. See adv. on page 9.

Having sold his farm located 4 1/2 miles south of Marion Center Town Hall, Nathan Hapner will dispose of his entire list of horses, cows, hogs, poultry, farm implements and household goods at Public Auction on Thursday, April 26th. See adv. on page 5.

next month after abandonment has been determined.

Wages being paid in Michigan for hired farm labor are practically the same as a year ago. Wages by the month were $41.75 with board and $58.75 without board. By the day wages were $2.50 with board furnished and $3.20 without board. Farm labor seems plentiful throughout most of the state this spring, but wages demanded are still higher than many farmers can afford to pay.

TEMPERANCE UNION HELD APRIL MEETING

"Our Heroines" Was Topic Presented by Mrs. Usher, Leader

A large attendance was present at the April meeting of the Women's Temperance Union, held last Friday at the home of Mrs. L. E. Benton.

During the business session an invitation was received to attend the meetings of the county federation of women's clubs, which will be held here June 20th.

The lives of "Mother" Thompson, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Lathrop, Miss Willard and others of national fame were briefly reviewed by Mrs. Usher, who presented the topic "Our Heroines." A touching tribute was paid to the work of Mrs. Jennie Alcox, who for so many years was the inspiring leader of the local union. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. D. Campbell with Mrs. B. G. Mattson as leader.

"EXPERIENCE" SOCIAL WEDNESDAY EVENING

Thirty-five Were Present at Enjoyable Affair

The members of the Pilgrim Circle of the Congregational Ladies' Aid Society held their annual "Experience Social" at the church last Wednesday evening following a bountiful six o'clock dinner.

The experiences revealed novel ways of earning money and proved to be very entertaining. The lady with the largest sum to turn in has secured it by writing to summer visitors who are interested in Charlevoix, inviting them to contribute.

Several guests were present and with the Circle members made a company of about thirty-five, who passed a most enjoyable evening together.

Zipp! Zipp! Across Round Lake and back again with Roy Brady in his new speed boat—if you call it a boat. I'm not just sure whether I like to set on the bottom of anything and have things go by so fast. There is a great kick in it alright, but not much of a chance to talk.

You know Rollie Lewis that he made a nice crack about me the other day when he said that I could not hold a package and talk at the same time. I talked good enough to make a nice sale for him last December, anyway.

Just met Sam Sorenson and he said that he was glad that I had all the Scotchmen taken care of and hoped that I would rent his cottage next. Said he had to laugh when he read what I said about the Scotch, but that there was one who lived over on the North Side that was so tight that everytime he sent his night shirt to the laundry he would put a pair of socks in the pocket to get them washed for nothing. No, I will not tell you who he said it was.

Every time I go down town I see more Irishmen from Beaver Island, all waiting, waiting for the ice to move so that they can get over. Of course having "Bowery" here with them, it is not so bad and will seem more like home.

Anyone having a little farm they want to trade for some town property please let me know.

Ken Usher is just like a woodchuck the last few days. He goes down the alley to the Post office and sticks his head out looking up and down the street before he dares to come out. Since he got that story in the Sunday Free Press about the butter that was made before the Civil War, and some of the other things he said, he knows that Martha Ayers is likely looking for him.

The long winded bird who has been writing the Conservation articles is saying some very good things, but taking a length of time to get there. As soon as I find out who it is, I am going to take a picture of them for you.

AT THE MOVIES

Fred Thomson Follows Own Suggestion in Production

Fred Thomson once said that to be successful moving pictures should move. "The Sunset Legion," his latest effort for Paramount, coming to the Palace Theatre, moves. In fact, it never stops moving. There is something doing from start to finish.

Daredevil horsemanship, acrobatics, stage coach holdup and a mine battle are interspersed with more intimate scenes in which there were some delightful laughs. In other words, it is a human western with interesting characters and a well developed story. It doesn't have to depend upon scenery and spectacular stunts for its entertaining value, although it has plenty of them.

Eagerly Awaited Film Here Soon
"The Big Parade," which has been rightly called the biggest picture in screen history, has been eagerly awaited in this city. King Vidor's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Laurence Stallings' story, is coming to the Palace Theatre next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Briefly the story of "The Big Parade" centers in Jim Apperson, a typical fun-loving American and much like every other rich man's son. In the spring of 1917, fired by a new patriotism, he enlists and departs for service in France. The succeeding scenes show Jim and his two buddies; Bill, a former Bowery bartender, and Slim, an ex-riveter, and their life in the doughboy's billets in rural France. Mr. Stallings is said to have created a trio as original as Kipling's "Soldiers Three."

REPUBLICANS OF 16 COUNTIES MET

DISTRICT CONVENTION HELD AT PETOSKEY MONDAY

Galster and Bonifas Named Delegates to National Convention—Harmony Prevailed

Entire harmony marked the eleventh district Republican convention which met Monday morning at the Elks temple, Petoskey, at 9 a. m., Will Bonifas of Escanaba and John L. A. Galster being named as delegates to the national Republican convention which meets in Kansas City on June 12 for the purpose of making a Republican nomination for president.

Mr. Bonifas is president of the Bonifas Lumber company of his home city, and also president of the Kimberley-Clark Paper company.

Judge Arthur D. Wood of Munising, present state commissioner of pardons and paroles, was elected first alternate, and Rudolph Dueltgen of Rogers City, member of the county road commission of Presque Isle county, was selected for the second alternate.

Resolutions were adopted commending President Coolidge, endorsing Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for president, Governor Green for a second term, Senator Vandenberg to succeed himself for the full term, Congressman Frank P. Bohm also for re-election, and former Governor Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, for vice president of the United States and delegate-at-large to the national convention.

A. L. Sayles, chairman of the eleventh district congressional committee, called the convention to order as temporary chairman, D. H. Hinkley acting as secretary, the temporary officers being made permanent on recommendation of the committee on permanent organization and order of business, which consisted of Wm. J. Pearson, Judge A. D. Wood, Norman Hill, E. J. Chastelle, J. M. Harris and Clarence Clark.

All of the sixteen counties except Presque Isle were found to be represented by duly accredited delegates, the committee on credentials consisting of John Norton, Col. C. J. Gray, R. W. Nebel, James Spies, A. B. Green and Herman Lunden.

Resolutions were prepared by a committee consisting of V. D. Sprague, E. J. Hanna, Frank Kenyon, H. J. Rushton, Kenneth Doyle and R. P. Hudson, and were adopted by unanimous vote of the delegates present.

Resolutions adopted were as follows:

"The Republicans of the eleventh congressional district of the state of Michigan, in convention assembled at the city of Petoskey, Emmet county, Michigan, on Monday the 23 day of April, A. D. 1928, re-affirm our confidence in the Republican party, its principles and its leaders. We believe that Republican success at the approaching November election will assure the continued prosperity of our country, a sane and just foreign policy, and an administration that will reflect the greatness of the American people.

Endorse Coolidge
We heartily endorse the administration of President Coolidge. He has reflected the true greatness of our country and his policy as stabilized our government, has brought the administration of all governmental affairs to an economic basis, and it has had an unlimited influence on all of our people for economy and honesty. His simplicity, poise, common sense and wisdom have been reflected in all governmental affairs to an extent that it has made his administration unique. He leaves the office of president with the utmost confidence and respect of the people of this country.

It is of utmost importance to the United States and its continued prosperity, that we select a person to succeed President Coolidge who will continue and carry out the Coolidge policies. That is important to all business and to laboring classes alike.

The Honorable Herbert Hoover, the present secretary of commerce, as a member of the Coolidge cabinet, reflects more than any person, the present Republican administration, and his election as president of the United States would assure the continuance of the present prosperity to all classes of our country. In the world crisis he was, by common consent of the governments, including all the governments allied with the United States in the World War, selected to perform tasks requiring extraordinary executive ability and initiative, without precedent to guide him and dependent on his own resources, he designed plans for countless multitudes confronted by the appalling confusion caused by contending armies.

The skill and poise with which he organized relief work, and salvaged the safety and lives of suffering nations, awakened the applause of the world and earned for him the gratitude of millions of four continents. His dynamic energy, his superior judgment, and his genius for organization, displayed in the stress of trying circumstances, inspire confidence in his ability and prove his capacity for leadership.

We, therefore, support his candidacy for high office of president and urge Republicans everywhere to vote for the nomination of Herbert Hoover.

And we especially request the delegates this day elected to the state convention, now called, to support delegates to the national convention who are his avowed and staunch supporters, and who will vote for him as long as there is any reasonable chance of his nomination.

BRADY HAS NEW OUTBOARD MODEL

PLANS QUANTITY PRODUCTION IN PLANT THIS SUMMER

New Double-Chine Boat Made Unofficial Mile Run in Minute and Fifty-three Seconds

M. Roy Brady, who with his wife recently returned from Florida, has moved his shop and equipment to the Kahler & Friend building at the foot of Antrim street, where he is now busily engaged in building outboard boats. He is operating under the name of the Brady Boat Company and has adopted the slogan: "The Winners Are Brady-Built."

To back his slogan, Brady has designed a new outboard boat which will be known as the double-chine model. In an unofficial trial over the Lake Charlevoix measured course last Sunday, one of these boats driven by an 8 h. p. motor, covered the mile in 1 minute and 53 seconds, an average of more than 30 miles per hour. The world's official record for an 8 h. p. motor is something over 27 miles an hour and with a new 16 h. p. motor a little over 33 miles an hour. Looks like Brady has a winner. Anyway, he is just that confident that he has applied for a patent on his new boat.

Brady's new double-chine model is distinctly a new departure in outboard boat construction. Several features of its performance in running mark it as a winner. The double-chine model banks perfectly and at once when turning the buoys, and has no tendency to throw the bow into the air when turning into the wind. Both of these points make for greater safety. Another important feature is that the double-chine is absolutely dry, as the unusual construction of the chine throws all spray away from the boat so that no water follows up the side to be blown into the driver's face and onto the motor.

The boat planes perfectly at low speed and fast speeds.

Brady has one of his new boats completed, built of cedar, and has another of mahogany, under construction. This latter one he will enter in the races at Waukegon in May when the annual meeting of Johnson dealers is held in that city.

Besides building speed boats, both outboard and other models, Mr. and Mrs. Brady are laying plans for several regattas during the summer. Besides the annual regatta, they intend to sponsor several outboard races and hope to make Charlevoix the center of outboard competition this year.

RESORT DEVELOPMENT IS PLANNED

TWIN LAKES TO BE SITE OF NEW CHICKAWAGO CLUB

Owners of Property Plan to Start Work There Within Short Time—Fine Booklet Issued

Andrew R. Davis, representative of Sooley-Linton, Pontiac resortors, was in Charlevoix early this week arranging details in connection with their new resort development on Twin Lakes to be known as Chickawago Club. R. F. Sloan of the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. is preparing a plat of the property, and it is understood development operations will be started within a short time.

A beautifully illustrated 20-page booklet, extolling the recreational advantages of Northern Michigan and particularly those of Chickawago Club, has been issued for advertising purposes. This booklet reflects careful preparation and choice in its make-up and descriptive matter.

Membership in the Chickawago Club will be limited to 500 members and restricted to Gentiles, according to present plans. Qualifications for membership will be based upon character and each applicant will be subject to investigation by the membership committee before being accepted.

Club members will receive a 99-year lease to a cabin site, and in addition a certificate will be issued to them which entitles them to all privileges of the Chickawago Club and a pro rata participation in all its assets.

Charlevoix county has many small lakes within its boundary suitable for resort purposes. The Twin lakes site is one of great beauty and it is hoped that its development will lead a movement which will eventually see all our county lakes surrounded by resorts and cottages.

Staley Brothers Will Conduct Biggest Trout Contest Opening Day

Who will win the prizes offered by Staley Brothers' Hardware for the biggest brook trout, biggest brown trout and best average catch of brook trout on the opening day of the trout season, May first? Whoever he is—and it may be you who is reading this—will want to get in on this contest.

The contest will be open to every trout fisherman in this region under the age of 110, and prizes will be awarded at the store Saturday evening, May 5th, at 8:00 o'clock. The only restrictions are that the trout must be caught with hook and line on the opening day, and then brought to the store so they may be placed in the display window for one day.

In addition to the prizes offered for brook trout on the opening day, Staley Brothers are also offering other prizes for the largest large and small mouth black bass, muskellunge and steelhead or rainbow trout. This division of the contest does not end until September 1. For details and list of prizes, see their advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

WEEK'S MESSAGE IS PROTECT BIRDS

THEME OF SHAKESPEARE CLUB ARTICLE A TIMELY ONE

Birds Should Be Protected for Both Economic and Sentimental Reasons—Contest Planned

The following article prepared by the conservation committee of the Shakespeare Study Club, urges protection of our wild bird life. They point out reasons why we should give more protection to birds, one of nature's most wonderful gifts to the world. The article follows:

"Along the line of conservation, the protection of our feathered friends, the birds, is one of paramount importance. We have Arbor Day, Independence Day, Child Health Day, National Garden Week and American Forest Week as well as many others and it would be well to have a new holiday, if you wish to call it that, called Bird Day. Of course, Bird Day will differ from its successful predecessor, Arbor Day, for we can plant trees but not birds.

"There is a wonderful story in bird life and but few children or even grown-ups know it. A whole day of a year can well and profitably be given over to the birds. Nothing can be more interesting and the cultivation of an intimate acquaintance with the flitting throng of bird life is a source of genuine pleasure. We are under great obligations to the birds. Without them the world would be more barren than we can imagine. Consequently, we have some duties which we owe them. Children should not grow to maturity without this knowledge. The study of bird life is one of especial interest to children and if properly pursued will develop in them sympathetic characters that should make them kinder towards their playmates now and towards their fellowmen in the coming years.

"There are two good reasons why we should protect our birds: the one sentimental and the other economic. Sentimental reasons are many—what would spring be without the return of the birds and how cheery is the chick-a-dee in winter. The small boy who pursues little birds from the standpoint of the hunter in quest of his game, feels only the ardor of pursuit. His whole mind is concentrated on that and the hunter's selfishness, the desire of possession, fills his heart. In this way, ignorance and thoughtlessness destroy the birds. Everyone knows in a general way that birds render most valuable service to the farmer, and so indirectly to all mankind. Statistics acquired by agriculture departments prove beyond a doubt that practically every bird is of some benefit to man and that his service in destroying insects and their larva more than pays for the small fruits that he eats.

"To encourage our boys and girls in the protection and feeding of the birds and to stimulate interest in these little feathered friends, the conservation committee of the Shakespeare Study Club is sponsoring a contest of bird house building. Next week there will be a complete announcement giving all details of the contest. Watch this paper for the announcement about the entries and prizes.

NAVIGATION RESUMED SATURDAY

TWO WEEK BLOCKADE BROKEN BY STEAMER SUMAC

Beaver Island Mail Boat Operating on Schedule—Other Boats Have Left Harbor.

The Courier got the earl ahead of the horse in an article last week telling of the boats leaving this harbor. It was just before press time and to all appearance the J. B. Johns and Sanford were then making good progress toward open water. By the time our columns were closed, however, they were stuck and had to return. We did not have time to make this correction.

Nevertheless conditions have now adjusted themselves and navigation is in full swing. The government lighthouse tender Sumac opened the way Saturday when she broke through from open water to make this harbor after a battle of several hours. She opened a channel which also allowed the Johns and Sanford to get out.

Both the Gray's Reef and Manitou Shoals light ships have gone to their stations and the Sanford is now making her regular mail run. Owen McAuley, keeper, and Lou Allard and Paul Johncheek, assistants at Squaw Island lighthouse, left here for their stations last Wednesday afternoon. They boarded Jim Martin's tug at South Point, where they had to cross a half mile of none too safe ice to reach the boat, which had pulled as near shore as the ice would allow. Unfortunately, Tom Bonner, keeper of the light at the head of the Benvers, was left behind. He motored to Mackinaw City, Friday, and there got passage to the island with Capt. John McCann on his tug Venus.

Other Beaver Island residents who were marooned here on account of the ice blockade have now reached their homes.

Fishermen are again operating out of this harbor after a delay which cost them thousands of dollars.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT CHURCHES SUNDAY

Big Union Meeting and Rally in Evening at Baptist Church

Four distinguished speakers of state and national prominence will address Charlevoix church-goers next Sunday. The Anti-Saloon League has arranged with local churches to have their pulpits occupied by these outside men, all of whom are widely known.

For the morning services at 10:30 the order is as follows: Baptist church, Rev. D. Forsythe of Washington, D. C.; Congregational church, Rev. E. N. Holmstrom, Michigan Anti-Saloon League superintendent; Church of God, Rev. S. T. Latbrop of Kalamazoo; Methodist church, Luren D. Dickerson, Lieut. Governor of Michigan.

In the evening at 7:00 o'clock, the speakers of the morning will unite in making up the platform at a big mass meeting and rally to be held at the Baptist church. All other churches of the city are cooperating.

PERCH FISHERMEN MUST DELAY SPORT

AMENDED LAW BARS HOOK AND LINE IN GREAT LAKE WATERS

Ruling Effects Fishing in Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix From April 15 to June 15

The following article relative to perch fishing in the Great Lakes and its connecting waters was taken from Monday's issue of the Grand Rapids Press. It is a new one on us. The article points out conclusively that perch fishing with hook and line, nets or otherwise, is prohibited in these waters from April 15 to June 15 inclusive. The article, which is a Lansing dispatch dated April 21, follows:

"Perch fishermen by the thousands, who are wont to take advantage of the warm spring days to cast their lines into the Great Lakes from some pier, must wait until June 16 for their sport. This is because of provisions of the general fishing law passed by the last legislature, it developed last week.

"Heretofore, there has been no regulation on taking perch, either in the inland waters or the Great Lakes, but when the legislature enacted the new general fishing law it provided that it shall be unlawful to take perch from the Great Lakes and its connecting waters from April 15 to June 16, inclusive.

"This week, it was learned, commercial fishermen were taking perch in the Saginaw bay region, and selling them. It was then pointed out that perch in the Great Lakes are on the protected list, and Acting Director George R. Hogarth instructed Chief Conservation Officer Hugo Green to have game wardens make an inspection of all markets and all fish houses, and to seize all perch found. At the same time orders went out to the commercial fishermen that perch could not be taken until June 16.

"The new general or commercial fishing law was passed by the legislature after a conference had been held in Lansing at which representatives of the commercial fishing industry and representatives of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota had worked out a bill which it was agreed would be introduced in the legislatures of all states represented at the conference with a view of protecting the commercial fishing industry.

"There was no intent in this conference to stop the hook and line fishermen, but he was entirely overlooked in the discussion of the commercial fishing industry.

"Thousands of fishermen line the piers and docks along the ports of the Great Lakes each Sunday early in the spring, as soon as the weather is warm enough to make fishing comfortable. Some have already been catching perch. The conservation department will avoid arrests except the case of persistent violators and it is probable that the fishing right to the hook and line man may be restored when the legislature meets again.

"That the provision is a wise one is shown by fish caught in Saginaw bay this spring. Many of them were filled with spawn. The hook and line fishermen probably could not make a dent in the perch population of the Great Lakes or in any way injure the commercial fishing industry."

TREAT IN STORE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Prof. Bartlett of Preston, England, Appears There Tues. Evening

A special treat is in store at the Methodist church at 7:45 next Tuesday evening, according to Rev. John E. Lockyer, pastor. Quoting a news item handed to us, Mr. Lockyer says: "Just by chance the pastor found a unique Englishman up in this section who is master of many arts, especially that of music."

This man is Prof. Bartlett of Preston, England, and he will give a lecture-piano recital at the church next Tuesday evening at the above stated time. He is broadcasting this week from the McAlpine Hotel, New York City, and has been invited to the White House by President Coolidge.

Prof. Lockyer was fortunate to get him here as a personal favor. A silver offering will be asked only to defray expenses.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

One second she stood irresolute, doubting her own courage to open the door. But memory of Rand's distress overcame her. Clipping her pistol with tense and nerveless fingers, marvelling, even in that terrible moment, that she did not unconsciously press the trigger, she opened the door. A heavy black curtain hung in thick folds before it. She felt for the corner, and then, breathlessly, drew it back. Only deep blackness beyond. Following the wall on her left, she stepped, slid rather, behind the thick curtain, and guided by the touch of her fingers on the wall, moved forward slowly, breath by breath. Another heavy curtain. Exploring she felt and fingered it, hesitating a moment to quiet her panting fears.

Suddenly there was a sound, a voice, behind the curtain right at her hand. "Let's have a look."

Gay had barely time to flatten herself against the wall, while face lowered into her dark collar, when the curtain at the other end moved and parted. No light emanated from behind it, but Gay felt that two men came out, carefully pausing to replace the heavy folds behind them, and crossed to the curtained door through which she had entered.

One drew back the thick folds of curtain, and pushed the door wide. "No sign of them." The voice was Ronald Ingram's. "They are here."

"He'll give you the devil for taking that fellow on board," said the other voice, one strange to Gay.

"There's nothing else to do with him," Ronald answered quickly. "I'll d-d-d if I'll cross him. I'll know I won't. I told him when I signed on."

"You let him get away?"

"I don't let him get away; I don't dare. He had been spying on us—God knows how long. I know everything we're up to, of course. He'd have told them after us in no time. No, we'll take him along. Garman can do as he likes. He's a good fellow. God knows. But they're nothing to me so far. Look, there's the light, they're coming."

The men went back carefully through the heavy curtain, drawing the folds of it behind them. The blackness was like pitch. A prisoner—a guy—was known ever. They were taking him to Garman who stuck at nothing. Dear Rand! All Gay's fears fell from her, dead courage lay cold upon her hands. Her thoughts were quiet and consistent.

"A boat is coming for them. They have taken him prisoner. Perhaps I will have a chance to rescue him—with my pistol."

Breathlessly she tiptoed to the edge of the curtain, drew it back. Still blackness within. Her fingers gripped her. There was a door now, on the right side, open but thickly partitioned. Her fingers touched it. Yes, a light. They were in that room. Rand was in that room, a prisoner.

She wedged her face up to the curtain where but the slightest friction of one eye touched the aperture her fingers formed in the folds of cloth. A dozen men in the room, all dressed for cold weather, out-of-doors, heavy coats, heavy hats, gloves in their hands. They were not smoking. There was no fire in the room, but one pale lantern giving light. She saw Ronald Ingram. He was dressed as the others were, with a revolver in his hand. Others had revolvers, too. The Chinaman was there. And there was one other, hands bound behind the low chair on which he sat, his mouth tightly gagged. He too was dressed for the sea, warmly, but he sat hunched down, dejected, cowering.

"Oh, my dear," Gay thought tenderly. Tears came to her eyes. She could not see the face, she had no need. Every line of Rand's face was clear to her heart.

Ronald Ingram looked at his watch. "The ready now," he said, in a low voice. "Go one at a time. Follow May Sen. Walk slowly, feel your way, we can't show a light. Don't talk. You cannot smoke until we are well out to sea. Hodge, you take the prisoner with you, and go first after May Sen. The rest follow in after Hodge. I'll bring up the rear. Not a sound when we go out." Then he crossed swiftly to the dejected figure of the prisoner. "Now mind what I told you," he said. His voice was low, incisive. "If you make the slightest sound, the least effort to get away—I'll turn his revolver in his hands suggestively—that for your pains! You know this place, you know this 'cave' you haven't a chance in the world to escape. He ready now, fellows?"

The men stood up, drew on their gloves. Gay slipped away from the curtain, back to the second one, beyond it.

"A boat is coming—they are taking Rand with them—they are all armed, and he is bound." How her thoughts raced!

Outside for the night again, she stood flat against the wall and waited. It was in her heart to touch Rand as he passed, to "kiss him out of the line as they passed perhaps excepting a kiss—in that dark sea. No! No! No! She waited, cool, alert, holding her breath.

There was sudden sound on the shore of the cave, the low plash of oars, a low whistle, the scraping and grinding of a boat on the sand, and again the low whistle.

Then, without a sound from within, the curtain at her hand was drawn aside. The little Chinaman came out and padded softly down toward the shore, his head lowered, looking neither to right nor left. After him came the tall man, Hodge, of course, a revolver in one hand, the other thrust through the bound one of the prisoner. Gay's fingers acted about her pistol, but she knew any use of it at that moment would mean only death to Rand, and to herself as well. Perhaps later she might have a chance—he was a strong swimmer—if she could only manage to release the bonds that held him.

Still from behind the curtain came the silent, closely clothed figures, one after another, silently, and at last no more. But there was a sound within, the drawing of curtains, the click of a latch, the slide of a wooden frame. Gay did not breathe. She felt a little, she moved out softly, the line of silently marching men. Behind her, automatically, unhesitatingly, she followed them, but in her blindness she fell full length on the rocky path.

Ronald Ingram came upon her from behind. She felt the touch of his boot at her shoulder.

"Get up, d—n it, and be careful!" His voice was low, less than a whisper.

Gay scrambled to her feet, and hurried after the others. A hand was held out from the boat to assist her, and she was swung up in her turn, with Ronald Ingram behind her, the last man on.

"O. K.," breathed a voice from the boat.

"Yeh. Let's go."

The boat hunched on the sand again, swept into the water. The oars dipped the waves. A fine excitement came over Gay. She was daring death with Rand. If she could not contrive to save him, then she, who had selfishly refused to share his life, would gloriously share his death.

The boat hunched swiftly out to sea, and the fine salt spray touched her face.

CHAPTER XII

No one questioned Gay's presence in the boat, no one so much as looked her way, or offered her a word. She dropped upon the bench, cowering, just where she was pushed in the pushing crowd. Shyly at first she kept her face lowered into her collar, but later, gaining courage, she dared to look about in search of Rand. Her eyes found him at last where he sat crowded between two others on the opposite side, and there was no opportunity for her to draw nearer to him at that moment.

The three men, Ingram and Hodge, with the one in charge of the boat, stood together and talked. Gay was beside them, but their voices were so low that she could catch only scattered words of what they said, and none but Ingram's, whose voice was familiar.

"Hanging around spying—No, d—n it, business is one thing, but murder is murder. Do as you like, but I can't have a hand in it. Remember Blakeley. Nothing on me but smuggling and coast running. Few years at most. I've got mine salted away, too, believe me."

"Remember Blakeley." Was it Blakeley who had come to her in the cave, with the bullet wound in his brow? Not Ingram, then, who caused that gashing wound, but another, Garman, to whom they were taking Rand. Gay's fingers fondled her pistol, tentatively, but well she realized that any such action would be worse than folly, for these were desperate men, and they were armed. Ingram might stick at murder in cold blood, but self-defense would put a different color on his scruples. If she could only get to Rand, slip her pistol into his hands, release his bonds. Still there was no opportunity, and she could think of no subtle expedient to contrive her ends.

She would have liked to fling herself across the intervening space and put both arms tenderly about those drooping shoulders.

"If I dared, I would. How surprised they would be. 'Rand,' I'd say, 'kiss me.' I dare say they would all drop dead of astonishment." Her teeth chattered nervously, her knees trembled, cold little amiles wrinkled her lips. "I am going to laugh," she thought. "I know I am simply going to scream with laughter. How absurd this is. Going to sea with a hand of murderers—! Illogical. People don't do such things. Such things don't happen. I must be losing my mind. I dare say I am crazy, as they think on the island." A low dry chuckle gurgled through her cold lips. The man at her side turned.

"Cold," he muttered. "They don't put themselves out much to give service, eh?"

Gay's reply was an indistinguishable murmur, but she guarded her thoughts more closely.

The men smoked thirstily. She felt they were not fellows of a common hand, but separate, each for himself, except Ronald Ingram, Hodge and the little Chinaman, and the men who manned this boat. The others held aloof, nor did Ingram show any spirit of camaraderie to one of them. It was some sinister personal business that brought these men together.

Suddenly, in the darkness ahead, the lights of a ship showed up. Lights green and red, and pale.

Gay lingered her pistol nervously, tempted to fire desperately for help, taking the chance that help would come. Watching warily she waited a moment. The boat seemed to be heading direct for the ship, not avoiding it; yes, they were making for it. That ship, then, was Garman's, where they were taking Rand. There was no signaling between the two that she could see, but the great majestic monster of the sea showed, came to a stop, and the small boat called alongside.

Ronald Ingram nodded toward the prisoner. "Bring him, Hodge," he said, and then ran quickly up the ladder first of all.

Hodge and the Chinaman prodded Rand up and shoved him to the ladder, which he climbed nimbly enough, though he must have been stiff with the cold and the exposure, as were they all. Gay's first impulse was to crowd forward, to go up the ladder after him, but remembering in time that a nearer view of her person might disclose a trick of manliness in spite of her boots and knickerbockers, she hung modestly back. One after another they hurried on, and the Chinaman tottered her forward.

Already the ship was heading east.

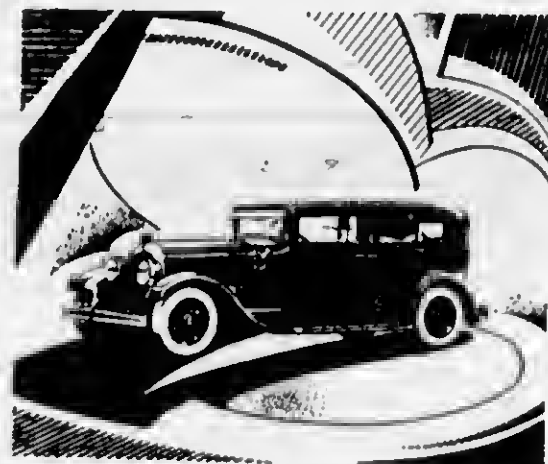

Overtake the "72"?

... well, hardly!

If Chrysler "72" were merely more beautiful—if it were just an average good value—it would deserve special consideration from the buyer.

But it clamors for his consideration and demands his attention by reason of a gauge and proof of greater value which cannot be escaped.

All cars today seek to approximate Chrysler "72" performance by patterning after Chrysler engineering. But after three years of striving, how close are they to the "72" today? No closer than they were three years ago. As they have struggled to approach, Chrysler "72" has pulled away and gallops around and past them with more than the ease of the old original Chrysler sensation-car of 1924.

There may be pocket-book reasons for choosing cars of lesser price than the "72." There simply cannot be a valid reason for paying as much or more for any car other than the "72."

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1345; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in a position to extend the convenience of time payments.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, standard equipment on all body models of the 112 h. p. Imperial "80," also standard on the roadsters and available at slight extra cost for other body types, of the "62" and "72."

Adjournment for dinner.
Afternoon Session
Roll call, "The Farmers Greatest Need," responded to by all and which brought out some very interesting facts and ideas well worth hearing.
Discussion, "Why Farmers Should Have State Aid on County Roads," led by B. Howard. "Rules for the Married," by Mrs. Terry Barber. "Gentlemen, Describe Your Wife's Wedding Gown," recitation. "Is Farming Such a Snap," by Mrs. Ewing. "Turkey Raising," by Alice M. Smatts. Discussion, "Get Out of the Ruts," led by John Hellar.
Discussion, "Some Grange Opportunities for the Community," led by J. E. Chew.
Recitation by R. F. Howard. Hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Adjournment for supper.
Evening Session
Song, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."
Remarks by Mr. Mellenkamp, county agent, regarding day old chicks.

Rev. W. H. Helrigel of Boyne City, was introduced by Mr. Mellenkamp, who spoke on farm topics.

Ben Gardner referred to the convention to be held in East Jordan this summer for the R. F. D. carriers, and asked that each rural box holder make an effort to have their mail boxes looking neat by painting the post white. If this was done, the mail carrier would stencil the owner's name in black on each box.

Several pianoforte duets and solos were rendered throughout the session by the Misses Ewing and Spaniak and Simpson and Sevanski. Also banjo, guitar and piano pieces by Miss Ewing and Messrs. Stanhope and Magee. Mr. Stanhope recited some of his original poems.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuday, just returned from Florida, told of their trip and how much they enjoyed the winter there.

The young people of Boyne River Grange next put on the play, "My Awful Aunt." Everyone commented on how well each one rendered their parts, also how appropriate the songs were.

It was decided at this meeting that as the Grange had been instrumental in getting the R. F. D., it would be the Grange who would work out the proper relief for farmers, not congress.

The fifth degree team next took charge and initiated 22 candidates.

Grange closed, the chaplain invoking the divine blessing, and everyone went home satisfied that the meeting was a great success and that Boyne River deserved credit for the very efficient manner in which the visiting members were entertained.—Alice M. Smatts, Pomona Grange Secretary.

RESORT DIRECTORY BETTER THAN EVER

Tourist Association Issues Beautiful Book on West Michigan

Call of the waters, of the forests and of the open road is sounded more clearly and more convincingly than ever before in the history of the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, the appeal of west Michigan as "The Playground of a Nation" being expressed in the new vacation directory, a book of 60 pages which is being sent out to prospective summer visitors.

The book has beautiful covers in color. Included is a large road map of Michigan.

Twenty-seven counties are listed separately in the book and a map of each of these counties, showing rivers, lakes and roads, is a feature.

$96.31 Average Per Acre

Grouping the seasons of 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927 and including every grower at Atwood, Charlevoix, Horton Bay and Petoskey, THE AVERAGE CASH PAID GROWERS HAS BEEN $96.31 PER ACRE.

Here is a crop record that challenges! It deserves the serious consideration of every good farmer in these communities. Some yields have been higher and some lower, but THIS AVERAGE CASH YIELD tells its own story. Each week we will list two different growers who selected some of their richest soil, prepared it well, and who were well repaid. Here are the first two:

G. E. THOMPSON (Petoskey).....$152.10 per acre
JOHN HOPMAN (Atwood).....$251.06
per acre

Our prices are higher and noreage will be large this year. Many contracts are in. If you haven't yours, write us NOW or phone No. 25.

Charlevoix Pickle Company

All lakes and rivers are printed in blue. There also is a directory of hotels and granges. Reproductions of photographs of resort scenes lend charm. The information as to tourist camp locations, hotels, railroads, etc., is authentic and complete.

Michigan offers woods and wilds, a coast line of 1,650 miles, 5,000 inland lakes, miles of fishing streams and waterfalls. "Here is the modern Eden," says the book. The "big seaways of Hiawatha" and the picturesque dunes of the lake beaches the good roads, the golf links, dancing pavilions—all unite in the call.

AMOS NOVOTNEY DIED IN PONTIAC MONDAY

His Remains Will Be Brought to Charlevoix for Burial.

Amos Novotney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Novotney of this city, died of pneumonia at the hospital in Pontiac, Monday morning at 2:00 o'clock.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in Pontiac, after which the remains were shipped to Charlevoix, where services will be held from the Novotney home Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Rev. B. G. Minton officiating. Interment will be made at Brookside cemetery.

Besides father and mother, he is survived by his wife and two children, eight brothers and one sister.

He will be remembered here as manager of the Charlevoix Floral Co., which position he held for several years. For the past 12 years he had been foreman in a foundry in Pontiac.

THE THANKFUL HEART

If anyone should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep thru it, and how it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction. The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep thru the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so will it find in every hour some heavenly blessings—only the iron in God's sand is gold.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

TROUT LICENSE FOR FISHERMEN

NEW LAW IN EFFECT THIS YEAR —COSTS ONE DOLLAR

Streams of Northern Michigan Are All High—Fishing Indications Are Very Good.

With May first but five days away there are seen on the streams many anxious sportsmen literally itching to get the waders and do "their stuff."

One thing to be remembered by all trout fishermen this year is the new trout law which requires all male fishermen 21 years of age or over to purchase a license to catch the speckled beauties. Women of any age, men who are under 21, need not have a license. The license for non-resident anglers remains the same as it was last year. Other points in the trout law are that the captured fish must be at least seven inches long; only fifteen may be taken in one day; and not more than twenty-five in possession at any one time. Persons who do not fish for trout but fish for perch, pike, bass, etc., are not required to have an angler's license.

Streams High
Many of the more ardent followers of the sport have been to their favorite streams and report that if the present weather conditions prevail and providing that there are but few heavy rains, the fishing on May first this year will be fine. Almanacs and fishermen's calendars give splendid indications that the fishing will be nearly at its best for the first day of the season.

Such streams as the Black, Sturgeon, Pigeon, Maple, Jordan, are reported as having plenty of water in them. It is the hope of Charlevoix Waltons that the streams will get down to their normal size by the opening date of the season.

PLENTY OF WORK AT HAMILTON'S YARDS

Preparations for Resort Season Are Now Holding Attention

The work of overhauling and repairing boats for Charlevoix's summer resorters is underway at Hamilton & Son's boat yards. The place is the scene of great activity at the present time and will be from now on until the boats are laid up again next fall.

Sam says this year's early spring work surpasses that of any former season, and he hardly knows which way to turn. A 26-foot Seabird model yawl, built in Hamilton's shop last winter has proved very popular with those who have seen it and several prospective purchasers are angling for the boat. This venture may prove the starting of a lively winter industry at Charlevoix, providing sufficient orders for this type of boat are received.

PROTESTS CUT IN RAILROAD SERVICE

Harbor Springs Up In Arms Over Changed Train Schedule

Citizens of Harbor Springs last week protested to the Michigan public utilities commission against the reduction of the Pennsylvania railroad service between it and Petoskey from a daily train to two trains per week.

Harbor Springs residents contended that the curtailment of service taken by the railroad on the grounds of economy, was unjustified. The amount saved by the company during the period from October 1 to June 1 would total, it was estimated, only $1,400.

The complainants said that the reduced service was holding up the supply of perishable farm produce.

Certain-Teed Quality Roofing is the best to use. Shingles and Roll Roofing in different colors. Louis S. Orlovski, Agent.—Adv. 17-12.

WHO WILL CARE FOR PHEASANT EGGS?

Local Mao Will Have a Bushel if Takeo Care of Ringneck pheasants at the State Game Farm have begun to lay again. This year the farm will produce some 40,000 eggs. Of these about 10,000 will be used at the farm to produce birds for this fall's release and for next year's breeding stock. The balance, about 30,000 eggs, will be available for free distribution.

Application for many thousands of eggs are already on file with the game division of the Department of Conservation, and new applications are coming in with every mail. One local man, D. F. Meach, has made application for a bushel of eggs to be used here. Now he is looking for some good hearted person, interested in the raising of these valuable game birds, and a motherly hen to hatch them.

Three years ago ringneck pheasants were numerous around Charlevoix. They began disappearing two years ago, the cause not being entirely from hunting, but for several reasons, one being that a few land owners got it into their heads that they were crop destroyers, and a few others saw their prize rooster "cleaned up on" by a cock peasant.

They were wrong in both instances, and it is hoped the end of this season will see hundreds of pheasants in our fields and cut-over lands.

But the question is: Who will take a setting of these eggs, furnish a hen, and aid the restocking this part of the country? Get in touch with Mr. Meach.

WANTED---A NAME

WHO WILL NAME OUR BREAD?

We want some Charlevoix person to name the bread baked for our special use. We have tried to find a suitable one, but just simply can't think of one that is satisfactory. So we are going to let someone else name it for us.

Here is the proposition: Think of some name suitable for this bread, write it on a slip of paper, but at the same time write down your name and address, then-mail it or bring it to the store. All who enter this contest must have the name in by Saturday, May 5. We will then look the names over, select the one that suits us, and announce the name and person who suggested it.

To the person who sends in the name we select, we will give FREE a $10.00 order of Groceries.

PUBLIC OPINION

No other of our internal problems is of greater moment than the rehabilitation of our forests, now so hopelessly begun but needing the strong support of our collective will and intelligence. One-fourth of our soil is better suited to timber-growing than anything else. I cannot escape the conviction that our industrial and agricultural stability will be strengthened by bringing into full productivity this great empire of land.

"Consider what blessings the use of this land for intensive forest culture would bring our country. Our migratory forest industries would be stabilized and made permanent. Rural industry would be greatly strengthened and vitalized. Agriculture would find in silviculture a strong ally, providing markets for produce and for surplus labor. With widespread forest culture, new wealth would spring up for the support of roads, schools and local government, and the rural regions would enjoy a larger share of the national prosperity. For some of our surplus capital now seeking investment abroad, new outlets would be found in forest production. Our people would then have an assured supply of timber and would see the hills and waste places reclothed with forests for their pleasure and inspiration." Calvin Coolidge.

"American Forest Week" will be observed April 22-28. Theodore Roosevelt, New York, is general chairman of the movement, which had its inception in the northwest in 1920. American Forest Week is strictly and wholly educational in plan and purpose. It is an annual call to all citizens of America, both young and old, to lend their interest and support in bringing about forestry conditions. Canada has also joined the movement and will celebrate the week concurrently with that of the United States.

THE GREATEST OF PRIVILEGES

Speaking of the canicity of the home, we could also talk of the sanctity of the polling booth.

It took hundreds and hundreds of years of agitation to secure the right to vote for all men. Most countries do not extend such privileges to their peoples today.

When the right to vote, universal suffrage, was well established in the United States, there came the Australian ballot system, under which a voter wrote his choice in secret, without fear of intimidation.

The government of the nation is based upon a citizen's right to vote as he pleases, without the knowledge of any other person.

A man may not be independent in his home. If he is, he cannot be lived with. His wife may control him or the children may rule him. A man is not independent in his own business. He must accede to the demands of his associates, employees and customers.

But in a voting place, with the curtain to the booth properly drawn, with the pencil thoughtfully poised, a citizen possesses more power, more independence, more influence for good and evil, than he does under other circumstances in his life.

And yet there are those who do not care enough for the privilege of voting to walk a block to utilize the greatest privilege yet bestowed upon a nation and a generation.—Grand Rapids (Mich.) Herald-Review.

DO NOT BLAME IT ON THE YEAR

Every four years comes the bugaboo of a national election.

Most people say that election years are bad years in business. This fallacy is much like many other things we take for granted. Election years are good years and bad years, just as every fifth or every tenth year may be a good or bad year.

From the Magazine of Business, we find how the election years have been since 1888:

1888—Average year. Started below normal, but in spite of politics, gained steadily and closed above normal.

1896—Below normal, possibly due to Bryan's "free silver" campaign, though this year formed a part, lasted over into the second year following.

1904—Below normal.

1908—Started with carry-over from the depression of 1907, but improved later in the year in spite of its being a presidential year.

1912—Good year. Between 5 per cent and 10 per cent above normal.

1916—A real boom year, averaging 10 per cent to 15 per cent above normal.

1920—Considerably above normal until last three months of year, when post-war economic readjustment began.

1924—Below normal during middle of year, recovering at close.

If you can get anything either discouraging or cheerful from these cold statements of things as they have been, take it.

WOMEN AT THE STORES

Experts tell us that women actually do or influence the purchasing of 90 per cent of the merchandise sold in America.

This is probably true. A woman buys the food, the clothing for herself and her children. Even if she does not buy her husband's clothes she actually tells him what to buy.

"What Mothers Spend." A booklet bearing this title published by McCall's magazine produces records to show that the modern American woman is as different from her mother as the motorbus is from the stagecoach. In 1900 only 12,527 dozen pairs of silk stockings were manufactured—one pair for every 264 women. In 1926 more than five pairs for every female, including children, were sold. Electric current for domestic uses has increased fourfold, cosmetics and perfumes have increased seven times since the war, the sale of linoleum has more than doubled in six years and furniture has jumped three times in volume. Mothers today spend 85 cents of every dollar received by the retail stores of this nation. The consensus of opinion among investigators of "clearance sales" since January 1 of this year is that women are buying styles instead of figures and the store that keeps pace with this modern American woman will have to pay an increasing amount of attention to her likes and dislikes.

AN UNFAIR ADVANTAGE

The motorbus is here to stay. It is a public conveyance and supplies transportation needs at a low cost which the railroads cannot match in many cases. For suburban traffic it can and does stop a dozen times within the limits of a small town where the railroad can stop only once. However, the motorbus depends upon the construction and maintenance of immensely expensive highways. To this extent it is a parasite. Taxes and license fees, therefore, should be adjusted so that they represent an adequate return for the privilege of doing business on these roads. There should be strict state and particularly interstate regulation. The solution of the problem would seem to lie in proper governmental control and adjustment of railway and motorbus services so that they will not be ruinously competitive.

NATIONAL CHILD HEALTH WEEK

The modern crusade for better health among children will be stressed during National Child Health Week, which comes the week of April 22-28. Physicians, health societies, county nurses and school boards are being enlisted for service during this seven-day period. Schools throughout the state are being urged to give special attention to child health during the entire month of April, with more intensive efforts during the close-ing days. Many physicians have announced their intention of co-operating in the movement by generously agreeing to assist in conducting child health examinations without charge. Parents will be urged to take their children to the family physician for clinical observation. It is the first nation-wide child health movement to be inaugurated and should have the hearty support of our entire citizenship.

SCHOOL NOTES

MURRAY SCHOOL NOTES
The first and second grades are studying about birds.

Township Day is to be held at Maple Grove May 26th.

Glenn Hubbard has been absent for several days because of illness. The fourth and fifth grades are dramatizing a bird story in language. The Johnson children are in school again after several days absence.

The seventh and eighth grades have completed all their studies and are reviewing for examination.

Murray school is to give a program and box social Friday, April 27, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited.

The following people have been neither absent or tardy this year: Fritz Deschermier, Ruth O'Dell, Orville and Margaret Yohr.

BURGESS SCHOOL NOTES

The fifth grade made geography posters.

Lorrie Hamlin had a sale Monday afternoon.

The seventh grade are making reading booklets.

We will have a box social and program Friday night, May 4.

The second and third grades are writing stories for reading.

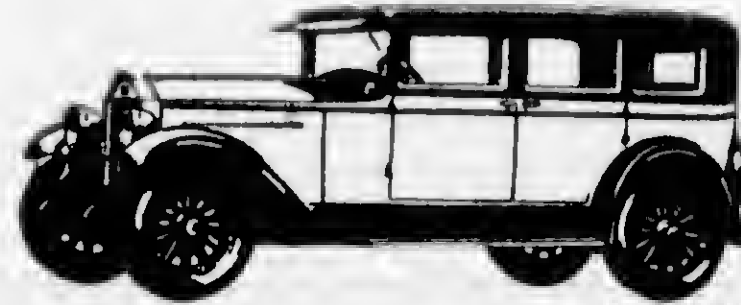

We are very busy reviewing our lessons, doing exhibit work and practicing for our program.

Mrs. Whitford Armstrong has gone to Bellaire, where she will visit with her parents. From there she will go to Ohio, where she will make her home with her husband.

We have a new family in our neighborhood. Their arrival reminds us of the days of the covered wagon. Their belongings were hauled by a team and a cow was driven along the side.

An optimist is the guy who gets the filling station man to sprinkle gas on his suit so his girl will think he has just had it cleaned.

Red Crown Ethyl Swallows the Miles

RED CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE is the high compression fuel that made possible the high compression engine—that gives an old engine the advantages of high compression. You have heard how Red Crown Ethyl reduces gear-shifting—picks up faster—gives more power—"knocks out that knock".

But you don't know Red Crown Ethyl until you've ridden with it! No one can tell you what it means to motoring. That's a thrill you have to feel.

Fill up your tank with this famous gasoline once and watch your car get away! With a soft purr of quiet power it slips over hills—crawls through traffic—speeds on the open road. Swiftly it answers your slightest touch! Smoothly it swallows the miles!

Go riding once with Red Crown Ethyl and you'll agree that the big difference in performance is well worth the small difference in price!

Considerations

Here it is Wednesday and I have been so busy that I have not had time to get my car to the ground for news.

Guess one of the best things I have done the past few days was to rent Mrs. Jiddings' cottage. Honest fact, I did, right over the telephone to people in Saint Louis. Family of seven with three servants. Now, just think of all the money they will spend for groceries and meat and other things this summer. I had to get Mrs. Jiddings' place rented this year, sure. You know how she improved the neighborhood when she removed her barn last fall, and every day or two she would come over with a big plate of doughnuts. Not many neighbors on Park Avenue, but the few are the very best kind. One of them brought in the finest pie one day and another one makes the best jelly I anyone in town.

Don't forget that the best name for this space has to be in by May first to get the prize.

What I was going to tell you about Boulder Park will have to wait another week.

Gee, whiz! Now it is Thursday morning and I will have to get this in by radio or hot air mail. Drove to Gaylord last night and caught the Michigan Central for Detroit, (would rather have made the trip in a Nash any time, but had to be home last evening for the Shakespeare-Dickens Banquet and had to be here in Detroit this morning.) You know, all the Realtors, Lake Front Owners and everyone else in the world interested in the tourist business are here at the Statler for a two-day conference. So I brought a couple of boulders from Boulder Park and am here myself. Furthermore, I bet the wife that I would rent three cottages while I am away, and on my way home am going to stop at Lansing and try to collect a commission I have had coming since last summer. Hope I do!

If the Governor gets here, we will have lunch together.

TAX COLLECTION
REPORT OF YEARFIGURES MADE AVAILABLE BY TREASURER FLANDERSTotal Collected Is Up to the Usual Average—Two Townships
Not in Yet

Tax collections in Charlevoix county are up to the average this season according to County Treasurer Flanders. This official receives from the townships and cities the moneys for the state and county taxes each year.

The total of the tax asked this year was $190,667.29 and out of this there has been collected a total of $157,061.93. This leaves a balance of $33,605.36 unpaid. Much of this latter sum will be paid in small amounts during the next year or two, it is believed. The collections from all townships and cities of the county are in with the exception of St. James and Peaine on Beaver Island. They are expected in at any time now that navigation is open.

Figures made available by Treasurer Flanders shows the following results by townships and cities, the first figures given being the amount of tax assessed, the second the amount paid and the balance due may be learned by subtracting the second from the first figures given:

NORMAN P. GRIFFIN
PASSES AWAYHad Been a Resident of Eveline for Many Years

Norman P. Griffin passed away suddenly at his home in Eveline township, Thursday, April 12th, from heart disease.

Mr. Griffin was born at Chatham, Ont., April 13th, 1865, his parents being Charles and Mary Griffin. In 1868, as a child, he came with his parents to Michigan, locating in Allegan county. He then resided in Dakota and Mississippi, and later returned to Michigan. On October 1st, 1892, he was united in marriage to Mary A. Wallace at Bellaire, Mich. They located on a farm in Eveline township some four years ago, coming there from Phelps.

Deceased is survived by his wife, and the following sons and daughters: Clyde Griffin of McAlester, Okla.; Howard Griffin on the U. S. S. Nevada, with headquarters at Norfolk, Va.; Julian, Norma and Dorothy at the parental home. Also three brothers: Samuel of Paw Paw, Mich.; George of Grandville, N. D.; William of Jackson, Mich.

Funeral services were held from his late home Tuesday afternoon, April 17th, 1928, conducted by Rev. B. E. Manker of Ellsworth, pastor of the Pilgrim Holiness church. Interment at the Bellaire, Mich., cemetery.

CHARLEVOIX FAILS TO

1929 Convention Will Meet in Detroit Unless Changed

According to Dr. C. J. Winder, who returned Monday from the state dental convention, held last week in Detroit, Charlevoix's effort to land the 1929 meeting of this association were unsuccessful.

Both Dr. Winder and Dr. Clisre Cartier of Grand Rapids, used every possible argument to land the convention for Charlevoix. One objection, it was pointed out, was that the meeting is usually held in April, which is too early for this city.

Lack of display space was given as another reason. The convention will again go to Detroit.

Inspection Tour of New Building Friday Afternoon—Varied Program Friday Night

Plans for dedication of the new Charlevoix grade school and gymnasium, to be held Thursday and Friday, May 3 and 4, have been completed. The program will be held under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association cooperating with the Board of Education.

Thursday evening at 8:00 p. m., pupils of the seventh and eighth grades will present a play entitled "Poses of Little Stars," at the gymnasium. An admission charge of 35c will be made, the proceeds to be used by the P. T. A. in purchasing apparatus for the gym.

Friday afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30, visitors will be conducted through the new building by members of the Charlevoix county normal class. There will be a continuous concert by the high school band and young people's orchestra.

The program at the gymnasium Friday evening will begin at 7:45. Mrs. Brayton Saltonstall, president of the board of education, presiding.

Convocation—High school band. Invocation—Rev. Bernard G. Matteson.

Remarks by the Superintendent—George H. Coverdale.

Dedictory Address—Hon. Webster H. Pearce, superintendent of public instruction.

Presentation of the flag by Leon Atchison in behalf of W. R. C. and American Legion.

Response by the band. Benediction—Rev. John E. Lockyer.

Following the program the grade building will be open for inspection under the supervision of the teachers.

Facts About Our Schools.

Charlevoix citizens will probably have a greater appreciation of the present modern educational facilities after learning the hardships which were undergone by our early residents to obtain school quarters. For this reason we have looked up the history of Charlevoix schools and find the data very interesting. There were no bond issues in those days to obtain funds. The early pioneers raised the money by community subscription, and then got out their hammers and saws, held a "bee," and built their own school.

Charlevoix's first school was built in the fall of 1861. A "bee" of the village residents was called and a small log building put up on the bank of Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix). It was a veritable cobble stone house just high enough for a person to stand up in without raising the roof.

The building was 16x18 feet in size with a "shake" roof and puncheon floor. Splits basswood logs resting on pegs served as benches, and the desks were of the same design. The first school was taught by the late Mrs. M. J. Stuckman, who received a salary of one dollar per week.

The first frame school house was built in 1868, it being felt that the old building was too small. About a dozen white families lived in Charlevoix at that time. The nucleus for the building fund was raised at a "fair" for which the ladies made and sold many articles, both useful and ornamental, to raise money. Receipts were $75. Major E. H. Green was teacher in the new school and received for his labor $4 a week, a portion of which was paid in flour and potatoes. In 1873 another larger frame school was constructed.

The central school and two ward buildings were erected about forty years ago and the high school twenty-five years ago.

With the completion of the new building, Charlevoix now has a grade school and gymnasium embodying the latest in modern school construction. The east of the new building, exclusive of furniture, will be about $165,000.00. A sinking fund established several years ago, together with a bond issue of $125,000.00, provided the building fund. The gym furniture and stage furnishings have cost $3,350.00.

The present public school enrollment is as follows: elementary, 344; junior high, 102; senior high, 175, making a total of 621. Forty-nine of these reside outside the district and pay tuition. Twenty-three teachers are engaged in the system. The two ward schools will not be used after this year as the new building will house all pupils up to and including the sixth grade as well as the county normal school.

Invitations have been sent out to boards of education and others throughout this region to attend the dedication exercises, and it is expected large crowds will attend from outside in addition to our local people.

PERCH FISHING NOT PROHIBITED

HOOK AND LINE ANGLERS MAY GO RIGHT TO WORK

Opinion Passed by Conservation Department Friday Changes Commercial Fish Law Ruling

Perch fishing with hook and line in the Great Lakes and connecting waters is not construed as illegal during the spring months, according to a ruling made Friday by Acting Director George H. Hagar and Executive Chairman William Loutit of the conservation department.

It earlier had been assumed that the new commercial law, just passed by the last legislature, prevented hook and line anglers as well as commercial fishermen from taking perch during the May and June runs. In fact, conservation officers in some parts of the state had stopped hook and line fishermen on threats of arrest.

This interpretation of the law, which now is seen as an error, was greeted by the protests of perch fishermen, especially on the east side of the state and along the west shore from Grand Haven north to Mackinaw City.

The new ruling means that the pier and dock fishermen may hang their legs over the edge of the piers, drop their baited hooks in the water and, given the cooperation of the perch school, enjoy themselves to their heart's content.

Charlevoix people will come in for a full share of satisfaction from this new ruling. Probably no law in many years has raised more lamentation than that prohibiting perch fishing in Round Lake, which is Great Lakes connecting waters, and would have come under the ban.

Only last Saturday Mrs. Robt. M. A. Johnston, Charlevoix's veteran perch angler, said she had minnows ready to fish perch and then she learned she couldn't use them. For her benefit, if nothing more, we are glad to announce the ruling has been interpreted in favor of the hook and line fisherman.

(TEX) BUCHEN CHOSEN SUPT. AT VANDERBILT

Leaves Splendid Record Here as Coach and Instructor

B. K. (Tex) Buchen, athletic director of Charlevoix schools for the past two years, has been elected to the superintendency of public schools at Vanderbilt, Michigan, for next year. Mrs. Buchen has also been engaged at Vanderbilt as English and French instructor.

Mr. Buchen announces that he will take a six week's course in graduate work at State Teachers' College, Mt. Pleasant, this summer. He holds an A. B. degree from this school.

Charlevoix friends will congratulate Mr. Buchen on his advancement in his chosen work. The new position carries a substantial increase in salary over his present position and puts him in line for further advancement.

Mr. Buchen leaves a splendid record at Charlevoix as a coach and instructor. During the basketball season last winter he produced Charlevoix's first championship team in many years.

LARGE AUDIENCE TO HEAR PROF. BARTLETT

Lecture and Musical Numbers Were Very Highly Appreciated

A large audience was present at the Methodist church Tuesday evening to hear the lecture-piano recital given by Prof. E. C. Bartlett of Preston, England.

Prof. Bartlett's numbers by Beethoven, Rubenstein, Cowen and Wallace were of the highest character and greatly appreciated. He gave a short talk on his activities among the Belgians, for which he was honored by King Albert.

Prof. Bartlett, who is visiting in this country for his health, is a professor of music and psychology as well as being a master of languages. Those who did not hear him missed a great treat.

GARAGE OWNERS MUST MAKE REPORT

STATE TO KEEP CLOSE TAB ON AUTO ACCIDENTS

Garage Keepers Must Notify Police of Accidents in Which Cars Are Damaged

Within a few weeks the motoring season will again be in full swing, with automobiles crowding the highways in every direction. In view of this fact, attention is called to the state law which requires garage and repair shop owners to report to the nearest police station or sheriff's office whenever they receive an automobile showing signs of having been involved in a serious accident.

The report must be made immediately after the automobile or other motor vehicle is received by the garage or repair shop keeper. The penalties for violation of the law are severe. The law reads as follows:

"The person in charge of any garage or repair shop to which is brought any motor vehicle to which shows evidence of having been involved in a serious accident or struck by any bullet shall report to the nearest police station or sheriff's office immediately after such vehicle is received, giving the engine number, registration number and the name and address of the owner or operator of such vehicle."

The section of law providing a penalty for failure to comply with this and other provisions of the act reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful and constitute a misdemeanor for any person to violate any of the provisions of this act unless such violation is by this act or other law of this state declared to be a felony."

"Every person convicted of a misdemeanor for violation of any of the provisions of this act for which no other penalty is not provided shall for a conviction thereof within one year be punished by a fine of not more than $100 or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than 10 days, for a second conviction within one year such person shall be punished by a fine of not more than $200 or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than 20 days, or both such fine and imprisonment; upon a third subsequent conviction within one year such person shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment in the county or municipal jail for not more than six months or by such fine and imprisonment."

BIRD HOUSE BUILDING PRIZE CONTEST OPEN

Pupils From Third to Eighth Grade Are Eligible to Enter

The Bird House Contest referred to in the Shakespeare Study Club's conservation article, published in last week's issue of the Courier, opens today with this complete announcement.

All pupils in the third grade up to and including the eighth grade are eligible. There will be prizes for each grade. Pupils will make entries with their respective teachers.

Books and other literature on bird houses will be found in the school rooms and in the public library. The contest closes Thursday, May 24th, and winners will be announced by May 31.

Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, O. E. S. installed new officers at the Masonic temple last Wednesday evening. The installation was public with over 50 in attendance. Mrs. Hattie Jefferies acted as installing officer, assisted by Sister Minnie Glassford as grand marshal. Following are the new officers:

W. M., Marion Carey; W. P., Herman Johnson; A. M., Laura Courier; sec., Ella M. Usher; treas., Minnie N. Bonthron; cond., Alice Ance; nsgo. cond., Elsie VanAlleburt; chaplain, Hattie Cooper; marshal, Amy Beau-doin; organist, Pearl Partridge; Ada, Ida Sterritt; Ruth, Pauline Block; Esther, Nellie Tyler; Martha, Fannie Simminaw; Electa, Laura Webster; Warder, Julia Ackert; sentinel, Peter Ance.

After the installation Past Worthy Patron Horace Fowler, who had been patron 7 years, and Past Worthy Matron Minnie Bonthron, who had served 3 years, were presented with gifts from the order in appreciation of their service. Mrs. Bonthron was presented with a past matron's pin, the jewel of her office, and Mr. Fowler a pen and pencil.

DESIGNATE TIME FOR CLEANING-UP

MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY NEXT WEEK IS TIME

All People Urged to Join in Work to Maintain Reputation as "Charlevoix the Beautiful"

Bare ground is a welcome sight after three months or more of monotonous whiteness. Nevertheless, as the snow is gone and the bare ground is before us, we realize that the snow, while hiding the earth from view, has at the same time concealed a motley accumulation of rubbish and debris that somehow distributes itself over the ground during the winter months.

Spring time is a season of beauty, but this beauty never reaches its full bloom in villages, towns and cities until the trees and lawns are green and the ground surface has been cleared of dead leaves, grass and other wastes that is strewn about.

Each year the Charlevoix city council designates a given period for city clean-up days. On these days and until the work is completed, the street department calls for all rubbish, exclusive of leaves, ashes and brush, and draws it away to the dumping grounds. This year will be no exception to the rule. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 7, 8 and 9, have been set aside. Charlevoix citizens are asked to deposit all rubbish in barrels or boxes and place them on the margins of streets or in alleys so that it may be carried away.

At no time in the year is cleaning-up more necessary than in the spring, especially in resort towns. The city recognizes the need and takes the initiative by sweeping and flushing the streets and attending to the appearance of other public property. Charlevoix people, as a rule, do not need urging to do this very necessary work.

Already we see where many of our citizens have their rubbish piled along the curb ready for removal. But for the benefit of those who might overlook the task, we urge that all people join in this annual undertaking for civic improvement, so that we may live up to our boasted reputation as "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

SCHOOL BAND JOINS NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

The Charlevoix high school band, through the efforts of its leader, John TerWee, has been listed as a member of the National School Band association, whose membership is composed of high school bands throughout the country. Mr. TerWee goes to Mt. Pleasant on Friday of this week with the East Jordan high school band, to participate in the state tournament.

Charlevoix's high school band is coming along in fine shape, and next year will possibly see it entered in the state contest.

FACTS ABOUT OUR NEW SCHOOL HEAD

ONAWAY OUTLOOK EXPRESSES REGRET IN HIS LEAVING

Local Citizen Gives Mr. Otterbein Fine Recommendation as Man of High Character

From one of our exchanges, the Onaway Outlook, we have taken two articles relating to our new school superintendent, Mr. Otterbein. That the newly-elected Charlevoix school head was held in high esteem at Onaway, where he had served three years as superintendent, is the tone of both items.

We are also publishing a few facts about Mr. Otterbein given us by a local citizen, who is his personal friend and close acquaintance. The items follow:

"Mr. Otterbein, superintendent of the Onaway school system for the past three years will lose his work here at the end of the present year, he informed the Outlook Wednesday evening.

Mr. Otterbein has been elected by the Charlevoix board of education to the superintendency of their school system and will accept. The Charlevoix schools offer Mr. Otterbein an advancement over the salary and prospects of our Onaway system and we congratulate him on his selection as their head.

Mr. Otterbein stated that his three years in Onaway have been very pleasant ones and that for many reasons he would leave our city with regrets but the prospects of advancement in his chosen work called him to Charlevoix and he felt it his duty to accept.

The leadership of our public school system by Mr. Otterbein has been a very successful and satisfactory one for the citizens of this community and he was tendered the position for a fourth year by the board of education. The changing local conditions however would not permit the board to offer him any increase in salary or prospects over that of previous years and compelled him to look for advancement in other fields."

"It is with sincere regret that we learn that Supt. Otterbein will not be with us again next year, as he has accepted a similar position as superintendent of schools at Charlevoix, Michigan.

Mr. Otterbein has been superintendent of the Onaway schools for the past three years, during which time he ran the schools in an A-1 manner. He is well liked by the townspeople, his fellow teachers and especially so by his students.

We say again, that we regret sincerely, his leaving, but he carries with him the best wishes of the students of O. H. S. for lasting success in his new position.

Mr. Otterbein states that he will carry with him many happy recollections of his work here."

The following facts concerning Mr. Otterbein were given us by a local citizen:

"Mr. Otterbein is just approaching his prime of life as a man and an educator. He is a graduate of the State Normal College; holds a B. A. degree dated 1917 and in 1925 attended the state university at Ann Arbor, graduating with a Master of Arts degree. He is also a member of the American Association of Research in Education.

"His recommendations to the board have been of the highest and have come from many persons in different walks of life competent of judging both a man and a school executive.

"The new school executive is a clean living, high idealized christian man whose character agrees with his scholastic qualifications. The Normal school principal at Onaway speaking on behalf of the school faculty has every good thing to say of Mr. Otterbein as an executive, a disciplinarian and a congenial man with whom to work.

"He has also been in good demand as a public speaker and public spirited citizen. The school board is therefore to be congratulated on their choice and the city is trusting these expectations will not fall short of fulfillment."

The cabin was musty and large, with a bath adjoining. The desk was covered with books, papers, writing equipment. There was a typewriter. On the walls were files of papers, more books, professional instruments, and on a row of hooks were coats, caps, uniforms—men's things. Gay's heart sank. It was a man's room, a seaman's room. There was gold braid on the cuff of the coats on the walls, four stripes.

"Oh, dear heaven," gasped Gay. "It is Garman's cabin!"

Her eyes swam dizzily, her head reeled. Garman—who didn't stick at murder—poor Blakely—

Instinctively, half realizing what

"Come On in Ingram—Cold as the Devil."

she was about, she started to shudder out, feet first, from beneath the bunk. But she was stayed by sudden noises, steps and voices in the corridor.

"Bring us coffee, Burt.—Come on in, Ingram.—Cold as the devil."

The voice was deep, assured, with a pleasant quality in its depth.

Two men, Ronald Ingram and the captain, stepped quickly into the room, pulled off their gloves and wraps, drew chairs up to the desk, their backs to the bunk.

Gay, crouching there in her stuffy woolen garments, watched them furtively, one eye riveted to the captain between the trunk and the great boot. A large figure, broad, not tall, with a massive head, and dark soft hair in great abundance. The face was like the face of a saint, mild and spiritual, very dark. The lashes of the eyes were dark and silken, the eyes both mild and kind. Gay's fears stilled a little at sight of his benevolent face.

He busied himself with the papers until the boy came with coffee, which both men accepted in silence. As soon as he had gone, the captain took up the business in hand: "Papers all right?"

"Fine. Best set he ever turned out. Perfect."

The captain studied the papers again.

"Pulled a boner bringing that fool Hesser on board," he said softly. "What am I to do with him?"

"Sorry, but I had to bring him. I couldn't let him go. He had been snooping about, and I didn't know how much he had picked up."

"Why didn't you?" The captain's gentle voice trailed off suggestively.

"Two reasons, and both d—d good ones. We couldn't get rid of him in that cove. You ought to know that. My God, I'll never forget poor Blakely, and how he kept coming in on every wave.—That cove, I tell you, is a trap. The tide gets nothing out, brings everything back.—Five times, Blakely came in—the men cursing and praying—crossing themselves.—And at the last we had to keep him there in the shack till he rotted. I tell you, rotted."

"Besides," he said, "that was my bargain with you. I told you in the beginning that I stuck at murder, and I still do. D—d if I'll kill them unless I have to."

"A good preacher was lost in you, Ronnie," the captain said affectionately. "You've got a conscience—or a weak stomach—same thing.—Why, what's one crook more or less in a world full of 'em?"

"Blakely was no more a crook than I am," Ronald muttered doggedly.

The captain laughed jovially. "Well, bless us, boy, what else are you?—Come, have more coffee.—You've got the blues." He touched the bell. The captain glanced at the list of names to his hand. "Bring Mr. Rivers," he said to the seaman who answered.

"There's a reward of three thousand for him, but he had plenty on him, no I said."

One of the men from the Little club came in, his hat in his hand. The two officers nodded to him curtly, without offering him a chair. He laid his papers before the captain.

"John D. Rivers, London. Passports, visas, birth certificate, everything O. K. Nineteen dollars, Mr. Rivers. I understand you are going home on this old freighter because of the economy.—Sorry we can give you no better accommodations," he said suavely. "but we do not cater to passengers, really.—Fare, ninety dollars."

The man Rivers without a word counted out five thousand from his wallet, and laid it on the table.

Ingram handed him a receipt for the money.

One after another the men from the Little club were ushered into the captain's room, their papers examined with great attentiveness, their money taken—usually fat rolls of bills for which a form receipt was given in exchange.

When the last man had gone out the captain figured swiftly on the back of an envelope for a moment. Then, detaching a small amount from the heap in his open drawer, he counted out a portion of it, and put it in a section of the wall safe beside the desk.

"One thousand eight dollars for the good ship Roger Williams," he said. "Twenty thousand passengers at ninety dollars a head."

The rest of the money he tucked quickly into a steel box, and touching a secret spring in his table, fitted the box within it, closed it again. "And for the brains and blood behind the Roger Williams—a wee mite more," he said laughingly.

They smoked for a moment in silence. The captain poured out fresh coffee. "The papers were good," the captain said in a tone of satisfaction. "He's getting better and better.—We may need to keep a friendly oversight on him. He's getting almost too good."

"Well, let's turn in. I'm tired. You look like the face on the bar-room floor, Ronnie. Cheer up. Things are looking up to heaven. That takes care of everything, doesn't it?"

One instant they both paused, on the edges of their chairs, for a final pull at their cigarettes. And in that moment Gay wriggled out from beneath the bunk silently and took one firm but fearful step toward them.

"It—doesn't take care of—me," she stammered weakly.

CHAPTER XIII

"Gay Delane!" The exclamation was Ronald Ingram's.

Even in that terrible moment Gay was quick to observe the sinister change that came over the captain's face. His air from one of rich well-being became portentous and greatly still. The soft brown eyes receded into themselves, became fathomlessly deep and dangerous. His lips showed a straight red line between the black of his mustache and beard. One quick appraising look he gave her, a look that swept her from leather boots to leather cap, and then he turned about to his chair and looked at Ronald Ingram.

His voice was a dangerous purr. "This, Mr. Ingram, is a flagrant infraction of rules, as you know very well. You have deliberately disobeyed the one order to which I have held every one around me in all of my various—snailings.—No women aboard is my rule—and no women aboard applies right now." There was a slight return to something of snivily beneath his anger as he turned to Gay.

"Madame, I am sorry. I can understand that a woman may have quite as good reasons as a man for wishing to sail without the fa  fare of publicity. The ladies, madame, have my sympathy, but they do not sail on my ship." He bowed mockingly, the red lips curving into a derisive smile.

"Sorry, very sorry, but law's law. The charm of your presence, the warmth of your beauty, the brightness of your eyes, serve to strengthen me in my conviction that women play the devil on shipboard. Sorry, I have never had a woman aboard, and—"

"But—I am aboard," said Gay faintly.

"You are, yes. Worse luck to all of us. But you won't be very long. Where are your papers?"

"Sir," interrupted Ronald Ingram quickly, "I beg your pardon, but—you do not understand. Miss—the lady is—not a fugitive. She is my—my fianc  .—We love each other—we—we could not bear to be separated."

This captain's dark eyes were still boring into Gay's face, and in that instant Ronald was able to flash her a warning signal with his eyes. Quickly she realized that he wished to help her, and the warm gratitude in the look she gave him might easily have been misconstrued by one who thought she loved him.

The captain's eyes had not wavered from her face. "How much do you know of our—business ventures?" he demanded curtly.

And then, in hope, forgetting to seek advice in Ronald's pleading eyes, she blundered into her great error. Her desire was to humiliate the captain, show him her power, make him respect her for her knowledge, and she cried triumphantly:

"Everything! I know everything.—Smuggling Chinese, forged passports.—Yes, the murder of poor Blakely—everything!"

It was no less than murder that showed in the captain's blue eyes then. His voice was a whisper, the whisper of a wild animal panting.

"So! Everything!" His eyes turned slowly upon Ronald Ingram. And Gay, following his glance, seeing his fury, seeing Ronald's consternation at her revelation, realized the gravity of her mistake.

"Oh, no," she gasped. "Oh, no." The captain's eyes traveled slowly but deadly trail from Ronald's eyes to hers again.

"Yes?" he purred.

Gay pulled herself together. "He did not tell me," she disclaimed quickly. "He told me you were just independent shippers, running a tramp steamer wherever you could get a cargo."

"Who told you—everything—then? Not—May Sen?"

"Certainly not." But she gained confidence, strengthened by the firm timbre of her own voice. "But it was May Sen who first aroused my suspicions. I live in the cottage next to the clubhouse. May Sen watched me—and I caught him. That was criminal.—And then I put things together. Why Ronald went away so suddenly, why he had purchased the clubhouse, how Blakely's body came into the cove—I put everything together and it was strange. So—I—just snooped."

A quick flash of amusement lightened the dark fury of the captain's face. "Oh! You snooped!"

"Yes, I—I loved him, and I had to find out from the piazza floor and crawled under and peered through the eelcloth over the window and—I saw everything."

"And knowing—everything—still you took a chance and came aboard?"

"SAVE-A-LIFE" CAMPAIGN
Michigan is about to launch a "Save-a-Life" campaign, in hopes of cutting down the number of fatal automobile accidents that are of almost hourly occurrence during the height of the summer season. At a recent conference at Lansing, called at the request of Governor Fred W. Green, the problem of educating the motorists to safeguard their driving and cut down the toll of lives was discussed by the leading traffic officers and heads of the automobile organizations in the state.

One speaker declared that 40 per cent of automobile accidents were due to faulty equipment. Ignorance and refusal to abide by traffic regulations, was cited as another chief producer of accidents. With increasing automobile traffic the need for stricter regulations is seen. Not only that, but motorists must be taught the necessity of having their cars in perfect running condition, as well as cultivating a willingness to observe at all times the simple courtesy rules of the road.

Failure to abide by such regulations, neglect in having faulty mechanism in their cars promptly adjusted, not only endangers their own lives, but the lives of many careful drivers as well. Governor Green has begun a movement that should have the backing of every owner of an automobile.

SUCCESS ONLY ATTACKED
"The political demagogue never attacks failure. He seeks to attract attention by jumping into something bigger than he is."
"When one of these wild-eyed office-holders hears that some business is a financial success, is employing labor and building buildings, paying out a big payroll to its regular employees, and to people in the construction business who are building additions to the plant so that it can employ more capital and more labor, he immediately begins to tear his hair and lay plans to embarrass that institution in every way he can and put it out of business if possible."

"The demagogue seems to always be in a good humor with every kind of failure. He never makes an attempt to investigate a failure to see why it failed. He seems to love failures. On the other hand, he goes in to a hysteria of rage against every kind of an institution that is giving employment and giving wages to employees."

"The political demagogue is obsessed with the desire to tear down the successful business and put people out of work. Before he gets into office he has a great sympathy for the common people but as soon as he gets in office his attitude changes and he wants to put everybody in jail who is employing help and giving anybody a job."

Very few of the men who are holding public offices today have had any experience in business life.

"The facts are that it is a hard matter to make a success of a business. Eight out of every ten businesses that are started, wholesale, retail and manufacturing, fail in the swing of a little time. Many of the businesses that are looked upon as successful today, originally started and failed and were reorganized and re-financed several times before they finally made any dividends at all."

"In the last ten years more than one-third of all corporations making reports to the United States government made no profit whatever and in 1921 more than half of them went through the whole year without any profit."

"But what would people do for work if there were no corporations and, furthermore, how could the demagogue politician put in his time if there were no successful businesses for him to attack"

TAXATION
Taxation must become the taxpayer's business. There is no way out for the taxpayer unless he is willing to make a special effort to study taxes. Families cannot be raised on scenery. There must be payrolls, raw materials, and industry. All the money necessary to do needful things must be expended, but none of the taxpayers' money should be wasted. Wastes and extravagances must not be tolerated. There can be no excuse for the expenditure of public money for unnecessary public service. Every dollar spent by government must yield its true return of service. "Let the taxpayer who is interested in good government, in the rights of private property, and who wishes to see the state go steadily forward without unduly burdening its citizens, endeavor to acquaint himself with the tax situation in his state, county and community, to the end that he may be able to work with his elected officers to promote an efficient and economic government. Public officers must be made to translate their promises of economy into action and fact.—The Tax Digest."

"IT'S UP TO THE DRIVER"
These remarks by the Clarksville (Miss.) Register make it apparent that the grade crossing problem is not peculiar to any part of the country:

"For every grade crossing that is eliminated, three are created" according to railroad statistics. The new ones come in with the creation or improvement of new highways, cutting through new streets and extension of railway lines.

"At the same time this danger is tripled, the number of automobiles in the country is constantly being increased.

"The result is that the railway grade crossing difficulty becomes more dangerous year by year, despite all efforts on the part of government and railway officials to the contrary. Fool-proof crossing devices have been tried to little avail. The human element still has to be relied on."

"That human element lies in the soberness and watchfulness of the auto driver. He should remember that railway trains can't fly and that he's bound to cross their tracks on almost any highway. It is therefore obligatory on his part to watch for trains, to slow down, get into low gear and cross tracks carefully."

"The single automobile can be more easily controlled than a great powerful locomotive running at high speed and pushed on by tremendous momentum. The match, therefore, is all to the loss of the automobile."

Our house cleaning time on shoes. Look over our bargain tables. Campbell Boot Shop.—Adv. 1811.

THE PEDDLER STINGS
Despite repeated warnings, the common house-to-house variety of peddler continues on his happy and generally unmolested way, selling everything from mouse traps to rain coats, gathering his victims here and there who are seemingly unable to withstand his wiles.

Some peddlers carry their stock of merchandise with them, this in communities that are unprotected by local ordinances. Then, there is the order taker who is content to deliver later, trusting to luck that you have not changed your mind or moved away in the meantime. But most to be feared is the fellow who gets your signature on an order blank and then demands a down payment. Sometimes they return to deliver your purchase and collect the balance due, and then again there are any number who take your initial payment and are seen no more.

An example of the latter species appeared recently at Grant, taking orders and money for hams which he failed to deliver. Only by mere chance was he later apprehended in a distant city and brought back to answer for his peculations.

The safe way is to shun all peddlers, but if you must patronize them, make it a hard and fast rule to pay out no money until the goods are in your hands.

THE END IS NOT YET
Some who wish to drink legally constantly refer to the Canadian system, which they say promotes temperance.

In Canada the consumption of liquor is constantly increasing.

For instance, in 1923 the wholesale value of liquor imported into Canada was $20,607,000. In 1927 the value was $42,306,000.

As the above figures would indicate, the importation of liquors has practically doubled in five years.

In five years the number of gallons of spirits, liquors and malts made in Canada increased from 125,000,000 to 180,000,000 gallons.

The value of stocks in distilleries and breweries has shown sensational increase. Gooderham & Worts was worth $57 a share. Now it sells for $650.

And Canadians are coming to the United States as rapidly as possible.

THE PUBLIC WILL TELL
We assume that the politicians and the party leaders do not need or request any advice from newspapers.

But if the Republican party is wise it will nominate for the presidency at Kansas City someone for whom the public has already expressed some preference.

A dark horse is not wanted. Besides, it is excellent politics to take someone with a reasonably popular standing. Then the political leaders who fix things up in the hotel rooms do not get the blame when things go wrong.

The public will not place its faith in any man who has not a record for honest dealing. The public has an instinct, in its choices for the highest positions, which separates the good and the bad, the honest and the dishonest.

HELP WIN THE T. B. C. BATTLE
Spurred on by the success which has so far marked their efforts, members of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association are planning to redouble the work of the association in the present battle against this great enemy of mankind. Medical science has proved its ability to cope with tuberculosis, provided it is discovered in time. Proper treatment in a sanatorium or in your home will restore health in most cases of early tuberculosis. Suspicious signs of tuberculosis are, loss of pep, loss of weight, poor appetite, indigestion, persistent cough and afternoon fever. If you have any of these symptoms, it is a sign that something is wrong. Early discovery of tuberculosis promotes an early recovery. Procrastination may prove fatal. Don't take any chances. Insist on an immediate health checkup. Your doctor will know. Let him be the one to make the final decision.

KEEPING ALIVE LOVE
To do things because we love them, to love things because we do them; meanwhile to keep the eyes open, the heart warm, the pulse swift, as we move across the stage of life. "To take the old world by the hand and frolic with it" was a dictum of Stevenson. Old as the world is, let it always be new to us, as we are new to it. Half the joy of life is made up of little things, taken on the run. Let us run if we must—even the sands do that—but meanwhile see that nothing worth while escapes us and everything is worthwhile if we try to grasp its significance.—David Starr Jordan.

TIME TO BEGIN

Springtime and the lure of the open roads is with us once more. It is the reason of the year when we feel the urge to climb into the family car and see nature at her prettiest. Each year sees an increasing amount of automobile traffic, a need for more caution in preventing automobile accidents.

Remember the simple rules of the highway, the common courtesy that every driver should possess, the little things that pay big dividends in life and continued happiness. Don't take undue chances, be careful at railroad crossings, and don't forget that the "Refrain from speeding" is the greatest of all symphonies.

DON'T DO IT

Growing old and stooped shouldered carrying dollars is not very pleasant to contemplate. And yet there are people who are so anxious to accumulate vast riches that they grow old before their time. Wealth that is gained at the sacrifice of health and stalwart manhood is bought at a mighty high price. And all for what? Nothing; for at the end of the journey not one penny can be carried away and the best that most people can say of the departed will be the discussing of the amount of his holdings and how he skimped and shut out most of the sweetest things of life for the potage of money.—The Passing Parade.

EDUCATION

Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know. It means teaching them to behave as they do not behave. It is not teaching the youth the shapes of letters and the tricks of numbers and then leaving them to turn their arithmetic to roguery, and their literature to lust. It means, on the contrary, training them into the perfect exercise and kingly continence of their bodies and souls. It is a painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning by precept, and by praise, but above all—by example.—John Ruskin.

"PETE" HALLETT WINS TROUT CONTEST PRIZES

Had Largest Trout and Best Average Catch May 1

Harold "Pete" Hallett walked off with prizes offered by Staley Bros. Hardware for the largest brook trout and best average catch of brook trout caught on the opening day and brought to their store for display. There were no brown trout entries.

"Pete" made his catch on Cedar river near Bellaire. He had 11 trout running from 8 inches up to 13½ inches. The big fellow won a tackle box, the prize for the largest trout, and, he was given a trout basket for the best catch. Taken from either a total weight or length standpoint, his "mess" was the best entered. Another bunch of 12 trout, caught by Clare Usher in Orr Creek south of Phelps, averaged close to 9 inches. Although not winning a prize, they were fish any angler could be proud of.

Staley Brothers' contest runs until the first of September, although the brook trout division closed Tuesday night. Fine prizes are being offered for the largest mackinaw, largest steelhead or rainbow and largest small and large mouth black bass.

All the famous characters of Harold Bell Wright's most famous novel re-enacted. The story that 10,000,000 readers hailed as his greatest. The sweet romance of a beautiful backwoods girl and a primitive, bred-in-the-hills boy. The fight between two huskies for the right to be called the strongest man in the hills. A six-horse team crashing over the mountainside with an avalanche of earth.

Extra—Pathe Comedy, "GOLD DIGGERS OF WEEPAH."

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 8-9-10

A super special—Gary Cooper, Evelyn Brent, Noah Beery and William Powell in "BEAU SABREUR," the answer to "Beau Geste." Bristling action, flaming love, roaring fun. Filmed on the same sweeping scale as "Beau Geste." A big, rousing, colorful melodrama of the French Foreign Legion. Wild adventure, delightful romance in the face of almost certain death.

Note: No advance in prices.

Extra—Fox News.

WANTED---A NAME

WHO WILL NAME OUR BREAD?

We want some Charlevoix person to name the bread baked for our special use. We have tried to find a suitable one, but just simply can't think of one that is satisfactory. So we are going to let someone else name it for us.

Here is the proposition: Think of some name suitable for this bread, write it on a slip of paper, but at the same time write down your name and address, then mail it or bring it to the store. All who enter this contest must have the name in by Saturday, May 5. We will then have the names over, select the one that suits us, and announce the name and person who suggested it.

To the person who sends in the name we select, we will give FREE a $10.00 order of Groceries.

Send in your name suggestion and win this $10.00 order of groceries.

BUICK leads the fashion parade

Fashionable throngs... sparkling motor cars... and standing out like a flock from Paris—today's Buick!

Fleet, low lines, suggesting rocket-like getaways and unrivaled power... glistening colors, vivid and varied as the harmonies of Spring... and soft, rich upholstery, delightful to the sight and touch.

Luxury like this ordinarily costs a thousand dollars more.

But Buick leads any other three cars in its field in dollar for dollar sales; and this tremendous volume makes possible unequalled value.

You may as well have a fine car, when you can buy it at Buick's price. Smart—youthful—colorful—Buick leads the fashion parade.

GYPSIES HAVE RIGHT TO EXIST

CANNOT BE DRIVEN FROM COMMUNITY WITHOUT CAUSE

They Also Have a Right to Stay in Any Community if They Are Law Abiding Citizens

Several days ago a band of gypsies landed in Traverse City and from that time on the people of that vicinity have been up in arms and thrown almost into a panic over their presence. Seemed that everyone wanted them drove out of town. The local newspaper was requested to give them the widest publicity and the prosecuting attorney appealed to and requested to take some action that would result in their moving on. It made no difference to Traverse City people where they went, as long as they left.

The Traverse Record-Eagle covered the situation as follows in a recent publication:

"One of the functions, if any, of a newspaper is to warn the public against any gypsies who happen to be in town, the Record-Eagle was informed over the telephone this morning.

"It seems that for several days gypsies have been in the city, but to this very moment not a word has appeared in this newspaper advising people to lock their doors and keep their children off the streets. A woman who would identify herself as 'a subscriber' called the Record-Eagle to suggest that it is about time some warning is given.

Police have been watching the gypsies, who have for several days maintained a small camp near the Fairgrounds, but haven't molested them. Prosecutor Thomas D. Meggison points out that officers have no right to order gypsies out of town or interfere with them in any way unless they violate the law. These particular gypsies haven't. Furthermore they are armed with the written opinion of the attorney general's office that they have a right to go about their business as they please as long as it is legitimate business. Phenology, which is the business these gypsies are practicing in a vacant store building, is as legitimate under the Michigan laws as pharmacy or dress making.

"But the voice over the telephone had no faith in gypsies, and in proof reported a depredation committed by their band yesterday, as follows:

"Two gypsies went to a house near their camp to get a pail of water. The water was in the kitchen, and on the kitchen table were things to eat. While one of the gypsies filled the pail the other reached for the table, and then there, if the woman of the house hadn't interfered, the gypsies might have stolen a whole plate of cookies. One of the gypsies was an eight-year-old girl; the other was a six-year-old boy."

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

Rev. Lockyer of the Methodist church has generously agreed to give several series of talks to the young people of the county normal training class. Two selected topics are: "Education and the Educational System of England" and "Training for Mental Efficiency."

The normal class have been invited to act as guides during the visitors' inspection tour of the new school building on Friday, May 4.

We wish to express our appreciation to County Agent Mellicamp and Miss Dundee for inviting us to attend the "Achievement Day" program of the county nutrition classes.

Training Room

One of the interesting features of the training room at the present is the sand table, which has been laid out in the form of a farm and planted.

Bird houses are being erected by many of the pupils in the training room.

STATE CAR FERRIES ARE NOW RUNNING

Will Make Trip Across as Often as Traffic Warrants

The state auto ferry St. Ignace which started its run between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace on Monday, April 22, will perhaps make trips every three hours until there is greater demand for its services.

From the time the two state boats were taken off the runs last fall the automobiles applying for crossing have been carried across the straits by the car ferry, the Chief, but this cost is somewhat greater than that charged on the state ferries. The other of the state's fleet the city of Mackinaw City, will start operation as soon as need for a second ferry arises.

The third state ferry, now being built at Ecorse, Michigan, for the state highway department will be commissioned about June 1. The new boat will be at the straits during the busiest part of the season and her presence there is expected to establish a new record for passages at the straits. The rates for automobiles will be the same as last year while passengers will pay the usual rate.

PLAN ON ENTERTAINING INCREASE IN TOURISTS

Straits Cities Are Looking for a Wonderful Season

St. Ignace is planning on entertaining forty per cent more tourists and resorters within its gates the coming season than ever before.

St. Ignace and Mackinaw City are sure to profit directly from every increase in tourist and resort business and they ought to take advantage of every opportunity to "make hay while the sun shines" but in this "making of that hay," they must treat their visitors with consideration and respect and give them value received for every dollar spent in their midst and in that manner lay the foundation for an increasing yearly business that will care for them regardless of what the physical and financial status of their community may be after that.

These two small cities now have the opportunity to cash in on the tourist, but it must be remembered that the tourist demands something for his money or else he turns from you and directs his automobile into the thousand and one other places in the country that bids him welcome and is out after his business.—Cheboygan Observer.

Sheep Meetings

Plans have been completed to hold a series of two meetings in the county on Monday, May 7th, at which time V. A. Freeman, specialist of Michigan State College will be present. A practical demonstration of the proper methods of castration and docking of lambs will be conducted.

The first meeting will be held at the farm of George Block, located on M-31, about four miles south of Charlevoix, beginning promptly at 9:30 fast time, on Monday forenoon, May 7th. The second meeting will be held at the farm of Frank Russell, located on the Peninsula. Go by the Pine Lake Golf Club and take the first road south, turn at second road east. Meeting will begin at 1:30 p. m. fast time of the same day. Mr. Freeman will also discuss many other problems of vital interest to sheep owners. If you are interested in buying a good purebred ram, this fall for your flock, be sure and come as Mr. Freeman will be glad to take your order and assist you in getting your money's worth. We hope to see at least ten good rams placed this fall.

Don't forget the time, date and places.

Co-Op. Assn. Meetings Big Success

Among the most successful and important meetings to be held this year of particular interest to farmers were the three membership meetings conducted on April 24, 25 and 26 at Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City, respectively. The meetings were possible through the co-operation of the Michigan State College, Michigan Potato Growers Exchange, with which the local Co-ops. are affiliated, and the local county agent and were for the purpose of informing the members and their customers what was actually being accomplished by the co-operation, their possibilities, their limitations, and how the co-operative agencies are making the farmers more for their produce.

A total of 210 people attended these three meetings and heard the following three speakers: H. C. Moore, chief of the potato inspection and certification work of Michigan State College; R. V. Gunn, specialist in agricultural economics of Michigan State College, and Charles E. Atwater, fieldman for the Michigan Potato Growers Exchange of Cadillac.

Mr. Moore confined his talk to the results of the five acre seed plots that some 15 local Co-ops. put out using certified seed instead of table stock. The results, of course, were not as striking as was anticipated due to the dry weather last year but did prove to farmers that spraying paid, use of fertilizer was profitable, and that close planting of potatoes gave larger yields than check-rowing. In the case of spraying a yield of 39.2 bushels was secured over and above where no spraying was done.

In the use of fertilizer it was found that from 600 to 700 lbs. of commercial fertilizer gave the best results, a gain of 35 bushels per acre, even in the dry year. Applications of larger amounts was not profitable and neither did smaller amounts prove profitable.

In regard to close planting versus wide planting a gain of 39.3 bushels was secured with the close planting distance. There has been doubt in the minds of many farmers relative to the above statement, and this should be enlightening.

R. V. Gunn showed by use of charts that the prices are governed by supply and demand and that prices go in cycles.

In the case of potatoes it was shown that in the season of 1919-1920 that most potatoes were sold in the fall when the prices were very low and in the spring prices went out of sight and the farmers had none to sell. The next year the farmers made up their minds to hold them over until spring with the result that prices were down. Here was two cases where farmers made the wrong guess. Again in the season of 1924-25 farmers made up their minds it didn't make any difference which time of the year they should sell. The result was that most potatoes were sold in the fall and in the spring prices were again way out of sight and farmers had few potatoes to sell. The point was in the last ten years when the farmers guessed when to sell to good advantage they guessed wrong each time.

Mr. Gunn, as a result of the above experiences, made the statement that farmers would secure better prices if they permitted the selling agency to sell all the potatoes when they knew the market conditions were right. An orderly marketing of potatoes will pay much better dividends than the haphazard way that is now in vogue. Farmers must give their central selling agency the place to sell, but why not the time to sell?

Mr. Atwater spoke to some length on the problems that the exchange was facing and the necessity for farmers to produce their potatoes efficiently. The diseases and pests that afflict the potatoes were shown by lantern slides.

As added attractions each of the Co-ops gave away prizes to lucky numbers. At Charlevoix, Geo. Ver-Snyder won $3.00 cash, Mrs. A. Balch $2.00, and Charles Withers $1.00, while Wm. Smith and C. H. Bigelow each won boxes of candy. At East Jordan, Frank Kotalk won one peck of alfalfa seed, John Rude a bag of milkmaker, and Ole Ormland a sack of flour. At Boyne City, Mrs. Fred Kaden won 1st prize of 1/2 bushel of alfalfa seed, Geo. Morton won a bag of fertilizer, and David Gaunt a bag of milkmaker.

Meetings of this kind are always helpful, why not more farmers attend?

AT THE MOVIES

John Waters Likes Perfect Details
Audiences pay little attention to correct things in motion pictures. But if there is some tiny detail that is wrong, a producing company will get thousands of letters.

So states John Waters, who directed Paramount's sensational production of "Beau Sabreur," which is to be offered patrons of the Palace Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"Beau Sabreur" has a splendid cast, headed by Gary Cooper as "Beau," and Evelyn Brent.

Ozark Dialect Puzzles Scholars
"The Shepherd of the Hills," brings the strange primitive people of the Ozark mountains of a generation ago to life on the screen, with a thoroughness never approached by fiction. This is the screen version of Harold Bell Wright's most famous novel, produced by Charles R. Rogers for First National pictures.

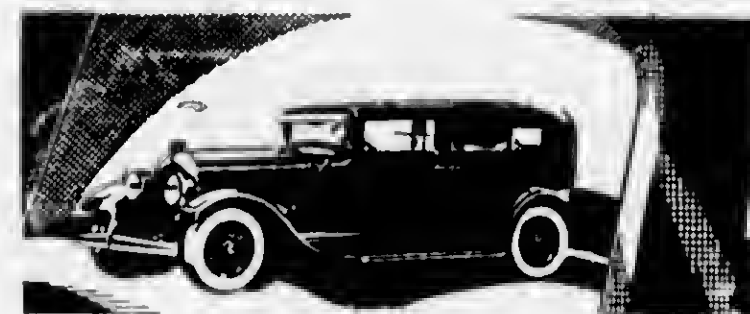

Even this big drama of the Arkansas-Missouri backwoods, however, coming Saturday and Sunday to the Palace Theatre, cannot bring to the ears of the spectators unfamiliar with the region, the language of its people. It must be heard to be appreciated. However, here are a few bits of Ozark dialect, which provides a puzzle to linguists and scholars who are striving to place its origin and growth.

See the "72" romp away from them all

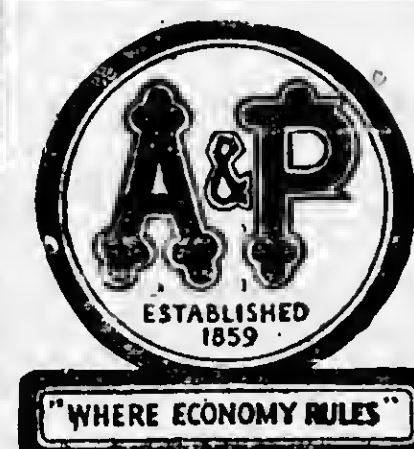

The one great outstanding fact in automobiles today is that, while practically every car that runs is patterned after Chrysler—the illustrious "72" continues to romp away from and around them all in every phase of performance that makes motoring a pleasure. Which car and does mean only one thing, of course—that since it can quickly be proven that Chrysler "72" excels every car which seeks to compete with it without a single exception, it unmistakably gives the greatest monetary and performance return which exists in the world's motor-car market today.

POULTRY

PLAN INSPECTION OF LIVE POULTRY

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Agreements establishing a live poultry inspection service in New York city have been signed by the New York Live Poultry Commission Merchants association, the Greater New York Live Poultry Chamber of Commerce, and the United States Department of Agriculture. It was announced today. The service goes into effect November 15.

The agreement is the outcome of efforts by New York poultry interests to establish better business methods in the industry. The department was asked by the trade to make a survey of conditions in the New York market, with a view to putting into effect an inspection service under government supervision.

The survey, made last August, indicated the practicability of the work to be financed by the trade, and in conjunction with compulsory inspection of all live poultry arriving at New York, under board of health regulations, the department worked out an inspection system which has been approved by the trade.

Inspectors are to be licensed by the Department of Agriculture, the poultry to be inspected for condition, and later for class, grade, and quality. Inspection certificates under the agreement are to be joint certificates of the Department of Agriculture and the two co-operating organizations.

Inspection fees are to be fixed by the secretary of agriculture, and the inspection work conducted in line with the sanitary code of the New York city board of health, as well as with the laws and regulations of the states of New York and New Jersey. The agreement is to run until June 30, 1927, unless terminated at an earlier date by mutual consent. It may be renewed, however, at expiration.

Green Feed Important for Layers in Winter

Green feed is important in the ration of hens in winter. A California bulletin tells of a request from some of their breeders for help in combating a disease which resembles roup in many respects. The station found that it was not roup for it could not be transmitted from one hen to another. Further investigation showed that the flocks were affected with a nutritional disease on account of lack of green feed in the ration.

A good many people supply this green feed by sprouting oats or by having a supply of root crops. Some could improve their ration and overcome a good deal of their trouble by making use of the shattering leaves from clover or alfalfa hay. If the shatterings, which in the majority of cases are mostly leaves, are picked up and given to the hens in the morning they will eat a lot of the leaves and smaller stems. The coarser material will make excellent scratch material in which to feed the grain portion of the ration. These shatterings make a good substitute for other green feed.

Poultry Notes

Sprout oats for the poultry flock.

The big, fat, yellow-legged hens seem to be doing anything but laying eggs.

The average egg production, the country over, is said to be 130 per hen per year.

Cod liver will help keep the poultry flock in good health and keep the eggs coming this winter.

Many eggs will stand 20 pounds pressure on the shell. The average is about fourteen or fifteen pounds.

The production of water eggs requires care and feed which make the conditions as nearly like spring as possible. The person who feeds his hens nothing but corn, oats and wheat will be disappointed.

Hatching eggs should be not only fertile but also standard weight, clear, sound, fresh and uniform in shape and color.

Growing chickens, like all other young and growing animals, need large amounts of high-protein feed for muscle and bone building.

Breeding hens should be kept out in the sunshine as much as possible. Every time the sun shines they should be driven out, if they don't go on their own accord.

One thing for the poultrymen to remember: Old hens need more feed than pullets need to produce a dozen eggs.

Best results can be obtained if the brooder house is ready, the stove in place and the heat properly regulated before the chicks arrive.

Winter seems to whet the appetites of chicken thieves, and locks are no good. One man trained a lot of hysterical Leghorns to squall lustily at any sound in the henhouse.

Cane-Borer Damages

New Raspberry Shoots

The grilling and consequent withering of tips of new raspberry canes is often due to the cane-borer. This insect lays eggs in the new shoots near the tips and then punctures the cane below the spot where the egg has been laid in such a way that the cane is frequently girdled and results in death. It is a good practice to cut off these shoots just below the point of withering and destroy them. In this way many of the eggs are removed from the plantation. The next year the damage may be more severe, caused by the larvae boring downward through bearing canes and killing them just when a crop is in sight. Ordinarily with the precaution mentioned, and with the prompt removal of old fruiting canes after the harvest, little trouble will be experienced from the cane-borers. Small, hard berries give the impression of being due to plants affected with mosaic or yellows. Mosaic dwarfs the plants. The securing of disease-free stock and thorough roguing is recommended. There is little danger of planting raspberries in too rich ground.

COOPERATION IS WHAT IS NEEDED

MRS. BRADY WANTS MORE SUPPORT FOR BOAT CLUB.

Plans Meeting to Discuss 3rd Annual Regatta Within Short Time—Season is Near.

Manifesting their usual interest in regattas and boating event, Mr. and Mrs. M. Roy Brady of this city attended a recent meeting of the Grand Traverse Boat Club at Traverse City.

As secretary and active member of the Charlevoix Boat Club, Mrs. Brady is much concerned over plans our neighbors are making for regattas this summer. Traverse City is planning a series of water events to extend over the entire summer, and Harbor Springs is also laying plans for several big events, having measured their course on the ice last winter.

What Mrs. Brady wants to know is what Charlevoix is going to do. She points out that Charlevoix was the first place in this part of the state to stage a sanctioned M. V. P. B. A. regatta. The event was the most successful ever held here.

Her desire is to get local members of the Charlevoix Boat Club together at a meeting to discuss plans for the summer and asks all Charlevoix business men to attend this meeting and express themselves on the subject. Charlevoix's 3rd annual regatta is not far distant and now is the time to start the ball rolling. The event was staged last year with practically no help from anyone outside the club, and Mrs. Brady feels that the cooperation of the town as a whole should be behind the Club, so that Charlevoix may still do more to bring before the boating public the fact that we have the most perfect water location to be found anywhere.

So if you get a card asking you to attend a meeting of the Charlevoix Boat Club, show your loyalty and interest in your community by attending. The Bradys have done much to put Charlevoix on the map of boating. Let's get behind their efforts!

BUILDING PROGRAM UNDERWAY

TWO NEW DINING ROOMS ADDED AT COLONIAL CLUB

Construction, Redecorating and Other Improvements Will Cost Around $25,000.00

Improvements which will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000 are underway at the Colonial Club. John Koch, proprietor, who recently returned from his winter home in Florida, is personally supervising the work.

Three additions are being made, one a 25-foot room on the bungalow occupied by Mr. Koch. The main part of the construction work is on the new dining room which will be 38 by 60 feet. Many new features are being embodied in this new addition to make it unusually attractive as well as enlarging the capacity. A new addition on the north side of the structure is a private banquet dining room which, when finished, will seat 44 people. This room will add a much needed feature to the Club.

A new stone wall is being placed under the entire building and the whole interior is being redecorated. Walls will be finished with paint of beautiful tints and all calcimine done away with. A black iron fence will replace the wooden one around the south, east and north side of the block.

W. E. Parmelee has the contract for the construction work and Frank and Elmer Pools are doing the decorating. A large crew of men are at work on the premises.

Two cottages have been completed on the plat north of the Petoskey road and a crew of men are busy grading the lawns for seeding. The Colonial Club and grounds is one of Charlevoix's most prominent beauty spots and will be even more so when all work now planned is completed.

We will meet mail order prices on tires, tubes and batteries with Good-years and Willys. Save you the postage and freight, too. Service free. Benj. Brown.—Adv. 18-1f.

MRS. JAMES LINN DIED HERE MONDAY

Had Been a Resident of Charlevoix Thirty-five Years

Mrs. James M. Linn, age 54, a resident of Charlevoix for 35 years, died at her home here Monday morning, May 7, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Linn was born March 18, 1874. On August 1, 1890, she was married to James Linn at Chicago. The couple have made their home in Charlevoix since 1893. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Charles Archer of Chicago, and two brothers, Orville Kendall of Aberdeen, Wash., and John B. Kendall of Kaukauna, Wis.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home, 413 Atrium street. Rev. Herman Burns of the Baptist church officiated. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

WELL KNOWN SUMMER RESORTER IS DEAD

George T. Riddle Spent Summers Here Over 30 Years

George T. Riddle, 81 years old, president of the Riddle-Rehbein Manufacturing Company and former president of the Franklin Bank, St. Louis, Mo., died at his home there last week after a short illness of a complication of diseases. He was born and reared in St. Louis.

Mr. Riddle was well and favorably known here in Charlevoix, where he had made his summer home for over 30 years, first on the Belvedere and for the last 26 years at his cottage on Mercer Blvd., north of The Inn. He will be greatly missed by the many friends who knew him here.

Mr. Riddle is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frederica Riddle, and four daughters, Mrs. A. T. Bradbury, Mrs. Arthur B. Birge, who resorts on the Belvedere, Mrs. E. A. Morse and Mrs. T. T. Polemsn, all of St. Louis.

AUTO WASHING STAND TO BE OPENED SOON

Sam King Will Put Up New Building On Masco Street

Plans for a building 26x34 to house a greasing and washing station have been completed by Sam King and work will be started as soon as material arrives. The station will be located on the Cooper property on Mason street at the rear of the Charlevoix Auto Sales.

Mr. King returned from Chicago last week after having made his home there several years and will now operate in Charlevoix. A 350-pound pressure washing machine will be installed in the station. A washing job may be completed in 30 minutes with this equipment. The new enterprise should prove a popular one.

MANY PRESENT AT DEDICATION

FINE PROGRAM WAS APPRECIATED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

Hon. Webster H. Pearce Gave Entertaining and Forceful Dedication Address

A large number of Charlevoix out-of-town people made the inspection tour of the new grade building and gymnasium last Friday afternoon and a capacity crowd was present at the dedication exercises in the evening.

The program outlined in last week's Courier was carried out in full and those who were not present missed a great treat. Hon. Webster H. Pearce, state superintendent of public instruction, proved to be a very entertaining and forceful speaker. He had his audience in an uproar of mirth most of the time, but still delivered a message full of thought and meaning. The young people who rendered musical numbers both during the afternoon and evening were highly commended.

Gifts recently placed in the building were acknowledged. They were a table, two floor lamps and two chairs by the high school graduating class of 1927; United States flags on standards placed in each room by the W. C. T. U. and a large American flag for the gymnasium, presented by the W. R. C. and American Legion.

The grade building was much admired and really must be seen to be appreciated. Every convenience has been planned, such as exhibit cases, magazine racks, book shelves, lockers, electric clocks, gongs and horns, etc. The kindergarten room has a fire place, fountain, large bay windows and other features.

In the main entrance vestibule on Grant street is a bronze tablet with the names of the school board members at the time building operations were begun. They were Lena Bergeson, president; H. A. Craig, secretary; Oluf Nordrum, treasurer; Annie B. Saltonstall and Alonzo Powers, trustees. E. L. Dawson has since succeeded Mrs. Bergeson and Mrs. Saltonstall is president of the board.

LOCAL INDIANS ARE IN TROUBLE

CONFESSED TO HAVING STOLEN AUTOS TO JOY RIDE

Many Articles Stolen From Resort Cottages Recovered—Clever Schemo Landed Thieves

The identity of auto thieves who have troubled local officers since last fall was discovered early Sunday morning when Isaac Deacon, age 18, was arrested by Police Chief Weikel, Sheriff Dave Vaughan and Deputy Chas. Marshall as he was returning William Byers' car to the garage after a joyride. Questioned later he implicated Alvin John, 17, and Clarence Francis, age 28.

The car had been taken on several former occasions and brought back. Each time it was damaged to some extent. The lads had been under suspicion but efforts to get the "goods" on them had failed. Byers then put an alarm on the garage door and run wires to the house. Sunday morning when the buzzer notified him someone was in the garage he called officers, who waited in the building until the car was returned and arrested Denemy. Alvin John was picked up later Sunday morning in an intoxicated condition when he was looking for Denemy. The pair then implicated Francis. They have admitted taking cars owned by H. R. Fowler and Lillis Flanders.

The trio also admitted entering several resort cottages on the Belvedere Club. With the exception of a radio, nothing of great value had been taken. Part of the stolen goods has been recovered, but the radio is still missing. The lads claimed they had hidden it near the old cement plant, but when officers were taken to the spot where the booty had been hidden the radio was missing.

About a year ago this time John and Francis were arrested and jailed for stealing a quantity of cigarettes, cigars and canned fruit from The Inn.

"UNCLE" GEORGE H. VAN- PELT DIED IN FLORIDA

Funeral Services Held Tuesday This Week In Chicago

Charlevoix learned with great regret of the death of one of its most loyal boosters, "Uncle" George H. VanPelt, which occurred Wednesday, May 2, at his winter home in Port Orange, Fla. He was 87 years old.

"Uncle" George was first identified in this region in 1883, when he bought the Eagle House property in Norwood. He spent a large amount of money improving it and made the place his summer home for a great many years, in fact up until several years ago when he disposed of his holdings both at Norwood and Charlevoix. His Charlevoix property included the postoffice building, Levinson building, and the two cement block structures located on the alley at the rear of Levinson's store.

Mr. VanPelt was nationally known as a booster for concrete roads and fire-proof hotels. He carried on his campaign relentlessly and at all times, never failing to put across his argument for his two pet hobbies wherever possible. It was through his effort that Charlevoix county built the concrete roads it now has. At all times he was a booster for Charlevoix and Northern Michigan.

Funeral services were held in Chicago Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock from Rosehill cemetery chapel.

NOBLE COFFEE SHOPPE OPEN LAST WEDNESDAY

No Detail Overlooked in Appointments and Equipment

The Noble Coffee Shoppe, located in the portion of the See building formerly occupied by the A. & P. store, was opened last Wednesday evening by Mrs. Cora Noble.

Although not completely finished, the new restaurant presents a very pleasing appearance. Tables and chairs are black, with tables tops of dark gray. New linoleum will be laid as soon as it arrives and other fixtures installed. The kitchen has been laid out in a very efficiency manner to facilitate service and no feature overlooked to make it clean and sanitary.

A large electric sign, constructed by Leo Powers, has been placed over the entrance.

NEED PERMISSION TO START FIRES

GET IN TOUCH WITH YOUR DISTRICT FIRE WARDEN

Wexford County May Paid Fine for Setting Fire Without Permission—Investigations Costly

N. A. Lickley, farmer living near Meauwataka, 15 miles northwest of Cadillac, paid $18.05 for starting a fire last Wednesday, according to Fire Warden Ed. Thalman of that district. Thalman later made it known publicly that anyone starting an unauthorized fire must pay the expense of investigation and suppression.

Forest fire officers are having all kinds of trouble investigating smokes or fires reported to them by the tower men. Then after a great deal of trouble investigating it is found some farmer is burning a brush pile or burning out a swamp.

The average farmer does not know he cannot start a fire without first notifying and getting permission from the fire warden. The law applies in Charlevoix county as well as the whole state. A large force of fire wardens are employed to watch for forest fires and upon discovery same, see that they are suppressed. The system saves hundreds of thousands of dollars each year in timber losses as well as preserving one of the greatest natural resources of our state.

Fire wardens may be saved a great deal of trouble and land owners unnecessary embarrassment if they will first get permission before starting fires. Fires reported by a tower man must be investigated by the fire warden and if they are first notified of a person's intentions to burn brush all this trouble can be eliminated.

Let the experience of the above mentioned Wexford county men be a warning to Charlevoix county land owners. It will save yourself and the fire wardens considerable trouble.

WRITES ABOUT OREGON WEATHER

CHAS. E. SEE ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT NEW LOCATION

His Desire to Live 20 or 30 Years Will Be Granted if He Takes Advice Given

Charlevoix folks always enjoy hearing from people who formerly resided here. Some are contented in their new locations and surroundings and others are not. It is quite evident from the following letter that Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. See have found their Garden of Eden. Just seems that every time Charley "takes his pen in hand" he simply can't refrain from writing of the wonderful climate, beautiful scenery, etc., of what is termed "the golden west." Knowing Charley as we do, we believe he is quite sincere in what he says. He's sold to the west and hopes to live for at least 20, and possibly 30 years so that he may enjoy it. Here's hoping he does. His letter follows:

The Dalles, April 22, 1928.

Dear Friend Usher:

"Inclosed find check for $4.00 to apply on subscription to your newswy paper. Please send me a receipt, not that I am afraid that you will try to collect again, but you will recall the story about the fellow who expected to meet St. Peter, who might ask him for his receipt.

"Well, we are nicely located in our new cottage on the Columbia River highway. Hundreds of cars pass our place every day, so you see we can't get lonesome. (We'd bet a hundred Charley's eyesight is getting dim looking for Michigan auto plates.) We are one and one-half miles from The Dalles city limits. Have a little piece of ground where we can raise more vegetables than we can use. Have several rows of peas nearly ready to bud, also others just coming through the ground. I just enjoy seeing the vegetables grow—one can notice such a difference every day, and we have had but little warm weather as yet. Today has been a perfect one. It was 70 on the north porch at seven tonight. There has been an unusual amount of rain this spring, which goes a long way toward insuring a bumper wheat crop, but has had a tendency to hold early vegetables back, as we had cold weather along with the rain. Of course to us this has been nice weather, having been used to so much colder weather during April in Charlevoix.

"Mrs. See has been bothered considerably with a lame knee. She slipped in a bath tub and strained the ligaments over two months ago, and still uses a crutch to get around with most of the time. It is gradually getting better though. As for me, I am feeling fine. Of course I am not as young as I was the first fall we spent deer hunting in the upper peninsula, and can't stand quite as much work, but think I am good for twenty or thirty years more if all goes well.

"I am sitting here with my coat off, no fire in the house, and some of the windows open. But I don't want to crow about it as possibly it may be colder tomorrow. Haven't had an overcoat on for a month. Some day, Usher, I am going to write you about the Colorado River highway between here and Portland, but not tonight. Kindest regards from both myself and Mrs. S. to Charlevoix relatives and friends."

What a happy and contented couple our former townsfolk are. Completely sold to the west and looking back to the many winters spent in Charlevoix with apparently no thought of ever returning. Watching the highway from daylight till dark in hopes of seeing a Michigan auto plate. Charley dreaming and hoping he will spend at least 20 years, possibly 30, pottering in his flower and vegetable gardens. Say, old top, I make this suggestion: Come back to Michigan next fall. We'll get the old gang together, hit the trail for Rapid River, and spend ten days in the woods. I know Hube Ackert will cook for us, and a week's forced feed on his pancakes will, without a doubt, give you a renewed grip on life and there will be nothing to that 20 or 30 years. Provided, however, Hube does not contract a cold. Don't let the west absorb you entirely. We want your overly desire fulfilled, but believe you need a few good doses of Michigan air.

Handy Cash Crop.

Pickle checks come in handy during August and September when other crops are growing. Get your contract.—Adv. 19-1f.

The picture shows the new city school building and gymnasium dedicated last Friday evening. The structure houses the grades and the fine new gymnasium will cost about $175,000 when finally completely finished and furnished. State superintendent of Public Instruction Pearce of Lansing, gave the address of dedication.

Evening Station-to-Station rates are effective from 7:00 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and Night Station-to-Station rates, 8:30 p. m. to 4:30 a. m.

A Station-to-Station call is one that is made to a certain telephone number than to some person in particular.

If you do not know the number of the distant telephone, give the operator the name and address and specify that you will talk with "operator" who transfers at the called telephone.

A Person-to-Person call, because more work is involved, costs more than a Station-to-Station call. The rate on a Person-to-Person call is the same as at all hours.

Additional rate information can be secured by calling the Long Distance operator

Feel Miserable This Spring?

To Be Well Your Kidneys Must Function Properly.

SPRING find you tired, nervous and depressed? Are you stiff and aching, subject to nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage? Too often this indicates sluggish kidneys and shouldn't be neglected.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's are endorsed everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Protect Your Investment in Your Model T Ford

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

More than eight million Model T Fords are still in active service, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer.

So that you may get the greatest use over the longest period of time at the lowest cost, we suggest that you take your Model T Ford to the nearest Ford dealer and have him give you an estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure may enable you to maintain or increase the value of the car and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

No matter where you live you can get these Ford parts at the same low prices as formerly and know they are made in the same way and of the same materials as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Labor cost is reasonable and a standard rate is charged for each operation so that you may know in advance exactly how much the complete job will cost.

COMMUNICATION

How long is the reckless driver to be allowed to claim his toll in smash-ups, without receiving his just deserts from a long-suffering public? In spite of warnings, in spite of rules or traffic courtesy, in spite of all law and order, and in spite of the rule of all rules—to treat the other fellow as you wish to be treated, he continues his reckless way, and the innocent suffer or pay the bill.

On Sunday out by the Coulter farm a car was coming along at moderate speed, and another fast going one, with numerous occupants coming behind it. The latter attempted to pass, saw a car coming in the opposite direction and turned back again, but too late, crashing into the first car from the rear with sufficient force to cause serious damage.

Is it ignorance, faulty brakes, or willful disobedience to law, or drunkenness, that commits these offenses? And do such drivers have licenses?

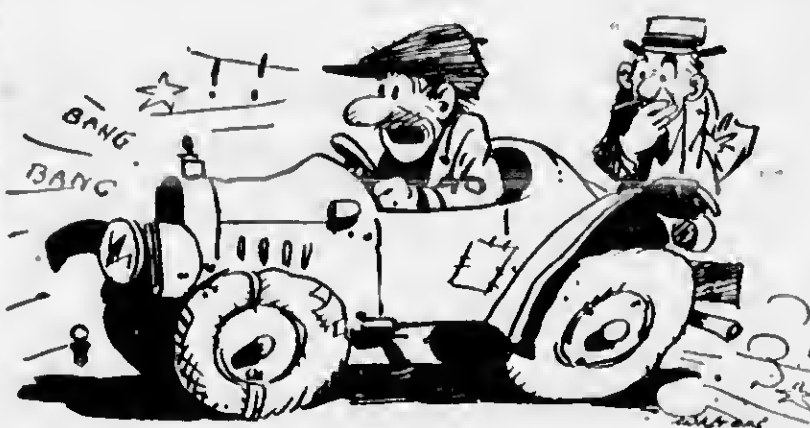

Isn't Charlevoix to have some speed regulations within its limits, which can be enforced, together with some adequate police patrol?—A Subscriber.

Always... a square USED CAR deal from the Buick Dealer

The Buick dealer is in business to stay. His future reputation depends upon his treating used car buyers fairly.

He wants to please used car purchasers because he knows that satisfied used car customers are prospective new Buick buyers.

The man who buys a good used car—honestly represented—at a fair price—receives splendid value in transportation.

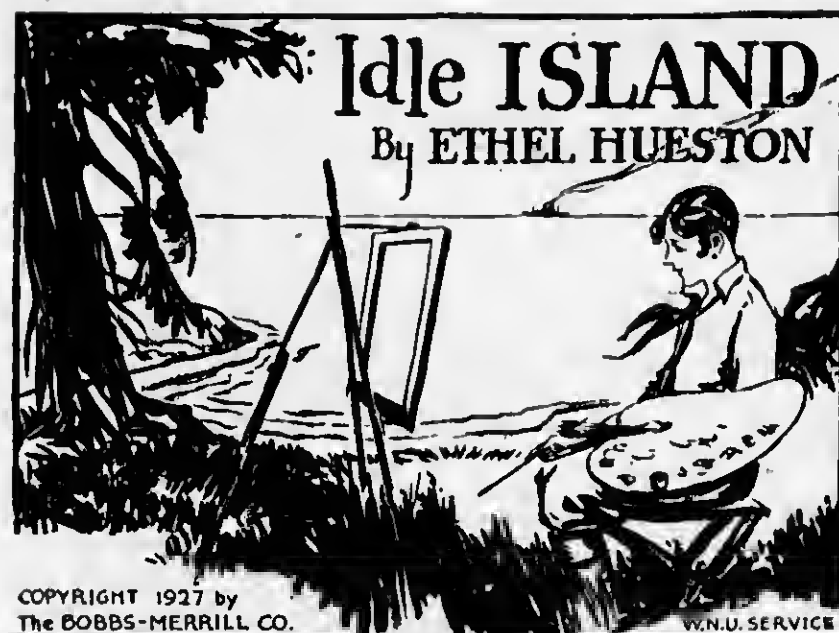

In his enthusiasm for the car he has bought, and the value he has received, it is only natural for him to look upon the dealer as his friend.

The Buick dealer has many such friends because he represents the true condition of the used cars he offers for sale.

And that is good business—for the Buick dealer, as well as the used car buyer.

"I could not bear to—to let him go away—into such danger—alone. Besides—it is all your fault," she said accusingly, but there was no very convincing quality in the accusation. "You are older than he, you are magnetic, powerful. You led him into it." The captain laughed softly at that, but frowned again in a moment.

"This is a devilish kettle of fish," he grumbled anxiously to Ronald. "Where are her papers?" "She has no papers, sir. She only decided to come tonight." "How do you expect to get her ashore?"

"She won't go ashore, sir. She is an American citizen, so am I. She will stay on board when we are in foreign ports. And when we come back we can land her at the island—I couldn't come away—without her."

The captain lit a cigarette, and bit the end of it thoughtfully. His mildness of manner had returned.

"I'm not blaming him, you understand, Miss—Miss—"

"Gay is my name, Gay Delane." "Gay. That's nice. Like that. Call you Gay then, right off, since you're sort of my mate-law as you say. You'll have to keep in your cabin, out of sight of the men. You understand how men are, miss, when they're at sea, no women, you know—goes to their heads—nice chips, our men, fine chips—but the thought of a woman goes right to their heads."

"I—I wouldn't cause trouble for anything," Gay said quickly, and hope sprung into her heart again. "I am 6'7" I can't. I see now how foolish I was. But things just—went to my head, too, I suspect—Perhaps you'd better just put me off and send me ashore in a small boat."

"I'd like to," the captain said pleasantly, and a smile showed in the dark mild eyes. "I'd like to first rate. But it's too late now. No, you'll have to stick it out with the Roger Williams this trip. Keep her in your cabin, Ronald, until— You'll have to be married! That's the dope. The men don't have much regard for women, but they show some respect to a wife."

Gay flashed a frightened, appealing look at Ronald. Married!

"The captain marry us," he stammered. "At sea. Captain's privilege. Yes, that would be—best." But he did not meet her eyes.

"Yes. And meantime, keep her in your cabin, and out of sight." The captain's eyes wandered to Gay again, warmly approving, slowly approving. "Maybe she'd better stay here. My cabin is safe enough, for women, child or beast. I'll keep her for you."

"No. She'll be all right in my cabin. She's very nervous; I—I must console her."

"I could console her," said the captain, smiling broadly.

Ronald answered with a straight defiant stare. He stepped quickly to the door and opened it, then, after a moment's pause while he waited for a seaman to pass through the corridor, he took Gay's hand.

The captain, smiling, gave her a friendly touch on the shoulder. "Don't be frightened, little girl," he said. "I'm going to take care of you. I am the captain here. Don't be frightened."

"Th—thanks," stammered Gay weakly, and then, buried by Ronald who held her hand, she ran, a boyish slim figure beside him, down the corridor to the farther cabin, and the door closed behind them.

Safe in their retreat, Gay faced Ronald Ingram defiantly, chin sturdily upturned, hands in pockets, eyes stubborn. She was not afraid of Ronald Ingram.

everything they know. You put yourself in his power by your own words. If he thought you were innocent, knew nothing, he would send you ashore. But now, knowing you have his life in your hands, you are his slave for life. You'll never get out of his sight as long as you live. He wouldn't dare let you go."

"I was afraid of it," she said faintly. "I knew I had made a mistake when I saw his eyes. I was very foolish. I was never—very wise," she admitted pathetically.

"No. But you are—very sweet," he said sadly.

"Help me, Ronald. Won't you help me? You said you—liked me. I only came because I thought—"

"You thought that chap—the Cavalier—"

"I thought you would kill him, so I came—"

"Why Do Women Have to Blab Every-thing They Know?"

"To intercede for him—to save him?"

"Alas, no, I had no hope. I thought you would let us die together."

"I will help you, Gay. It is putting my nose behind the bars to run the risk, but I will do what I can. We must think, we must plan it out. You must pretend to be in love with me—keep away from the captain—fear him more than the men. Gay, I am afraid he will insist that you marry me. I almost hope he will."

"Oh, no; oh, no."

"You could easily have it annulled. Gay, don't be foolish—marriage would protect you—and you reach home. I would not—bother you. Gay, watch the captain. Do not think he would stick at murder? Don't you know that when a man is facing exposure, capture, death, he is mad—quite mad? Well, you mean those things to the captain, Gay, exposure, capture, death. He will keep you in his web like a spider. Remember Blakely—"

"Blakely," she said sadly. "Poor Blakely!"

"You stand where Blakely stood. Watch the captain, and do not cross him, or you'll lie where Blakely lies. Blakely got in a mess—with a woman, too—no wonder Garmen rules the women out; we've lost three good men because of them. Well, Blakely tried to swing Garmen in to clear himself. You saw the end of Blakely. I tell you, Gay, watch the captain, and do not cross him."

"But, Ronald, I can't marry you. I—I love— I can't marry you."

"Sh!" He signaled her into silence, his manner changed. "I know, dear, but don't be afraid of him. We were very wrong to do this, and put him in such a position, but he has promised to take care of you and he will keep his promise."

"He indicated for her to take her cue."

"I—I am afraid, Ronald," she said faintly at first, but gaining courage as she spoke. "I—I wish I could go home. Oh, why did you let me come? Why didn't you warn me? He hates me, I know. He looked very fiercely at me. He is handsome, is he not? But I know he hates me."

A brisk tap at the door, and it opened. The captain entered, and, one of the bravest of men, not without his air of confidence. His eyes upon Gay were morose.

"Now, I want to tell you," he said, "don't be afraid of me. Just be a good girl and do as I tell you, and—sweet papa!" He laughed lightly at his own humor, then he added briskly, "See here, Ron. You'll have to be married at once. If anybody should come on board to look us over, you smuggled the girl aboard without my knowledge or consent. She is your sweetheart, see? And you did it. So they'll have nothing on the ship. Now if you get married at once it will clear me of any suspicion of complicity."

EDITORIALS

THE GIST OF IT

Fred Keister, the versatile editor of the Ionia County News, says, "If Mr. Kresge can contribute to the Anti-Saloon League we see no reason why Mr. Sinclair should be prevented from sending a few bonds to buy peanuts for the elephant." Editor Keister's disposal of the much talked of contribution to the deficit of the Republican campaign fund is just about as much as the incident deserves. Of course, no one wishes to countenance even the semblance of connivance, conspiracy or fraud on the part of public officers or in public places and the indications are that there was, to say the least, favoritism shown in the leasing of the naval oil reserves. How much downright dishonesty there was, how much of the deal was an absolute barter and sale proposition, the public can only guess at. So, the disposal of the interests that got the oil lands is undoubtedly a righteous step, although the refusal of the government to pay for the tanks and other equipment erected by the Doheny interests in Hawaii doesn't, we think, show a spirit of honor upon the part of the government.

But, the great hullabaloo that we hear about in the papers these days is entirely outside the naval oil lands. It's about a lot of bonds that Harry Sinclair and three others got from a shady arrangement to buy some oil as a syndicate from an independent producer and sell it at an advanced price to their own companies. The government was in no way concerned in this transaction. Sinclair and his associated played dirt on their own company stockholders but that is no concern of the government nor has it anything to do with the lease of the naval oil lands. The stockholders of the several companies have a right of action against Sinclair and his associates to make them pay into the company coffers the money that they took personally.

The syndicate invested the profits of their oil deal in liberty bonds and it has been shown that Sinclair turned over a lot of these bonds to Fall—whether to pay the price he agreed to pay for the Teapot Dome or to purchase an interest in the ranch—as Fall claims—isn't clear. Fall did get some of these bonds; that much is undisputed. The purpose for which these bonds were used is wholly disassociated from the source of the bonds.

Will Hayes was rather extravagant in his management of the Harding campaign and something over a million dollars of a deficit resulted. He went out to try and raise the money to pay it and among those he approached was Harry Sinclair. From Sinclair he borrowed a lot of money and Sinclair, having this easily made money, loaned it to Hayes with the understanding that all but $60,000 was to be paid back after Hayes had succeeded in getting cash from others. He paid it in bonds instead of cash. Hayes cashed in these bonds and paid the deficit, later returning a certain sum to Sinclair, who then increased his contribution by several thousand dollars. Hayes got cold feet after the oil scandals broke and tried to cover up the facts instead of telling the truth.

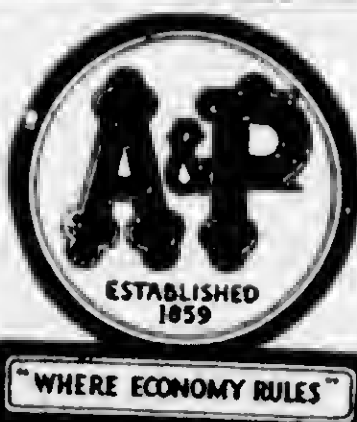

As Editor Keister says, why the hullabaloo? Perhaps the whole affair wasn't exactly ethical, but how much ethics are there in politics? The chances are that if the "under the covers" manipulations made in the campaigns in behalf of the men who are loudest in condemning this contribution were dug up they wouldn't look any better when hung up on the line of public criticism than does Sinclair's contribution. If there was real sincerity back of the washing of this political dirty linen, if those who are doing the washing could with truth and honor "cast a stone," one would be tempted to get excited about the affair. However, as was shown in the case of Kresge, who contributed heavily to the Anti-Saloon League and at the same time made a liquor depository out of his own home, there is so little of the stuff behind the scenes in political campaigns that can be held out to the light without appearing to a disadvantage that the American people have, as some one has said, become hardened to the conditions and pay little or no attention to them. Whether this is a sign of decadence in the American methods of government is another story. The point we wish to make is that Harry Sinclair's donation to the Republican campaign fund is no more of an incident for the "holier than thou" to tear their hair over than is the average every-day donation of the average individual who hopes that his donation will in some way come back to him many fold.—Thomas Conlin in the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill.

14 STATES ENDORSE OSBORN

AS REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

See Man Has Received Definite Support From Practically Every Section In U. S.

That the candidacy of former Gov. Chase S. Osborn for the Republican nomination for vice president, as endorsed at the Detroit convention, may "cause Michigan to emerge from being a mere convenience in Republican politics to take place of real importance in national politics," is the expressed opinion of some of the former governor's friends who are now at work organizing his campaign for the vice presidency.

His candidacy, Osborn's friends report, has already aroused widespread interest. Wires and letters congratulating him on the Michigan endorsement and offering him encouragement from other states have poured in daily since his unanimous endorsement by Michigan, the first endorsement Michigan Republicans have ever given a vice presidential candidate, in their state convention.

Support Is Definite
Among the states where Gov. Osborn has received very definite support are Wisconsin, where Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman is said to be one of his staunchest supporters, and Minnesota, where Gov. Theodore Christianson is a supporter. From Indiana, Gov. Osborn's native state; from California, from Oregon and Washington has come news of support of the Osborn candidacy. From Illinois, from New York, from New Hampshire have come other missives with encouraging tidings for the Osborn supporters. Georgia, where the former governor now spends much of his time, has evinced great interest in his candidacy; among his supporters there are Henry Stillwell Edwards and Henry Tift. Other states whence encouragement has come to the Osborn camp are Alabama, Arkansas, Maryland and Kentucky.

In Michigan, of course, the candidacy has its center. Judge Ira W. Jane of Detroit, one of the presidential electors-at-large, is expected to put Osborn's name in nomination.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
by B. C. McElcann

Achievement Day • Big Success

The county Achievement Day held in Boyne City last Thursday exceeded the fondest expectations by a big margin. The day was perfect, the attendance large and the exhibits splendid.

A fine program was enjoyed by all, with the main features as follows: Talks by Miss Dundas, Miss Jewett and Prof. Starr, all being from Michigan State College; music by junior high orchestra of Boyne City; play—"An Old Fashioned Proposal," by junior high pupils; play by Peninsula Group, and a recitation by Jane Allen Vance.

The report of the year's activities was not given as complete as was desired, but will be given at a later date. The leaders and members who have taken the course in nutrition, offered by the Michigan State College, were very grateful for the benefits they have gotten, and are anxiously waiting for the next project.

The exhibits, showing some of the most important phases of nutrition were so artistically arranged and indicated their object lesson so well it is impossible to explain them in detail. All that can be said is that all who did not attend missed a splendid program and a very instructive and enjoyable day. Why not enroll for this next project this fall and have a regular college course at home.

Do You Need Seed Corn?
If you do not have a supply of high quality seed corn for this year's planting I would suggest that you can purchase Certified Golden Glow Corn that tests 91 per cent guaranteed, moisture down to 15 per cent and

Can't Talk To Wife,

Too Cross and Nervous
"Even my husband couldn't talk to me, I was so cross and nervous. Vinol has made me a different and happy woman."—Mrs. N. McCall.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIG appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. F. J. Fessenden, Druggist.—Adv. 19-11.

adapted to our climate at $6.25 per bushel shelled.

It was grown near Delaire and was matured there for the last two years in good shape. This variety of corn is the most highly recommended for our section and will give you splendid results. It has been inspected by the Michigan State College, and is positively pure as to variety and all other requirements. While it seems high in price, when you consider that one bushel will put out approximately seven acres it is inexpensive considering the quality you are buying. Don't take a chance on putting out poor corn. Don't gamble on seeds. If interested write or phone your county agent at Boyne City.

Soils Truck Will Tour Country
A wonderful opportunity will be presented the farmers of Charlevoix county to get the latest information available on soils during the three days of May 23, 24 and 25 when the soils palace on wheels will visit us.

Specialist from the Michigan State College will accompany the truck and will discuss all problems relating to soils.

Equipment will be included making it possible to test soil for acidity marl for lime content. Marl should be used more than it is at present, so bring in marl samples.

The part that lime and legumes play in improving soil fertility will be stressed particularly. Bear this in mind and read the next issue of the paper for schedule of dates and places to be visited.

Guernsey Breeders to Organize
At a recent meeting held at East Jordan plans were made to organize a Guernsey Breeders' Association for Charlevoix county.

It was an unanimous feeling that such an association would assist materially in the advancement of Guernsey interests in the county, that a more intimate association of breeders would be highly beneficial, that our big problem is getting in more high quality and prepotent sires, as well as a few purebred females, and that such an association would facilitate buying and selling high quality Guernseys.

The next meeting will be held in the Boyne City library on Monday night, May 14, beginning at 8:00 o'clock fast time, at which time by-laws will be approved and a permanent organization perfected.

If you are interested in Guernseys you are cordially invited and urged to attend this important meeting.

Plans are being formulated to hold a big show and picnic at East Jordan during July or August at which time the best individuals will be selected and pitted against each other for the high awards.

Tell your Guernsey friends and bring them with you.

AT THE MOVIES

Dives and Haunts of Underworld on Screen

Conventional backgrounds usually associated with crook melodramas were thrown into the discard in filming of "Underworld," Ben Hecht's powerful crime story written for Paramount, which reaches the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

Striking settings and colorful locales that breathe the spirit of realism have been invoked by Josef Von Sternberg, director of the smashing exposure of American crookdom.

Special Field At First National Studio Set Aside For Star's Use

Practice makes perfect and for that very reason Ken Maynard, star of "The Canyon of Adventure," the Western feature produced by Charles R. Rogers for First National Pictures, which comes to the Palace Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday spends long hours every day practicing stunts to perform before the camera.

"Valley of the Giants"

Milton Sills, who has given some of the finest characterizations in the history of the motion picture, has one of his greatest roles in "The Valley of the Giants," which comes to the Palace Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Sills' portrayal of Bryce Cardigan, son of the pioneer lumber magnate, in the picturization of Peter B. Kyne's great romance of the Big Trees, is one that stamps him as a consummate artist, and one that will long be remembered.

Keep youth longer!
cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner drugist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

TELLS HOW TO READ THE BIBLE

CHARLOTTE EDITOR IS AUTHORITY ON SUBJECT

Suggests Taking Our Problems to Supreme Authority When Affairs Reach Crisis

"Doc," DeFoe, editor of the Charlotte Republican is a Bible student as well as a possessor of a master's degree in politics. He's also student of human nature; and because of all those qualifications all possessed by one man, we believe the following information from him can safely be followed by those in search of such knowledge. We can't verify any of the remedies he suggests, because we have never yet come to a crisis in our work or play serious enough to necessitate taking our problems to a supreme authority, but there is no telling when that eventuality may arise:

When in sorrow, read John 14.
When men fail you, read Psalm 27.
When you have sinned, read Psalm

51.
When you worry, read Matthew 6: 19-34.

Before church service, read Psalm

84.
When in danger, read 91.

When you have the blues, read Psalm 34.

When God seems far away, read Psalm 139.

When you are discouraged, read Isaiah 40.

If you want to be fruitful, read John 15.

When doubts come upon you, try John 7:17.

When you are lonely or fearful, read Psalm 23.

When you forget your blessings, read Psalm 103.

For Jesus' idea of a Christian, read Matt. 5.

For James' idea of religion, read Jas. 1:19-27.

When your faith needs stirring, read Heb. 11.

When you feel down and out, read Romans 8:31-39.

When you want courage for your task, read Joshua 1.

When the world seems bigger than God, read Psalm 90.

When you want rest and peace, read Matthew 11:22-30.

When you want Christian assurance, read Romans 8:1-30.

For Paul's secret of happiness read Col. 3:12-17.

When you leave home for labor or travel, read Psalm 121.

When you grow bitter or critical, read 1 Corinthians 13.

When your prayers grow narrow or selfish, read Psalm 67.

For Paul's idea of Christianity, read 2 Corinthians, 5:15-19.

For Paul's rules on how to get along with men, Romans 12.

When you think of investments and returns, Mark 10:17-31.

For a great invitation and a great opportunity, Isaiah 55.

For Jesus' idea of prayer, Luke 11: 1-3, Matt. 6:5-15.

For the prophet's picture of worship that counts, Isa. 58:1-12.

For the prophet's idea of religion, Isa. 1:10-18, Mic. 6:6-8.

Why not follow Psalm 119:11 and hide some of these in your memory?

WILSON TOWNSHIP TO HAVE BIG CHURCH DAY

Boysie City and Petoskey Churches Uniting for Services

Next Sunday will be a great day for Christ congregation at Wilson township, Charlevoix county. On that day a class of ten children will be examined in the doctrines of the Evangelical Lutheran church by Rev. H. F. C. Schulz, pastor of the congregation.

After the examination the children will be confirmed before the altar. Before they are confirmed they will sing two class songs, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." The church will be beautifully decorated for the occasion. There will be no service at Zion congregation of Petoskey, and no service at Christ church, Boysie City, as these congregations will unite with Christ congregation at Wilson township next Sunday.

The children are Charles Schroeder, Theodore Spencer, Mary Behling, Louise Behling, Helen Behling, Dorothy Behling, Margaret Behling, Nina Spencer, Virginia Martin and Margaret Martin.

* METHODIST CHURCH *

John E. Lockyer, Minister

One of the most joyful days of the year is Mother's Day when we can take her to church and later sit down with her while she reviews her yesterdays with your growing life. The churches always prepare carefully for this Sunday that it shall mean the most for all who gather for worship in praise and gratitude. We offer welcome for the coming Sunday at 10:30 and 7:30. Special music is arranged and the sermon will be "A Mother's Throne."

At the 7:30 service a uniquely fine program is arranged in two parts. Part one will be an interpretative half hour with mother in home and church with her best loved songs. Part two will be "A Mother's Reverie" where she turns the pages of the album and reviews the yesterdays. These scenes will be dramatized in pantomime color effects and fitting music. If you see it you will like it and never forget it.

Then the church school at noon will study "Christ Going to Jerusalem." Epworthians meet at 6:30 from now on through the summer. The topic is "My Birthday Gift to the Epworth League."

This Thursday the Literary Club meets at church at 10:30 for departure to some choice picnic spot.

Tuesday Y. P. devotional at 7:30. Thursday prayer meeting at 7:30.

We want you to clear a path for the district missionary convention here on May 17 and 18. Get work and other dates out of the way.

A KNOCKER IS

ABILITY AT HIS VERY BEST

A Pickford farmer, returning home from a 90,000 mile auto trip, says he found more bad roads between San Jose, Marie and Pickford than in all the distance between Los Angeles, California and Cheboygan. That sounds regular. A Cheboygan county man finds more fault with his home town and home county institutions than with all others. A Charlevoix man returning from Florida, weeps about road conditions and has about come to the conclusion the old home town and neighboring community is on a rapid decline. It's a trait too common among north Michigan residents. That Pickford man returned to his native hearth after visiting the west, where it is safe to say he did not hear anyone "knock" their home place as he complains of his home community. It is too bad he did not remain on the west coast sufficiently long to learn the disgrace of "knocking" his home community. We regret those people who find fault with their surroundings do not pick up and move out and stay out. A knocker, no matter how little he taps, is a liability at his best.

Brown, Carlston, Allen; time: 1 minute, 43.5 seconds. H. S. Bates, principal, and Walter J. MacMillan, head of the physical educational department, had charge of the meet as clerks and announcers, with Clarence Christopher, Michigan State college, as track starter, and Mr. MacMillan field event starter. Judges and timers include Frank Jacobs, H. Lee North, Petoskey, and A. J. Quinn, Mancelona.

FORMER REALTOR DIED IN OREGON

Formerly of the Firm of Benton & Gregory of Charlevoix

Word has been received here of the death of D. N. Gregory, a former resident of this city, engaged in the sale of real estate.

Deceased lived in and about Boyne City and Charlevoix for many years. In 1882 he came to the Peninsula district and located on what is known as the "Blue Flax" farm, where he lived until 1905. At this time he sold out and moved to Boyne City, where he engaged in the real estate business. From Boyne City he moved to Charlevoix, locating on a farm on the Adams Lake road. During the years 1911 to 1916 he was senior member of the firm of Gregory & Benton, realtors. Later he moved back to Boyne City, and a few years later sold his business interests there and located at Woodburn, Oregon, where he made his home until he died.

Mr. Gregory had many close and intimate friends in Charlevoix and Boyne City, who will be grieved to learn of his death.

SPECIAL ELECTION TO VOTE ON TIME CHANGE

ON THE RIGHT ROAD NOW TO INCREASE FISH

The Oden Hatchery has developed Advance creek which flows into Porters creek near Advance into a feeding ground for young trout. Three kinds of trout—the brook, the brown and the rainbow—each have a portion of the creek and are protected from each other and also from fish in the lake above and the pond below.

The plan is to grow these trout until fall in the small stream and then transfer them to other brooks and lakes when they are better able to care for themselves. This is Charlevoix county's latest industry.

MEMORIAL DAY WORK STARTED

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES JOIN TO ARRANGE PROGRAM

Services at Memorial Park, Cemetery and Union Service at Local Church on Program

Memorial Day committees, representing the officers of the various Charlevoix patriotic societies, are busy outlining the program for Memorial Day, Wednesday, May 30th.

The various parts of the work are assigned to the several societies from which committees will be named by the commanders and presidents to work out the details. These committees include those on speaker of the day, marshal of the day, lieutenants, guards of honor, program, Memorial Sunday services, cemetery program, decoration of graves of the war dead, parade, etc.

All churches will unite in a union service at one of the churches Sunday, May 27, at 10:30. Spanish war veterans and members of the American Legion and their auxiliaries, and other patriotic organizations will meet with the G. A. R. and W. R. C. in the annual observance of Memorial Sunday.

On Memorial Day every citizen is requested to do all they can to honor the noble dead of all wars, and to assist in the parade in every way. Every lodge and club that reveres the flag are also requested to take a part in the parade. The teachers of all schools are requested to have their pupils formed in line to take part in the parade and the Boy Scouts, school and city bands will lead the different organizations in the parade.

The marshal of the day will assign everyone a place in the line and you will not need to go away from home to see a good parade and hear good music. Every soldier of any war in this country is invited to be present and take part. A transportation committee will look after those who cannot walk.

A detailed program for the day will be available by the time of our next issue and will be published in full.

VISIT THE SCHOOLS NEXT FRIDAY P. M.

See What Kind of Work Your Children are Doing.

The Charlevoix public schools will give an exhibition of work being done in the schools, on Friday afternoon of this week.

All parents and others are invited to visit the schools, and observe the work of the pupils. Visits by the parents tend to encourage the children, and also gives the former an opportunity to see the work of the pupils, and discuss matters pertaining to the work of the children with the teachers.

Take this opportunity to see the work being done by the schools, and to encourage the pupils.

The teachers are interested in the welfare of the children, and will be pleased to see the parents and talk with them.

Parents are welcome at any time, but especially welcome on Friday afternoon. Take an hour or two off and visit the schools. You will be well paid for the time spent.

MRS. NIXON DIED AT HOME LAST WEDNESDAY

Had Been a Resident of Charlevoix County Over 40 Years

Mrs. Marlborough Nixon, age 68, a resident of Charlevoix county for over 40 years, died Wednesday, May 9, at her home in Marlon township. Elizabeth Cummings was born in Canada, December 20, 1860. Her early life was spent there and at the age of 16 she came to Michigan with her parents, who made their home at the Soo. She was married there to Marlborough Nixon on December 12, 1883, and a few years later the couple moved to this county, where they have since resided.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Nixon is survived by her three children, viz: Mrs. Lee Smith of Clearwater, Fla., Miss Olive Nixon of Flint, and a son, Ernest, who made his home with his parents.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Monday forenoon from the Church of God, of which Mrs. Nixon had been a member and active worker for many years. Rev. Geo. Pye officiated and interment was made at Brookside cemetery.

SENIORS PLAN NIAGARA FALLS TRIP

LEAVE NEXT FRIDAY FOR FOUR DAY SIGHTSEEING TOUR

Local School Will Send Teams to Regional Golf and Track Meets This Week.

Members of the Charlevoix high school graduating class have chosen as a reward for their four years of school work, an excursion trip to the Niagara Falls.

The class, numbering 28, with Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Buchen and Mrs. Edward Heise as chaperons, will leave Charlevoix by motor for Gaylord on Friday, May 25th, and there take the Michigan Central to their destination. Leaving Gaylord at noon, they will arrive at Niagara Falls at 10 o'clock the next morning. They will remain there until 10:30 that evening, then go to Detroit and spend Sunday, returning to Gaylord Monday morning.

The class is taking advantage of an excursion rate offered by the Michigan Central to Michigan schools for the trip. The transportation expenses will be paid from the class treasury and each member will pay their own personal expenses.

Athletic Season Near Close.

Charlevoix high school will be represented at the regional golf tournament to be held at Traverse City on Friday of this week and also at the regional track meet at Cadillac Saturday. Participation in these two events will mark the close of athletic activities for the local school this year.

The team going to Traverse City for the golf tournament is composed of Lyle Beaulieu, Billy Supernaw, Robert McCall and Charles Bleha. Petoskey, Cadillac, Charlevoix and Traverse City will be represented and the winning team goes to the state high school tournament.

Charlevoix will send several athletes to the Cadillac regional track meet for schools of Northern Michigan. Those making the trip are Clarence Arnold, Joe Stuttmann, Dick Marshall, Eugene Ingalls, Edwin Kling, John Critchlow and Rex Supernaw. Charlevoix's relay team will enter the competition.

MRS. CAMPBELL WAS HOSTESS TO W. C. T. U.

June Meeting To Be Held the 8th at Methodist Church

Mrs. P. D. Campbell, Sr., was hostess to the members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union last Friday afternoon at her Dixon avenue home.

Miss Agnes Rogers conducted a memorial service for members who died during the past year, viz: Mrs. Mary Cowan, Mrs. Herman Burns and John Joffe. Many new members were reported in the "Go Forward Campaign," making a total of fifteen to date.

The program consisted of readings from the Union Signal about the work, and Mrs. Ed. Stewart gave several selections in her usual pleasing manner. A social hour followed, during which the hostess served afternoon tea.

The next meeting will be held June 8th at the Methodist church with the flower committee in charge.

CITY PARKS RECEIVING ATTENTION

MANY IMPROVEMENTS MADE FOR SUMMER SEASON

Aviation Field Has Been Put in Shape for Marking—Auto Camp Opens on May 25

Charlevoix's city parks, the auto camp and aviation field located on the south side school grounds have come in for considerable attention of late. What might be termed a general clean-up and overhauling campaign has been in progress in conjunction with the general orders for clean-up week.

At the city park bordering Lake Michigan, a program intended to make this spot even more attractive to summer tourists and visitors has been undertaken by the city park commission. All benches and tables have been repaired and painted and put in fine condition. The playground equipment near the Lake Michigan piers has also been included in the program. Necessary repairs have been made and the equipment repainted. Present plans call for springboards for the pier and bathing rafts to be anchored offshore for the convenience of bathers. Another commendable bit of work is the plan to scrape white sand onto the stretches of pebbles and small stones lining some places on the beach.

Memorial Park on Bridge street has come in for its share of the beautification program. Work of grading the north portion of the property is now nearly completed and ready for seeding. Shrubs and trees will be planted to add to the beauty of the park.

Caretaker Hugh Brady of the Charlevoix auto camp announced Tuesday that the opening date will be Friday, May 25th. Brady has the grounds in fine shape and by clearing still more brush on the southwest side, has made room for additional cars.

Children will find the auto park much more to their liking this year on account of the addition of several pieces of playground equipment for their use. Through the efforts of the city park commission, a quantity of equipment formerly owned by one of our summer resorters was purchased at a very nominal figure and will be placed at the camp. Swings, chutes, swinging rings and other fun-makers are included in the equipment.

Work of cleaning up the aviation field located on the south side school property has been completed. The field will be marked at once and lights installed for night landing. One of the high lights of the recent tourist and resort association meeting at Detroit was the necessity of landing fields in Northern Michigan resort towns. Charlevoix has no intention of being backward in this respect.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY PARTY GUESTS MONDAY

Entertained at Successful Affair by Grade Teachers.

The high school gymnasium was the scene of a very successful party last Monday evening, when the grade teachers entertained for the high school faculty.

Delightful refreshments were followed by a pleasant evening of games and charades. Miss Norma Otto, grade principal, gave several very interesting readings. A feature of the program was a play given by the grade teachers. The party was a very enjoyable one.

FOREST FIRE DANGER PERIOD IS AT HAND —WATCH YOUR STEP

The forest fire danger period is at hand. Be careful of your out-of-doors fires. Put out your cigarettes before you throw the butts away and be sure and follow that oft repeated sentence you see on sign boards: "Break your match." One cannot be too careful of fire at this time of the year. Go out into the cut over tracts, any where you will cut over tracts and you will find dry grass and decayed vegetation and down timber a regular tinder box in just a few hours after a heavy rain. Just vision how wonderful all of this vacant lands and cut over tracts and growing things would be if the fire could only be kept out, and again vision the black dismal waste after fire has gone through and done its harm. Again we repeat be careful of fire, when out in the open spaces or on the farm.

friends in honor of his 11th birthday, last Saturday evening. All enjoyed the fine supper and general good time.

The Handicraft Club Achievement Day program last Wednesday evening was much enjoyed by all present. State Club Leader Kettunen, also Miss Cagle of the girls club from the State college, were present to judge the work. The results were that Minnie Gornell was given the girls county championship, while Carl Beattie won the senior boys' championship and Clare Beattie the junior boys' championship, which entitles all three to a trip to the club camps this season. County Agent Melleneamp was also with us and very enthusiastic as usual about the club work. The exhibit was very good, and ice cream and cake was served by the Grange. Geo. Parsons got the school quilt.

ADVENTURES IN THE KITCHEN!

SORRY, Jane, but I simply can't go into town today. This is my Kitchen Club day, and I never miss a meeting if I can help it.

"Kitchen Club, Nancy?" came the voice at the town end of the telephone. "What kind of a club is that? I can't imagine an artist's being interested in kitchens!"

"Well, for one thing, Idiot, it's shown me that it takes a greater artist to keep house than it does to paint pictures. You catch the next train, and come out here, and I'll take you to a meeting."

The Kitchen Club to which Nancy Gordon and her neighbors belonged was quite an unusual development for a suburban group of modern young women, most of whom were artists or writers in addition to being the wives of "rising" young business men.

It had grown out of a visit they made to the rectory, to fix up the kitchen there before the new rector and his wife came. Nancy had suggested a new color scheme; someone else had rearranged the furniture; others had stocked the shelves with good things to eat. And before they were through, all the women were envying the rector's wife her new kitchen.

One of them said: "I wish our girls would come over and help me dress up my kitchen." And that began it. They went, made suggestions for improving the kitchen and received in return some most delicious refreshments with the recipes written out for everybody to take home.

After that it became a regular institution, every meeting bringing out new ideas for kitchen improvement, and new recipes. There were no officers, except that each member acted as secretary, writing up in a "Kitchen Club Notebook" the new ideas she received from the other members.

LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

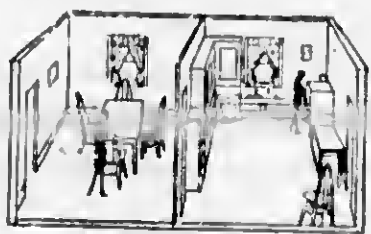

If Jane will come out here often, she will get ashamed of giving her husband delicatessen stuff, and will cook him some real food. Mrs. Gray served us the most delicious refreshments this afternoon. Here are the recipes:

New Recipe for Chicken Salad

Dice the meat from one chicken boiled tender, and salted before it is removed from the fire. Add three chopped hard-boiled eggs, one cup diced celery, one-half cup chopped sweet pickle and three-fourths of a cup of freshly toasted, salted nuts. Season with salt, celery salt and pepper. Mix with enough olive oil mayonnaise to moisten.

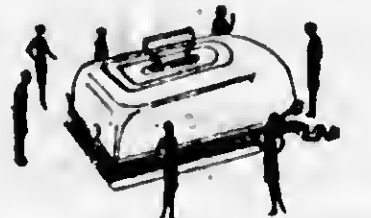

Cheese Tea Biscuits

1 quart flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 scant teaspoon soda
1 lump of lard the size of an egg
4 tablespoons grated cheese
Buttermilk to make soft dough
Bake at once in a quick oven. She uses a live heat oven which can be set over one burner of an oil or gas stove, leaving the rest of the stove free for other cooking.

Rearranging an Old-Fashioned Kitchen

Mrs. Gray's kitchen was so large that she wore herself out trying to get around in it. We suggested two things: to group all her furniture in one end, using the other end for a breakfast room; or to put up a wall-board partition, making a separate room to be used for a breakfast room. She decided on the latter. Sketch shows how it will look.

New Covered Broiler

Mrs. Gray has a new kind of covered broiler that cooks meats on both sides at once. It's used on top of the stove. The cover keeps odors from spreading. She says the broiler is fine for baking biscuits as well as for broiling.

WATER REDUCES BACTERIA COUNT

Investigators Show How the Moisture in Paris Subway Cut Down Germs.

MOISTURE decreases the number of bacteria in the air enormously. French scientists counting microbes in the air before and after a rainstorm in Paris have found wide variations in the totals.

In a cubic meter of air gathered up near the Place Clichy Messrs. A. Sartory and Marc Laagins found 3,800 germs on a wet day at 5 p. m. and 16,000 at the same time on a dry day.

Similarly in the Paris subway after the tracks had been sprinkled thoroughly only 410 bacteria were found to the cubic meter while two hours later, when the tracks were dry, the investigators discovered 68,000.

Taking advantage of such findings, officials of many communities are advocating more generous sprinkling and to many instances have applied calcium chloride to road surfaces to lay the dust. That chemical, which in itself has high germicidal value, absorbs moisture as well as killing germs.

Good Road Facts

Heavenly, civilization can be no better than its highways.

More than $1,000,000,000 was spent in improving highways of the United States last year.

Good roads are a fine thing, but it is well to remember that they lead away from the farm as well as to it.

All roads leading to the four gateways of Yellowstone National park are reported to be in excellent condition.

The national parks, seven in the United States and three in Canada, are now linked together by improved highways.

The Defense highway, shortening the distance between Washington and Annapolis, Md., by eight miles, will be completed this year.

Twenty times around the world! Such, at any rate, is the distance American motorists could travel on their 500,000 miles of surfaced roads.

The Arizona highway department has taken consideration of the pedestrian on the roadway and has made official recommendation that he walk on the left side.

Minnesota has 100,000 miles of public roads of which 7,000 are trunk highways treated by special patrol maintenance, on which there has been expended during the past five years $33,000,000 annually. This state is a large user of calcium chloride for dust laying and highway maintenance.

UNORDERED MERCHANDISE

Last year many communities in this section were flooded with unordered merchandise in the form of neckties, pencils and other articles, the receivers being asked to pay for the goods or, if not desired, to return them to the senders.

The National Better Business Bureau says the only way to end the unordered merchandise nuisance is to make it unprofitable and suggests the following procedure as the best way to accomplish this result:

"Because these goods arrive unheralded and unanticipated and because they come in packages which are in no way indicative of the goods they contain, it is practically impossible for the recipient to re-fuse the goods when they are delivered to him. Further, they may be left in the mail box or upon the front porch while the recipient is out, and once they are left in that way the postoffice department considers that the goods have been accepted.

"Even after such delivery and acceptance has been made the liabilities of the recipient are very limited and are defined so that the mere fact that unordered goods have been put into a person's hands need disturb one.

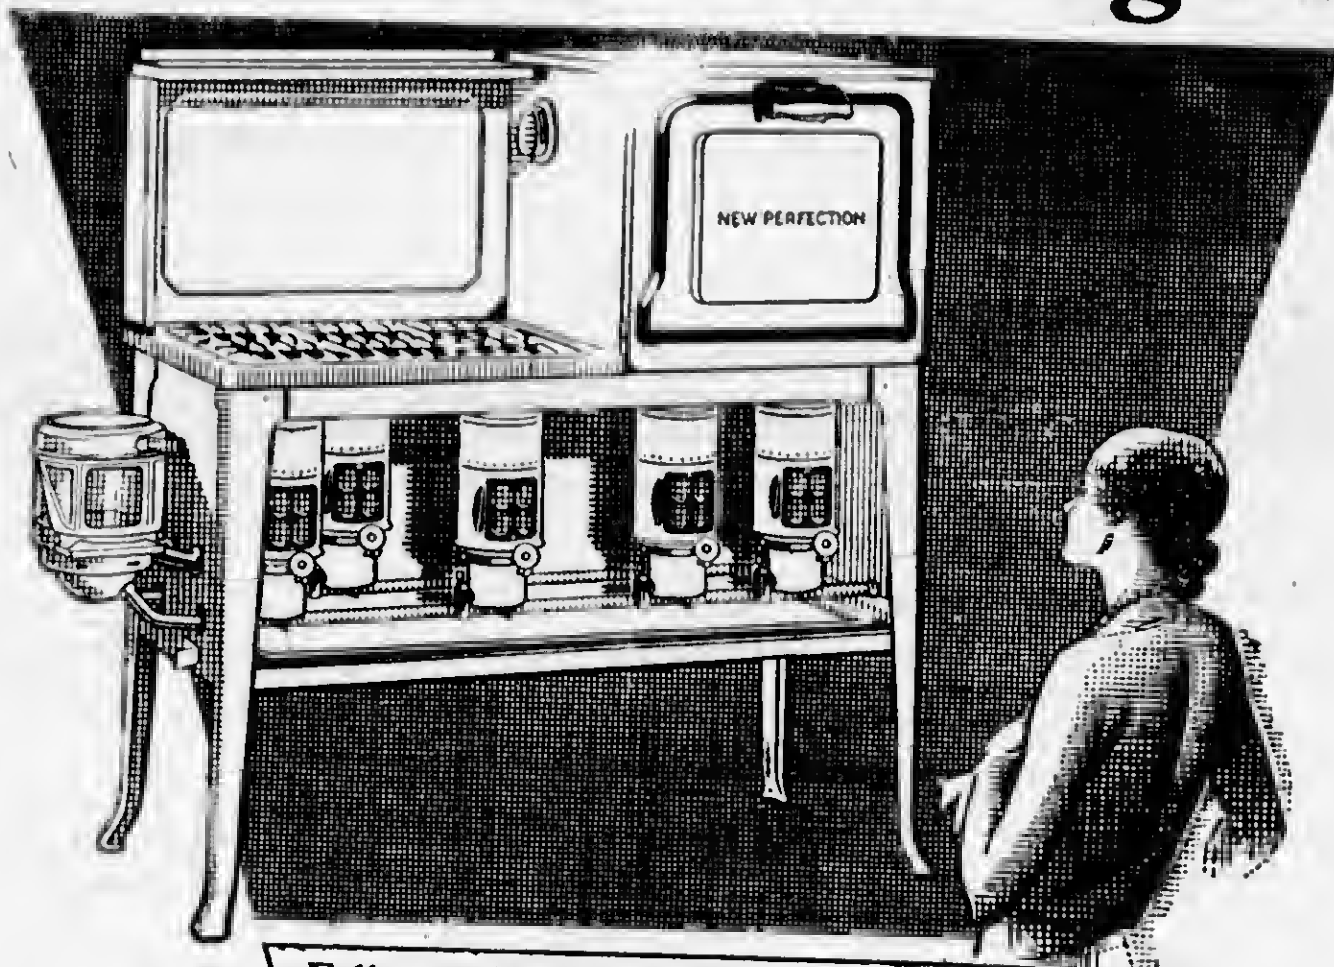

"Unordered merchandise should not be used or appropriated for use by the recipient unless he wishes to incur liability to pay for them. If he does use them the recipient cannot legally avoid paying for them by saying that they came into his hands without his solicitation or not at his specific order.

"The recipient, on the other hand, is under no liability to return the goods or to notify the sender that they have been received even though an addressed and stamped envelope or carton is enclosed in the original parcel for that purpose. He is under no obligation to accord the goods any particular degree of care or to notify the sender that he holds them subject to the sender's disposition.

"As the unsolicited holder of goods distributed at the risk of the sender, the recipient is obliged to give them a certain degree of care, but they need be held only for a reasonable length of time, during which the sender may instruct a qualified agent to call for them.

"If such an agent does call within a reasonable time, the recipient has the right to demand the payment of storage charges before turning them over to the agent."

$50 IN PRIZES OFFERED AGAIN THIS SEASON

Awards Based on Highest Cash Yield of Pickles Per Acre.

The Charlevoix Pickle & Produce company, having salting houses at Petoskey and Charlevoix and added receiving stations at Atwood and Horton Bay, is again offering their growers $50.00 in ten cash prizes this year.

Anyone having a pickle contract becomes a member of the cash prize pickle club. Boys and girls are as eligible as men and women. The grower receiving the highest amount of cash per acre contracted, in cash checks up to September 30th inclusive, will receive the first prize of $15.00. Second prize will go to the grower having the second highest yield, etc., and will be $10.00.

Third and fourth, $5.00 each. Fifth, sixth and seventh, $3.00 each. Eighth, ninth and tenth, $2.00 each. As in previous years, prizes will be paid in cash and mailed not later than December 25th.

These prizes are given as an added incentive to growers to have one of the better fields, and are paid in addition to the guaranteed spot-cash prices as covered by contract. Many farmers plan on a small pickle field of an acre or two along with their other crops each year, and receive a share of the handy mid-summer cash payments. Yields of $100 per acre are numerous here, with several past the $150 mark and a few who have received as high as $200.00 and more per acre. Seed is supplied free, the market is sure, and with spot-cash guaranteed pay for each delivery, an acre or two of pickles is certainly a worth-while crop to have regularly on any good farm.

BERNIE WARD LEADS IN MACKINAW TROUT RACE

Enters 15-pounder Caught Near Ironton Last Sunday

Bernie Ward, local insurance agent, leads the field of sportsmen in the mackinaw trout division of the "largest fish" contest sponsored by Staley Brothers' Hardware.

Ward's entry, weighing 15 pounds, took the lead away from C. Y. Marshall, who brought in a ten-pounder caught in Round Lake Saturday evening. Ward captured his prize Sunday in Lake Charlevoix near Ironton. Probably the largest run of mackinaws for several years were caught on this day. Nearly every boat out brought in a nice catch with the size running well above the average.

In view of the fact that his 8½ pounder was caught on a 4-ounce fly rod, B. B. Stout of Mt. Pleasant, representative of the Richmond Clothing Co., should come in for special mention. The big fellow was hooked while Stout was fishing from the dock at Ironton.

INDIANS SENTENCED TO TERMS AT IONIA

Given From One to Fifteen Years for Breaking and Entering.

Isaac Denemy, 18, and Clarence Francis, 28, local Indians, who pleaded guilty in justice court to a series of car thefts and breaking and entering a number of resort cottages, were sentenced Monday by Judge Parm C. Gilbert at a special session of court.

The pair will serve not less than one nor more than 15 years at the Ionia State reformatory. The court recommended the minimum term. Alvin John, a third member of the party, was placed on probation for a period of two months. John and Francis were arrested about a year ago on a similar charge.

CHARLEVOIX HELPS AT BAPTIST RALLY

Local Speakers Heard and Workers Named on New List of Officers

The Grand Traverse Association meeting closed Friday night at Traverse City with a young people's rally. Petoskey had the largest out of town delegation. The speakers were Rev. Joseph Grossa of Manistique and Rev. J. J. Pease of Big Rapids.

The newly elected officers of the Young People's Association organization are Miss Iola Chew, Charlevoix, president and Miss Georgia White of Petoskey, secretary and treasurer, an office formerly held by Miss Irma Gaffney of that city.

The program of the association meeting as a whole, was said to be the best put on in many years. Rev. Henry A. Buel of Traverse City, was re-elected moderator and Earnest Peaslee of Charlevoix, was chosen clerk.

The next meeting will be held in Gaylord the first Thursday and Friday of May 1929.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Courier:—In the past two years the roadsides and woodlands of some of our neighboring towns have been infested with great numbers of tent-caterpillars, or web-worms, which in places, have stripped the foliage of orchards and woodlands. These pests have now reached the vicinity of Charlevoix, and are just hatching and can easily be destroyed while small, but if left a short time, will be spread over all woodlands, making it unpleasant for our summer visitors, who enjoy our woodlands. They can be destroyed by poison or torch, or by covering with kerosene or other oil. They are scattered around through the day, feeding, but on cool nights or cold days, take refuge in their tents, which can be seen easily on account of its white color. Early in the morning is the most likely time to find them in their web, when a paint brush dipped in oil will easily destroy the whole colony.

Sincerely,
H. C. Newman.

"Captain," she pleaded desperately. "I—I did think so. I—I did want to. But now—suddenly—I am frightened. I am not sure. He seems different to me. My—my heart fails me."

"Ah!" The brown eyes were narrow black slits. The voice sank to a purr. "You know—what you know. Much. One shrieks from a lawfully wedded husband who happens to be—at odds with the law?"

"Oh, no, it is not that." She flashed a sudden warm look full upon him. "Not that. What is the law to a woman who—really loves? But do I? Or was I only thrilled for a time, stirred by mystery? Really, I do not feel the same to Ronald. I thought him so rugged, so big, so virile. Now beside you he seems—young—inefficient. Can he hold my love?"

The captain's head went back in a great soft laugh. His eyes upon Ronald Ingram were straight and unfathomable. "Oh, that is fair, is it not, Ron? She must be sure of herself. But you cannot stay here while you decide. Not the thing, you know. Come with me. The captain is the official guardian of his guests. I will take care of you—until you are sure."

Ronald Ingram flung himself against the door.
"No," he shouted. And then more faintly, "Never."

The captain's pensive eyes did not waver from Gay's vivid face, where fear and daring struggled for control. He did not so much as vouchsafe a glance to the officer who looked him. But the silent voice purred:
"Oh, yes, Ronald. Oh, yes. Come Gay."

Ronald Ingram still slowly away from the door, his eyes upon his boots, and stood motionless while the captain, with Gay's hand in his, led her back to the room from which he had brought her.

"You're not only a very pretty girl, you're a very wise one," the captain said, as he helped her, solicitously attentive, from the big slicker, and put her coat, gloves and leather hat upon a hook on the wall, beside his own coat. "I like that," he smiled, eliciting a little pout. "Looks nice and domestic. Sit here."

He put Gay into a big chair, and glanced appraisingly the length of the slim young figure, in its buckles and boots and flannel shirt. Gay self-consciously "brightened" her face and smoothed her sleek dark hair. Now that the protection of the big room and the low set cap was gone, weariness, exhaustion, showed in her face and her eyes were fringed with black.

He touched the bell, and stood in the door to answer it. "Some port," he said, "two glasses. You are tired," he said to Gay. "Are you hungry?"

"No. But I feel—very tired!"
The boy passed in the tray at the door, and the captain quickly lifted a small glass for her.
"Take this. And then you shall rest. But first, let me tell you this. No, drink it. It will quiet your nerves. It has been a shocking night!" His kindness was alarming. Gay drank it slowly, felt the grateful warmth in her throat, at her breast. She smiled at him.

"Now you are going to sleep, but these things you must bear in your mind. You can see that you are tied to the boat as long as you live, can't you? Now, is there any reason why you should limit yourself by marrying a young subordinate? People are only married for the eyes of the world. Well, the eyes of the world aren't going to see much of you. We'll go through a sort of form—to get the papers right—and I'll sign you on. But you would be very foolish to tie yourself to an underling—unless you are very sure you are very much in love, would you not?"

"I—suppose so."
"I'll say so. Of course, all this is only laying up trouble for myself. Ronald, who has been my friend, will be my enemy, but I can take care of Ronald. Our doctor is a rank idiot when there's a skirt about, and there'll be trouble with him, and trouble with the crew, and trouble at the ports. But then, I've had trouble before." He smiled at her. "You are a very pretty girl—and a very brave one. I think it's the nerve of you that really gets me. Worth a bit of trouble, I fancy."

A short rap at his door caused him to pull himself up, impatiently.
"Not now, not now. I'm busy," he said sharply, although he barely raised his voice above its wonted softness.

"Sir, beg pardon—it is very important!"
The captain, with a bare sign indicating Gay to move back into the shadow of the room and remain quiet, went to the door. A seaman passed him a folded bit of paper on a tray. The captain read it, nodded his head reflectively, glanced back at Gay.

"Send the chief engineer to me," he directed the man.

And then he came to Gay. The companionable frankness of his voice was gone. Instead it dropped to its most silky fineness, a fineness she already learned meant danger.

"Now tell me, who knew that you came aboard this boat?" His eyes hypnotized her.
"Nobody," she said quickly. "I give you my word. Nobody knew it."

"Who would discover your absence, and search for you?"
"Nobody. I am an orphan, an artist, I live alone. The people on the island will think I have gone to New York for a visit. Nobody will seek me. I am a free soul. Ask Ronald Ingram. He knows."

The engineer touched the door, opened it and came in. He did not glance at Gay in the corner. The captain handed him the bit of paper.

"Shall we show them our heels?"
The engineer considered. "How are the papers? Everything tight?"

"Tight as a drum. Except this woman who smuggled herself aboard. But we can fix that up. The papers are perfect."

"Then I say we lay to, and give 'em the gas. What to run for? Then they know it's guilt. Face 'em, and faint it, I say."

The captain smiled at him, nodded assent. "You're right, of course. All right, then. I'll be right down."

The engineer went out.

The captain came to Gay and took her hand. His voice was soft, his touch caressive.

"Now, Gay, this is your chance. A lot is drawing up to us to look over our papers. You can go back on it if you wish. Would you like to?"

Wild hope throbbled in Gay's heart, bent such a tumult of glorious relief she felt she must have heard its music. But she remembered what Ronald Ingram had said, she was warned by the alien softness of the captain's voice. Still, as her heart at the hope that swelled in her breast at the thought of rescue she said faintly:

"Oh, no. Not yet. Can't I just stay on—with the boat? Can't I wait till I am sure?"

"Are you sure you want to?" His voice was a velvet breath. "This may be your last chance to go back. Are you sure you wish to stay on?"

"Yes, please. I am not afraid now. You will take care of me. I took a chance and came. I'd rather take another chance and stay. If you'll let me."

"Good for you!" His voice was warm and hearty. "I see we're going to hit it off first rate. I'll fix it up with Ronald. Stick to the original story, Gay. You smuggled aboard—under my own bunk—I always tell the truth when convenient—and I didn't see you until I had finished my paper work ready to turn in. I was just going to marry you to Ronald when they signaled us to lay to. Now you've got balance, and you've got nerve. You'll get through it. Right?"

Gay nodded briefly.

"Stay right here. I won't have you up at all unless I have to." He pulled a book from the rack on the shelf and threw it on the table. "Marriage service," he said. "Just ready to read the lines over you. That'll elch it. Don't be frightened, Gay. They may be only run runners. They've nothing on us. Just sit tight, and—he kissed her hand—"I like you. Poor Ronny!"

Then he went out unharriedly, smiling back at her.

Gay turned off the light in the room, got her coat and hat, and crouched by the door which she held ajar, listening. When the moment came, she intended to run and boldly and demand a rescue.

The captain stopped to speak to Ronald, to explain Gay's new status, and the two men went on deck together. Already a small boat manned with twenty men had put out from the coast patrol and was drawing swiftly up to the Roger Williams.

"Don't look so good," said the captain slowly, scanning the horizon, for lying about them lay six boats of the little coast guard fleet, completely hemming them in. "It's something more than a run," he said. "I wish we could get rid of that d-d girl."

CHAPTER XIV

With the captain and his chief officer in the bow of the boat putting out for the Roger Williams, stood Randolph Wallace, and he was laughing.

"I know that boat," the captain said, "she's been held up time and time again, but she always manages to get clear. Slick as the dickens, that gang. Money back at them. That's how."

"She's a beauty," Rand said, admiring eyes on the Roger Williams.

The coldness of the morning air, the grayness of the pale dawn, the tang of salt on his lips and in his nostrils, exhilarated and thrilled him.

"What'll they do with her, I wonder—the boat? I know there's a big reward out for this gang, but I think I'd rather have the boat. Do you suppose they would give her to me, instead of the reward? I feel just like settling down to a profession this morning. The last of the Captains Wallace. I think I'll go to sea. Gosh, how Gay would laugh."

The captain laughed, too, companionably. "They'll put her up at auction," he said, "and if you really want her—and if your charges against the gang hold water—they'll fix it up so you can bid her in. They couldn't give her to you outright—at least, I don't think so—too much red tape. But they could let you in on the bidding, and see that you had the money."

Rand's eyes, already shining with pride of ownership, roamed the Roger

The Roger Williams, Showing Strong and Stanch in the Gray Light.

Williams, showing strong and stanch in the gray light, casting the waves. "I wonder I never thought of it before," he mused thoughtfully. "Yeh—Captain Wallace, last of the line. Pleased to meet you." He grinned joyously at himself, thinking at Gay.

As they pulled alongside he spoke again, suddenly.
"Any red tape to keep me from going aboard first? I want to make sure of a good-looking chap, with sad eyes like a cow."

The captain laughed and motioned him up, so that the first feet aboard the Roger Williams were not those of active United States service, but the idle wandering ones of Randolph Wallace. Naval officers, however, were close behind him, followed by twenty service men.

Captain Garrison stepped up to them quietly, all at once. "You say you're after an escaped convict, but you come well heeled for a single stow-away."

"You have found no slowways aboard, then?" asked the officer courtteously.

"Well, a sort of one. A woman—running after one of my officers. We discovered her under my own bunk, if you can imagine such a girl. I was just going to marry her when we got your message. 'G'day this woman.'"

"Will you bring your passengers up and let us look them over?"

"We are only a freighter, as you know. But we carry up to twenty passengers on the side. Sublimated steerage passengers they are, cheap. Their papers are all right. I went over them myself."

"We'll look them over, if you don't mind."

Captain Garman gave a quiet order in an unrolled voice, and a man detached himself from the group and ran down to put it into execution.

"We're taking you back with us, captain," the officer went on slowly. "We have the goods on you. If you want to go peacefully, all right. Or if you want a scrap, we have the guns as you."

"What charges, sir?"

"Oh, a nice variety. Running Chinese, a nice variety. Getting crooks out of the country on our side, and bringing them in on the other. Little matter of murder, too, if I am not mistaken."

Captain Garman's eye turned slowly out to sea, swept the horizon. His men were willing to fight, and the ship was built for speed as well as for endurance. But what chance, with six of the steel gray service dogs lurking watchfully at bay, hemming them in. Hither match wits with the lawyers in the courts, which he had done before, and come off never second best.

"You'll find everything O. K., I fancy," he said imperturbably, "but of course if you insist I will return with you."

The passengers were hurried up from below, huddled back against the ceiling, and with them Gay, once more in her dark slicker and leather cap, who had slipped among them as they passed the captain's door. Gay's heart was glad in the knowledge that she was saved. But when, in the rear of that group on deck, she saw Rand, debonair, triumphant, smiling, her first feeling of heart-bursting joy that she was safe gave way to one of humiliation and shame. Rand came in triumph, with the United States navy at his back, to find her here, knickerbockered and hooted, like a thief among thieves, captured, disgraced and handled lightly from man to man. She sank back farther into shadow, almost preferring the hazards of the sea with Garman and the Roger Williams, to humiliation before the dear loved eyes of Rand.

"Go over the lot of them" came the crisp order. "Look for papers, especially, and weapons. Lieutenant, take the second detail, and search the ship."

Gay cowered farther into the corner. Search her! She watched the approach of a brisk young officer with horelled staring eyes. She bit her lips until she tasted blood; she would not move, she would let him handle her, let him search. At the sudden slap of his hand upon her hip she slunk back silently. Feeling the bulk of the pistol in her pocket, he thrust his hand roughly inside her coat.

"Oh, no!" Her faint gasp was inexpressible, instinctive. But soft as it was, it carried across the deck.

"See here!"

With a bound, Rand leaped from his posture of careless grace against the rail, and hurled the astounded group from side to side before him.

He caught Gay's arm, and drew her about, amazed, incredulous.

"That's the stowaway," the captain explained silkily. "Found her under my own bunk. I was just going to marry her to my second officer."

"Gay," stammered Rand, "Gay, is it you? But it can't be you! But it is you!"

Gay covered before him. "Oh, Rand," she sobbed, "I thought they had captured you and I came to be with you, and they hadn't, and you weren't, and—"

She was a pitiful, ridiculous figure in the flapping slicker. The faint morning light showed her was face, smeared with tears.

"Gay," Rand repeated, helplessly, staring at her, unbelieving. "It can't be you—it isn't!"

"Rand," she pleaded tearfully. "Please! He can marry me, the captain, he can marry anybody. Rand—just to please me."

"Gay, do you mean—"

"Oh, Rand!"

"Well, there's no reason why he can't, is there?" Rand demanded quickly of the officer who commanded the capture.

"Not if you make it snappy," said the officer, laughing in huge enjoyment of this unexpected turn. "Before I take over the boat."

"Oh, we'll be snappy, that's the thing we do best. Gay, think a minute! Pull yourself together. Are you—sure?"

"Oh, Rand!"

"Well, how about it, captain? You've no objections, have you?"

"Marry her! Marry you!" ejaculated the captain, dazed with the suddenness of this surprising new demand. "You! Good lord! Another one! Come on board after Ingram, switched over to me, and now got the hooks in you. All right, all right, I'll marry anybody. She's the smoothest worker I ever saw. Jim, bring up the hook from my desk, it's open to the page. We'll have Ronny for one of the witnesses. Good lord—another one—and been aboard less than two hours."

In the pale gray light of Christmas morning, standing out bravely, a disheveled, absurd little figure, with a band of desperate criminals to left of her, a troop of American guardsmen to right, with Captain Garman, waiting for a hundred crimes in a half a hundred ports, reading the service over her in a soft and silken voice, Gay Delane, in boots and rubber slicker, with tear-blinded eyes and salt-stained face, renounced her freedom forever.

3 big features found in no other low-priced six

Offering bodies by Fisher, the Pontiac Six brings to the low-priced field not only the style and smartness, but also the luxury, roominess and staunch construction inherent in Fisher design.

Embodying the G-M-R (General Motors Research) cylinder head, Pontiac combines amazing smoothness and silence with economy of operation, using ordinary gasoline.

And providing the thermostatically-controlled cross-flow radiator, it practically eliminates losses of water and alcohol and assures the proper temperatures for highest engine efficiency.

Bodies by Fisher—G-M-R Cylinder Head—Cross-flow Radiator... here are three big features found in no other low-priced six that no buyer of a six in Pontiac's class can afford to overlook. If the New Series Pontiac Six offered no other exclusive advantages, it would still hold its rightful position as the world's finest low-priced six.

3-Door Sedan, $745; Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Phaeton, $775; Cabriolet, $795; 4-Door Sedan, $825; Sport Limousine, $845; Oakland All-American Six, $1045 to $1265. OBITUARY

The following very complete obituary of the late "Uncle" George H. VanPelt, is taken from the May 10 issue of the Charlevoix Sentinel, and for the information of our readers we are re-publishing the same:

"Uncle" George H. VanPelt, 87, passed to his reward Wednesday, May 2, 1928, at his winter home, Port Orange, Florida, his death being preceded by illness of long duration, incident to advanced age, a general decline during which period he attended to his routine of work practically to the last minute of his life.

For nearly a half century, with few exceptions, Mr. VanPelt has spent the summer months in Charlevoix and during the major part of this time owned and maintained a home at Norwood, which, until comparatively recent years, was occupied by the VanPelt family and was the scene of many social functions in which citizens of this northern region and others from more distant points were frequently entertained.

Mr. VanPelt for many years has been a distinctive figure, especially so during recent years, due to his advocacy of concrete roads. In this he was energetic and enthusiastic. His writings were widely published from Florida to Nova Scotia and in addition he met with associations of commerce, newspaper men and others and strongly endorsed the building of concrete roads. This work with him was his hobby—his pastime—but he made a business out of it, and was heralded as "Uncle" George, the good road advocate. In this work he met many people and made hosts of friends and probably was known personally and by reputation by a majority of the reading public along the entire Atlantic coast of the United States and largely so through the middle west. In this, as in all else, he was a worker and the record of his lifetime after reaching the age of ten years, was one of strenuous activity, whether as an apprentice boy, grocery clerk, retail merchant, traveling salesman, manufacturer or retired business man. And at some period of his life he was in each of the above named classes. From the time of his mother's death, when he was ten years of age, he lived the following five years as an apprentice boy; when sixteen he was a grocery clerk drawing the magnificent salary of five dollars per month and board. As time advanced he made advantageous changes in his vocation, finally that of traveling salesman, covering territory which at that period—1866—was in the far west. In this work he traveled west as far as Salt Lake, making many towns far in advance of the time of railroad building in the western country, either by stage coach or horse and wagon. In making these trips he had many narrow escapes from death at the hands of Indian bands; once near Golden, Colorado, where the Indians were vanquished in a cunning fight and again near Yankton, Dakota, and others less serious. Naturally the early western trips were interesting and exciting especially to a tenderfoot, nevertheless it all came as a part of the day's work, part of the experience in connection with the job. During those days Salt Lake was making history, and it was on one of his early visits to Salt Lake at a theatre one evening when he saw Brigham Young, "The Boss Mormon Man," (as Mr. VanPelt called the prophet) march in with thirteen of his wives to attend the performance.

For many years Mr. VanPelt was a manufacturer of shoe lasts in Chicago, where he operated a large plant which from the start was a financial success and through which he accumulated a moderate fortune, retiring something like nineteen years ago, since which time he has devoted his time, energy and funds in the interest of better highways—concrete reinforced highways—in which he was an indefatigable worker, traveled extensively and kept long hours, thereby making himself a slave to what he considered a duty.

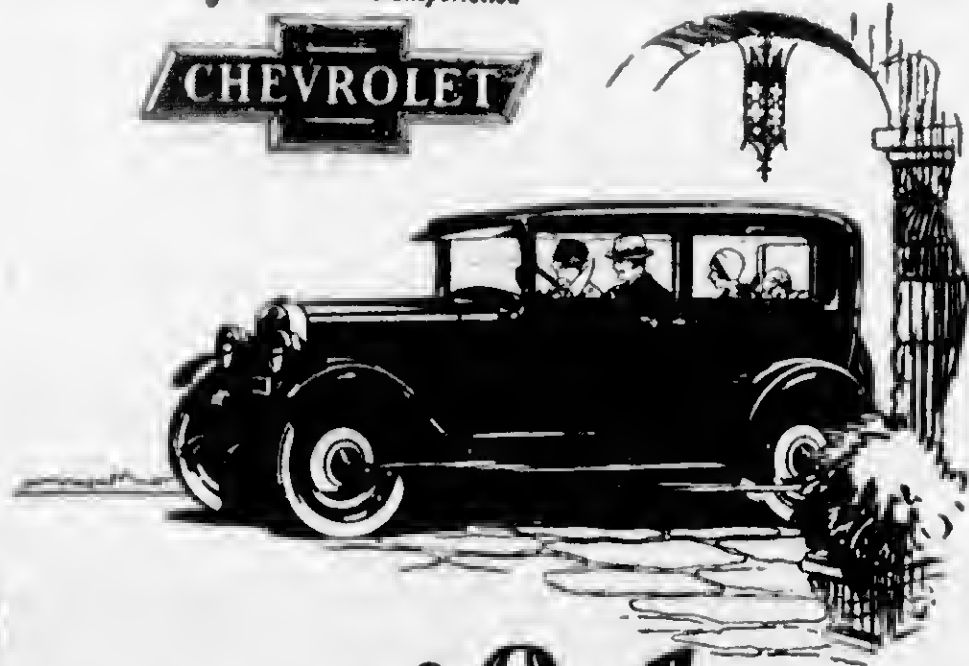

From an early date he was an active member of the Chicago Association of Commerce, one of the first, and at the time of his death, its earliest and longest period member, and through this connection became intimate with Chicago business men and others throughout the United States, many of whom looked to him for sound counsel and advice along big business lines.

Mr. VanPelt was deeply interested in Charlevoix and the surrounding country, spent his money helping others and erected several fine business blocks in Charlevoix, thereby evidencing his faith in Charlevoix from a business standpoint. He was a man of action and regardless of his advanced years was full of pep and energy more so than a majority of men many years his junior. In business affairs he was prompt, punctual in keeping his engagements and expected the same time exactitude from others and failure to meet and keep an appointment was a matter not easily overlooked and the delinquent's attention was

COLORED PEOPLE ARE NOW PETOSKEY PROBLEM

Petoskey has within its confines a small colony of colored people and the neighbors object to their presence and have appealed to the authorities for help in getting rid of them, but there seems to be no legal way to do so, unless they can be accused of law breaking. This same problem confronts practically every resort town in northern Michigan. Charlevoix is no exception. What the outcome will be, no one can tell.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church will hold a Baked Goods sale on Saturday, May 19, at the Polly Kay Shop.—Adv. 20-11.

along "good roads" lines, his main hobby and in nearly all such articles could be found unique, trite sayings applicable to this proposition under discussion. Occasionally he wrote along other lines.

That Mr. VanPelt was a man of keen business ability is generally conceded, and this too, beyond the range of ordinary business men. He looked far ahead, analyzed the future and worked according to plans and a program of advanced thought, nor did he make serious mistakes in his forecast. The ultimate result of Mr. VanPelt's forethought and activities placed him to the front in the business world and financially in the capitalist class and enabled him to retire from his duties as manager-owner of a large manufacturing plant nearly a score of years ago, since which he has ridden his pet hobby—good roads—enthusiastically, energetically in the interest of the public. During these years his office was "In hotel lobbies and on porches," between times "In the saddle and on the jump." In the winter season in Florida. In the summer time "Charlevoix, the Beautiful." At other times somewhere between southern Florida and Nova Scotia. But always busy.

That he foresaw the nearing of the end of the pathway of life is evidenced by a letter written by him in Florida just a few days ago in which he stated that he did not expect to visit Charlevoix in the summer of 1928, but that he might go to Chicago and that the trip would be made in a pullman or possibly in a coffin and that the latter way in his opinion would be the cooler and most comfortable trip of the two, and some other statements showing that he was taking a philosophic view of his condition.

Mr. VanPelt, according to his custom of long standing, spent the past summer in Charlevoix, making his appearance early and remained after the close of the season, and his condition not good early in the season, failed to improve and at the close of the season his decline was pronounced and the prediction was freely made to close observers that before another season arrived "Uncle" George would enter the great unknown. Few indeed were there who anticipated seeing him again in Charlevoix and in this their views have been fully realized.

The early part of his life was spent in the Empire state. As a young man he moved to Illinois, lived in Joliet and conducted his manufacturing plant in Chicago, from which he retired some years ago. During his life's activities he saw Chicago develop from a country town into a marvelous city, exceeded in size only by one other city in the United States, and in importance of manufacture second to none. His associates were men of importance in the business world and through his activities in civic affairs he formed lasting friendships with leading men throughout the entire country. In these friendships and business associates there probably was no person of his time that had as an extended acquaintance as had "Uncle" George, who passed away at Port Orange, Florida, Wednesday, May 2, 1928, just a few days prior to his 87th birthday anniversary. This would have been on May 23.

The body was taken to Chicago for interment with the funeral service held at Roselawn chapel, Tuesday, May 8th.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Sibyl VanPelt Garnsey of Port Orange, Florida, and Mrs. Mary Vaccasovitch of Boston, Mass. and several grand children.

AT THE MOVIES

Negri Interprets New Dramatic Role

Pola Negri as the good woman who took a wrong turning is the role she plays in her latest starring picture, "Three Sinners," which comes to the Palace Theatre Friday.

A devoted wife, a fond mother, she left her home innocently bent upon visiting her sister. Then fate stepped in, diverted her footsteps into strange paths, wrecked her life and tore home and friends from her grasp.

The story of how she won back to happiness after many strange adventures is a fascinating drama told by "Three Sinners," which was adapted from the stage play "The Second Life."

Featured in support of Pola Negri are Paul Lukas, Tullio Carminati and Olga Bacanova. Rowland V. Lee directed "Three Sinners."

Stubbornness Causes Situations in Comedy

Many persons have found themselves in difficult positions through their inability to say "No" but Bebe Daniels is the latest to get into a pack of trouble because she refused to say "Yes."

The Paramount star comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday in her latest release, "The Fifty-Fifty Girl," and, although the stubborn girl runs into a great deal of grief, she at least provides giggles galore for the audience.

In the play, Miss Daniels portrays the role of a girl who is quite cold toward men and likes the world to believe that the modern woman can step into any situation and compete to good advantage with the wearers of the trousers.

BERT REINHART OF EAST JORDAN DEAD

Passed Away at Home of His Son Here
Tuesday, May 8

Bert Reinhart, Sr., passed away at the home of his son, Charles, at Charlevoix, Tuesday, May 8th, following an illness of some duration from dropsy and heart trouble.

Deceased was born in Rockford, New York, April 9, 1862, his parents being Mr. and Mrs. Alex Reinhart. When a small boy he came with his parents to Charlevoix county, locating on a farm near East Jordan. He has been a resident of East Jordan for 25 years.

In April 1891 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Maude Smith-Cibson at East Jordan.

He is survived by the wife and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. John Laviolette of Chicago; Mrs. Ida Jones of Flint; William Bert Jr.; Edith, Henry, Roy and George Reinhart of East Jordan; Jack Reinhart of Lansing; Charles Reinhart of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Gladys Wheaton of East Jordan. Also by the following brothers and sisters: John and Harvey Reinhart of Detroit; George of Traverse City, and Lyman Reinhart of Chicago; Mrs. Julia Weidenhammer of Royal Oak; Mrs. Effie Kinner of Detroit and one other sister, residence unknown.

The remains were brought to East Jordan and funeral services were held from the Latter Day Saints church, Friday afternoon, conducted by Elder Leonard Dudley. Interment at Lakeside cemetery.—East Jordan Herald.

ALDEN BANKER IS A KEROSENE VICTIM

Saves His Life by Jumping Into a Nearby Creek

Fred Aemisegger, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Alden, owes his life to the fact that the creek that flows through Alden runs within 20 or 25 feet of the rear of the bank and its banks are nearly on the level with its basement.

Monday morning Mr. Aemisegger started to rebuild the fire in the furnace in the basement of the bank, and poured kerosene oil on the dormant coals from a nearly empty oil can. The oil ignited, and the resulting explosion caused serious burns on his face, ears, neck and right hand.

With his clothing blazing like a torch Mr. Aemisegger ran from the rear door of the basement and plunged head over head into the creek. His quick thinking and acting undoubtedly saved him from a horrible death.

No damage was done to the bank building, Mr. Aemisegger getting the entire effect of the blast, as one of his greatly relieved friends expresses it.

Mr. Aemisegger is confined to his bed, with his head and one hand swathed in bandages. His eyes received no damage, and the hot he had on protected the top of his head.—Mancelona Herald.

METHODIST CHURCH

John E. Lockyer, Minister
On Sunday morning at 10:30, the pulpit will be occupied by W. C. Palmer, who preaches on the topic "Sacrifices That Pay." The pastor asks for him a loyal congregation.

The Sunday school lesson is "Jesus Teaching in the Temple."

Epworthians think about "What Can I Expect from My Job" at 6:30.

At 7:30 p. m. another interesting night is planned by the Epworth League in the form of a six-act drama entitled "Dr. Bryce's Adventure." It is a study in christian living. There are nine characters in the drama and is a full evening's program without any other feature.

Other meetings in their usual time and place.

May we call your attention to the Grand Traverse District Convention meeting in this church on Thursday at 2 p. m. and continuing through until Friday evening. Program is given elsewhere.

BOOT SHOP*PRIZES WILL TOTAL
MORE THAN $125,000

Michigan State Fair Will Award This In Premiums

Prizes totaling more than $125,000 will be awarded at the Michigan State Fair, September 2-8, the most impressive premium list in the history of the fair, according to state fair officials. Last year the prizes were approximately $107,000.

Awards for live stock, pet stock and poultry, amounting to $44,115 are included in the largest general appropriation. A prize list of $30,250, for racing and blooded horses, will attract some of the most noted horsemen and racing stables in the country. Draft and standard-bred horses are included in this total.

In order to do justice to the variety of exhibits at the fair, a visitor should devote at least one whole day and two nights to seeing the fair.

One entire afternoon alone would be necessary, before and after the vaudeville program and harness races in front of the grandstand, to properly inspect the live stock, horticultural, agricultural, dairy and commercial displays. One evening could be devoted profitably to attendance at the horse show in the coliseum, where not only Detroit society will display the cleverness and beauty of their imported saddle mounts, but where other states will send their best horses. The 21 acts of vaudeville and the fireworks spectacle—"A Night in Bagdad"—in front of the grandstand would occupy a second evening.

65 MEN AT WORK ON 31 ASPHALT JOB

Resurfacing Road at the Rate of a Mile a Week

At the rate of a mile a week, 20 miles of asphalt pavement is being laid on U. S. 31 between Traverse City and Kewadin, replacing the tarvia paving that disintegrated seriously over the winter. Traffic will detour only from 6:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m., with each day's stretch of new paving open at night.

The work is beginning at the county line and going toward Elk Rapids. When it reaches the south limits of the village it will start on the other side and proceed to Kewadin. That done, it will begin at the county line and continue toward Traverse City. It will probably be the first of July before the crews reach the Five-mile corner.

Sixty-five men are at work under James Perkins, superintendent of asphalt paving for the highway department throughout the state, and the construction is also being supervised by A. L. Burridge, district engineer of the department with headquarters at Cadillac. The construction is being done wholly by the state highway department and there is no contract work involved.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our infant son, Leon Gravelin, who passed away nine years ago today, May 17, 1919: As some sweet blossoms droop and die

When blighted in the front,
He faded from before our eyes
And all too soon was gone.
But in God's Garden, free from pain
Where grow his fairest flowers,
We know that we will find again
This vanished bloom of ours.
His father, Mother and Brother,
Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gravelin and Gerald.—Adv. 20-11 pd.

YOUR SNEEZE MAY NOT BE FROM COLD

Draft May Have Nothing to Do With the Matter—Million Particles.

WHEN you sneeze it is not always a sign you are taking cold. That is the opinion of physicians working on public health problems in the last few years. Most men and women who they feel that tickling in the nose or throat immediately look for the nearest door or window, convinced that they are sitting in a draft.

However, the draft, if there is one, may have nothing to do with the matter at all, physicians say. The unhappy one merely has inhaled a few million or so dust particles.

That may be true particularly of our cities where enough dust floats to the atmosphere in one year to build a coat-shaped mountain 1,500 feet high, with a five-mile diameter.

Some statisticians have figured it out that if all the dust that hovers above American cities were gathered to one place, say Manhattan Island, that dust would be piled up on the streets of Manhattan to the depth of 21 feet.

But one is likely to sneeze while walking along a country road, though not quite as likely as to the city. Here the dust that is raised usually comes from dirt or gravel roads. There is, however, less likelihood of this today than over before as highway officials now have at their command many methods for "binding" the top cover, particularly the use of such chemicals as calcium chloride, considered by engineers the best of dust layers.

WILL PLANT LAND TO MONTMORENCY CHERRIES

Robert W. Paddock of this city, has purchased fourteen acres of the Nicholl's estate, known locally as the Nicholl's Addition to the city of East Jordan. The land is being put under cultivation and will be planted with Montmorency cherry trees. The location of the land is near the high school building, on the east of the city, and is ideal for the purpose Mr. Paddock will use it for.

PLANS SET FOR MEMORIAL DAY

PARADE TO START AT NINE-THIRTY SHARP

Splendid Program Prepared for Exercises at Cemetery—Services at Memorial Park

Details of the Memorial Day program at the cemetery and services at Memorial Park have been completed by committees in charge, and with the cooperation of Charlevoix citizens the day will be observed in a fitting manner.

All those participating in the memorial services are requested to assemble on Park avenue west of Bridge street, not later than 9:10 a. m., as the parade will form and start promptly at 9:30, and proceed to Memorial Park, where a short but impressive service will be held to commemorate those who died upon the seas while in the service of their country. All organizations are invited to participate in the parade and those who do will find a place assigned to them.

Immediately after the service at Memorial Park the parade will continue its march to the cemetery, where the program outlined below will be given to commemorate the memory of our heroic dead. Commander Atchison of the American Legion will be in charge of the parade and services as officer of the day.

Program

Invocation—Rev. B. G. Mattson.
Music—High school and city bands.
Floral tribute—American Legion Post.

School children's exercises.
Music—Legion quartette.
Ritualistic Work—Baxter Post, W. R. C.

Memorial Address—Chaplain J. E. Lockyer, V. S. R.
"The Star Spangled Banner"—By audience.

Salute to the Dead—Taps.
Raising of the Flag.
Benediction—Rev. George Pyle.

With possibly minor changes, the above program will be carried out next Wednesday. It is the duty of all citizens to be present.

All churches will unite in a union memorial service at the Baptist church on Sunday, May 27, at 10:30 a. m. The address will be delivered by Rev. Herman Burns. Spanish war veterans and members of the American Legion and their auxiliaries, and other patriotic organizations will meet with the G. A. R. and W. R. C. in the annual observance of Memorial Sunday. All war veterans, whether members of the Legion or not, are requested to attend.

HIGH SCHOOL GOLF MEET HERE FRIDAY

Petoskey and Harbor Springs to Meet
Local School Team

The Charlevoix high school golf team, entered last Friday in the regional tournament at Traverse City, took fourth place with a total score of 391 for the four men playing 18 holes.

Manatee won the meet with the low score of 351. Others in their order were Traverse City 372, Cadillac, 387, Charlevoix 391, Petoskey 405. On Wednesday afternoon of this week the local team is competing in a triangular meet between Petoskey and Harbor Springs at the Bay View course. Friday afternoon Petoskey and Harbor come here for an 18-hole match at the Belvedere Golf Club course. George Beeman is in charge of the tournament, with other local men as score keepers.

Next week another meet will be held at Harbor Springs. Charlevoix's team is composed of Lyle Beaudoin, Billy Supernaw, Robert McCall and Charles Bloch. Competitive golf in Northern Michigan high schools is gaining interest each year.

EASTPORT FOLKS TO HAVE A NEW CHURCH

Entire Community United in One Congregation for Worship

Eastport broke ground Sunday for a new community church. A special program was given and Rev. William S. Ross of Petoskey, was the main speaker at the service, which was in charge of Rev. Herman Burns of the Charlevoix Baptist church.

Eastport has been worshipping together in a federated church for a number of years. Three churches, united and were first supplied by Rev. A. L. Allard of the Central Lake Congregational church. The pulpit is now being, and has for some time, been filled by Rev. Herman Burns of Charlevoix. The work had grown to such an extent that a new church was necessary.

The services Sunday were held in a school house joining the site for the new building. The program opened with a short devotional service, following which the lot was staked off and the first shovel of dirt turned. This was followed by an address and fitting exercises.

MISSIONARY CON- VENTION SUCCESS

DELEGATES SPEAK HIGHLY OF MEETING HELD HERE

Election of Mrs. Martin Block as District Treasurer Only Change in Roster of Officers

If you take the word of outside convention officers, then the recent conference of the Woman's Missionary Society of Grand Traverse district, held at the Methodist church, was the best thus far held by them. In numbers, interest, quality of meetings and cooperation of local people this series was of high order.

Mrs. E. E. Luce, national field secretary, was a capable speaker and made valuable contributions to the missionary work. Her address Friday evening to the Queen Esther at the banquet hour, was especially noteworthy.

The Indian singing was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Greensky of Bay Shore, sang delightfully in her solo and a choir of Greensky Hill Indians sang several Indian hymns. Rev. J. B. and Mrs. Silas, Indian leaders of Mt. Pleasant, also sang during the conference. An address on the responsibility of today's citizens in the light of broken contracts with Indians of earlier days was a great piece of enlightenment to all present.

Mrs. V. A. Baker, well known Charlevoix, was most interesting with her "Tales of An Old Campaigner," which were original and personal experiences.

To have been present at the young people's banquet Friday evening with its youthful yells, peppy songs and fun poking wit was a rare treat. Over one hundred and twenty sat down to a delicious meal served by the Ladies' Aid.

Doubtless the high spot of the convention was when Miss Jaunita Leonard mounted her pedestal to lead about forty young people in a most colorful pageant, "The Story of America's Hour." Every person fittingly costumed to represent her nationality, with lines well learned and well spoken and colored footlights with spotlight produced a presentation which any bunch of 40 people were enthusiastic in applause and unstinting in praise.

In the election of officers Mrs. Martin Block became treasurer for the district, which was the only change made. The delegates much enjoyed their ride around Charlevoix and thank our business men and friends for the courtesy of the use of cars.

"MAC" MCCARTHY BACK AT BLOCK'S MARKET

J. M. "Mac" McCarthy, one of the latest arrivals among our numerous residents who spend the winter in Florida, arrived in Charlevoix Monday from St. Petersburg. "Mac" will carve steaks and roasts in the Martin Block meat market during the summer season. "There is no place in the U. S. like Charlevoix, especially during the summer months," says "Mac." "I have just been itching to take a whirl at those big lake trout you are getting here." A couple of years ago he made an exceptional catch of the lake beauties and of course now he thinks he is some homebody with hook and line.

FORMER RESIDENT DIED IN THE WEST

MRS. A. M. BURDICK DIED AT HOME IN ALAMO, CALIF.

Deceased Was Charter Member of Ironton Congregational Church—
Active Fraternally

Charlevoix citizens will read with regret the following article, taken from the Martinez Daily Standard, Martinez, California, concerning the death of Mrs. A. M. Burdick, a former resident of Charlevoix:

"Gertrude Jane Burdick died at her home in Alamo on April 23, 1928, at 1 p. m. She was born in Indiana, on February 1, 1866.

"Mrs. Burdick was the wife of A. M. Burdick of Alamo and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bradley, of Harbor Springs, Michigan, and sister of Elmer Bradley, Harbor Springs; Mrs. J. W. Bunn, Springfield, Mo.; Emerson Bradley, Los Angeles; and Mrs. C. E. Griffith, Corcoran, and a niece of Mrs. E. L. Burdick, Walnut Creek; Mrs. C. W. Johnson, Berkeley, and Mrs. M. W. Linpe, of Battle Creek, Michigan.

"Mrs. Burdick was a charter member of the Congregational church in Ironton, Michigan. She came to California with her husband and settled at Alamo 14 years ago. She became identified with the Presbyterian church of Danville, and her funeral services were conducted in that edifice by Rev. John Steuthehl, pastor, assisted by Charles Woodward of Alamo, friend of the family.

"Interment took place in Alamo cemetery and a wealth of beautiful floral offerings testified to the love and esteem of a multitude of friends. The Harlan chapel of Walnut Creek was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

"Mrs. Burdick was a member of Alamo Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of Walnut Creek, and Danville Rebekah Lodge. She was active in the W. C. T. U., and in the Danville Grange.

"Fall bearers were Charles Love, Elmer Baldwin, Frank Marianna and Will Stewart of Danville; W. A. Cross and J. A. Bennett of Alamo.

Mrs. Burdick had been ill quite some time before her death and was a patient sufferer. Her passing is mourned by a wide circle of friends to whom she was endeared by her beautiful Christian character. A kindly and sympathetic disposition, a general nature, a charitable understanding for the ills of others, and an active interest in the affairs of the community in which she resided made her widely beloved.

Mr. Burdick, during his residence in Charlevoix, operated a grocery store at the corner of Aattrim and Grant streets and occupied the dwelling adjoining. Mr. and Mrs. Burdick left Charlevoix about 14 years ago. They had many close friends here who will learn with sorrow of the death of Mrs. Burdick.

CHARLEVOIX WILL KEEP CENTRAL STANDARD TIME

At least 236 Charlevoix voters are satisfied to arise and retire on the same schedule which has been in effect for several years. In fact, the proposition to change from standard to so-called fast time had but 93 supporters, while 236 voted against it. The vote would indicate that the proposition was not of city-wide interest, but was entirely largely by those directly affected.

BOYNE CITY PHYSI- CIAN DIES SUDDENLY

Stricken While on a Visit to Petoskey Hospital

Dr. Harry E. Shaver was stricken with death Tuesday evening while visiting the Lockwood hospital in Petoskey. The news of his sudden death shocked his large number of friends in this and the neighboring cities. He had complained of not feeling well for several days, but improved and was at no time confined to his room. Dr. Shaver came to Boyne City in 1900 and therefore was the oldest in point of service of the physicians located here. He was born in Stratford, Ontario, in 1878, educated in physician and surgeon at the Toronto University and soon came to Boyne City. In his earlier years he was a baseball enthusiast. In 1902 he joined the Masonic order in this city and later became a Chapter Master and was a regular attendant. He was a bachelor. He is survived by one sister who resides in Alberta and two brothers who make their homes in Toronto. The Masonic bodies have charge of the funeral arrangements.—Boyne Citizen.

AGED IRONTON RESIDENT DEAD

FUNERAL CONDUCTED SATUR-
DAY BY REV. B. G. MATTSON

Mrs. Charlotte E. Williams Was Nearly Eighty Years Old—
Church Crowded at Funeral

Mrs. Charlotte E. Williams was but a few weeks short of eighty years of age when she passed away Wednesday, May 16, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George McMullin of Ironton.

Evidence of the high regard and affection with which this noble pioneer woman was regarded was shown by the large company who attended her funeral, which took place in the Ironton church, conducted by her pastor, Rev. B. G. Mattson. The church building was not large enough to hold the people who were present, the center of the auditorium being reserved for the large number of relatives. Music was rendered by a quartette of intimate family friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. George Block of Barnard. Interment was in the family lot in the Barnard cemetery.

Charlotte E. Burns was born in Holland county, at Gray, Canada, June 4, 1848. She came to Charlevoix with her parents, at the age of fifteen. She was married in 1864 to Richard Williams, who died some ten years ago. To this union were born twelve children, nine of whom survive, viz: George of St. Ignace; Annie, Mrs. Geo. McMullin, of Ironton; Frank of Winnipeg, Canada; Walter of Detroit; Charlotte, Mrs. James Tumath of Charlevoix; William of Sioux Lookout, Canada; Alfred of Ironton; Mamie, Mrs. Samuel Straw, Marion township; and Pierce of Detroit. A son, Edward, died in 1924 in Florida, and two died in infancy. All the children were present except Frank and William.

This noble "Mother in Israel" also leaves twenty-eight grand children and six great-grand children. Four brothers and two sisters also survive here: George Burns, Charlevoix; William Burns, Barnard; Nassau Burns, Plainwell; Edward Burns, Florida.

METROPOLITAN NEWS- PAPER MEN HERE SUNDAY

Guests of Association of Commerce at Luncheon

The 2nd annual tour of metropolitan newspapermen, automobile editors of leading dailies of the middle western states, were guests of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce at luncheon in the dining room of the Hotel Charlevoix Sunday morning.

Robert Bridge, president of the Association of Commerce, welcomed the party. Short talks were given by several of the newspapermen and the party left after a sightseeing trip around the city.

The tour, which is now an annual event, is sponsored by the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association. Secretary Hugh J. Gray and Field Secretary Blakely headed the tour. All expenses are paid by the association and in turn the newspaper men gather material and publish write-ups in their papers about the trip, giving Michigan advertising in some of the leading dailies of the middle west.

LOCAL PASTOR HIGHLY HONORED

REV. B. G. MATTSON, D. D.,
CHOSEN FOR HIGH POST

Michigan Congregational Conference
Elected Him Moderator at Its 86th Annual Meeting

The Michigan Congregational conference at its 86th annual meeting held at Alpena May 15 to 17, elected Rev. B. G. Mattson, D. D., as moderator for the ensuing year. Dr. Mattson is pastor of the First Congregational church of Charlevoix, and has been an active leader in Michigan Congregational affairs since he came to the state thirteen years ago as pastor of the First Congregational church at Owosso. Previous to coming to Charlevoix three years ago, he held a pastorate of over three years with the Congregational church of Mun-steen.

Rev. B. G. Mattson, D. D.

Dr. Mattson's active interest in Congregational affairs beyond the bounds of the local parish has been evidenced by his service on the state board of trustees of the conference and its executive committee. In connection with his election as moderator he was re-elected to the board of trustees for the ensuing term of three years.

While serving as president of the board in 1926 he accepted a special appointment as supervisor of city extension work for two years in the work of laying foundations for a larger program of expansion of the Congregational activities in Detroit and other rapidly growing city centers of the state.

Dr. Mattson was educated at Oberlin College, Ohio and Andover Theological seminary, Massachusetts. In 1913 he was granted the degree of Doctor of Divinity by Yankton College, Yankton, South Dakota, where he held a successful pastorate in active connection with the life of the college for seven years.

CHARLEVOIX FOLKS MEET IN FLINT

Help Observe Birthday of Ned Durance

Monday evening, May 14th, a bunch of Charlevoix people gathered at the Durance home on Eldridge avenue in Flint to surprise Ned and help him celebrate his birthday.

The evening was spent in playing five hundred and after refreshments were served the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Halverson, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Ray I. MacArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Breese, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hall, Miss Cora Driggett and Marshall Aekert, presented Ned with two golf clubs, (a nice start toward that set he hopes to have some day.)

Ned has decided, since basketball proved so unlucky for him, to take up golf. Maybe he can get that arm straightened out and back to normal quicker.

PICKLES ARE A PRACTICAL CROP

SHOULD BE PLANTED IN JUNE IN SANDY LOAM SOIL

Thinning an Important Factor in Their Growth—Cash Returns Come Early in Fall

The correct and practical accomplishment of any objective always necessitates following a correct and practical course. This is, true in growing pickles the same as in growing any other crop and when pickles are handled along right lines, they are not a hard crop—in fact are easier than many.

Soil

Sandy loam soil is best and if this is available it should be selected. A rich sandy loam with clay sub-soil is ideal, but good crops of pickles may be grown on light sandy soils or on heavy loam soils when proper seed-bed preparation is given. Land that is level is preferred, but if the farm is hilly, then slope toward the east or south should be chosen. The soil must be well drained, for pickles like any other crop will not thrive on wet sour soils.

Soil Preparation

Either late fall plowing or early spring plowing are best. When plowed in April or early in May, the soil for pickles can be well prepared, by dragging once each week up until planting time in June. This keeps down weeds and grass and pulverizes and settles the surface soil so the moisture will be retained. Two weeks before planting time, the soil may be top-dressed by scattering broadcast from 4 to 6 loads of well-rotted barnyard manure per acre. And to make an even better foundation, 250 pounds of acid phosphate may be added and both of these should then be well worked into the soil. Some growers also add commercial fertilizer. If this is used a 4-6-8 or 2-10-4 formula is good and 500 pounds per acre may be profitably used, broadcasting it and working it thoroughly into the soil about two weeks before planting time. However, if soil is in good condition and has a good supply of organic matter, it will grow good pickles without the extra use of these materials.

Planting

Pickles are planted in June, usually about the 5th or 10th, but some growers delay planting until the 15th or even 20th and have good results. It is best in the majority of cases to plant not earlier than June 1st and not later than June 15th.

The easier and better way to plant seed is to cross-mark the soil with an ordinary corn marker which usually marks 3 1/2 feet apart. In this way the squares will be 3 1/2 feet each way. Every SECOND mark or row is used one way and EVERY MARK OR CROSS is used the other way. This makes the hills 3 1/2 feet apart in the row, and the rows just 7 feet apart. The way to plant is to draw a hoe through the cross, making a flat level space about 3 inches below the top of the ground and 6 inches square. Scatter 4 or 5 or 6 seeds over this space so they will not be bunched together. Then cover with 1 or 1 1/2 inches of MOIST earth. The space opened with the hoe was 3 inches deep, and the soil covering is 1 or 1 1/2 inches deep so there will be a slight soil depression above the seeds. This is desired to help retain moisture and to aid in more rapid germination of the seeds. Planting this way permits cross-cultivation both ways, using a drag between rows and a cultivator across the field between hills. Care must be used to avoid deep cultivation, for the roots are close to the soil surface and are as delicate and as easily injured by deep cultivation as rootlets of corn.

Thinning

Thinning is one of the most important factors. If this is done right it makes the crop a practical one on large as well as small farms. The old idea of thick vines and hard work has long been done away with by large farmers in the central states. Successful farmers on the larger farms have learned that when pickles are rightly thinned they are as easily handled as potatoes and that they do not need extra help to grow this cash crop. Many large farmers now count on 2 or 3 acres of pickles regularly each year—make 12 to 14 pickings through the season and realize a real cash income during August and early September when their other farm crops are still growing.

They give pickles TWO thinnings. First, when the plants have reached the size of 5 or 6 leaves, they CUT OFF the weaker plants, leaving 2 or 3 healthy ones in each hill. And second, when these two or three have developed to a length of 18 to 24 inches, they again CUT OFF the weaker plants, leaving JUST ONE plant in each hill. This one plant may look a little lonesome for the first week, but it will soon develop into a strong, healthy, evenly-balanced vine with many side branches. The more branches the greater the bearing surface, for it is THE ENDS of the branches that bear the good pickles. In thinning, an ordinary house shears or sheep shears is used to clip off the vine near the ground. It is not necessary to pull it away, for it will soon die where it is. The plants SHOULD NEVER BE PULLED OUT WHEN THINNING.

In this way, the one vine develops to be a well-balanced and well rounded plant with numerous branches and sub-branches. It does not grow out long and slender as it is forced to do when the vines are thick, but it grows evenly like the sturdy oak that develops into a well balanced tree when it grows unhindered in an open

I WISH you could have come out last time, Jane," said Nancy, as they drove to the home of a Kitchen Club member. "We worked out the most adorable color scheme for Mrs. Collins' kitchen. That's the place we are going this afternoon, to see how she's finished it up, and to get some new recipes. There's an inside story to her kitchen which will explain some of the things you see there."

"Mr. and Mrs. Collins have just recently married. He was a widower with the worst little boy you ever saw. Mrs. Collins is one of those motherly souls who can't let anything go hungry. Stray cat, tramp or whatever it is, it gets fed if it goes to her. She hasn't said anything about it. But we all think that her real reason for fixing up her kitchen is to get hold of that boy. Her theory seems to be that if she can make him comfortable and feed him properly, he won't be such a problem."

LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

Mrs. Collins' kitchen is really beautiful. She has tinted the walls a delicate gray, woodwork white. Black and white tiled linoleum on the floor. Refrigerator and table, white. Kitchen cabinet, delicate gray. Sink and oil range in white porcelain enamel. White Swiss sash curtains with red dots! Coffee, sugar, flour, salt and other containers lacquered red. There's a red geranium in the window that completes the color scheme. It worked out beautifully!

Mrs. Collins has the prettiest oil range I ever saw. It is all white porcelain enamel, with a design and burner arrangement like a modern gas range. She says she uses simply a damp cloth to clean it. I want a range like it!

Red Containers

These were all home-made, Mrs. Collins says. She took old coffee cans, lard cans, etc., and lacquered them herself. The lacquer dried almost at once, but she aired the cans before using them.

"And I thought I was red!" Blackboard on Wall

This was put in especially for the boy, so that Mrs. Collins could help him get his lessons. She has it on a corner wall, with a good light near it and a table. Now he can have doughnuts with his lessons! Mrs. Collins uses the board, too, to make notes of groceries she needs to order.

Fruit Mousse

Large can fruit salad
Pint of cream
2 1/2 cups of sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pour off juice and chop fruit. Add sugar, cream and vanilla. Pack in freezer and chill for two to three hours. Dish is good without chilling; but if served this way, use less sugar.
The fruit mousse was served with the "Crisps" described below.

"Crisps"

3 eggs
Flour enough to make stiff dough
Pinch of soda
Cinnamon or nutmeg
Powdered sugar
Beat eggs thoroughly. Add flour sifted with soda. Roll thin as paper. Cut out with large saucer. Fry delicate brown in deep, boiling hot fat. Drain on paper or cloth. Sift powdered sugar and cinnamon or nutmeg over each crisp.

"Crisps" are wonderfully light.

Mrs. Collins' cooking vessels look like snow. She says the outside of them doesn't get dirty since she has a long-chimney oil stove. She uses a long-handled wire cloth mop on the inside of the vessels.

New Fruit Drink

Take the juice from a can of fruit salad, or from a can of pears, peaches, apricots, pineapple or cherries. Mix with juice of one lemon and two oranges. Four cups water. Sugar to taste. Serve in glasses with sprig of mint.

Mrs. Collins says the boy often comes in with hands so badly chapped she can hardly get them clean. She puts a handful of meal, with soap shavings, into a pan of warm water. After he soaks his hands in that for awhile, they come out clean and with the skin much soothed.

BEAVER ISLAND NEWS

RESOLUTION

Without the resolution in your hearts to do good work, so long as your right hands have motion in them, and to do it whether the issue be that you die or live, no life, worthy the name will ever be possible to you; while in once forming the resolution that your work is to be well done, life is really won, here and forever.—John Ruskin.

PUBLIC CAN HELP

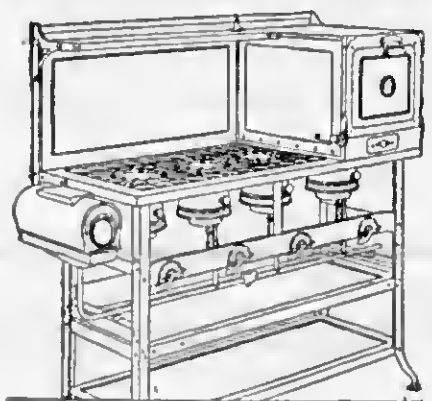

Michigan is about to engage in an accident-prevention campaign. Human life is far too costly to throw away through carelessness. Besides the motorist who drives his car when it is not mechanically fit for the roads, there is the fellow who persists in taking chances at rail crossings despite the repeated warnings seat out against indulging in this practice.

The fact that there has been a considerable decrease in grade crossing accidents, notwithstanding the large increase in highway travel, speaks well of the vigor with which the railroads have carried on their safety campaigns. They have left nothing undone to give the traveling public sufficient warning of dangers, and large amounts of money have been spent in the elimination of grade crossings, a work that must go on for years before all dangers of this kind are eliminated.

The public has been cautioned repeatedly to be on the lookout at grade crossings, and the reduced number of accidents shows the extent of co-operation with the railroads in their campaigns for safety, but still chances are taken by motorists whose recklessness and defiance of warnings were responsible for the fatalities that occurred last year. Responsibility for grade crossing accidents rest largely upon highway travelers who can do much more to reduce the number of accidents.

A WISE PUBLISHER

Speaking a little further of Benjamin Franklin, he was a wise and cautious newspaper man. He did not look for trouble. He knew that under normal conditions a publisher had enough trouble without looking for more.

Those who wrote him letters, asking that he do some reforming were advised to pay the postage and not send their messages collect. He advised upon all manner of subjects, military, civic, diplomatic and domestic. Here is a sample of the correspondence of his day.

A lady complained on her married state as follows:

Sir: Seeing that you are set up to reform the age, I hope you will omit nothing that I shall contribute to so good a work. I suppose you will think it is as reasonable to publish the complaints of our sex as those of the other, unless you think that women have no souls.

Now then, that my husband (who has had liberal education) is a cross, ill-natured fellow, who beats and abuses me at an intolerable rate; and one time, in particular, after much ill treatment, he threw me into a pond. He is perpetually at the taverns, sitting and drinking flip, and setting people at variance. I truly say, it is for the good of his soul and body that I publish this letter.

He is a man whom nature has remarkably stigmatized and if he don't mend quickly, I shall give an account of him which will not be at all pleasing to him.

To which Mr. Franklin made the following reply, in which he has set a good example, both for the press and the public.

My female correspondent in the foregoing letter expresses her condition in her own way, and I shall do her justice to insert it verbatim. But if she intends to make a reformer of me, she will do well to write post paid on her letters for the future, for I don't intend to reform the age at my own charge.

THREE BIG WEEKS

While we are observing nearly every kind of a week, from apple to health and from forest to home, this newspaper would like to suggest about three more. We do not expect that these suggestions will be acted upon, because they are too practical, too personal. People like to do things that are abstract, rather than definite.

"Be Good to Your Wife Week" would be a very practical observance. Try it for a week on a nation wide basis and there would be millions of happy women. We could make many pertinent suggestions. Bring home some candy, some flowers. Give her an extra dollar or two, all for herself. Suggest a new dress, or a little trip or better yet, get the dress and make the trip. Be as kind and nice as you were before you were married.

Why not have a "Pay Your Bills Week?" Many would respond that they did not have enough money to pay all their bills. But if we all had what we had spent most of our obligations would be removed. Such a week would be a grand period. Men in business would find many of their worries lifted. Individuals, even with the world, would go at things with new hope and courage. Creditors would be greeted with a smile. Everyone would be happy and it would be one of the best weeks in the nation's history.

"Get Rid of Bad Habits Week" is another suggestion. If you counted up your faults you would be surprised at the really large number that you possessed. Many of them could be eliminated with a little attention. Maybe some could be corrected in a week, but to think about them for a few days might lead to later action. Everybody knows many important changes he could make in himself if he had to do things over again. A little thoughtfulness, a little attention will eliminate most of the faults that are not too fundamental. Of course if you are naturally mean and lazy a week's reflection will not correct such a condition. But look around yourself and you will find enough that you can remedy with reasonable attention. If you wish further instructions simply read Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography. That will tell you how a very wise man eliminated some of his faults and habits.

HELP MAKE TRAVEL SAFE

Michigan is about to launch the greatest accident-prevention campaign in the history of the automotive industry. Beginning on Friday, May 10, the Michigan Safety council, headed by Governor Fred W. Green, is starting a drive that will continue until June 30, urging that all motorists see to it that all mechanical imperfections in their cars are eliminated, that they pay strict attention to traffic rules and in other ways dedicate themselves to the task of reducing the number of traffic accidents in this state.

This is a state-wide campaign that is well worth while. It will have the heartly cooperation of every motorist who not only values his own life, but who is considerate of the safety of the traveling public. It is high time that a campaign of this nature was put under way. The toll of motor accidents has grown to enormous proportions in recent years. This can be cut down by recognizing some of the simple safety measures that will be stressed during this campaign. Mayors of cities, presidents of villages, police chiefs and all other law enforcement bodies will assist in the campaign. With an automobile for every five persons traffic problems are growing by leaps and bounds, this mostly by the pedestrians. Every citizen will have his part in this movement. Let's make our highways safe to travel.

COST OF LIVING

The general level of wholesale prices in March was slightly lower than in February, according to information collected in representative markets by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor. The bureau's weighted index number, computed on prices in the year 1926 as the base and including 550 commodities or price series, stands at 96.0 for March, compared with 96.4 for February, a decrease of nearly one-half of one per cent. Compared with March, 1927, with an index number of 94.5 an increase of 1½ per cent is shown. Farm products as a group declined nearly one per cent from the February level, due largely to price decrease for cattle, eggs and tobacco. Grains, cotton, hay and potatoes, on the other hand, were higher than in February.

VISITORS DAY AT SCHOOL A SUCCESS

Many Parents Viewed Excellent Displays Shown Last Friday

Visitors Day at the Charlevoix public schools last Friday afternoon was a decided success, judging from the interest manifested and the number of parents who took the opportunity to visit the schools and view the work done by the students during the year.

Each grade room and all departments of the high school had a splendid display, showing specimens of work done by the students during the past year. Black-boards and walls were utilized for the displays, which included specimens of penmanship, maps, drawings, mounted cuttings, algebra and geometry propositions, etc., all of which reflected much credit to the students. A very fine display of dresses and other articles of wearing apparel was shown in the domestic science department, members of that class also serving coffee and sandwiches during the afternoon.

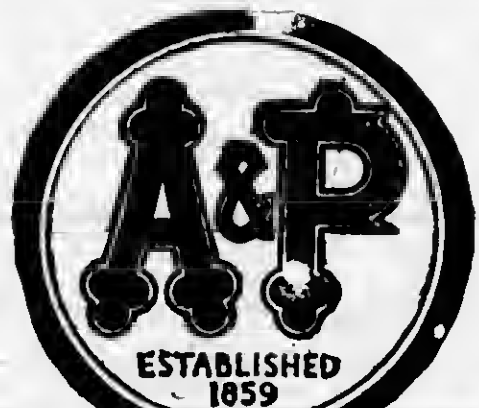

A full afternoon could have been profitably spent viewing the different specimens on display, and, at the same time, visits of this kind to the school give the parents a chance to become better acquainted with the instructors, get a better idea of the work done by their children and incidentally create a closer relationship between the parents and schools. Parents are always welcome and are urged to visit the schools at any time.

Card of Thanks

KIDS

THE CURSE OF THE EGYPTIAN DREAMSTONE

(By D. J. Walsh.)

WE'RE very happy—Viola and I. In fifteen years of married life our portion had been health, peace and fair competence.

In summer time our small house was a bower of fragrant beauty and in the winter the trying place of warmth and good cheer.

Then there was Lotus, our only daughter. The artist painted her as gazing dreamily into the future, with the tiny dimpled hand holding her lacy gown against her right shoulder, her only ornament being a peculiar brooch with a large emerald gleaming from its dull, old-fashioned gold setting.

It was a conceit of Viola's to have her painted thus, to show the soft round neck and arms, but Lotus herself had cried for the emerald brooch. The ornament always held a curious fascination for her. When all else failed to amuse, she would tease for it, and sit in the sunshine turning it round and round, so that the light would sparkle and scintillate from its many facets. Then she would laugh with glee at the warmth and beauty of its radiance.

"See, mamma!" she cried one day, "my emerald is happy; it laughs when I laugh, and when I think sad things about poor, little hungry children, it grows dull, and does not shine. Let me wear it on my collar, just for a little while."

"I am afraid you might lose it, Lotus," her mother answered, tenderly stroking the dusky curls.

"I will be very careful, mamma! I play it is a dreamstone, and we have such good times together. Please, mamma, dear!"

"I would not allow it," I said sharply, looking up from my paper.

Viola laughed.

"It is only a childish fancy," she pleaded. "What possible harm can it do?" and, kissing the child, she fastened the brooch on the lace collar.

Lotus ran happily out to her play. Soon there was a sob from the direction of the porch. We both turned to see a forlorn little figure awaiting our notice.

"I have broken the brooch, mamma," she said in a whisper. "I was climbing the cherry tree when I slipped, and, see, mamma, the emerald is sorry, too, for all the glow has gone."

I took the trinket in my hand. Sure enough, its green radiance had vanished and it seemed to me that the jewel sent a baleful gleam. It was not injured, only loosened in its setting.

"We will put this away, Viola," I said firmly. "If Lotus curses for this banish she may have it on her eighteenth birthday, but for the present I shall lock it up."

Time flies, and before Viola and I could realize it Lotus had grown into a tall, slender girl with a face for which men do and dare. It was with anxiety that her mother and I watched the growing attachment of Lotus and Raymond Birkley. They had been playmates since they were children. We had no personal objection to him, only I wanted the young chap to show his mettle before we gave him our pet.

Besides, Lotus was too young—altogether too young. Her eighteenth birthday was still a month distant.

We were planning a party and dance in honor of the event and she was bubbling over with girlish enthusiasm.

"Papa," she said to me one day, coming up to me in her sweet, coaxing way, "do you wish me to tell you what I want for a birthday present?"

"What is it, dear?" I asked, pinching her soft cheek and dreading lest it be something connected with Raymond.

"Just this, daddy; that you redeem your promise and restore to me the emerald brooch."

I brought out the velvet case and together we examined its contents. I felt the old feeling of repugnance arise at the sight of the jewel. Lotus went wild over it.

"Well, take it," I said, not very graciously, "but the emerald is loose. You must have it fixed. Better take it to Brandt. He's a queer old duffer, but knows his business as few men do nowadays."

In the hearty hug and kiss, which were my thanks, I was somewhat mollified, but the feeling of uneasiness remained.

A couple of days later I dropped my wrist watch and stopped in to leave it for repairs. The old man was willing and bent and he looked at me curiously.

"Where did you get that emerald brooch?" he asked abruptly.

I briefly told him that I had bought it in Egypt many years ago.

"It is a dreamstone," he said slowly. I started. "A what?"

"A dreamstone—one of the priceless message gems of remote ages. For so many centuries it has been unused as a medium of communication that its accumulated power is almost beyond belief. I myself feel—"

"And the message?" I asked eagerly. I had all but completed my interpretation of the stone when I took the jewel to the window to more accurately catch the refraction of the light from its superior facets. Accidentally I pressed a tiny, hidden spring, and a tiny bit of parchment rolled out. By means of a powerful lens I deciphered the dreamstone:

This Dreamstone, of Fate
The Prince of Dreams to Lotus.
The Oldstone, the Echoing Call of the Waters,
Down through the Falls of the Ages,
Down to the Soul of the Maiden.

"The date and language of the parchment are those of ancient Egypt during the reign of King Tut, and how far the message of the emerald antedates this translation is uncertain. The name 'Lotus' is probably just a coincidence. But may I ask whether you have ever noticed that the stone has any effect upon your daughter?"

"Nothing more than she has always admired it, used to fancy that it reflected her words. Strange; she christened it the dreamstone years ago."

"The device she did," Brandt said, straightening up, "I don't like this message. If that jewel were mine I'd drop it in the ocean."

"I have promised that she should wear it once. After that I will take care of the uncanny thing myself."

The night of the party came and when Lotus stood before me, charming in her gown of orchid chiffon, there was an indescribable change in her. I missed the sparkle from her dark eyes and in its place was the old-time dreamy expression of the miniature. I looked at the emerald. It glowed like a green blaze.

The guests came and with them Raymond Birkley. It was only too evident that, for him, the world only held one girl—and that was Lotus. They were a handsome couple as they glided through a waltz and many an eye followed with admiring glances.

They paused by a French window and in apparent response to a suggestion from him they peered out upon the lawn.

Viola followed them with a troubled look and a strange fear came over me. I walked to an open door. In the moonlight I could see my darling leaning on the wooden railing of the river embankment which footed our grounds.

Even as I looked I saw the railing give way—saw a flash of draperies and heard a shrill, girlish scream, then a splash and after that it is all confusion in my memory—a dream of horror.

I remember they brought the dripping form into the reception room, where now was the silence of death. I remember Raymond and the doctor worked over her, with the water streaming from her hair and dress—worked with set jaws and grim determination.

"The work of that accursed emerald," I groaned and glancing at the front of her dress I saw that it was gone.

"She will live!" I shouted. "The emerald curse is gone. Open your eyes, Lotus. Come back to us." Come, little girl, come," I entreated.

They thought the shock had turned my brain; but there was an expectant pause, in which even Raymond half joined.

"Thank heaven, there was a fluttering sigh, a quiver of the eyelids, and our darling opened her eyes; and we knew that her life's pendulum had not ceased to vibrate."

"Yes—I am—coming," she murmured—"the water's here."

"No, Lotus, no!" I cried suddenly; "the doctor and Raymond have saved you for us, and for himself. Is it not so?"

She looked wonderingly at me—and then at him, and into her eyes came the light that only shines for one man. Regardless of us all, he stooped and kissed the sweet lips, into which the color was slowly ebbing.

She had quite recovered, and we walked out into the morning sunshine to watch the carpenter repair the railing. I was thinking of the brooch. She had not mentioned the ornament since that night, and Raymond, in whom I had confided its history, had advised letting her be the first to speak of it.

"It is curious, papa," she said suddenly, "but that night as I stood there it seemed to me as if the emerald brooch changed to a warm, clinging hand, which drew me over toward the river. I could hear the murmur of distant falls, and the echo seemed to say: 'The river's bride. The river's bride.' Then the railing broke, and—you know the rest."

"Yes, Lotus," I said gravely. "I know that a good true chap saved you from a watery grave. Perhaps the fastening on the brooch was weakened with age. I am glad it is gone."

"Yes, I, too, am glad it is gone," she said simply.

"You shall have the largest cameo that Brandt can get for you, and for your wedding present a string of pearls."

"Oh, papa, an electric range would be more practical."

And Lotus gave such a ringing laugh—a laugh so contagious, so like her own sunny self—that in the happiness of her restoration I forgave Raymond for urging an early wedding day.

Kansas State College to Study About Feeds

The Kansas State Agricultural college is co-operating with 25 other states in what probably is the most thorough research problem dealing with meat as a food that ever has been undertaken, college officials at Manhattan believe. The Kansas experiment station has as its part of the research a study into the effect of feed on color, texture and palatability of meat.

Corn-fed cattle, the experiment shows, bring higher prices than grass-fed cattle although the two classes may be in the same condition. The carcasses of grass-fed steers are darker and will deteriorate more easily with age than will the carcasses of corn-fed animals. Steers need in the experiment are representative animals selected from a group of more than 500 Texas steers. They have been grazed on the Aye ranch southeast of Manhattan. The studies are still being conducted.

Hipped Horse and Cow Are Always Unightly

What is commonly called the hip in a cow, horse or mule is a projection of one of the pelvic bones and is technically known as the external angle of the ilium to which is attached a muscle that runs from there down to the upper front part of the stifle. Horses or cows may be struck with a club or pitchfork handle or the horse or cow may run against the side of a door or post or stall or tree and break off part of the bone. The muscle pulls this part downward and it can never be pulled back where it could unite as other fractured bones unite. Hence the hip or haunch remains depressed and flat. At first the horse or cow may be lame. With rest the lameness disappears in a few days or a week and the animal is able to do work and thus remains unightly but able to do regular slow farm or road work.

Soy Bean Hay Superior for Finishing Lambs

When red clover hay is valued at $16 a ton, soy bean hay is worth $22.89 for lambs. This is the conclusion reached at the Iowa experiment station by John M. Edward, C. C. Culbertson and other workers. Forcing the lambs to eat the coarse stems reduced the value of the hay. Grinding the hay did not pay. Slightly more than one-fifth of the whole hay was refused by the lambs.

Soy bean hay also produced a good finish and the soy bean lots outdressed the clover lambs. However, the lambs fed soy bean hay showed a greater shrink in shipping and a higher shipping cost. The results indicate clearly that when soy bean hay of good quality is available, it may be used efficiently in lamb feeding.

The annual inspection for disease is one of the most important operations in the orchard.

Make out your order for fruit trees, selecting varieties adapted to your section, and place the order with a reliable nursery.

Perhaps peach tree borers get choked on the name "Paradichlorobenzene." Anyway it does the work when properly applied.

Warning

Boys from Charlevoix are trespassing on our property and besides doing considerable damage to trees, shrubbery and fencing, are proving themselves a nuisance. This practice must be stopped or we will be compelled to prosecute. Parents are asked to warn their boys to this effect. Please do not force us to resort to the law. Orchard Bay Farm, E. J. With special sport equipment, no smarter car than this Smart as a racing craft to begin with. Long and low... with rakish, youthful lines. But with special sport equipment... it's even smarter. The peer of any car in its class.

Six wire wheels... their colors contrasting with body shades. Spares carried jauntily forward in special fender wells. A trunk rack behind... suggesting a series of week-end journeys. There's real style, if you ever saw it. There's swank... snap... personality.

Add to all this the charm of bodies by Fisher. The deep-cushioned comfort and luxury that Fisher bodies provide. Then you'll find the All-American Six leagues ahead of any rival. And you'll marvel again at its truly remarkable price.

NEW YACHT CLUB FOR WALLOON LAKE

ORGANIZATION BUYS FINE SHORE SECTION ON BAY

Docks to go to Deep Water and Fast Boats Will Be Added—Have Dining Room

Summer residents of Walloon Lake resort are greatly interested in the recent announcement concerning the completion of the organization of the Walloon Lake Yacht club, the purchase of an ideal location on the sandy shore of the south arm of the lake, and plans for maintaining the dining room, cabins, boats, building of the wharves, etc.

This club is situated with a frontage of 200 feet on the lake shore in a grove where a quantity of white birch trees abound.

The new log cabin built by E. T. Toner on Shadow Trails development has been purchased. This cabin has never been occupied and with the improvements that are to be added an ideal club house will be created for the membership.

The size of the present log cabin is 70x40 feet. A large dining room, glass enclosed, 40x40 feet, will be built on the water's edge where the members will have a beautiful view of the lake and surroundings from their dining tables.

There is a very fine sand bathing beach extending along the full length of the property, where a bathhouse for the accommodation of the bathers will be located on the lake shore together with the swimming raft and diving boards properly located in the lake.

There will be two docks built out to deep water, one built in the shape of a T to accommodate the motor and sail boats, the other a service dock with a davit for the members' use if they wish to repair their boats. The docking facilities for small boats are ideal because the shore is protected from prevailing winds.

The club will have a fast speed boat with the proper attendant for the service of the members who may wish to go to the golf club, which is across the lake, or to Walloon village or where they would care to go. In the rear of the club property—in the woods—will be located several two room log cabins each equipped with the proper toilet and bath equipment for the use of the members who would prefer to come up for a week or two.

An efficient manager and fine chef will be on hand to cater to the members who do not want to be bothered with housekeeping and take their meals at the club.

The Walloon Lake Yacht club will be completely equipped, furnished and ready for company on July 1, 1928.

The club membership will be restricted to 250 members by invitation only. This club will have an exclusive membership and high class in every way. It should be very popular with the ladies who may hold their bridge parties and afternoon teas in its spacious rooms.

Private dances or theater dances will be enjoyed in the new dining room on the lake.

It will be the aim of the club to cater to every reasonable whim of the members to make their stay at the lake most pleasant.

Boys' and Girls' Finish Club Projects
The members who enrolled in the Clothing and Handicraft clubs during the last winter closed a very successful and profitable program with Achievement Days held the first week in May.

A. G. Kettunen, state club leader, and Miss Gertrude Gage, assistant leader, visited each of the rural schools and inspected the articles made by the enthusiastic club members and selected the local champions of each club.

The boys in the first year made a bench hook and five other articles of practical use in the home and on the farm, while the boys in the second year project made at least four articles of somewhat more difficult construction.

The girls in the various projects made many samples of clothing and household necessities such as dish towels, drafting kimono patterns, making one-piece dresses, caps, aprons, darning and patching, etc.

In the county there were nine handicraft clubs that finished, two hot-lunch clubs, and four clothing clubs with a total membership of 104 members of which 91 finished, thus giving us 87.6 per cent finishing of those starting.

The county championships have been awarded as follows:

Hot-Lunch Project
Awarded to Tainter school, Miss Josephine Ellis, teacher.

Clothing Project
Jr. champion, Phyllis Inman, East Jordan.

1st year champion, Minnie Cornell, Charlevoix.

2nd year champion, Edna Inman, East Jordan.

Style Show—Pauline Loomis, East Jordan.

Handicraft Project
Jr. champion, Claire Beattie, Charlevoix.

1st year champion, Carl Beattie, Charlevoix.

2nd year champion, John Stanhope, Boyne City.

Demonstration Team—Slaughter school, Harold Ikens, teacher.

The above named as a reward for their accomplishments are awarded county certificates and are eligible to attend the Northern Michigan Club camp held in Gaylord every summer.

In addition all the local champions from each club are also included in the list of those eligible to go. Our percentage of those who start club work and finished their project 100 per cent is increasing every year. We anticipate a splendid boys and girls program next winter and wish to compliment those who have been so successful and efficient this past winter.

Guernsey Breeders Organize
At a recent meeting held in Boyne City on the 14th day of May the newest organization in the county known as the Charlevoix Guernsey Breeders Association became a reality.

A very enthusiastic gathering of some thirty interested dairymen were in attendance and after discussing the future of Guernsey breed decided that an association would help materially toward advancing the interests of Guernseys and their development.

The first project to be carried out will be the big summer show and picnic to be held in East Jordan the 13th of July, at which the best representatives of the breed in the county will be selected from the membership and pitted against each other in the show ring. W. D. Burrington, Guernsey Fieldman in Michigan, will judge the exhibit and give a talk on Guernseys. Plans are being also made to purchase higher quality bulls, and to improve the many herds in the county.

At the election of officers the following were selected to direct the destinies and activities:

President, Charles Murphy, East Jordan.

Vice president, Carl Stevens, Walloon Lake.

Secretary-treasurer, Clyde Clute, Boyne City.

Directors, Oakley Saunders, Iron-ton; Archie Murphy, East Jordan; Orvie Gonsolus, East Jordan; Carl Grutsch, East Jordan; Ray Loomis, East Jordan.

Each member of the association receives the publication "Guernsey Breeders Journal," published every two weeks, which gives all the latest information and activities pertaining to Guernsey development, which is included in the membership fee of two dollars yearly.

New members are solicited. Let's have 10 more members then watch the results.

President Coolidge keeps telling the people they must economize, and the men are willing to do so on their wife's spring clothes anyway.

The wife who tries to regulate her husband's business usually has her time well taken up.

Horticulture Facts

Never spray fruits of any kind when they are in bloom.

In spraying apples the practice is much the same as for plums.

Spray cherry trees with lime-sulphur to prevent leaf spot disease from defoliating the trees. Use one gallon of commercial lime-sulphur to forty gallons of water.

Omit one of the first three regular sprays; some years the first is the most important, since the second and some the third. Each spray helps to make the next more effective and each must be given to insure clean fruit.

The codling moth is the commonest worm that infests apples; while the curculio is a worm often found in cherries and early plums; and the gouger is a bug that prefers the later plums.

PICKLES ARE A PRACTICAL CROP

field. The vines do not entangle one with the other, and consequently bees and insects find easier access to the blossom, carrying pollen from one to the other. This is important, for fertilization of the blossoms must take place in order to produce pickles. Picking can be done in 1-4 the time and with only 1-4 as much effort as when vines are thicker. The fruit is easy to see, and vines can be lifted without damage. CLEAN picking is possible and more of the first grade pickles are secured—hence more cash at 1-4 the effort necessary when vines are thick. This makes the crop practical on any farm—large or small. A child 12 years old can handle an acre when grown and thinned in this way. Prices are guaranteed and when seed is planted, one knows exactly what he will receive for every pound he delivers. An acre of good soil that does not produce at least $175 worth of pickles in seven weeks time when grown this way, is not doing nearly what it should do. Many farmers' yields have been much higher.

LEGAL NOTICES

Notice of Determination of Board of County Road Commissioners

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the board of county road commissioners of the county of Charlevoix, duly held at Charlevoix, Michigan on the 19th day of May, 1928, it was determined that the road hereinafter described shall be abandoned and discontinued as a county road, to wit: That part of state road number 5444, situated in the township of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan and known as the Lake Shore Drive, commencing at the intersection of said road with the east eighth line of section 28, T. 34 N. R. 8 W., and running in a westerly, and northwesterly direction across government lots two, three, four and five of said section 28 and intersecting the section line common to sections 28 and 29 at a point twelve and five tenths feet north of the quarter post on said section line, thence north on said section line road to connect with old beach road on shore of Lake Michigan.

Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

By Ernest Peaslee, Deputy Clerk.

Adv. 21-13.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed bids will be received by the board of county road commissioners at their office in the court house, Charlevoix, Mich., until ten o'clock Monday, June 4, 1928 for the construction of 4153.5 feet of class A 12 ft. gravel road on Norwood road in Norwood township.

Also for the construction of grade and culverts on 18,800 feet and for placing class A gravel 12 feet wide on 5,640 feet of road on Iron-ton south road in Eveline and South Arm townships.

Bids on the above work are to be made according to bidding blanks furnished by the commission and certified check for such amount as stated in the bidding blank, must accompany each bid.

Plans may be seen and bidding blanks obtained at the office of the county road commission.

The commission reserves the right to reject any or all bids or any part thereof.

Keep youth longer!
cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

How do YOU test a motor car?

Is speed the first test you apply to a motor car? . . . Then drive The Victory Six, for no car in its class is so fast.

Is acceleration a major consideration? . . . 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/4 seconds—10 to 45 miles in 13 1/2 seconds—tell the unparalleled story of Victory pick-up.

Are you interested in economy? . . . 21 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour is average gas consumption for this famous Six.

A hill climber? . . . Ask Montana, Colorado, Pennsylvania! More power per pound is the answer. A body with only 8 major parts—lighter by 175 pounds—yet sturdier!

A smooth traveller? . . . Dash over railroad tracks—over old cobble pavements—and you'll marvel! For The Victory Six is different. No body sills—no body overhang—chassis the full width of the body—a lower center of gravity. Sidesway, bumping, rear wheel chatter magically absent.

Roomy? . . . Head room equal to any—superior to most—in its class. Wider seats—more leg room. Big!

And a beauty! Rakish and trim in line, richly upholstered, beautifully lacquered in smart hues—tomorrow's style with Dodge dependability.

A car that you should try out—now—yourself at the wheel.

MONTH OF MARCH HERD WINNERS

ORVEL BENNETT OF EAST JORDAN IS THEIR OWNER

Class Winners as Reported By Cow Tester Dobbin Among All Association Members

Following is a report of high test cows of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association of Charlevoix county for the month of March as prepared by county cow tester Cecil G. Dobbin: The high herd for March is owned by Orvil Bennett, Route 2, East Jordan, consisting of six Grade Guernseys and Holsteins, with an average of 943 pounds of milk and 38.60 pounds of butterfat.

The average production per cow in the association was 537 pounds of milk and 24.23 pounds of butterfat, (including dry cows) for the 315 on test.

The high cow for the month is owned by Elmer Murray, a 2-year-old grade Jersey, giving 1348 pounds of milk and 67.4 pounds of butterfat in the 31 day month. It is also high cow in its class.

High herd for April is owned by Elmer Murray, Route 5, East Jordan, consisting of 14 grade and purebred Jerseys and Holsteins, averaging 818 pounds of milk and 38.00 pounds of butterfat for 30 days.

The average production per cow in the association for the 319 cows on test for the month is 679 pounds of milk and 27.71 pounds of butterfat. These figures include dry cows.

The high cow for March again takes the lead in April.

In March eight cows were producing over 50 pounds of butterfat, while in April 11 was exceeding this mark. Forty-one cows were producing over 40 pounds of butterfat in each of the months.

The high cows in the 2-year-old class are owned by:

AT THE MOVIES

Picture Trails Broken Records
Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, Charles Dillingham and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., offers the world's mightiest attraction at the Palace Theatre next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the celebrated picture version of "Ben Hur," to which all New York has crowded for many months and which equally delighted Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia in as many record-breaking runs. This wonderful picturization cost $4,000,000, three years' time and the labors of 150,000 persons in Italy and California.

It culminated in the construction of the gigantic Circus Maximus and race-course of Antioch and in the filming thereon of the thrilling chariot race. Instead of eight horses and the old-time mechanical illusion of the stage show, the new and greater "Ben Hur" shows twelve teams of four horses.

Dancing "Blind" Feet for Feet

Dancing "blind," depending on their sense of distance and rhythm rather than upon their eyes, is the strange feat performed by James Murray and Betty Compson, who, with black hoods over their heads, danced a ballet in the night club scene in "The Big City," Lon Chaney's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, which comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

So carefully had they rehearsed the dance while able to see their surroundings, and so exactly had each step been measured, that, when they were blindfolded by the hoods, they did not move an inch out of the camera angle, and their steps did not vary a fraction of an inch from those in rehearsals.

We will meet mail order prices on tires, tubes and batteries with Goodyear and Willard. Save you the postage and freight, too. Service free. Benj. Brown—Adv. 18-1f.

"I Wish I'd Known"

There's always a new experience ahead—something you haven't done before and which calls for a decision.

You become engaged—and immediately you are called upon to decide on the purchase of many, many things you never bought before.

You marry—and furniture, draperies, silverware, china, talking machines, oil burners, gas stoves, automobiles claim your dollars and call for a choice.

A baby comes—and again you face a new experience in purchasing clothes and powders and blankets; in buying a crib, carriage, foods, toys.

Next—what school? For the years pass incredibly fast. Once more, a new decision.

Every room in your house requires a choice. Every meal served in your dining room results from your having decided on what to serve. Every day confronts you with a multitude of possibilities from which you must select those which make life happier and better, and make the dollars go farther.

How on earth are you going to make those decisions? How can you know what you want and what you don't want? How can you buy to such advantage that you'll seldom, if ever, have occasion to use that futile phrase, "I wish I'd bought something else?"

WARNS ABOUT FLU AFTERMATH

STATE ADVISES PRECAUTION TO AVOID SERIOUS TROUBLE

Disease Itself Not a Serious Type,
But After Effects Cause a Lot of Trouble

Influenza, which is sweeping Michigan in the most severe epidemic for seven years, has taken an entirely new "aftermath" stage which is causing scores of mastoid, sinus, and middle ear operations, says Dr. Don M. Griswold, deputy state health commissioner.

Although the death rate from the current epidemic is small, and the influenza itself apparently in a mild form, the aftermath is unusually severe, and is causing surgical operations to an extent unequalled by any past epidemics, Dr. Griswold said.

"Influenza itself is much the same in each epidemic," Dr. Griswold said, "but it takes on a new 'aftermath' complication with each recurrence, and it is the aftermath rather than the disease which causes this affliction to be a peculiarly difficult one to handle."

As to precautionary measures for the public, Dr. Griswold suggests that the present influenza epidemic is sufficiently severe to make preventive steps advisable by everyone. He calls attention to the fact that everyone should avoid large congregations, and remain away from persons who are suffering from any sickness, particularly colds.

Nothing of value has been learned concerning influenza during the past five years, Dr. Griswold says, and he is reiterating the instructions for years past, in answer to the flood of inquiries from city and county health officers. His advice is to stay away from crowds, avoid contact with sick persons, get plenty of fresh air, eat sparingly and select the diet well, and go to bed immediately when temperature is more than a half degree above normal.

P. M. ANNOUNCES SUMMER TRAIN SCHEDULE

First Pre-Season Resort Special
Arrives Here June 8th

Advanced schedules issued by the Pelee Marquette railway announcing tentative summer service are now in the hands of their local station agent. The Chicago section of the "Resort Special" will make pre-season trips leaving the Chicago terminal on June 8, 12, 15, 18, 20 and 22. Starting on the 23rd this train will be operated daily except Sunday from Chicago.

The return trip from Charlevoix for the pre-season trains will be on June 10, 13, 17, 19, 21 and 24. Daily service except Saturday will begin on June 26. The arriving time is scheduled for 7:36 the morning following the day they leave Chicago. Southbound trips will leave Charlevoix at 7:33 p. m.

The Detroit section will start on June 23rd, leaving that city at 9:30 p. m. eastern time, arriving at Charlevoix at 6:58 the following day. Southbound will leave Charlevoix at 8:12 p. m., arriving in Detroit the following morning at 7:30 eastern time. Northbound trains will not operate on Sunday night nor will southbound trains run on Saturday nights.

No information as to what other trains will be operated has been given out.

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

County Normal commencement plans are well under way. Dr. Ernest Burnham of Western State Teachers' College has been engaged as the speaker.

Members of the sixth grade of the training room will act as ushers. Some musical numbers will be furnished by the training room first grade.

Our graduating class boasts of ten young ladies and one young man: Clara C. Dougherty, Margaret C. Matchett, Doris L. Stafford, Anna Shearer, Jessie M. Cork, Vaun Ogden, Lucina Korth, Georgia Kelderhouse, Naomi Truman, Iola S. Chew and Vera Halverson.

Provisions have been made for the following County Normal students to judge exhibits on Township Days in the various townships. On May 21, at Norwood, Miss Truman judged; on May 22, at Wilson, Miss Kelderhouse; on May 23, Miss Shearer will judge at South Arm; on May 25, Miss Korth at Evangeline; on May 28, Mr. Ogden at Hayes; and on May 29, Miss Matchett at Marion.

Training Room News

On Thursday afternoon the members of the fourth and sixth grades had their final contest on the reciting of the two poems each grade has learned. Two winners were chosen for each poem, they were as follows: The sixth grade, "Landing of the Pilgrims," Helen Novotny and Marion Tuhy; "The Flag Goes By," Bernice Meggison and Clare Tillotson; the fourth grade, "The Windmill," Dorothy Smith and Ernestine Nickerson; "The Children's Hour," Robert Mahoney and Averil Howard.

The home projects in the training room have been very successful. The girls have done several pieces of sewing, among which are a table spread, an apron, a pair of pajamas, and several pieces of doll clothes. Both boys and girls have made bird houses.

MRS. WILLIAM STRAW WAS EARLY PIONEER

Death Closed Residence of 47 Years in This County

Mrs. William Straw, age 79, a resident of Charlevoix county since 1881, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Lamphear, Friday evening, May 18, at nine o'clock.

Rosena Kirk was born in Chesterfield, England, November 4, 1849, and was married to William Straw on August 23, 1877. Coming to America they located on a farm in Marion township, Charlevoix county, in 1881. To this union were born eight children, four of whom survive, Mrs. Rose Lamphear and Mrs. Nelson Tillotson of Charlevoix, William and Samuel Straw of Marion township.

Mrs. Straw, with her husband, endured the hardships of early pioneer life, but through it all kept her sweet disposition and christian character, and by her sympathy and love endeared herself to all who knew her. She was a lifelong member of the Methodist church. Mr. Straw preceded her in death by 16 years, passing in December 1912.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the home of her daughter on State street, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating. A profusion of floral tributes attested the esteem in which she was held by her many friends.

WILLIAM SCROGGIE DIED LAST SATURDAY

Had Been Resident of This County
Over 53 Years

Charlevoix lost an honored and respected citizen in the death of William Scroggie, which occurred Saturday, May 19th, at his home on Petoskey avenue. Mr. Scroggie had been ill for some time and recently returned from Detroit where he had gone for medical treatment. Death resulted from pneumonia.

Deceased was born March 16, 1853, in Rowdon, Providence of Quebec, Canada. When 14 years of age he accompanied his parents to Dorset, Vt., where he served his apprenticeship as a tool and die maker. In 1875 he and his father came to Michigan and took up a homestead in Hayes township. Mr. Scroggie resided there until 1884. On October 15, 1884, he was united in marriage to Miss Alice Burns. To this union were born three sons, William B. and Lee, who with the widow survive, and Dean C., who gave his life in the world war. There are also two grandchildren, Val Dean and Phillis Lee of Detroit; one brother, Dean E. of Bay Shore, and two sisters, Mrs. William Gray of Bay Shore and Mrs. George Zipp of Petoskey.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. John E. Lockyer officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

LIGHT AND POWER RATES NOW LOWER

NEW CHARGES SET BY COUNCIL
MONDAY NIGHT.

Resolution Adopted to Furnish Current to Consumers Outside of Corporate Limits.

Resolutions adopted by the common council at their regular meeting Monday evening paved the way for a reduction in electric light and power rates for citizens of Charlevoix.

The new rates take immediate effect and extend for the current year ending June 1st, 1929. The rates are as follows:

Schedule "A"—Illuminating
For all current used for lighting purposes from June 1, 1928, to October 1, 1928, 12 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 200 kilowatt hours monthly consumption, with a discount of five per cent if paid on or before the 15th day of the following month. For all current consumed in excess of 200 kilowatt hours per month, 10 cents per kilowatt hour, with a discount of two per cent if paid on or before the 15th of the month following.

For all current consumed for lighting purposes from October 1st to the first day of June following, eight cents per kilowatt hour, with a discount of five per cent if paid on or before the 15th of the month following on bills rendered.

The minimum charge per month on all motor readings shall be $2.00. All of the above rates shall apply to single meter readings and not to meters grouped for one service.

Schedule "B"—Power Current
For all current used for power purposes and including fuel purposes, from June 1 to October 1, five cents per kilowatt hour; from October 1 to the first day of June following, four cents per kilowatt hour, with minimum charge in all cases of $1.50 per month, and no discount for prompt payment.

Will Extend Service
The council Monday evening also authorized the city clerk to enter into contract in behalf of the city with the owners of buildings and property outside the city limits for electric light and power service.

The rates and conditions attached to the extended service are as follows: That the rate for such service shall be 12 cents per kilowatt hour for illuminating service and seven cents for power purposes. The minimum charge for current used will be $2.00 per month when service is contracted for continuous service during 12 months of the year. When the contract is for a period less than 12 months, the minimum charge will be $5.00. A discount of five per cent will be allowed if bills are paid before the 15th of the month following except on the minimum charge.

In such contracts with the owners of property outside the city corporate limits, the agreement of the city to supply current at the above rates shall expire on the first day of June, 1929, but such contract shall be construed and treated as continued and renewed for an additional yearly period after the first year and subsequent terms thereafter unless expressly terminated by action of the council in the month of June of the current year. Acceptance of service.

ROSCOMMONS EDITOR PUTS OVER BIG "ST" YARN OF THE YEAR

Gene Matherson, editor of the Roscommon Record, perpetrated what we believe was the most colossal yarn of the whole year, when he invented the story about ducks dying by hundreds around Houghton Lake and on investigation it was found that they were suffering with lead poisoning caused by eating shot they had picked up off the bottom of the lake while feeding. Now along comes the publicity agent for the Michigan state conservation department and varior Gene's story by reporting the state specialist had been advised of this unusual mortality in the duck family and in investigation he too had found the ducks croppa loaded full of little leaden pellets presumably picked up off the bottom of the lakes. The publicity agent closed his resume stating that a new staff man is soon to take the place of the present man and he will be asked to report on the case. It would seem that it was time for a new man to be put in charge of the duck division before this fellow now engaged in extracting BPs from ducks' gizzards contracts lead poisoning too.

vice by outside owners or occupants of property served will be taken as making an effective and binding contract at the rates and conditions stipulated.

It is also set forth in the resolutions that the contracts will not bind the city to furnish current outside the corporate limits beyond the capacity of its works over and above the demands of its own inhabitants.

Consumers to Get Benefit
The lowering of electric light and power rates has been contemplated by the city council for some time. The power plants have operated on a paying basis and have been rapidly cleaning up the indebtedness against them. Charlevoix power consumers are now to get the benefit in reduced rates.

Wins in Nation-wide Contest
If you see William Hunter of Charlevoix, Michigan, studiously taking out his change purse every few minutes it's not because he thinks he has lost some money but because he wants you to see that new purse he's got. For he has just won it in the nation-wide Vanilla Sales Contest being conducted by the J. R. Watkins Company among its dealers. The Change Purse has lettered on it the words "Prize Winner."

MEMORIAL DAY WELL OBSERVED

CEREMONIES WERE ATTENDED
BY LARGE CROWDS

Impressive Program Carried Out at Cemetery—School Children Well Represented.

With the weather man cooperating one hundred per cent, Memorial Day in Charlevoix was observed in a fitting manner, with large crowds attending the ceremonies at Memorial Park and at the cemetery.

Promptly at 9:30 the parade, led by the high school and city bands, left the corner of Bridge street and Park avenue, where the different organizations had assembled, proceeding down Bridge street to Memorial Park at the corner of Antrim. Here the assembly paused while a brief service in memory of those who lost their lives at sea was conducted by the American Legion and W. R. C. From there the parade marched to State street and out to the cemetery.

A large crowd of Charlevoix citizens met them at the cemetery gates and assembled themselves within to witness the ceremonies, which were brief but impressive. Rev. B. G. Mattson of the Congregational church opened the exercises with a beautiful and appropriate prayer. Music by the bands followed. The remainder of the program was carried out according to schedule. The Memorial address by Rev. John E. Lockyer of the Methodist church was very impressive and the ceremonies of the Woman's Relief Corp and American Legion were effectively conducted. The closing prayer was given by Rev. George H. Pye of the Church of God, thus closing the day's official observance in this city.

NORMAL GRADUATION EXERCISES WEDNESDAY

Class Eleven Students Will Receive Diplomas

Graduation exercises for the eleven students who will receive diplomas in the Charlevoix county normal will be held Wednesday evening, June 6, at 8:00 o'clock, in the gymnasium. Dr. Ernest Burnham of Kalamazoo Teachers' College will give the address. The following program has been arranged:

Music.
Invocation, Rev. John E. Lockyer. "Our County Normal," Georgin Kelderhouse.
Music, training room first grade.
Address, Dr. Ernest Burnham.
Presentation of Diplomas, Wm. C. Palmer, county school commissioner.

TRUNK LINE NO. 75
WILL BE READY JUNE 12

Trunk line No. 75, which extends through Boyne City to the north connecting with M-131 south of Clarion will soon be ready for traffic through Walloon Lake. The last of the cement was placed May 22 and three weeks from that date or on June 12 it will be ready for use as reported by F. M. Boals, state engineer who is domiciled at the Wolverine. The road to Petoskey and north is in very good condition including the short detour in the village of Walloon Lake.—Boyne Citizen.

COUNTY QUOTA IS ALREADY FILLED

HOWEVER, OTHERS MAY ENROLL FOR C. M. T. C.

Those Interested May Address Dr. F. H. Wilkinson, Charlevoix, County Chairman

Charlevoix county's quota of eight for the C. M. T. C. has been filled. Of the twenty counties comprising the Grand Rapids district, our own county stands fourth in percentage of enrollment.

Grand Traverse stands at the head of the list with a percentage of 220. Their quota was eight and they have signed up 18. Lake county is in second place with a percentage of 200.34 and Leelanau third with 120. Charlevoix is in fourth place in the district, which comprises counties of Western Michigan from Kent north and east as far as Wexford and Mecosta. Charlevoix should be proud of this showing.

The fact that so many counties have not filled their quota gives a chance for others to enroll. Two or three more names would increase our percentage greatly. We are already on the honor roll, but we would like to see the county at the head of the list. Nineteen counties in the state have either filled or exceeded their quota, but for all that the percentage for the entire state is only 70.6. Let us see if we cannot add to the list.

Any young man between the age of 17 and 24, who is fairly good physically and is trying to lead a decent, clean life, is eligible for enrollment. Young man, take this opportunity to secure a thirty day's outing at the expense of Uncle Sam. There will not be one cent of expense for the trip. Transportation, meals, uniform and lodging are all taken care of.

The boys who have taken the training one season are keen to go again. Your boy will come back from the camp with a new appreciation of what it means to be an American citizen. He will have an added reverence for the flag and a higher regard for our country and its institutions. He will be better in every way, morally, physically, mentally and spiritually. He will be better prepared to take his place as a man among men.

The object of these camps is not to make a professional soldier out of your boy, but to make a better citizen out of him. There is no obligation for future enlistment and no strings attached to this offer. If you are interested, call or write Dr. F. H. Wilkinson, chairman for the Charlevoix county C. M. T. C. enrollment campaign.—Contributed.

PETOSKEY LOSES ITS RADIO STATION

Federal Commission Includes WBBP In List of 162 Dropped

The United States federal radio commission Saturday discontinued the radio license of the Petoskey high school radio station WBBP, the station being listed as one of 162 for which licenses were revoked by the new order. Other Michigan stations ordered discontinued were Iron Mountain WLBV, Ypsilanti WJBK, Detroit WBBM and Ludington WKBZ. These stations still have a chance to convince the board they should be continued.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS AT HOTEL CHARLEVOIX

Plumbing, Painting, and Interesting Addition

A program of improvements which have been in progress throughout the spring months are now nearing completion at the Hotel Charlevoix, managed by Mrs. C. J. Winder.

Nearly every room in the hotel has been redecorated and re-papered, knolls re-finished, new furniture added and new curtains hung. A new entrance to rear rooms has been built, thus removing the necessity of going through the Winder's private suite to enter that part of the hotel.

A most novel and interesting feature recently constructed in the dining room is a fountain built in the center among the tables. A continuous flow of water enters the fountain in which are harbored three brook trout, two of them unborn. This new feature greatly interests everyone entering the hotel.

The ladies of the Church of God will hold a Bunko Sale at Staley Bros. Hardware on Saturday, May 26, which that window for "good eats."

NEW SPORT FOR LOCAL ANGLERS

LAKE CHARLEVOIX SHOULD BE GREAT WHITEFISH GROUNDS

Following Article Tells in Detail of Preparations Necessary for Whitefish Angling

Fishermen in Michigan, always on the alert for some new sport in the angling game, are turning their attention to the possibility of catching whitefish with the hook and line. It has been generally supposed by the Michigan fishermen that it was impossible to capture these palatable beauties with tackle. But the department of conservation has information from New York state which points out that New York anglers have for years been catching the whitefish and enjoy the sport immensely.

There are several inland lakes in Michigan where whitefish are known to exist. They are found in Long Lake, Alpena county; Torch and Elk Lakes, Antrim county; Mullett Lake and Burt Lake, Cheboygan county; Higgins Lake, Roscommon county; Lake Charlevoix, Charlevoix county. Preparations for catching this species of fish and the methods used are briefly given herewith:

Establish a buoy in the lake; this may be almost any favorable spot in the early summer months but after July it is better to seek deep water. Construct a buoy by taking an eight foot pole, four inches in diameter, and attach to it a piece of wire or strong rope. On the free end of the rope or wire fix a 75 or 100 pound weight for an anchor. The wire or rope must be sufficiently long to reach the bottom and still leave some of the pole sticking above the water. The depth of the water will necessarily determine the length of the wire or rope. In New York fishermen respect each other's buoys and never fish in their vicinity. The owner may attach a flag to his buoy for identification purposes.

Extreme care should be taken in removing the anchor from the boat when ready to plant the buoy. Two men should take the buoy out for location. One man should row while the other prepares to lower the anchor. Roll the anchor to the stern of the boat and drop it off. If dropped from either side a capsized boat may result.

With the buoy in place, the fisherman proceeds to scatter bait. Proceed 25 feet in all directions of the buoy in dropping the food. About a half pint of bait should be used daily for three or four days before actual fishing is started. Canned sweet corn, macaroni, rice, tapioca, or whole sweet corn is good bait to scatter.

Ideal bait for the hook is sucker meat. Remove the skin from the sucker meat (if sucker meat is not obtainable, use the white meat of mull) place a piece on the hook and lower the line so that the bait is 18 inches from the bottom. Hold the pole very still. If a female whitefish is caught, remove the spawn and liver. Place a piece of the spawn on the hook and then on the very point, attach a small piece of a liver. This combination is the very best whitefish bait for the hook will swallow the entire portion without even stopping to nibble. If sweet corn is used on the hook, put on two kernels that have been well soaked.

If lots of fish are caught, bait the ground twice daily for three days plenty of prospects waiting for the food. It is necessary to have a good supply on hand for the large number of customers. Be careful, however, not to overdo the feeding for sour bait lying around will cause the whitefish to spurn anything you may offer them on your hook.

The whitefish weight runs from 5 to 8 pounds and he is all fight. The establishment of a buoy makes it possible for a resort at a lake to bait his ground and then invite a party of friends to the lake for a week end of exciting fishing. Michigan's whitefish lakes, it is thought, should produce as good results as those in New York State.

FARM POULTRY

WATCH MARKETING EGGS AND POULTRY

"Poultry production is running wild without chart or compass, stimulated by past profits, by a tendency to shift from other nonpayment branches of agriculture to poultry raising and by optimistic statements of those who sell supplies to poultrymen."

This is a statement of Prof. James E. Rice, head of the poultry department of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., commenting on trends in the poultry industry.

Recent figures showing the enrollment in the correspondence courses in poultry husbandry offered by the college, bear out this statement.

Nearly five hundred New York state farmers are studying the four poultry courses, and an analysis of this figure shows that approximately fifty are studying the general management of a laying flock to one who is taking the course in marketing of eggs and poultry.

"This may indicate," say college authorities, "that the poultrymen are a great deal more interested in producing eggs and poultry than they are in marketing them so they can compete with the high-quality products shipped to eastern markets by midwest and far west producers."

"Better marketing and curtailed production," according to Professor Rice, "are necessary to save the New York state poultry industry from a serious depression."

Dirty Eggs Expensive to Careless Poultryman

Dirty eggs, especially numerous this time of year, cost farmers and poultrymen from one to three cents per dozen because of the lower grade in which they are placed, according to E. H. Menefee of Purdue university, who is investigating marketing of poultry and eggs.

Three principal causes may be assigned for the large volume of dirty eggs, Menefee found. They were: too few nests, resulting in the hens hiding their nests in dirty, wet places; unclean nests, and allowing hens free range in wet weather.

Dirty eggs can be eliminated by providing a sufficient number of clean roosting nests, at least one to every four or five hens. These nests should be placed in a darkened part of the house to prevent egg eating and floor eggs. Do not permit hens to roost in the nests at night and change straw or shavings at frequent intervals. The wet range is the most common cause of dirty eggs. Keeping hens confined to the house in wet weather until noon, and gathering of eggs before they are let out will keep eggs clean.

AT THE MOVIES

Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall Co-Featured in Peppy Farce

Another big Asher, Small and Rogers comedy success, "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath," which is a worthy laugh-provoking follow-up of their previous side-splitters, "McFadden's Flats," and "The Gorilla," is coming to town. This Charlton Andrews-Avery Hopwood stage success, converted into a first national picture co-starring Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall will be the feature attraction Friday at the Palace Theatre.

The production firm of Asher, Small and Rogers have become synonymous with laughs on the screen. Two of the greatest screen successes, "McFadden's Flats," and "The Gorilla" are not only an example of what they are providing in screen entertainment but an indication of what "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath" provides.

Barthelemess Films Romance of Hills of Old Kentucky

The picturesque hills of Kentucky form the background for Richard Barthelmess' new starring vehicle, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," which comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday. It is the picturization of John Fox, Jr.'s story of Civil War days, a book beloved by millions of readers, and one which provides Barthelmess with an ideal role—one very similar to his characterization in "Tol'able David." As "The Little Shepherd" Barthelmess scores another remarkable screen success, and again demonstrates that he is one of the finest actors on the screen.

MRS. CALHOUN had attended all the meetings of the Kitchen Club, and had listened eagerly to the planning of widely different kitchens. She had seemed especially interested in Mrs. Foster's "sunshine" color scheme. She had heartily approved of the way Mrs. Alden had made her kitchen express the thing she loved best. And so it was no great surprise to the members of the Kitchen Club when Mrs. Calhoun invited them in to see her "daffodil" kitchen.

"I wanted a kitchen that would be becoming to me!" she said. And it was. Her black eyes, black hair and rosy cheeks could have hardly showed to better advantage than in the yellow, black, white and pale green color scheme she had chosen. Green and white tiled linoleum floor, cream walls, black lacquered table and chairs, trimmed with yellow, white refrigerator and cabinet stenciled in yellow, white shelves lined with yellow, white oil range, pale green curtains stenciled with yellow daffodils. Some yellow, some black and some white pots and pans. A crowning touch was a bird cage on a tall stand at the window. Cage and stand, black, with a canary bird as the last touch of yellow. It was easy to see where Mrs. Calhoun got her color scheme!

A kitchen as becoming as a Paris hall LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

We got some interesting recipes from Mrs. Calhoun—easy ways to cook several different dishes.

The Easiest Way to Cook Chicken

Split a dressed and cleaned chicken down the back. Lay breast down in a deep pan, preferably a roaster. Season with salt, pepper and a lump of butter. Sprinkle with flour. Lay strips of bacon over it. Pour hot water over it, enough to be an inch deep in the pan. Cover with lid and put into oven. Cook without turning for a half-hour. When brown on top side, turn and allow breast to brown. Replenish water if necessary. When brown on other side, remove and serve. Gravy is already made. This is old-fashioned "smothered chicken," a Southern recipe, the easiest to cook and the most delightfully flavored of any chicken dish.

The Easiest Way to Cook Mushrooms

Cut into small pieces and wash a pound of mushrooms with their stems. Put on to cook with a cup of water in a covered stew pan. When water is almost cooked out, season with salt, pepper and a big lump of butter. Remove lid. Cook until water is entirely gone. Serve on toast.

The Easiest Way to Bake Ham

Wash and trim a half-inch thick slice of ham. Place in medium-sized frying-pan. Cover with milk. Cook in oven until milk is boiled out. Pepper and serve.

An Easy One-Dish Meal

Cook two cups macaroni until tender. Put a thin layer of it into a baking pan. Add a layer of crumbled American cheese—fresh. Another layer of macaroni, another of cheese, until top of pan is reached. Pour over the mixture one can of tomato soup. Cook for ten minutes in oven. This is a most filling and easy meal, with bread, butter and dessert to make a full meal.

Time Saver

If you haven't a regular bread board, roll out your biscuit and cookie dough on a piece of floor-sacking or canvas rubbed full of flour. Use a baby's white stocking over the rolling pin. It holds the flour and prevents sticking.

It isn't necessary to grease cookies, but if you remove the cookies while they are hot.

Use muffin pans to poach eggs. If soft-boiled eggs are found to be too soft when broken open, turn out into a tea cup and set cup and all into a pan of hot water. Egg will harden sufficiently in a minute or two.

You can stop an egg from running!

The Easiest Way to Keep Wicks Clean

Mrs. Calhoun says she has saved much time and trouble by investing in an inexpensive wick changer for her oil stove. A turn or two of this cleaner on the wick not only keeps the wick clean but also keeps the oil properly sloped to give the best results.

PETOSKEY H. S. GETS HIGH TRACK HONOR

Individual Championships in Three Events, High Man in State Meet

Three individual championships, one individual tie for second honors, third place in team totals and the meet's high point man were the honors Petoskey track and field men brought back from the state Class B track and field meet at East Lansing Saturday. Only some unusually fine work on the part of men from Dearborn, St. Joseph and Wyandotte kept Petoskey out of the team championships, according to news from Michigan State College. Petoskey scored a total of 17 points, 15 of them by Mureh who was the Class B high point athlete.

The meet was won by Dearborn with a total of 23 points with St. Joseph, last year's champions, scoring 22. Wyandotte tied Petoskey with 17.

Petoskey's points were all made in field events, March's wins in the high jump, broad jump and javelin giving Petoskey 15, while Curtis' tie for second honors in the pole vault giving two more. Curtis poled the bar at 10 feet, 10 inches, but even this unusually fine work was not good enough for a championship. Two others worked equally as well and one surpassed this mark, hauling at 11 feet, 4 1/4 inches. March's winning high jump was at a height of 5 feet, 6 3/4 inches, while his broad jump carried him a distance of 21 feet, 1 1/4 inches. His javelin throw was for a distance of 149 feet, 7 inches.

Class A honors went to Detroit Northwestern with a total of 32 points. Seventeen new records were established in the four classes, giving evidence of the high quality of performances of the various athletes.—Petoskey Evening News.

LEVERING SCHOOL CONTRACTS ARE LET

New Building Is to Be Ready for Use When Fall Term Opens

Contracts for the new Levering school to replace the one burned last winter have recently been let and call for completion of the work by September first. The building is to be ready for use by the opening of the autumn term of the village school. The new structure will cost about $18,000 and equipment, books, etc., will bring the total well over the $20,000 mark.

The structure, plans for which were drawn by Charles Hanson, of Petoskey, is to be of brick and will contain four rooms.

The general contract has been awarded Rockwell and Gillett, of Harbor Springs, and the heating, ventilation and plumbing contract to the Sanitary Engineering company of Charlevoix.

Bids for the general building ran all the way from $13,300 to $20,000, and those for the heating, etc., from $3,800 to $5,100.

TRAVERSE CITY CARRIER HAS WALKED 200,000 MILES

Wilbur M. Gordon, retiring Traverse City letter carrier, says he walked 200,000 miles for the banquet given him Saturday night by his fellowworkers at the Grand Traverse bay city. Gordon worked for thirteen years at Sioux Falls, S. D., before being transferred to Traverse City and has been in the latter place for the last twenty-eight years. He is now 65 years of age and Saturday night turned in his pack. Patrons and fellow workers presented him with a substantial purse at the dinner.

POULTRY

LARGE YIELD AIDS POULTRY SUCCESS

Poultry raisers who can get high egg yields are almost certain to make a profit, because egg production is closely tied up with labor income and profit. It is pointed out by L. E. Card, chief in poultry husbandry at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

"Studies of the farm poultry enterprise as a business have shown that there are certain major factors involved in determining whether a given poultry flock will show a profit or a loss. Egg yield per hen is an accurate barometer of success in almost any poultry enterprise. Other factors are size of flock, proportion of pullets to yearlings, rate of mortality, price received for market eggs and experience of the operator. However, if egg production is low, no other factor can make up for the handicap and the profits will be small.

"Size of flock is a convenient measure of size of business. A small business can never make either a large profit or a large loss. A large business is necessary for a large profit, but it must carry the risk of a possible large loss.

"Mortality of hens and young chicks is frequently a major cost in the production of eggs and unless the mortality rate can be kept down to a reasonable level it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to show a profit.

"The price received for market eggs is an important index of profits from a poultry flock. It is often easier to increase returns by producing a better product and finding a higher market than by raising the egg yield per hen, assuming that the egg yield is not too low to begin with.

"Finally, experience helps the operator to achieve results. Even if it does nothing more than teach him how to make the business measure up in respect to the other factors mentioned, it is an important asset. It is unwise for a poultry business to be allowed to grow faster than the ability of the operator to manage and control it."

Methods of Spreading Disease Among Poultry

One method of carrying disease is on the shoes from a yard of sick chickens. Farmers learned to forbid entrance to their hog yards when there was a scourge of hog cholera. They should forbid entrance to the chicken runs when disease is prevalent. Poultry buyers should be kept out. Indeed, the only safety to the flock is in quarantining them against all visitors and dogs. The caretaker should wear rubbers if sickness breaks out in one of his pens, and not allow the soles of his shoes to touch contaminated grounds. Take the rubbers off before stepping out of the door. Clean up and clean out often. Bury all dead birds and the litter from houses where there has been sickness. Expense and worry are saved by avoiding disease. It is folly to let a condition go until it is big enough to demand a fight.

Minerals Big Factors

Minerals are often limiting factors in egg production. Heavy laying fowl require from three to four pounds of oyster shell or its equivalent per year. Even though the hens have enough protein and other food to produce a large number of eggs, they will cut their production down to meet the amount of minerals which they have for shells. A balancing ration means supplying minerals and vitamins so that all of the organs of the fowl work efficiently.

Every 40 seconds of every working day somebody buys a Buick. Year after year it wins twice as many buyers as any other fine car

Buy your Buick with the knowledge that the overwhelming majority of America's fine car buyers are making the same wise selection and enjoying the same wonderful satisfaction.

This most brilliant of fine cars enjoys two-to-one leadership in its field and has maintained its leadership, not for a week or a month, but year in and year out since the early days of the industry.

The minute you see Buick you'll know one reason for its popularity—its excellence in beauty. The minute you drive it you'll discover a further reason—it excels in vibrationless performance. And when you compare values, you'll have the full story—for now there is no car so fine and dependable at a price so remarkably low.

The judgment of America is mighty good judgment to bank on. And America, by a two-to-one vote tells you to buy a Buick.

BIG BOOZE HAUL AT MACKINAW CITY

REVENUE CUTTER COOK TAKES WHISKEY SHIP IN TOW

Cargo Said to Be Valued at More Than $275,000—Probably Was Bound for Chicago

One of the most important captures of liquors yet made on the Great Lakes was made by the crews of the Coast Guard Cutter Cook assisted by the C. G. 118 of Sault Ste. Marie. Bontswain William Skeen, personal officer Great Lakes Division, was aboard the Cook and Lieutenant I. W. Buckalew was aboard the C. G. 118, says the Charlevoix Tribune.

The capture was made early Sunday evening, May 20, abreast of McGulpin's Point west of Mackinaw City. The Federal officers had been tipped off about the shipment and had been on the lookout for the craft carrying the rich load of liquors presumably intended to quench the Chicago thirst. The boat slipped away from the Canadian shore where it took on its load under cover of the heavy fog that settled over the Great Lakes Saturday morning, and immediately thereafter the patrol boats began their scouting to pick up the slow moving freighter.

After the craft was brought to a halt a prize crew was put aboard and the craft ran into Mackinaw City where it lay that night while the custom officers were arranging for its disposition. Monday morning the prize crew aboard headed the craft with its rich load for Detroit. It did not stop at this port, but proceeded on down the Straits, while the thrills here stood on the docks and with drooping mouths watched the rich prize pass down the Straits and out of sight. The boat making the capture put into the port early Monday morning, remaining here for some time while the officers communicated with the higher ups.

It is claimed this is the largest seizure of contraband liquor ever made on the Great Lakes. The boat on which liquor was stowed and piled in cases and barrels and kegs was presumably bound for Chicago. The boat carrying the contraband stuff was formerly in the lighthouse service and was used as a light ship on a shoal in Lake Erie, but later passed out of the service and was purchased by private interests, changing hands many times in recent years. It is now called the Germino. It is steam driven and very slow.

The men on the reef lightship reported seeing the boat pass their station about four o'clock Sunday afternoon. It did not draw near the lightship, but kept well outside the regular stenboat lane and reluctantly answered the hailing signals sent out by the lightships. The men on the ship noticed through glasses the craft was carrying a heavy deck load of barrels, and its suspicious actions caused no little comment aboard the boat that afternoon, and when the news came of the capture they were not surprised.

The value of the cargo is said to be close to three hundred thousand dollars.

BUTTONS TO REPLACE GUN, ROD LICENSE

Buttons to be worn in a conspicuous place are to replace the regular hunting license next fall, it has been decided by the conservation department. There will be different buttons for resident and non-resident small game, resident and non-resident deer and resident and non-resident rod for the following spring. The buttons are about the size of a silver dollar. They bear the picture of a wolverine and tell the nature of the license. They are to be worn in a conspicuous place so that wardens may see that the hunters or fishermen are properly licensed, thus saving the individual the inconvenience of digging down into his pocket to get the license.

Warning
Boys from Charlevoix are trespassing on our property and besides doing considerable damage to trees, shrubbery and fencing, are proving themselves a nuisance. This practice must be stopped or we will be compelled to prosecute. Parents are asked to warn their boys to this effect. Please do not force us to resort to the law. Orchard Bay Farm, E. J. Edwards, Manager.—Adv. 21-12.

SAVE BEST MALES FOR NEXT SEASON

When the hatching season is over, remove the male birds from the flock but take good care of them if they are to be used next season.

"Infertile eggs are no better as food than fertile eggs but the infertile eggs keep better in hot weather," says Dr. B. E. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at the North Carolina State college. "When a fertile egg is subjected to high summer heat, it will begin to develop a young chick. If this development goes on long enough and then the egg is placed in lower temperatures, the germ dies and a dead ring is left. This ring of blood settles at the lowest point of the neck of membranes which cover a part of the yolk."

Dr. Kaupp states that just as many eggs will be laid when the males are removed from the flock and so it is a good practice to take away the males from the hens as soon as the hatching season is over. Those birds not wanted for breeding another year may be placed in a lot where they may be fattened for the pot or for market. Those needed next year should be placed in a house with ample run where they may forage for bugs and worms and green feed. To shut up a desirable breeding bird in a small, dry lot with poor housing facilities, is to reduce his health and vigor and make him worthless for the next season.

Then, too, Dr. Kaupp advises selecting out the best of the early hatched young cockerels and keeping them for breeding purposes. Those that are square and blocky and grow early are most desirable. Early development means the transmission of high qualities of egg production and health. Such selected males should get plenty of green feed, much in which there is no limit feed and regular grain feed. Grain alone is not sufficient if best results are wanted.

Maternal Instinct Is Strong in Turkey Hen

The maternal instinct is especially strong in the turkey hen. If she is brooding her eggs near another turkey's nest, she will leave her own nest at the first cluck of poultry. A battle royal will ensue between the two turkey hens, which makes the hen with the undisturbed poultry dissatisfied even when she is confined to the nest. We must reckon with nature. Put out nests for the turkey hens where they will find them; separate them from sight and sound of one another. Plan for her to walk in on the nest rather than to jump down. Put boards under the barrels or boxes provided for turkey nests to keep them off the ground when it rains. When the poultry are hatched, if the hen is not cooped, make a triangular yard of twelve-inch boards and confine them in that till they can jump over. The hen will not leave them; they can be put on fresh ground every day by moving the pen, and the turkey mother can be trusted to protect her young.

CHARLEVOIX CO. G. O. P. MEETS IN BOYNE CITY

Steps Taken to Form Vandenberg-for-Senate Club

At a meeting of a number of Charlevoix county Republican enthusiasts, held last Friday evening in Boyne City in Rep. J. M. Harris' office, steps were taken to form a Vandenberg-for-Senate club.

Among those present were: Judge Harris, Boyne City; ex-Sen. Pearson, Boyne Falls; E. N. Clink, East Jordan; Fay Bradley and Ira Adams, Charlevoix.

A meeting was called for Boyne Falls June 8, to which all Republicans and Vandenberg boosters of Charlevoix county are invited.

The purpose of the club is to do all possible to insure Sen. Vandenberg's re-election to the United States senate this fall.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

This church will observe Children's Day Sunday morning with a sermon to parents and teachers and all others interested in the welfare of the greatest human asset, our children in the community.

Parents are invited to present their infant children for baptism at the morning service. The Children's Day program by members of the Sunday school will follow immediately after the worship service of the church.

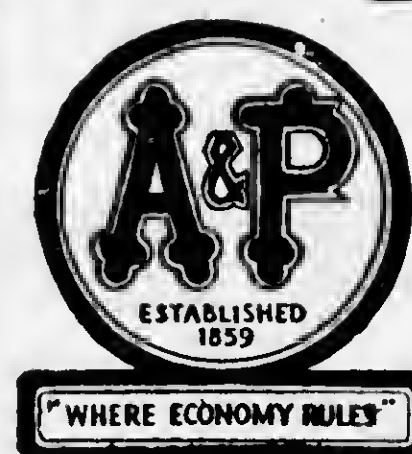

The Endeavor meeting will be held a half hour earlier at six o'clock to give time for the young people to be present at the high school service at the gymnasium. Billy Novak will lead the Endeavor meeting.

The Ironton church service is at 2:30. The Ironton observance of Children's Day will be on June 10th.

If troubled with headache or in need of glasses, consult Dr. Leahy, the optometrist, when he comes Monday, June 4th at the Hotel Charlevoix.—Adv. 21-2.

Most of the young married men confide in us that if they get any break that they must do it themselves or go to the restaurant. What are we coming to anyway?

P. M. ANNOUNCES SUMMER SKED

TWO TRAINS FOR TOURISTS TO RESORT CENTERS

June and September Crowds to be Cared for With Special Service Runs

B. Nickerson of Charlevoix, agent for the Pere Marquette railroad company, last week announced the publication of the schedule for the two through tourist trains this line operates to Petoskey. He also announced that this year's arrangements call for service from early June to late September from Louisville, Cincinnati, Toledo, Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, etc., with train No. 14, and from St. Louis, Springfield, Chicago and Southwestern Michigan on train No. 8.

The June service is largely from the Chicago section and has special runs on June 8, June 12, June 15, June 18, June 20 and June 22. There will be a June 20 special out of Detroit also. The late season service runs will leave Chicago on September 18, 21, 25 and 28.

These trains will afford northbound special service on these dates: June 10, 13, 17, 19, 21 and 24 for Chicago; June 21 and 24 for Detroit; September 19, 23, 26 and 30 for Chicago.

The regular summer schedule will be started on June 23 and continue through until September 14, with regular south schedule commencing on June 25 and June 26 until September 16. The northbound trains will operate daily except Saturdays. The Chicago run will arrive in Charlevoix at 7:36 a. m. and the Detroit run at 6:58 a. m. The leaving time to Chicago from Charlevoix will be 7:32 p. m. and to Detroit at 8:12 p. m.

CONWAY MAIL CARRIER SEES A BIG BEAR

A big Northern Michigan black bear was seen again last week by Ralph Brown of Conway, near the Edward Reasoner farm in Springvale township. Mr. Brown reports that the bear showed no signs of fear or fight when he left his car to make a closer inspection of the animal. Two years ago Mr. Reasoner and son Scott Reasoner, saw a large bear near the Reasoner farm home. The one on that occasion was chased into the woods by a farm dog and escaped the gun attack planned by the farmers. It is believed that the bear seen by Ralph Brown is the same one which paid a visit to that section two years ago.

WORKING, WISHING AND---

Many years ago, Lord Stanley said "Opportunity sooner or later comes to all who work and wish," but we are inclined to think that Lord Stanley overlooked one thing. He should have said, "Opportunity sooner or later comes to all who work, wish and save."

Working and spending all we make, or wishing without working will never get us anywhere, but a combination of the three will undoubtedly bring the desired results.

You are working now, you are probably wishing too, add SAVING,—then watch the results. This bank will help you.

There Is Much Profit in Proper Management

Shiftlessness has been, and always will be, the price of dear experience. There is a profit in only what we take care of.

To go about the work of caring for poultry in a mechanical way, important matters will be forgotten, details will not be noticed. There are entirely too many who trust to luck and do not stop to think, writes Michael K. Boyer in the Farm and Ranch. A man who rushes is in a constant hurry, and never accomplishes much. Good management cuts down expenses. Scrub treatment brings scrub returns. Poultry raising commands the same business methods as employed in good dairying—the best food and care for best results.

The idea that "anything is good enough for hogs and chickens" is wrong. It has ruined the prospects of many otherwise good farmers. Nothing can be secured without effort, and the more intelligent and practical that effort, the better will be the success.

The only trouble we have at this season of the year is finding time to eat.

Moved by Ald. Livingston, seconded by Ald. Howe, that the bills be allowed. Carried by the following aye and nay vote. Ayes, Ald. Eckinger, Howe, Hooker, Livingston, Webster. Nays, none.

Alderman Eckinger, offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, seconded by Ald. Webster.

RESOLUTION
Electric Light Rates
Resolved by the common council of the city of Charlevoix that the following schedule of rates for supplying electric current to the inhabitants of the city of Charlevoix, be and hereby is, declared effective for the current year ending June 1st, 1929.

SCHEDULE "A"
Illuminating Current.
For all current used for lighting purposes from June 1st, 1928, to the first day of June, 1929, twelve (12) cents per kilowatt hour for the first 200 kilowatt hours monthly consumption, with a discount of 5 per cent if paid for on or before the 15th day of the month following on bills rendered.

For all current consumed in excess of 200 kilowatt hours per month, ten cents per kilowatt hour, with discount of 2 per cent if paid for on or before the 15th day of the month following on bills rendered.

For all current consumed for lighting purposes from October 1st to the first day of June following, eight (8) cents per kilowatt hour, with discount of 5 per cent if paid for on or before the 15th day of the month following on bills rendered.

The minimum charge per month on all meter readings shall be one dollar. All of the above rates apply to single meter readings and not to meters grouped on one service.

SCHEDULE "B"
Power Current
For all current used for power purposes and including fuel purposes, from June 1st to October 1st five cents per kilowatt hour; from October 1st to the first day of June following, four cents per kilowatt hour, with minimum charge in all cases of one and 50-100 dollars per month, and no discount for prompt payment.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the common council held in the council rooms in said city, on the 28th day of May, A. D. 1928, by aye and nay vote as follows: Eckinger, Howe, Hooker and Webster. Nays, none.

A. Bergeon, Mayor.
Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.
By D. S. Payton, Deputy.

Alderman Howe, offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, seconded by Ald. Hooker.

RESOLUTION
Resolved by the common council of the city of Charlevoix that the city clerk shall be, and hereby is, authorized to enter into contract for and in behalf of the city, with the owners of buildings and property located outside the corporate limits of the city, for service of electric current for illuminating and power purposes from the city electric works to such buildings and property at the following rates and upon the following terms and conditions:

1st. That the rate for such service shall be twelve cents per kilowatt hour for all current so used for illuminating current, and seven cents per kilowatt hour for all current used for power purposes. Provided, that the minimum charge for such current shall be $2.00 per month when service is contracted for continual service during twelve months of the year.

2nd. When the contract is for a less period than twelve months, the minimum charge per month shall be $5.00. A discount of 5 per cent shall be allowed on all monthly statements if paid on or before the 15th day of the following month, except that no discount shall be allowed on minimum charges.

3rd. That in such contract it shall be provided that the agreement of the city to supply such current at such rates shall expire on the 1st day of June, 1929, but such contract shall be construed and be treated as continued and renewed for an additional yearly period after the termination of the first year and subsequent terms of the contract shall be determined by action of the council in the month of June of the current year.

4th. That in such contract it shall be provided that the acceptance of service of electric current by the owner or occupants of the property served shall be taken as making an effective and binding contract for the current term at the rates and upon the conditions specified in this resolution, and also as an acceptance for current terms in addition as hereinbefore mentioned.

Resolved further, that nothing contained in this resolution shall be construed as binding the city to furnish current in an amount beyond the limit provided by law for delivery outside its corporate limits, nor as binding the city to provide current beyond the capacity of its works over and above the demands of its inhabitants.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the common council held in the council rooms in said city, on the 28th day of May, 1928, by aye and nay vote as follows:

Ayes: Aldermen Eckinger, Howe, Hooker, Livingston and Webster. Nays, none.

A. Bergeon, Mayor.
Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.
By D. S. Payton, Deputy.

On motion duly made the council adjourned.

Rny S. Hamilton, City Clerk.

Notice of Determination of Board of County Road Commissioners

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the board of county road commissioners of the county of Charlevoix, duly held at Charlevoix, Michigan on the 19th day of May, 1928, it was determined that the road hereinafter described shall be abandoned and discontinued as a county road.

To wit: That part of state road number 5444, situated in the township of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan and known as the Lake Shore Drive, commencing at the intersection of said road with the east eighth line of section 28, T. 34 N. R. 8 W. and running in a westerly, and northwesterly direction across government lots two, three, four and five of said section 28 and intersecting the section line common to sections 28 and 29 at a point twelve and five tenths feet north of the quarter post on said section line, thence north on said section line road to connect with old beach road on shore of Lake Michigan.

Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

By Ernest Penslee, Deputy Clerk.

Adv. 21-13.

Notice to Contractors

Scaled bids will be received by the board of county road commissioners at their office in the court house, Charlevoix, Mich., until ten o'clock Monday, June 4, 1928 for the construction of 4153.5 feet of class A 12 ft. gravel road on Norwood road in Norwood township.

Also for the construction of grade and culverts on 18,800 feet and for placing class A gravel 12 feet wide on 5,640 feet of road on Iron-ton south road in Eveline and South Arm townships.

Bids on the above work are to be made according to bidding blanks furnished by the commission and certified check for such amount as stated in the bidding blank, must accompany each bid.

Plans may be seen and bidding blanks obtained at the office of the county road commission.

The commission reserves the right to reject any or all bids or any part thereof.

Keep youth longer!
cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner drugist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

200,000 Buyers Can't Be Wrong

When the Pontiac Six was first introduced less than two and a half years ago, immediate buying enthusiasm was aroused. The public accepted the statement of General Motors and Oakland that here was a new car offering six-cylinder value never before enjoyed at such low price. 75,000 Pontiac Sixes sold in 1926 established a world's record for a new make of car. Sales for 1927 carried the total of satisfied Pontiac owners beyond the 200,000 mark.

And now, even if its unrivaled value could not be proved by comparison with other cars in its field—even if its superiority could not be demonstrated by scores of advanced features combined in no other low-priced six—even if all its claims to leadership were based on generalities—you could still buy the Pontiac Six with confidence... for 200,000 buyers can't be wrong!

If you want to know the truth about the Pontiac Six, go to any owner in town. And if you hear praise almost too enthusiastic to believe, remember that 200,000 owners will tell you substantially the same story!

Peter Johnson went to Charlevoix last Friday and from there went on to Boyne City to visit his sister, Mrs. Frank Dunlop.

R. G. Davis, Charlevoix county road maintenance superintendent, was a visitor at St. James last Friday and Saturday.

Dan P. Boyle, highway commissioner of Peaine township, has been busy repairing the roads and has improved them greatly.

Mrs. John Quinlan and Mrs. Dan P. Boyle returned home Friday from Milwaukee, where they had been spending several days.

Sheriff Dave Vaughn and Prosecuting Attorney A. L. Fitch of Charlevoix, were visitors at the island last Friday and Saturday.

Miss Rosy Griffin and Miss Revlin Williams of East Jordan, returned home Monday after spending a few weeks at the home of Nels LaFreniere.

Hubert McCauley returned to Detroit last Thursday, after spending a week with his family here. Mr. McCauley is employed in the Detroit News office.

James Wood of the University of Michigan, left last Thursday for White Fish Point. Mr. Wood had been here for the past four weeks making a collection of birds for the university.

S. Daniels of Grand Rapids, arrived at St. James last Saturday to spend a few days looking over his interests here, and incidentally to take his share of perch from the waters of St. James harbor.

Edward A. Iyer of Grand Rapids, spent several weeks here in the interest of the Kent County Scientific Museum. Mr. Iyer left last Thursday for White Fish Point, where he will make a collection of birds for the museum.

Capt. C. C. Allers, veteran snailor and well known island resident, will have reached his 80th year before this reference reaches its readers. "Cap." is about as spry as any old-timer we have ever met. His work at The Portage prevented his visiting South Haven this week, where we are told his birthday anniversary would have been an occasion of gayety and entertainment among his relatives there.

William Ranning, construction foreman of the coast guard service, has a crew of six men employed here changing the telephone wiring system. Old poles and wires are being torn down and a cable run across the harbor to the church and from there to the McCann store. U. S. patrol boat No. 118 was in the harbor laying the cable last Friday. This boat was one of the patrol boats which captured a rum-running boat with a large cargo of liquor at Mackinac Island recently.

A new resort development that will grow in popularity and greatly add to the many attractions of Beaver Island, is The Portage, developed by Capt. C. C. Allers. The cottage recently sold to Dr. Stauffer of Ann Arbor, is being completed and made ready for occupancy. Barney Harrington of Charlevoix, is building a fine fireplace in this cottage and the work of the carpenters is rapidly nearing the end. At present there are three cottages at the Portage, and it is hoped more will be erected before the building season is over. Practically every lot has been sold to prospective builders, which means additional summer people and consequently increased activity among the island's summer colony. As a summer playground, few locations in the country are as adaptable as the Beavers, and what is needed more than anything else, is a strong publicity campaign, with accompanying island views, broadcast through the larger cities. Right now is the time to do this as there are hundreds of city people looking for just such surroundings as are found on the island.

NATIONAL PROGRESS

"Faith in the ability of the people collectively to make sane, orderly plans for the future, is the very essence of continued national existence. We must stop lurching back and forth from one desired expenditure of money to another, and like grown men and women, learn to stick to proportion and to plan," says Albert W. Atwood in the Saturday Evening Post.

We will meet mail order prices on tires, tubes and batteries with Goodyears and Willards. Save you the postage and freight, too. Service free. Benj. Brown—Adv. 18-1f.

Years of Service in Model T Fords

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

New fenders, for instance, cost from $3.50 to $5 each, with a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. Tuning up the motor and replacing commutator case, brush and vibrator points costs only $1, with a small charge for material. Brake shoes can be installed and emergency brakes equalized for a labor charge of only $1.25. A labor charge of $4 to $5 will cover the overhauling of the front axle, rebushing springs and spring perches, and straightening, aligning and adjusting wheels.

The labor charge for overhauling the average rear axle runs from $5.75 to $7. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon can be done for $3 to $4.

A set of four new pistons costs only $7. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. Parts are extra.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of re-conditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

"I Wish I'd Known"

There's always a new experience ahead—something you haven't done before and which calls for a decision.

You become engaged—and immediately you are called upon to decide on the purchase of many, many things you never bought before.

You marry—and furniture, draperies, silverware, china, talking machines, oil burners, gas stoves, automobiles claim your dollars and call for a choice.

A baby comes—and again you face a new experience in purchasing clothes and powders and blankets; in buying a crib, carriage, foods, toys.

Next—what school? For the years pass incredibly fast. Once more, a new decision.

Every room in your house requires a choice. Every meal served in your dining room results from your having decided on what to serve. Every day confronts you with a multitude of possibilities from which you must select those which make life happier and better, and make the dollars go farther.

How on earth are you going to make those decisions? How can you know what you want and what you don't want? How can you buy to such advantage that you'll seldom, if ever, have occasion to use that futile phrase, "I wish I'd bought something else?"

cottage, 313 Michigan avenue, when Muriel Kathleen Hewitt was wedded to Perry Bailey.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Herman Burns, D. D., of the Baptist church, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends. After the ceremony the party retired to the Hotel Charlevoix, where a three-course breakfast was served. The color scheme carried out in the decorations was pink and white, with the bride's cake beautifully arranged in the center of the table.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hewitt of Jackson, Michigan. She graduated from Fort Meade high school, class of 1926, receiving congratulations from the Polk county high school boards, Polk county Fla., for being the youngest graduate in the history of the county. Afterwards she took vocal music instruction in Tampa, Fla., and latter at Jackson, Michigan, where she opened a school and conducted classes in dramatic art and music. The groom is the son of L. P. Bailey, practicing physician of Tampa, Fla. He is a graduate of Carson City high school and Western State Normal of Kalamazoo. He is now a teacher in the Charlevoix public schools.

At 9:30 Saturday morning the couple left for a short visit with the bride's relatives in Southern Michigan.

On their departure, Supt. George H. Coverdale very aptly expressed his best wishes to them on their honeymoon journey and journey of life. They will return some time this week, and Mr. Bailey will resume his duties in the local school. Charlevoix friends extend their congratulations.

PERE MARQUETTE-CARPENTER DIES FROM HURTS

Fred Haiss, member of the carpenter gang of the Pere Marquette railroad out of Traverse City, was killed Thursday at Petoskey, when a part of the old coal dock his crew was removing fell on him. His back was broken, both legs crushed and other injuries received. The injured man was removed to Petoskey Hospital at once, but lived less than two hours after the accident. The workman, who was about 50 years of age, resided at Traverse City, where he leaves a wife and seven children. The carpenter crew was removing the hoist section of the old coal loading dock in the P. M. yards when the accident occurred. A piece of the hoist slipped from position and caught the workman beneath its ton of weight.

DAIRY TALK DAIRY

GUARD COW FROM ATTACKS OF FLY

Although the effect of flies on dairy cattle is commonly overestimated, dairymen are finding that there are times when the pests are sufficiently numerous to warrant the use of repellents, states E. J. Perry, New Jersey extension dairy specialist.

Where flies and mosquitoes are numerous, spraying with some good fly mixture makes the cows more comfortable and helps somewhat to prevent a drop in milk production. Many good repellents are on the market, but some are better than others, says Mr. Perry.

The experience of dairymen has been that to secure satisfactory results spraying must be done twice daily. They spray after milking in the morning and again one hour before the night milking. All stalls and cans are left outside the barn while the spraying is going on and kept out as long as possible. In this way, tainting of the milk is avoided. The milk is strained inside the barn. Commercial mixtures are coming more and more into use, but for those who wish to make their own fly repellents the following are suggested by the dairy specialists:

No. 1.
Powdered resin 4 pounds
Laundry soap 4 pounds
Fish oil 2 quarts
Oil of tar 2 quarts
Kerosene 2 quarts
Fish oil 2 quarts
Boil the powdered resin, laundry soap and fish oil in one gallon of water. After boiling for a few minutes add two gallons of water and the kerosene and oil of tar. Boil this mixture for 15 minutes. Shake well and apply as needed.

No. 2.
Kerosene 2 gallons
Pine tar 1 quart
Crude carbolic acid 8 ounces
Fish oil 2 quarts
Lime seed oil 2 gallons
Mix thoroughly and apply as usual.

Garget Caused by Germ in the Udder of Animal

Garget, an affection of the mammary glands of the cow, and of some other animals, is caused by a germ that gets into the udder through the teat duct. It was formerly thought that there were two forms of this trouble, one being caused by mechanical injury, but investigators are now inclined to believe that every case is caused by bacteria. It is thought that with a heavy production of milk accumulates in the udder and forms a good medium for bacteria to multiply should they get into the udder. They set up an inflammation and the result is called garget. These harmful bacteria are not always present, but when they do gain entrance to the udder there is trouble. If conditions are favorable for their development.

Dairy Cows Will Reduce Living Costs on Farms

Every farmer realizes that the difference between what he gets for food products and what the consumer pays for these products is much larger than it used to be. Economists agree that this large difference must continue as long as freight rates and wages remain as high as they are now. But the farmer is a consumer also, and the best way for him to beat the game is to produce more of his own food on the farm. Milk and cream occupy first rank because they take the place of the most expensive foods the farmer has to buy—meat and fats—and also because they are such healthful foods. There is nothing like milk and cream to make the children grow, keep the whole family healthy and cut down the doctor's bills.

Dairy Facts

Milk utensils should be sterilized. This not only kills bacteria and makes utensils sweet and wholesome, but they also dry quickly, which prevents rusting.

Cows, however well bred or selected, which are unduly thin or out of condition do not make profitable returns from dairies. It pays to keep cows in thrifty condition at all seasons of the year.

The amount of salt required daily by the dairy cow varies according to the milk production and feed consumption. Allow the herd to have free access to salt or give them a certain amount regularly with their feed.

The man who can have—and has them—green pastures throughout the winter months does not need a silo for his cows.

Ten milk cows will need about 30 tons of silage each winter. Ten milk cows and their young offspring will need about 50 tons.

The cow which is allowed to shrink in milk flow will never come back to normal. Keep up the flow of milk through the dry pasture period with green corn and sorghum.

DATES SET TUESDAY FOR ANNUAL REGATTA

Small Attendance at Boat Club Meeting in Council Rooms

The dates for Charlevoix's 3rd annual regatta were set for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 3, 4 and 5, at a meeting of the Charlevoix Boat Club at the council rooms Tuesday evening.

Although invitations were sent to practically every business man in the city to attend the meeting, only a small number were present. In fact those attending were the usual group who have carried the burden of Charlevoix's activities for several years. The lack of interest by the business men of the city is deplorable. They profit either directly or indirectly from the tourists and resorters attracted here by the summer program, but seem wholly indifferent and unappreciative of the efforts made to bring them business. It's a good thing Charlevoix had at least a few who are active or the city would be as dead as a deserted lumber town.

Plans for the regatta were discussed and other matters pertaining to summer activities gone over.

LOCAL BUILT BOAT IN MARATHON RACE

Samuelson to Drive Brady-Made Boat From Milwaukee to Chicago

One of Brady's new model outboard boats has been entered in the Milwaukee to Chicago Marathon, sponsored by the American Outboard Motor Association. Weather permitting the race will be run on Sunday, June 3, otherwise the day following.

The boat is being entered by the Grand Traverse Boat Club of Traverse City with Ben Samuelson, owner of Dynamite, record breaker at Charlevoix's regatta last summer, as driver. The boat was shipped Wednesday and Samuelson leaves for Milwaukee on Thursday. The boat will be entered under the name of "Grand Traverse Baby" and will have Traverse City on one side and Charlevoix on the other in large white letters.

COURIER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6, 1928

PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

SCHOOL CLOSES ON FRIDAY THIS WEEK

YEAR HAS BEEN MARKED BY SUCCESS AND ACHIEVEMENT

All But Three Members of Present Teaching Staff Will Return For the 1928-29 Term

While the teaching staff for Charlevoix public schools is not quite complete, the following information regarding it is definite and may be made public at this time. Contracts have not been made with two teachers who are to take the place of those of the present staff who do not expect to return to Charlevoix next fall, and an announcement of such appointments must be deferred until a later date.

M. Otterbein of Onaway, will commence his first year as superintendent of schools next September. With him will be Oscar P. North as principal, who begins his third year. Mr. North also teaches a class in science and mathematics.

Of the present staff, most of the familiar names will appear in the faculty roster for 1928-29. Miss Velera Keller will return for her history classes; Mrs. Leona McKinley for English; Stewart Coleman for mathematics and science; Miss Elizabeth Hood for home economics; Miss Eleanor Thomas as commercial teacher and girls' athletic instructor. A new coach is yet to be chosen to take the place of Bayard K. Buchen, who goes to Vanderbilt as superintendent of schools.

Those in the grades will be Helen French, kindergarten; Rocena Wilson, first grade and principal; Gertrude Young, second grade; Florence Little, second and third grades; Ethel Mellin, third grade; Sophia Manson, fourth grade; Jaunita Secord, fifth grade; Edith Struthers, seventh grade; Walter Alexander, eighth grade. A vacancy in the sixth grade is still to be filled.

Pearl Blige will be principal of the Charlevoix county normal next year, with Gertrude Dick as critic teacher.

The north and south side ward schools will be discontinued starting with the school term in September, and all grade pupils will be housed in the new building.

The school term of 1927-28, which closes with the senior commencement in the gymnasium Thursday evening, has been one of unusual success and activity.

STATE WARDEN NOW HAVE NEW UNIFORMS

Michigan Following Lead of New York in This Respect

The natty forest green uniforms that the officers of the Michigan department of conservation will be wearing for the first time this summer, have been shipped out. The new raiment will be used by the officers at all times when they appear in public. Michigan is following the lead of New York state in this respect as conservation officers in the Empire commonwealth have been in similar garb for several years.

It is believed that the uniform will lend a degree of dignity to the office and will serve in commanding respect of the public. It will be at once a distinguished mark to all wearing it.

Officers conducting special investigation work wear citizen's dress if it can be used to advantage. There are slightly more than 140 officers in the field at all times.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING MONDAY EVENING

Election of Trustees and Transaction of School Business

Notices are posted for the annual meeting of school district No. 1 Charlevoix city and township, which will be held Monday evening, June 11, at 8:00 o'clock in the gymnasium.

The election of trustees and transaction of other business pertaining to school district in the order of the evening. The annual meeting date in other years has been in July, but will be held in June this year in conformity with the new school law.

BILLY SUNDAY SAYS NO LONG TAIL FOR HIM

Billy Sunday told a huge Baptist gathering at Pontiac that he thought the American universities were the greatest hotbeds of infidelity in the world, and that he did not believe his "unip-a-great-grandfather" had a long tail. "Those who believe so," he added, "can take their monkey ancestors and go to the devil."

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT CITY AUTO PARK

Johnston Dahlia Farm Donates Variety of Bulbs for Planting

Surplus dirt left on Mason street following laying of the school sewer is being used to make fills needed on low ground at the Charlevoix auto camp. The space on the east of the grounds at the right of the entrance is being leveled off.

Another fine addition at the camp this year will be flower beds on each side of the cement walk approaching the rest room. Joel Johnston, owner of the Johnston Dahlia Farm, has kindly given the city the use of around $50 worth of bulbs which have been planted in two rows at the camp. This along with the addition of playground equipment and other improvements, should place Charlevoix's camp well at the head of the list this season.

While there is no rush for accommodations at the present time, caretaker Hugh Brady stated financial returns to be even with this time a year ago.

SAMUELSON THIRD IN OUTBOARD RACE

TRAVERSE CITY BOY DRIVES ONLY STEP-PLANE TO FINISH

Was One of Eight to Finish Milwaukee to Chicago Marathon Out of 100 Starters

Of the more than 100 boats that started from Milwaukee last Saturday morning in the outboard marathon to Chicago, only eight finished in all classes. In class B only three reached Chicago. The third was Grand Traverse Baby, driven by Ben Samuelson of Traverse City. It was the only step-plane boat in any class to reach the goal.

The boats had comparatively calm water until they reached Waukegan, the last of the several controls, but a stiff offshore wind made the course extremely difficult and hazardous from Waukegan to Chicago and few drivers stayed in the race. Some started from Waukegan and put back. Others were picked up by the coast guard patrol or by hydroplanes from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. But alternately bumping the crest of great waves and tumbling into the trough, Samuelson and seven other drivers made their heroic way through.

At one time below Waukegan a heavy cruiser saw Samuelson's craft bouncing, apparently helpless, on the waves and put out after it, only to turn back because the water was too rough.

Vagabond of Milwaukee and Bull Frog of Evanston were the only boats to finish in Class B, and Vagabond won the race. Both were displacement boats, slower in calm water than the step-planes, but sturdier in a heavy sea. Most of the starters were step-planes, but few attempted to stay in past Waukegan. Samuelson's feat in bringing a step-plane, a boat that can only skim the water, over the heavy sea Saturday will be the talk of Northern Michigan outboard circles for many months to come.

Samuelson's success is a great interest to Charlevoix outboard enthusiasts, inasmuch as the boat he drove is one of the new double-ehing models manufactured by M. Roy Brady of this city. It is not necessary to mention that Roy is pleased.

JOHN PESEK JAIL-ED ON WET COUNT

QUANTITY LIQUOR FOUND IN SEARCH LAST THURSDAY

Caught for Third Time Two Days Following Appearance in Court for Sentence on Second Offense

John Pesek, who has caused local officers no end of worry by his persistent violation of the liquor laws, is in trouble for the third time.

Pesek appeared in circuit court here last Tuesday before Judge Farm C. Gilbert for sentence on a previous conviction, for which he had been released on probation under bond. Judge Gilbert sentenced him to pay a fine of $200 and costs of $200 on or before October 22nd, and extended his probation period until that time.

The following day, Decoration Day, a party was found intoxicated who said his liquor supply was obtained from Pesek. On Thursday a trap was laid by sending a purchaser to the Pesek farm, where a quart of liquor was obtained and officers notified. Taking advantage of a perpetual search, warrant Sheriff Vaughan and Deputy Marshall searched Pesek's home and found nearly two gallons of alleged moonshine secreted in the covers of a bed, besides a quantity of mash and some home brew. John was arrested and locked up in the county jail and will be sentenced later this week.

Pesek's utter disregard for the law is shown in the fact that even though the court had shown him leniency after he had served one term for the same offense, he still continued to make and sell liquor. There is no doubt he will be placed in a safe place for some time to come when sentenced after this latest infraction of the law.

Since being lodged in jail Pesek has caused no little trouble. Late last Saturday he developed apparent insanity, feigned or otherwise, and howled like a raving maniac. A lively scuffle ensued when Sheriff Vaughan attempted to remove him from the lower to upper cell block. Several windows were broken and, with the help of other prisoners Vaughan finally handcuffed Pesek and put him upstairs by himself. He made several fruitless attempts to escape. At first he refused to eat, but now has a healthy appetite, although he continues to go on spasmodic "tears."

The place for such fellows as Pesek is back to the country where they came from.

BIG PLEASURE YACHTS ARE BEING CONDITIONED

Activities Preparing for Resort Season Now in Progress

Indications of the coming resort season in Charlevoix, especially activities on the water, were noted Monday when Logan Thompson's yacht Sylvia was removed from its winter quarters in Round Lake. Captain Roy Ranger has part of his crew busy putting the big pleasure craft in shape for the season.

Part of the crew of the Roemar, K. E. Olds' yacht, are also engaged in getting this pleasure boat ready before the arrival of Mr. Olds from Lansing. Alfred Brown, who makes his home here throughout the entire year, is in charge of conditioning the Roemar.

DID YOU EVER SEE SMELT RUN?

HARRY HESS HAS AND TELLS ABOUT IT IN CLEVER WAY

Who's Harry Hess? Don't know, But Story Lists Like Fellow Living Close By—You Guess

A short time ago the editor's attention was called to an article published in the Michigan Farmer entitled "Though Fish Can't Walk, I Have Seen a Smelt Run." Some "fishy" story alright and smells like home talent. Harry Hess wrote the article and we'll leave it to our readers to establish his identity. The "yarn" follows:

There's a town up in Benzie county called Beulah. I don't know whether it was named after a her or a hymn, but, anyway, up until a few years ago it was just another place where the Ann Arbor railroad discharged an occasional passenger or employee. And then, with practically no warning whatever, a fish did for Beulah the same thing it did for Jonah—put them both on the map. What Henry Ford is to Detroit, the smelt is to Beulah.

To begin with, what is a smelt? At first, I thought it was an odor. But it isn't. It's a fish, a small, thin fish, built along the lines of a string bean. You can't tell what they weigh because they haven't any scales; it would take at least ten, though, to make a mess for me after an especially active day with a hay baler.

Beulah is located on U. S. 31, at one end of Crystal Lake. It looks like it had been settled on a hot day and spread—like butter. It was raining when we splashed into town about five in the afternoon in our sport model silver, and already the crowds had begun to arrive. The came from a long ways off, too; some from Chicago, Detroit, and Ironton.

Crystal Lake has just on inlet, bisecting the town of Beulah, and that inlet which isn't much wider than a wrinkle, is called Cold Creek. Well-named, too, I'm here to tell you. It felt to me like it would be a natural habitat for a walrus. For fifty-one weeks it is merely a quiet, bashful, little brooklet, meandering unnoticed on its way. But in that fifty-second week it attains more popularity and reputation than the river Styx.

These smelt are just like a lot of us—they do their running around at night. As soon as it becomes dark they leave their cozy fireplaces and in the depths of Crystal Lake and start a mad scramble for the cool recesses of Cold Creek, some using a straight breast stroke, while others negotiate the distance with a crawl. Because a few females want to spawn, and start out for that purpose, the entire bunch follows suit, and half of them couldn't lay an egg any more than they could a brick. At the same time the smelt begin their run, the fishermen starts theirs.

Between the main drag of Beulah and Crystal Lake there's about one hundred and fifty feet of Cold Creek. This is the section in which you are permitted to fish and is brilliantly illuminated with electric lights. Ninety-three is the zero hour and at that time the lights flash on, a signal is given by our game wardens (and they have to be game, too) and the panic is on. Into those frigid waters that milling mob of from one to three thousand frenzied fellows of Isaac Walton literally dive. Imagine crowding that many souls and half into a two hundred foot strip of water which was already full of fish! I wouldn't have (Continued on Page 7)

REPAIRS ON BRIDGE STREET ARE BEING MADE

New Curbs and Gutters Laid and Broken Pavement Re-surfaced

The work of re-building curbs and gutters along Bridge street, torn up last fall when street lighting and telephone wires were laid in conduits by the city and Michigan Bell Telephone company, is rapidly nearing completion.

Another part of the task, that of repairing the breaks in the pavement torn up for the same purpose, is also receiving attention. The cables and wires on the east side of Bridge street have already been removed and a telephone company crew is in the city now to pull the poles. Wires and poles will also be removed from the west side of the street within a short time.

Another improvement especially welcomed by property owners on Mason street, is that of repairing the street torn up to lay sewer to the new school building. Surplus dirt is now being removed and the broken surface will soon be re-surfaced.

CHILDREN'S DAY OBSERVED SUNDAY

FITTING EXERCISES HELD AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Nine Advanced From Primary Department and Twenty-One From Junior to High School

A fine Children's Day program was presented at the Congregational church last Sunday.

Nine children were promoted from the primary department to the junior department and presented with diplomas and Bibles. They were: Marguerite Young, Bobby Wood, Franklin Ochs, Jimmy Miller, Lee Smith, Jean Campbell, Betty Ross, Raymond Nowland and Bruce Withers.

Twenty-one young people were advanced from the junior department to the high school department, viz: Jessie Allison, Beverly Loskot, Kathleen McCall, Helen Miller, Virginia Nickerson, Ethel Powers, Clara Smith, Jean Stelter, Jane Stelter, Lila Tillotson, Marion Tyler, Charles Ager, Norman Anee, Teddy Bergman, Herbert Campbell, Dan Genett, David Livingston, Dudley Mattson, Edwin McCann, William Parker and Homer Struthers.

The program consisted of devotions by the pastor; primary songs and memory work; promotion exercises; several songs by the school; a solo by Don Tillotson; two class songs; recitations by Lewis Greenman, Ernestine Nickerson, Marjory Webster, Marshall O'Neil, Keith Nickerson, George Kelderhouse, Drew Young, Barbara Withers and Virginia Nickerson; a tag drill by eight girls and closing address by Dr. Mattson.

BERGEON MOVES INTO NEW NOVAK BUILDING

Mr. and Mrs. H. Pearl Will Occupy Vacated Geiken Building

Another change in the business locations on Bridge street is being made this week. Bergeon's dry goods and men's furnishings store, for many years located in the Geiken building adjoining the Central Drug store, is being established in the south portion of the new Novak building. Stock and fixtures are now being moved to the new location.

The building vacated by Bergeon will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. Pearl, who will continue their barber and beauty parlor establishment in this location. The interior of the building will be re-decorated and necessary alterations made.

GALLAGHER TRANSFER LINE HAS FINE 2-TON TRUCK

A fine new 2-ton Reo truck, with double rear wheels, capable of handling about any freight load he runs up against, has been purchased by Francis Gallagher and has been placed on the Charlevoix-Petoskey freight run. Lettered conspicuously on both sides of the truck is the caption "Spirit of Charlevoix." Francis stole this slogan from Lindy's big air ship, but he handles the new freighter with the same dexterity as Lindy did his plane. "The old Ford was too small for my rapidly growing business," Gallagher told the Courier. "I can carry more freight in this new bus than I could in three trips with the other outfit, and of course I want to give my people the very best of service." And you can rely on what Francis says, too.

MAY COURT TERM CLOSED SATURDAY

SMALL DOCKET OF CASES WERE HEARD AND DISPOSED OF

Probation Periods of Eight Liquor Law Violators Extended—Court Adjourned Until July 9

The May term of circuit court, held at the court house at Charlevoix, closed last Saturday. The docket was small and was nearly all cleaned up at this session.

A decree to quiet title was granted F. Wesley Dilworth in his suit against the unknown heirs of Celia Stroud, et al.

Chester Brannan of Boyne City, must furnish $300 bond and guarantee payment of $1 per day for the support of his wife and children or serve from one to three years at Ionia with a recommendation of 2 1/2 years.

In the case of the Pennsylvania R. Co., vs. B. C. G. & A. R. R. Co., assumpst, judgment in default was given in the sum of approximately $700.

Probation period of Mike Saganik, liquor law violator, was extended until the 1st day of February term, 1929, and on or before that date he must pay costs of $75 and appear then for sentence.

Probation periods of Joe Saltis, Joe Bank, Sam Pavanik and Jacob Bendik, liquor law violators, were extended until 1st day of May term, 1929, and they must pay balance of fine by that date and appear then for sentence. Same bond was continued. Joe Gingle's probation was extended to July 9th, 1928, and he must pay balance of fine by that time and appear then for sentence.

Probation periods of Guy Pearl and Hamilton Marshall were extended until 1st day of May term, 1929, and one year from date, respectively. Marshall must pay costs of $100 by that date.

Isaac Denemy, charged with breaking and entering, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation until 1st day of August term. He must give over all wages earned to the county clerk who will allow him $5 per week. R. L. Lewis was appointed probation officer.

James Crandall, liquor law violator, was sentenced to pay costs of $100 on or before May 29, 1929 and appear then for sentence.

Henry Einwechter pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor law. His case was continued until the October term and he was released under bond.

BIRD HOUSE CONTEST PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Graders Were Among Winners

Prizes in the Bird House contest, sponsored recently by the Shakespeare Study Club, were awarded last week. Owing to considerable illness among the children of the city, the number of houses entered was small. The seventh and eighth grades did not enter any.

In the third grade, Jimmy Hiller won 2nd prize of 75 cents for the only house entered. In the fourth grade, Edward Radle won 1st prize of $1.25, and Laurence Elzinga 2nd prize. In the fifth grade, Junior Heise won 1st prize and Eldon McCann second. In the sixth grade, Drew Young won 1st on a very fine bird house and Claire Tillotson of the training room sixth grade won 2d prize.

The Shakespeare Study Club was aided in carrying out the contest by the Charlevoix State Bank, Charlevoix County Bank, Chamber of Commerce and American Legion, who donated the prize money.

THREE CONTRACTS LET BY ROAD COMMISSION

Two Go to East-Enders and One to O. D. Hammond of Charlevoix

Three contracts for road work were let at the meeting of the Charlevoix county road commission at the court house Monday.

R. C. Somerville of East Jordan, was given the contract for grading approximately 3 1/4 miles on the Ironton-south road and O. D. Hammond the contract for graveling one mile of this stretch following grading.

Caldwin Brothers of Boyne City, were awarded the contract for construction of three fourths mile of 12-foot gravel on the Norwood road.

Blanche and Curtis Kowalske of East Jordan, were out one day last week to visit their great-grandfather Kowalske, at the Cooper home. Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Davis and children of Grand Rapids, arrived Monday night for a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Spidle.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Best of Ellsworth, spent Wednesday afternoon and evening at the home of their son, Merion and family, it being his birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hemstreet and Mr. and Mrs. H. Bedell and families of Bellaire, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sach and family of Boyne City, were callers at the Fitzpatrick home Sunday.

Sunday, May 27th, several families came with well filled baskets to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper, to remind Mr. Cooper of his 72nd birthday. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bartlett and children, Mr. and Mrs. George Summers and son, Merle, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Summers all of East Jordan, and Mrs. Edward Kowalske and daughter, Anna, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Walker and children. It was also Mrs. Bartlett's, Anna Kowalske's and Mrs. Howard Summers' birthdays. Mr. Cooper received some nice presents, among which was a $5.00 bill from grandpa Kowalske. All enjoyed a fine dinner and a good time.

IRONTON

Mrs. King had her tonsils and adenoids removed Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peterson and children visited in East Jordan Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saunders attended Pomona Grange at Deer Lake Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson and daughters, Mildred and Dona, were in East Jordan Saturday evening.

School closed a successful year Friday. They all enjoyed a picnic dinner together on the beach.

Lulu McClanathan entertained a number of her school friends to a birthday party at her home Thursday evening.

A Children's Day program is being prepared to be given Sunday, June 9th and we are sure it will be worth coming to hear.

Mr. Cortright of the Petoskey high school, gave a very interesting lecture at the Memorial services here on Wednesday.

F. O. Barden Jr. of Boyne City, has purchased the delicatessen at Walloon Lake and will open the store for summer trade.

Mrs. Frank Regan entertained her sister-in-law, Mrs. Moses Cooper of Johannesburg, and her cousin, Charles Watkins and family of Manelona, over the week end.

The store at Walloon Lake, owned by W. H. Wilson, and of which C. B. Latt has been manager, has been sold to L. A. Spalding of Detroit, who took charge of the business last week.

The state utilities commission has granted permission to the Pennsylvania system to close the depot at Clarion and open one at Lake Junction.

Rev. C. J. Kruse of Petoskey, conducted church services here on Sunday afternoon, giving a very interesting talk on the work of the conference at Kansas City, to which conference he was a delegate.

People here were much disappointed that last week's Courier contained no account of the program or award of prizes for school work exhibited at the Melrose township school day held at Walloon Lake on May 24. (Usually these meetings are taken care of by local correspondents, or reported to newspapers of the county by the school commissioner. So far this spring we have received no reports, nor have we seen them published elsewhere. Editor.)

Bring in your catalogue prices on tires, tubes and batteries. We will meet them with our standard, well known Goodyear make and Willard Batteries. Benj. Brown.—Adv. 18-1f.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrit Rubingh and Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuis and families were recent callers at the home of Geo. Drenth.

Bring in your catalogue prices on tires, tubes and batteries. We will meet them with our standard, well known Goodyear make and Willard Batteries. Benj. Brown.—Adv. 18-1f.

AT THE MOVIES

Witness Attacked While Testifying

A murder trial is in progress. The noose is tightening about the neck of Dapper Frank Trent, notorious gangster, suspected murderer. The prosecution has just announced that it will put a former member of Castoni's gang on the witness stand. The witness takes the stand, is sworn in and glares at his former leader. He is just opening his mouth to speak when a shot rings out sharply. The witness crumples in his chair, dead.

Then George Baneroff, the big daredevil detective lieutenant, gets on the trail of the crooks in "The Drag Net," the Paramount picture coming to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday night.

HOORAY! Harold Teen Is Coming! "Harold Teen," the drug store cowboy with Oxford hags and a weakness for Shenas, whose antics on comic pages through the country have entertained millions, has turned to the screen and comes in that form to the Palace Theatre Friday.

First National Pictures made "Harold Teen" under the direction of Mervyn LeRoy, and in the opinion of critics, it is one of the most entertaining and delightful comedies of the year.

The Ways of Gangdom Have Undergone Change

Crookdom has changed. No longer do members of the underworld live in cellars, lean over a table with a candle for light, and plot their latest forays against society. Quite the contrary is true, as is graphically shown in "The Drag Net," Paramount's latest production starring George Baneroff, coming to the Palace Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

If you need money for any worthy purpose you can borrow it on your automobile from the Fidelity Corporation of Michigan, Peoples State Savings Bank Building, East Jordan, Michigan, and repay it in monthly installments.—Adv. 23-11.

TIRE TALK

THAT'S 100 % SINCERE!

When a great big company like Goodyear says this is the Greatest Tire in the World, they are not taking chances with their good name just to be sensational.

And you know us, too! When we repeat here what Goodyear says it's because we know it's true.

This is—beyond a doubt—the greatest tire in the world, and we have seen them all.

That's talking "cold turkey." But we're sincere about it.

Come in and see it—the new-type All-Weather Tread Goodyear Ballon. It has a tread designed specially for balloon tire wear. It has the genuine Supertwist carcass—made only by Goodyear. Know these latest things about tires.

BY MAN SHALL HIS BLOOD BE SHED

(By D. J. Walsh)

THE wounded man roused himself, then motioned to the nurse. She bent over him. "Read to me."

"What chapter?"

"Genesis; ninth chapter, fifth and sixth verses."

Turning to the places designated, the nurse said:

"And surely your lives of your blood will I require it, and at the hand of every beast will I require it, and at the hand of man; at the hand of every man's brother, will I require the life of man whosever sheddeth . . . by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made he man."

"The nurse would have read on, but he halted her."

"Halt me."

She adjusted his pillow and he leaned back, gasping.

"That is better," he said, reclining on the pillow, his chest rising and falling as he breathed with effort. "It has been ten years since first I heard those words you just read."

"You must not talk. The doctor's orders are for you to remain quiet."

"Those words," he went on, ignoring the nurse's commands, "impressed me little ten years ago, except as being mighty appropriate for the time and occasion. It was in a little church at Valerit. The congregation of soldiers—part of the 33,000 Canadian expeditionary force that landed first in England in October. I had left my cabin in the wilds to enlist, but was rejected—no old."

"I stayed on anyway, several days visiting with Calhorn, who had enlisted and was eager as any of the men to be away at the front."

"Calhorn! That is the name of the man who stabbed you, isn't it?"

"The same. But it isn't the first time you have heard of two friends turning on each other like a couple of wolves, is it?"

The nurse admitted it wasn't.

"The minister choose his text that day in a little church at Valerit from the verses you just read. He told the solemn, silent congregation where they were going many of them would shed the blood of their brothers and in turn their own in the rising emergencies of war. He told them blood was precious, sacred, an atonement for the soul—a vehicle belonging to God, and always demanded, always forfeited, sooner or later the debt was contracted, and extorted them never to shed it needlessly. How weighty and significant his words seem now when they then but passed with the bearing!"

"You were strong and well then. Soon will be again if you obey the doctor's orders. What appears mountains to a sick person shrinks to mole hills when they are well and strong again."

"A man," he rambled on in self-analysis, "may regard truth lightly, trample it heedlessly all his days, but he never will stamp it out. It smolders on, one day to blaze up."

"All my life I have been a man of slaughter. Shedding blood needlessly—a trapper in the Canadian wilds! I have made countless orphans. Many, many furred and feathered parents desolate that I might secure money. I have enough now, gained from that source, to supply all the needs of life, and have wasted as much again in useless excesses."

"Requests! what of their blood?"

"But this book says 'at the hand of every beast.' If the blood of beasts does not count why is it mentioned? I went back to the wilds. Returning with furs to sell. Was at the station when the boys entrained on the Canadian Northern for the seaport where they would take ship for the eastern front. I had my knife with me. It had a deerfoot handle. I had carried it all my trapping days. It had been dipped in the blood of beasts countless numbers of times—so often that the ten-inch blade had become bleached with dark brown spots—blood had dried and would not scum off in sand or any way I tried. That blade had been stained with human blood, too! I had used it more than once in fights over game poached from traps and traps stolen. I wore the knife in my belt as I stood by the train talking with Calhorn. He, leaning from the window, noticed it."

"That pretty knife you have there, Jim. Let's see it."

WOOD BROS.

"I handed it to him. His fingers closed around the handle and he made several swipes with the blade through the air."

"A dandy weapon in a set-to with a boche!"

"It's sure fire. Take it along," I called as the train pulled out."

Suddenly he straightened up from his pillow, his eyes wild, demanding: "Where is the weapon he cut me with?"

"There, there," the nurse soothed as she reached over and attempted gently to force him back on his pillow. "You have exerted yourself enough, too much, already. Rest and go to sleep."

He pushed her hands away. His voice rose, insistent, angry: "Get me that weapon. I must see it!"

"You have already seen it. You pulled it from your side with your own hands when he cut you," the nurse replied, alarmed, but hoping to quiet her patient.

"True I did. But I was too excited—too drunk to notice whether I had been stabbed with a knife, a sword or a bayonet. Calhorn himself did not know. Crazy, in our drunken quarrel, he reached up among his collection of weapons on the wall brought back from the fields of Ypres, the Somme and Vimy ridge. His fingers closed on the first they touched and he struck me."

With hopes of quieting the patient the nurse stepped over to the telephone.

"Mr. Keller; this is Miss Collins. Old Man Priest wants you to bring over the weapon he was stabbed with. Says he must see it; at once!"

"He's bringing it right over," she reported, returning to the bedside. The patient relaxed on his pillow. He was so weak! It was pitiful to see one but a few hours before strong and robust now as helpless as a child.

Keller, the lawyer, thinking he might be in the way of obtaining some new legal points in the case, came hurrying over, the weapon wrapped in a newspaper. The patient raised himself excitedly as the bearer of the parcel entered and approached the bedside. He snatched the parcel and tore off the wrapping.

"The snipe knife!" he gasped, sinking back on his pillow. "Old deer-foot!" clasping his fingers around the unique handle and holding the knife up as Keller and the nurse looked on, fascinated oddly.

"Blood-letting weapon of a lifetime," continued the patient, oblivious of the nurse and lawyer's presence. "Who can explain your strange return?"

He raised his burning eyes to those of the lawyer.

"Do not prosecute Calhorn. I do not want him prosecuted. Promise! Shell-shocked, gassed in France. Madened by the abuse I heaped upon him in our drunken round. He did not know what he was doing. Promise!"

"I shall present your request at the examination," rejoined the lawyer. Priest sank back on his pillow and lay quiet for a spell. Then, rousing again suddenly, looked at the keen, worn bright blade. Held it up so that the sun's warm rays coming in through the window illuminated on the glittering steel—held it up for the nurse and lawyer to gaze.

"See!" he quivered. "The spots I could not scum off are gone! The blade is clean!"

The nurse hastened to the patient's side. A smile had parted his lips. His hands relaxed and dropped heavily onto the coverlet. The knife clattered from his fingers to the floor. He fell back heavily against the pillow with a tired outlet of breath. His head fell forward, lolling on his breast.

The lawyer sprang to assist the nurse, but all they could do was straighten the deserted body.

Took Full Advantage of Croesus' Kindness

Croesus, informed of Alcmaeon's kindnesses, made him a present of as much gold as he should be able to carry at one time about his person. Finding that this was the gift assigned in him Alcmaeon took his measures and prepared himself to receive it in the following way:

He clothed himself in a loose tunic, which he made to hug greatly at the waist, and placing upon his feet the widest buskins that he could anywhere find, followed his guides into the treasure house.

Here he fell to upon a heap of gold dust, and in the first place packed as much as he could inside his buskins between them and his legs; after which he filled the breast of his tunic quite full of gold, and then sprinkling some among his hair, and taking some likewise in his mouth, he came forth from the treasure house, scarcely able to drag his legs along, like anything rather than a man, with his mouth crammed full, and his bulk increased in every way.

On seeing him Croesus burst into a laugh, and not only let him have all that he had taken, but gave him presents besides of fully equal worth. Thus this house (the Alcmaeonidae) became one of great wealth; and Alcmaeon was able to keep horses for the chariot race, and won the prize at Olympia.—Herodotus.

Methods of Shearing

There will be an endless argument as to the merits of hand shearing against the machine. But machine shearing leaves a smoother sheep after the operation is over and will get off a little more wool. However, if a farmer has a small flock and can get his sheep clipped at a fair price—around 15 cents a head—he need not worry what method is used. The main thing is to see that the sheep are handled carefully and not clipped when full of grass.

They say that if a girl is beautiful, it isn't so necessary that she be a good cook! But too often, Mother Nature gives the curly hair and the baby dimples to somebody else's daughter. And then, if you are a wise mother, you teach your daughter other ways of being attractive—among which is the old, old one, of being perfectly at home over a kitchen stove.

Little Mrs. Percival had always wondered, in her gentle way, why Marion, her only child, had seemed to inherit all the late Mr. Percival's traits, and none of her mother's. She had been a rough-and-tumble baby; she had been a tom-boy little girl. And now, at twenty, she was affecting a sleek coiffure, wearing horn-rimmed glasses and threatening to study law!

Mrs. Percival had seen to it, however, that Marion, in spite of her masculine looks, could cook a dinner fit for a king. And when Marion finally tumbled head over heels in love with a young man who seemed a bit afraid to fall in love with her, gentle little Mrs. Percival armed herself for battle, and sallied forth.

How the Kitchen Club Helped

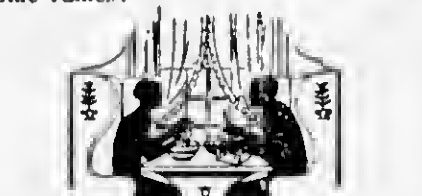

The Kitchen Club was called into consultation, without being told the underlying reason for the sudden activity. Mrs. Percival's kitchen was made a most delightful, most feminine place (description of it in Nancy's notebook).

Marion's young man was invited to dinner. Mrs. Percival came down with a convenient headache, and Marion had to solve the problem of entertaining him while she cooked dinner. It wound up with his going to the kitchen and discovering there a flushed and flustered, but very housewifely Marion, that he was not at all afraid of.

You know the rest—"Here Comes the Bride," and all that. And the Kitchen Club never knew that it had been called upon to play Cupid!

LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

We made Mrs. Percival's kitchen as sweet and feminine as the girl. Walls silver-gray; floor, blue and white linoleum; oil stove, blue, silver-gray and white; breakfast nook (built-in), pale blue trimmed with pink flowers—transfer patterns—window-box painted light rose color, and filled with vines and pink begonias. Refrigerator, table, shelves, etc., white trimmed with blue. Curtains, white with little blue ruffles!

Mrs. Percival served us a simply divine dessert, made of big hunks of angel cake, covered with hot chocolate sauce filled with nuts, and topped with ice cream! Here are the recipes:

Whites of 12 eggs
1½ cups granulated sugar (measured after sifting)
1 cup and 1 tablespoon pastry flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch salt
1½ teaspoons cream of tartar

Sift sugar five times. Set aside. Sift flour, cream of tartar and salt together five times. Set aside. Beat whites to a froth, not quite as stiff as for meringue. Sift in sugar, folding it into eggs as lightly as possible. Sift in flour. This also must be done with as light a handling and as much speed as possible. Turn into unbuttered pan and cook in slow oven for fifty-five minutes. Put pan of water in oven with it and keep it there for forty minutes. Do not open the oven door for twenty minutes after cake starts to bake. At the end of forty minutes take pan of water out. At the end of fifty-five minutes take out cake and turn it upside on plate to cool in pan.

Chocolate Sauce
2 cups white sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
½ cup water
Cook to thick syrup. Add nuts and serve hot over cake.

Proper Heat of Oil Stove for Angel Cake

Keep flames low, so that they show blue. (For faster cooking turn them up 1½ inches.) A really good oil stove will burn with a steady flame, and will need no watching.

Never use a knife on angel cake. Pull it apart with two forks. This keeps the feathery texture from crushing.

UPHOLDS PADLOCK LAW

A decision, which is expected to have far-reaching effect in the enforcement of national prohibition, has been handed down by the United States Supreme Court, that tribunals sustaining the right of government agents to padlock premises where it has been shown they were being used for the storage or sale of intoxicating liquors.

The case reached the higher court on appeal from Michigan decision, which had upheld the law, and is now considered final in all cases. The padlock provision was placed in the Volstead law by government officials who believed the best way to prevent the use of a building for such purposes was to close it for a period sufficiently long to discourage its further use for the unlawful traffic in rum.

Since the recent decision touches the self-interest of the property owner it is expected he will be more careful in ascertaining in advance the exact purpose to which his rented property is being put. In larger cities it was no uncommon practice for a raided place to be opened the next day following the raid with a new proprietor, rendering the work of the enforcement officers practically valueless. An avalanche of raids, especially in the larger cities, is expected to follow immediately upon the heels of the decision.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Recently there was concluded an "early diagnosis" campaign of nationwide scope in which the Michigan Tuberculosis association took an important part.

The campaign was intended to aid in finding and arresting incipient cases of tuberculosis. Thousands upon thousands of dollars were spent in the campaign and it is safe to say this money will be repaid in human lives saved through early discovery of the disease.

Successful conclusion of that campaign does not mean a cessation of activity by the association, but rather a renewal of the day-to-day work the organization is carrying on throughout the year.

Because this work must go on uninterruptedly, full public support of clinical and similar work is asked. If this is received the early diagnosis campaign will yield a golden return of health and happiness.

PUBLIC SAFETY

Death from accidents have been increasing by leaps and bounds throughout the United States. Leading the causes has been the automobile. This has been true because of two factors. Human and mechanical.

Each year automobiles are built capable of being driven at ever increasing speed. The human mind cannot operate but so fast. If the machine is imperfect the mind cannot prevent an accident. If the human element is not right the best mechanical devices in the world will not prevent accidents.

Michigan leads the world in the production of autos. It is only fitting that Michigan should take leadership in prevention of auto accidents. It is for just this purpose that there recently was formed a Michigan Safety Council, headed by Governor Fred W. Green and including in its membership, leading men from all parts of the state. The best brains in the manufacturing and engineering fields, safety experts, doctors, lawyers and merchants.

All are working without pay to promote a state-wide campaign for safety. They will prepare and promote a program of public education—moral and technical; automobile equipment inspection; driver certificate inspection; tests of mechanical devices such as breaks, horns, headlights and steering gears.

They will, in short, try to make certain that no unsafe auto is driven and that no unsafe driver sits back of a steering wheel.

It is a work worthy the hearty and complete support of every citizen in the state and worthy the splendid personnel and leadership it has been given.

TREASURY LOOTING

Recently, a man in high public place in the United States who has the confidence of the people to an unprecedented extent, delivered an address in Washington during which he drew a picture of the financial situation in this country and the demands that are being made on the treasury for funds.

He pointed out in no uncertain terms that these demands were not based either on necessity or desirability, and if they were put into effect they would almost wreck the treasury. He recited the various items from flood control downward which would cause the expenditure of billions of dollars and commenced directly on the fact that those who are pushing the measures know the situation as well as he did. He appealed for a more patriotic attitude toward the treasury, and pointed out that undue optimism is a national menace. He cited the fact that two years before the great war such a war was considered utterly impossible, and even the great experts who visualized the prospects of such a war said it would not last for sixty days. He pointed out the four-year continuance of the war and the practical bankruptcy of the world. He cited the various periods of panic and depression in the United States and showed that before each one of them optimism ran riot and extravagance went to extreme limits. He asked for sanity in public expenditures if not for patriotism.

COMMENT FROM PITTSBURG

A few weeks ago the press of the nation was filled with the story of conditions as they then existed in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, and which resulted in a senatorial investigation committee being appointed to probe into the coal mining situation in this country. Since that time not much has been heard concerning the miner's plight, but a leading business man of Pittsburg, whose integrity is unquestioned, gave utterance to the following comment regarding the investigation by the United States senate:

"As you know this district is suffering from the effects of a so-called senatorial investigating committee, which it seems to me to be very much more fault finding than investigating. Each of the members of this committee has repeatedly made the statement that the union is all that stands between communism and good government in this country, something that we know is utterly untrue and that all non-union workmen who are greatly in the majority both as regards numbers and votes, will no doubt very much resent. They also seem to be aware of the fact that mines owned by railroad brotherhoods abrogated the Jacksonville scale and in a letter which was published, notified John Lewis, president of the Miner's Union, they propose to operate non-union, as operating under union conditions was driving them into bankruptcy."

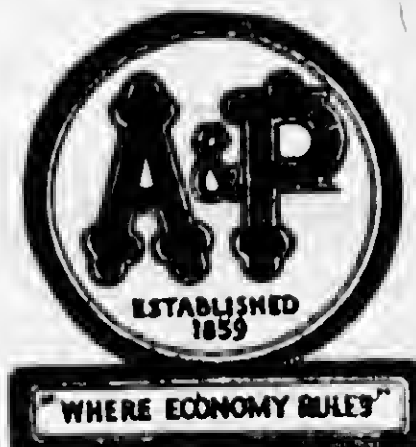

NEW INVESTIGATIONS

The merry whirl of investigation goes right on. It would seem as if the oil investigation is about to close but several new ones have been begun. One of them has to do with the primary expenses in connection with the presidential nominations. A committee for this purpose can be extremely useful because slush funds in presidential campaigns are almost as bad as the attempt to purchase nominations by promising favors to certain supposedly large voting organizations. The man who gives a fund of a million dollars in the hope of reward to promote a candidacy is no worse than the organization that pledges 400,000 or more votes in return for present or prospective legislation. Corruption of any kind whether by delivery of votes or cash should be thoroughly looked into. It is to be hoped that the investigations will be conducted with dignity and decorum.

FIVE MILLION FINGER REARED BY DEPARTMENT

The state department of conservation expects to have close to five million of fingerling trout available for distribution in the streams of the state this year. The state's fish experts are working towards the fingerling stage as rapidly as possible. Nearly four millions of the fingerlings have been reared under partially natural conditions while more than one million have been brought along under strictly natural conditions.

The program consisting of the class history, class poem, class will, giftatation, class wit, class prophesy and three musical numbers was well arranged and executed. A large attendance was present for the evening's program.

Preliminary activities toward establishing a centralized agency for advertising Michigan's recreational advantages have so encouraged Governor Fred Green that he believes such an organization may be perfected in time to function effectively in 1929. The recent meeting of railroad executives with the governor in Lansing was the opening gun in a series of conference leading to recommendations to the next legislature. Within the next few weeks the governor will receive from railroads and private interests a resume of what is being done and what is contemplated toward development of recreation, and advertising. From this information a proposal for unified activity, with the state bearing its share of expense, will be drawn.

RURAL ROUTE PATRONS ASK FOR EXTENSIONS

Petitions Granted and Become Effective July 1

The several extensions on Rural Route 2 from East Jordan for which the patrons petitioned were granted to take effect July 1st.

The one petition asked for the mail route to go north from Lane's corner to Lake road, the other is for short extension on Lake road from Renfrenberg corner to Robert Stuart farm house, giving mail service to seven families. The third petition is for summer or tourist schedule, from June 16 to September 15, the extension is north on Lake road to Hayden's Point, eight families will receive mail service on this extension. This extension was much needed by the many summer residents of the growing resort. The patrons on these extensions are all very thankful to the postal department, and also to our congressman, Hon. Frank P. Bohn, for the prompt action.—East Jordan Herald.

We will save you the cost of postage or freight and make immediate delivery on any mail orders for tires, tubes and batteries, and throw in our free service. Benj. Brown—Adv. 18 tf.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling daughter, Edna Noble Doyle, who died three years ago today, June 9th:

In a vessel of earth it came,
A spirit of beauty aflame;
Her laughter, her song and her mirth,
All held in a vessel of earth,
A jar when was fragile, but, oh,
We cherished and loved it so.

And we know what we loved cannot die,
Though broken this vessel may lie;
And we know why the clay was so fair,
'Twas because she was nestled in there;
We learned 'twas her beautiful soul,
Which really made lovely the bowl.
Her loving mother, Mrs. Cora Noble.—Adv. 23-1.

A TRUISM

Seneca, the ancient Roman philosopher, once said "Economy is in itself a source of great revenue," and he spoke truer probably than he knew.

Economy doesn't mean pinching nor does it mean hardship, it simply means good judgment and care in expenditure.

It means the elimination of the purchase of needless luxuries. It means watching the pennies, if you will. It isn't hard work and is the source of a great deal of pleasure.

Economy and saving go hand in hand. Will you permit us to assist you in the economical handling of your money and its systematic saving?

DAIRY FACTS

FEDERAL DAIRY PRODUCTS GRADES

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.
Federal dairy products inspectors will be known as official graders and the government inspection certificates on dairy products will be known as official grading certificates, beginning July 1, the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, has announced in revised regulations. The change in designation has been made to clarify the work of the department with reference to its various activities relating to dairy and poultry products, and to conform to international terms with respect to grading of these products for quality and condition.

The bureau announced that the use of existing inspection certificates will continue until the supply is used up. The new certificates of quality which are used by firms to send carloads of eggs which are packed from graded lots, and to inclose in cartons of butter which is packed from churnings which have been officially graded, will read substantially as follows:

"This is to certify that the churnings of butter (or the lot of eggs) from which the butter (or eggs) contained in this carton was taken was graded by an official grader of the United States Department of Agriculture; that the date of said grading and number of grading certificate are perforated or stamped hereon, and that the quality of the butter (or eggs) when inspected was 83 score or higher, if butter, (and U. S. No. 1 Extra or better, if eggs)."

Individuals and organizations using this government service are advised that they may continue to use their present supply of inspection certificates and of certificates of quality issued to applicants for inspection under present regulations, but copy to be submitted to the printer for the printing of any new supplies should be submitted first for the approval of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

A constantly increasing demand for the official grading of butter, cheese and eggs is reported. A chain-store organization operating 125 retail stores in the Bay cities of California, and a large butter and egg jobbing firm in Boston have been among recent applicants for the use of certificates of quality in their retail cartoned products.

The government inspection, or grading service as it is known, was established in the bureau of markets in the Department of Agriculture in 1917 in response to a demand for such a service from producers, wholesalers, retailers and consumers. The service has grown steadily until now there are 36 official graders. Grading offices are maintained in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Plymouth, Wis., Minneapolis, Duluth, San Francisco, Petaluma, Calif., and at various points in Missouri. In Minnesota alone, 80,000,000 pounds of butter a year is being graded; in New York city the annual grading of live poultry will approximate 12,000,000. In Missouri there will be inspected this year some 500 carloads of eggs. The Boston and Philadelphia services are carried on in co-operation with local produce exchanges, and in Minnesota, Missouri and California in co-operation with state departments of agriculture.

Select Sire to Improve

Good Qualities of Herd

A sire should be selected to improve the dairy qualities of the herd he is to head, and should, therefore, be descended from animals that have proved their dairy qualities.

Find out, if possible, the production records of his dam, two granddams and four great-granddams. Learn if his sire and two grandfathers have gotten high producing daughters.

See the offspring and dam, if possible, and find out whether they indicate that the sire in question comes from stock with proved transmitting ability.

Remember that 50 per cent of the inheritance of an animal comes from his sire and dam; that 25 per cent is divided between his four ancestors in the second generation, and 12½ per cent is divided between eight ancestors in the third generation back. The remaining 12½ per cent in his inheritance is divided among all the ancestors.

Remember also that many ancestors may not have had a chance to prove themselves, and that a pedigree may therefore not tell all the truth about the animal in question.

Don't select a poor individual, however long and astounding be his pedigree.

Ducks Not Particular

Where They Leave Eggs

Ducks lay heavily during the laying season. However, they are not particular as to where they leave the eggs. It is no uncommon sight to see duck eggs scattered here and there in the yard or hog lot. As a result of this thoughtless attitude on their part, many eggs are eaten or destroyed by dogs, swine or the ducks themselves.

The proper method of handling the ducks in order to get all the eggs laid is by keeping the ducks confined in a duck house, or an abandoned stall of the barn during the night and until light or nine o'clock in the morning.

Poultry Items

Tobacco in some form is now generally used as a remedy for intestinal worms in poultry.

Remove all males four to five weeks of age. Furnish perching space early to prevent crowding.

You can't have thrifty chicks unless they get sunlight—either direct, or through these glass substitutes. Window glass strains out the life-giving violet rays.

The demand for fresh duck eggs is never oversupplied.

"The best hens and roosters to keep and to breed from," says one poultryman, "are the bright, nervous, 'tink stive' kind, but not the 'squeakers.'" These are signs of vigor, and vigor means eggs.

It is the general practice not to keep breeding ducks more than three or four years, although people have kept them with good results until they were eight years old.

Heavy egg production, like heavy milk production, can only be secured by liberal feeding of a well-balanced ration.

Only three chicks should be placed in a brooder house for every square foot of its floor space. A house 10 by 10 feet will hold only 300 chicks.

Scratch feed, mashies, meat scraps and milk, properly fed, under common-sense methods make it possible to bring poultry into egg production successfully.

Pure ground limestone or oyster shell, or both, should be available for the hens at all times.

Black raspberries are reproduced almost entirely by the tips or ends of lateral branches becoming attached to the ground at the end of the growing season.

DID YOU EVER SEE SMELT RUN?

gone in there for a seal. There they stood, or, those who weren't pushed over, stood, the icy waters of Cold Creek lapping around their laps and swirling in the tops of waders; overcoats dangling in the drink and all the time, continual downpour on their heads. Talk about a soggy looking sight—that was it. It was a perfectly grand place for a pneumonia specialist to start a profitable practice.

The paraphernalia used in capturing these smelt was anything from snow shovels to pie tins; everything, in fact, but the kitchen sink, and I saw one woman use her hair net. Maybe she was after a herring. From 9:30 until 10:00 o'clock you're allowed to get all the fish you can and the fun waxed fast and furious. Then the lights go out and the crowd sort of oozes from the creek. They look just like fish, too—sopping wet. One

Man So Nervous Feels His Stomach Jump

"I got so nervous my stomach felt like it was jumping. Vinol entirely relieved the trouble. I feel better than in years."—J. C. Duke.

Vinol is a compound of iron, phosphates, cod liver peptone, etc. The very FIRST bottle makes you sleep better and have a BIC appetite. Nervous, easily tired people are surprised how QUICK the iron, phosphates, etc., give new life and pep. Vinol tastes delicious. F. J. Fessenden, Druggist.—Adv. 23-11.

guy said that next year he intended to start a concession of clothes wringers and run each person through as they emerged. They were wetter than an Elk's convention.

A big share of the crowd stayed all night. Same in the two hotels, some, apparently, walked the street while others slept in their cars. You take a Ford, and there isn't enough room for a wasp to sleep in comfort, yet I saw any number fixed up as pullmans and sleeping four. With the racket outside and poker and crap games in progress in the hotel, it was all we could do to snatch a shut-eye; and just as I was beginning to doze off someone pounded on the door and said it was time to get in line for another mess.

So, though it was only four o'clock, I unshined, dressed, and upon reaching the great outdoors, I collided with a line of hungry fishermen three blocks long. In it were all manner of folks. Hicks, like myself, who should have been home at that hour milking; bankers; lawyers; hard-looking eggs from the cities; my neighbor in line was a college professor who was probably after the whole school of smelt; ladies dressed in knickers, with caps pulled down, and you really couldn't tell what sex they were until they spit. Altogether, it was a cosmopolitan and motley mob.

At daylight, as these smelt, after their all-night bat up the creek, start back for the lake, game wardens dip them out and apportion a mess of about fifty to each person. If they had had five loaves, it would have recalled the old Biblical parable. All the ladies were permitted to go to the head of the line and get their fish first; so, if you're planning on going next year, either take your wife or wear a skirt.

That day, they told me, they took out 3,000 pounds, and during the week's run about twenty tons altogether. You can believe it or not. Once a fisherman, always a liar.

Well, there isn't much more to say except that I have a trout stream running across my mortgage and I'd like to see some species of the fish family pick it out for a spawning ground. Only I'd prefer a variety like turtles—something with a little more snap to it.

That's all.

LEGAL NOTICES

Order Appointing Time for Hearing Claims

Our community mourns the loss of Mrs. Tim Roddy, who died last Friday in Chicago at the home of her daughter, at the age of 57 years. She had been in poor health for years, and her death was not unexpected. The remains were brought to St. James, Saturday, from the place of death. She leaves to mourn her loss four daughters, Mrs. Rose Plenwitt, Mrs. L. A. Gallagher, Mrs. P. O. Gallagher and Mrs. Frank Thompson; one son, Dan Roddy, four sisters, Mrs. Dan McCauley, Mrs. J. S. Gallagher, Mrs. Hugh Malloy and Miss Nora Slocum, besides a host of close and intimate friends. Funeral services were held Monday at 10:30 a. m. from the Holy Cross church, Fr. Aubert, O. F. M., officiating. Burial in St. James cemetery.

PROMISES MADE AND KEPT
Two years ago citizen Fred W. Green first announced his candidacy for the governorship of Michigan.

"There were certain things," he said, "that needed correcting, daylight government and a public service station should be established at Lansing."

The people of this state took Fred Green at his word. They had faith that a man, so signally loved and trusted by his home folks, would keep any promise he might make.

He has been governor of Michigan 17 months. Not all of the things he would like, have been accomplished, but there is time remaining to finish the work for representative government that has been begun.

Since he was inaugurated he has been on the job every minute. No other governor in the history of the state has put in so many hours looking after the people's business. He is determined that for every dollar of the taxpayer's money spent the state should receive a dollar's worth of service in return. That in itself takes much time and patience to accomplish.

When he took the oath of office as governor the state treasury was bankrupt, there were millions in outstanding obligations, chaos reigned in the departments of accounting at Lansing. All that has been changed. The state now maintains a balance in the treasury, no obligations are assumed until it has first been determined there will be money on hand when payday comes.

Michigan is now a big business institution, doing business in a business like way. You no longer hear about fund juggling, you can be proud of a state that is making such tremendous building strides and paying as it goes along.

You no longer hear of scandals in the division of pardons and paroles. The new criminal code, which had the staunch support of the governor, is putting criminals in prison. Governor Fred W. Green is seeing to it that those same criminals are remaining in prison as society, through the courts, has directed. Since he has been governor not a life has been released, the old method of easy escape from paying the penalty has gone, the criminal classes are facing a dreary prospect under his regime.

There have been passed a new workman's compensation law, uniform traffic code, new code governing our public school system, the conservation department, taken out of politics, a law to provide aid for crippled children, and other measures looking forward to an advanced state.

Acute political writers and observers have tried to write into the political picture of this state, his candidacy for the United States senate, or a place in the president's cabinet. Since he has been governor he has been called upon to make more official appointments than any other governor. Not in a single instance has he let his own political future dictate or influence his decisions in making those appointments.

Last August he said, he would be a candidate for the second term. If he is given, and accepts at the hands of the people, a commission for two more years as governor, he will regard that commission as a trust to be fulfilled. He will serve his two terms and will not seek further emoluments in that office; he will continue to render faithful service until the final hour of his retirement.

Elimination of Pullman Surcharge Will Involve Loss of $40,000,000 to Railroads and Will Shift the Burden Upon Those Who Do Not Enjoy the Service

THE Senate Committee has reported out favorably the Robinson bill eliminating the Pullman surcharge. This action, while apparently a popular one, is class legislation and as such is bound to involve losses not only to the railroads, but to the traveling public who ride in the day coaches and to a number of communities that now enjoy sleeping car service.

TO the Railroads, it involves immediately a loss of $40,000,000 in revenue annually, which will have to be made up somehow. The surcharge is the only revenue that the railroads get for the hauling of the heavier equipment and the incidental special service of parking this equipment at the stations and in coach yards. In fact, the railroads have always had to pay to the Pullman Company a certain small charge for the mileage of each Pullman car and besides a guarantee of a certain minimum of return covering a period of years. All of the returns for berths, etc., go to the Pullman Company excepting the surcharge.

THE surcharge was found necessary by the United States Railroad Administration. Its continuance has been recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission after an exhaustive study of the entire question of passenger travel returns.

THE Pullman sleeping car after all is a hotel on wheels. It provides an unusual service. It represents a heavy investment per passenger. The berth charge and the surcharge of 50 per cent (which latter is the only revenue the railroads derive from this high class service) together, are not out of line with the charge for a room in a modern high class hotel.

SINCE the Pullman sleeping car passenger enjoys greater comfort than does the passenger in the day coach, he should expect to pay for the added comfort. The Pullman passenger is allotted two and one half times as much space as the person riding in the day coach. The car weight per passenger of the average day coach—assuming that it is filled—is about 6,800 pounds. The car weight per passenger of the average Pullman sleeping car—assuming that sleeper is filled—is about 12,260 pounds. The cost to the railroad of hauling a sleeping car passenger is, therefore, approximately twice as much. Should not the sleeping car passenger pay for these additional privileges to the passenger and the obligations devolving upon the railroads?

ANOTHER illustration: The sleeping car lines to Michigan resorts in summer and to Florida or California resorts in the winter, are seasonal movements. The travel is all in one direction, which means that the return movement is an empty one.

RAILROADS have only two main sources of income—passenger revenues and freight revenues.

THE wiping out of $40,000,000 annually in passenger revenues involved in the abolition of the surcharge on Pullman fares must inevitably do one of three things:

1. Result in cutting down of passenger train service now provided by American Railroads;
2. Restricting sleeping car service on the less prosperous lines;
3. Or, shifting the burden of the loss upon the shippers of freight.

ANY one of these expedients is unfair to the general public, that section who ride in the day coaches.

IT is a good principle of business at all times to require the person who enjoys a special service to pay for that special service.

THE Pullman surcharge requires just that.

THE abolition of the surcharge, therefore, constitutes class or sumptuary legislation, which is not desirable in this day and age.

THE railroads do not object to governmental regulation by the proper tribunal—the Interstate Commerce Commission—constituted to deal with the transportation industry exclusively.

WRITE your senator or congressman to-day protesting against this uneconomic and unfair measure.

ROAD BUILDING

MINNESOTA MOTOR DEATHS DECREASE

Minnesota was one of eleven states in which deaths from auto accidents were reduced in 1923, according to figures compiled by the National Safety council. The total deaths were 269 in 1923 and 316 in 1922, a decrease of 14.7 per cent. Only five states, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Rhode Island and Wyoming, had a larger per cent of decrease. The total deaths for the United States were 18,121 in 1923 and 17,226 in 1922, an increase of 5.18 per cent.

The building of wider highways, elimination of sharp turns and other hazards, and the marking of all dangerous places, both by the state highway department on trunk highways and by many counties on secondary roads, was an important factor in the reduced mortality. When it is remembered that the automobile registration in Minnesota increased 10.6 per cent in 1923 over 1922, the reduction in accidents becomes more noteworthy.

"Good traffic laws, efficient enforcement, and elimination of highway hazards are three important factors in accident prevention," C. M. Babcock, commissioner of highways, states. Another big factor is safety education. Safety requires eternal vigilance. The need of carefulness must be continually and repeatedly brought home to drivers, passengers, pedestrians, parents and children. The newspapers of Minnesota are entitled to a lot of credit for the co-operation they have given to this department and other agencies that are trying to promote highway safety. They have given a large amount of space, without recompense, to traffic laws and safety propaganda, and this has been of incalculable value.

The figures on auto fatalities for Minnesota do not include deaths in grade-crossing accidents. Figures compiled by the Minnesota railroad commission show 34 killed in collisions between trains and automobiles in 1923 and 29 in 1922. The "Stop" crossing law and the elimination of grade crossings have contributed largely to this result.

Highway Construction Has Made Big Progress

Less than ten years ago it would have been impossible to figure on driving an automobile more than about six or eight months of the year. In the rural districts of most of the states a "touring" car making an extended trip would carry ropes, chains and a shovel to use in cases of emergency, which were quite frequent. Today automobiles may be driven from coast to coast and north and south with little inconvenience. Another ten years will see paved roads to every important point, save the Kansas City Farmer. No nation ever attempted such a road building program as we are now carrying out, as an established feature of state and national development.

Not only are we building and hard-surfacing new roads, but are widening and straightening thousands of miles of old roads. Our annual bill for building and maintaining highways is approximately $1,000,000,000. It is necessary to keep close watch to see that this money is properly expended on scientifically built highways and permanent and practical bridge construction. Thousands of miles of feeder roads into the main highways must be improved with a waterproof wearing surface.

Good Roads Items

More than 1,000,000 persons are employed in the United States in road building.

We must picture for ourselves the needs of tomorrow. Good roads are a necessity. Over them, a large portion of future industrial and human freight will be transported.

Farmers in the Brantford mountain district (Washington) have complained to the Cowitt county commissioners that bears are making swimming holes in the county road in their district.

New highways across the jungles of British South Africa are dangerous to tourists, and one driver says he was chased by four leopards and two elephants. However, he probably escaped road hogs.

At a speed of 15 miles an hour the tire wear on a macadam road has been found to be four-tenths of a pound of the tire for every 1,000 miles. At 30 miles speed, the wear is 55 hundredths pound for the same distance.

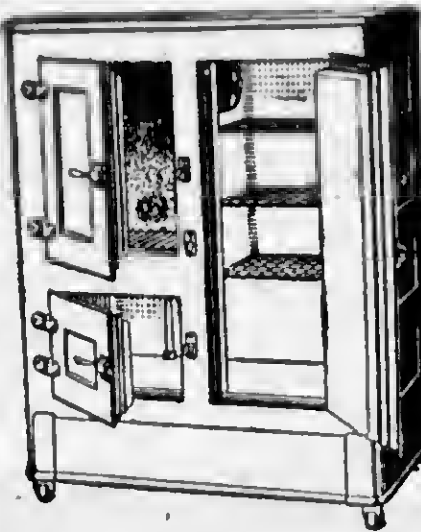

There are 500,000 miles of surfaced highways in the United States, according to the California State Automobile Association.

The Colorado state highway commission will, during the coming season, strengthen and straighten every important road surrounding Denver.

The burden of highway construction and maintenance is cast upon the shoulders of motorists in Arkansas by means of a 5-cent per gallon gasoline tax.

JOHN J. WAFFLE TO STAND TRIAL

Sheriff Brings Back Alleged Hit-and-run Driver, From Charlevoix

John J. Waffle of Charlevoix, an employee of the Charlevoix county highway department, will answer in circuit court next week to driving from the scene of an accident at State and Franklin streets a week ago this morning.

He was arraigned before Justice W. W. Smith Saturday afternoon and waived examination. He is at liberty under $500 bonds.

Waffle was located after an extended search as the driver of a car that collided with an auto driven by Jud Hemming about six o'clock last Sunday morning. Mr. Hemming was severely cut in the accident and his car damaged.

A witness said the fleeing car bore license No. 1-008,675, and Sheriff Fred Johnson drove to Boyne City the next day to bring the driver back. It turned out to be the wrong license number, but with the help of Chief Michael Steimel of the Boyne City police, Sheriff Johnson later in the week fastened the blame on Waffle, whose car carries license No. 1-008-765. His car is a Whippet sedan rather than a Chevrolet sedan as reported by witnesses, but it bears the tell-tale marks of the accident, officers say.

Attorney Lyle Shennhan of Charlevoix appeared with Waffle here. Traverse City Record-Eagle, June 4.

SCHOOL PROBLEMS AIRED AT MEETING

PARENTS AND SCHOOL BOARD DISCUSSED JUNIOR HIGH

Central Building Will Be Repaired to House this Group—Work to Be Departmentalized

A conference of interested parents and the board of education was held at the high school assembly room last Friday evening to talk over the plans for departmentalizing the seventh and eighth grades as junior high school in the Central building next fall.

All the elementary grades (kindergarten to sixth inclusive) and the county normal will at that time be moved to the new grade building. The high school building in which the seventh and eighth grades are now housed is greatly overcrowded and the teachers working under difficulties so it is quite essential that the congestion be relieved now that there is opportunity.

The meeting was called for the reason that some dissatisfaction had been expressed because the seventh and eighth grades were not to have the advantages of the new building. About fifty were present.

Mr. Graig was spokesman for the board and explained that long ago educators had come to the conclusion that the seventh and eighth grades belonged with the high school group rather than the elementary grades and that about twelve years ago the change was made here. Educators have since decided that the junior high pupils should be grouped by themselves and the work departmentalized.

Their activities are different entirely from the elementary grades. They are passing from childhood to adolescence which is regarded as life's greatest and most definite natural transition. They are entering upon their teens which marks a great step toward that goal of every child's ambition to be grown up. The chances are if they were placed in the new building they would be dissatisfied themselves at being classed with the younger children when they are looking forward to high school.

In the end nearly all the parents expressed themselves as satisfied with the plan. There will be three teachers in the junior high school next year and the work departmentalized. Mr. Walter Alexander will be principal. Miss Edith Struthers will be one of the teachers and another is to be secured who will coach the junior high boys in athletics.

The central building will be repaired and the sewer and water systems put in good condition, which was impossible until the new sewer was put in Mason street.

PARALLEL PARKING IS A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

City Officials Deserve Commendation for Their Action

The Courier wishes to comment on the great improvement resulting from the inauguration of the parallel parking rule on Bridge street. The difficulty of driving a car through the main street has been decreased 100 per cent.

In former years during the busy summer months when traffic was heavy, two large cars parked opposite of each other on the street left hardly room for two more to pass down the center. Although accidents have been very few, Charlevoix has simply been lucky.

What small amount of business may be lost because there is less room for automobiles on Bridge street will in turn be compensated for by lack of congestion and speeding up traffic in the business district.

At the close of the evening refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

ST. JAMES WILL CELEBRATE FOURTH

Committees Appointed and Program
Being Prepared

St. James, Beaver Island, will celebrate the glorious 4th of July in a manner that will credit the islanders with an event worth attending.

A meeting was called Tuesday evening in the hall by the citizens of St. James, and a committee appointed to assume charge of the events of the day, which will include athletic events of all kinds, possibly a parade, swimming, stunts, races for both young and old, and other features that will provide amusement for the big crowd anticipated.

We understand the Charlevoix City Band will furnish the music, which in itself will prove a pleasing feature of the program. Details of the program have not as yet been completed, but when finished will appear in the columns of the Courier.

Transportation to the island will be made and handled by the Str. Sanford from Charlevoix, and Str. America from Petoskey, Harbor Springs. Watch for further announcement of the big event.

SAFETY TESTS START JUNE 13

ONLY CARS WITH STICKERS WILL BE EXEMPTED

Will Watch Trunklines and Fines for Faults Likely—Local Inspection
Garage Will Be Named

Road tests to check up on automobile safety equipment will be made throughout the state by the state police during the week starting June 13, Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of public safety, has announced.

Posts will be established on trunklines. Cars driving through will be required to submit to tests for brakes, lights, horns and so forth. Improper equipment will mean a police summons and probably a fine. The state law provides vehicles must have proper equipment.

The highway inspection posts will be located near Marquette, Newberry, Iron Mountain, Cheboygan, Manistee, Bay City, Flint, St. Clair, Wayne, South Rockwood, Sturgis, Paw Paw, Grand Haven and Lansing.

The test, which is an annual safety feature, will be conducted this year in conjunction with the safety campaign now in progress under direction of the Michigan Safety council. Cars bearing windshield stickers showing they have passed approved garage tests will be exempt from the road test. Officers of the council pointed out that motorists can avoid the delay of a road test and the possibility of a summons by taking advantage of the free inspections now being offered in garages throughout the state.

The mayor and members of the city council will appoint official inspection garages in Charlevoix at their meeting next Monday evening. All car owners should visit one of these stations and have their car checked over for faulty lights, brakes, etc. The service will be free, but owners must pay for repairs found to be necessary. When approved, cars will be marked with stickers, and thus be exempt from road tests to be conducted throughout the state by State Police.

AUDREY YOHR AND OAK- LEY SAUNDERS ARE WED

Ceremony Performed Last Wednesday at Bride's Home

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yohr of Bay Shore on Wednesday, June 6, when their daughter, Audrey, was united in marriage to Oakley Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Saunders of Ironton.

The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yohr, brother and sister of the bride, Milford Saunders, brother of the groom, and Miss Rocena Wilson.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Linnel of Boyne City, in the presence of relatives and friends of the bride and groom. A wedding dinner followed the ceremony and the couple left the same day on a honeymoon trip through the East. They will be at home to their many friends at Ironton after June 25.

We have been over a year obtaining the film, "The Feet of the Nation," showing how Linoleum is made. See it at the Palace Theatre the evenings of June 15, 16 and 17. S. M. See & Sons.—Adv. 24-1

MANY CHANGES IN SCHOOL LAW

LAST LEGISLATURE MADE SOME BREAK PROVISIONS

Date of Annual Meeting Changed
From July to Second Monday in June

The last legislature enacted a code of school law which contains much of the old law, some new provisions and some changes, the reasons for which are hard to find.

Some of the important changes and new provisions are as follows and are noted in a letter sent by the department of education and school superintendents. These provisions apply to all schools except those organized under special or local acts (parochial).

First, the date of annual school meeting is changed from July to the second Monday in June. School officers and trustees elected at this time must qualify within ten days but do not assume office until July 1. This leaves the old school board in office up to July 1.

At the annual meeting on the second Monday in June, the law provides that the financial report of the preceding school year shall be read. As the current school year will not be finished the report to be read will be that of the school year which ended nearly a year before. For instance, at the annual meeting on June 11, 1928, the report to be read will be that of the year beginning July 12, 1926 and ending July 11, 1927. Any report of the current school year need not be read at the annual meeting. This leaves the district practically a year behind at the time of its annual meeting in getting its information as to district finances.

The law further provides that the board of education must publish, after the close of the current school year an itemized financial statement covering the year. Thus, at the close of the school year, June 20, 1928, an itemized financial statement covering that year must be published and this report is the one to be read on the second Monday in June, 1929.

As under the old law, the school board has entire power as to making of the school budget and no budget is to be presented or voted on at the annual school meeting. The law apparently operates on the principle that what the taxpayers don't know will not cause them any uneasiness—until they find it out later.

By another change the fourth Monday in July will be the last date for making application for high school tuition instead of the fourth Monday in June.

The new law also gives any school district, except primary districts, the power to form the district into one or more regular voting precincts, in which case it would provide for the registration of voters, the nomination of candidates for trustee by petition, voting by printed ballot, etc. This provision, however, is not obligatory.

ORLOWSKI ANNOUNCES OPEN- ING ON SATURDAY, JUNE 16

Louis S. Orlowski, veteran Charlevoix merchant, announces the opening of his store for the summer season at the corner of Bridge and Garfield. A fine stock of fresh staple and fancy groceries, fruits and vegetables have been put on the shelves and on the opening day, Saturday, June 16, an array of bargains being offered to the public. See the advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

"MISS PETOSKEY" WON TWO CLASSES

TAKES C AND D RACES AT FISHERMAN'S PARADISE SUNDAY

"Smithcraft," Local Boat Places Second in D Class Event—Rough Sea Cuts Down Entries

A rough sea on Grass lake discouraged some of the entries in the Fisherman's Paradise outboard races Sunday afternoon, but 500 people stood on the shore and enjoyed what racing there was. Over 300 of them participated in the hotel's opening by attending the dinner that came just before the races.

The races were distinguished by the first Class D event that has ever been run in Northern Michigan waters, although the event was won by a Class C motor. The Class D motor is the largest manufactured and is a new development put on the market by the several outboard makers only this spring. The races were won by Huh Myers of Petoskey in "Miss Petoskey" and "Smithcraft," driven by Vane Smith of Charlevoix, placed second. Both had Evinrude Class C motors. Dick Williams of Cadillac in "Old Ironsides," and Leonard Bailey of Bellaire in "Home Brew" finished third and fourth, respectively. Each had an Elco Quad, a Class D motor. "Miss Petoskey" had no trouble winning.

"Miss Petoskey" also won the Class C event, with "Grand Traverse Baby," driven by Ben Samuelson, second, and "Mary Louise," the Fisherman's Paradise entry, driven by Perry Ray, third. "Smithcraft" cracked a plank and didn't start.

The Class B race was won by Harry Vreeland of the Detroit Outboard Motor association, an expert of the Caille motor company. Al Vater, also of Detroit and also a Caille demonstrator, came in third on the point total. Ben Samuelson drove "Grand Traverse Baby" to second place, despite motor trouble that halted the craft twice in the first lap. He had the only Johnson motor to finish. Ray Barrow of Traverse City placed fourth with a Caille motor in a Thompson boat, and Chet Gray of Traverse City placed fifth with a Caille motor in a homemade boat.

Several who were ready to start in Class B were discouraged by the waves, realizing the possibility of overturning and damaging their motors as early in the season.

About 80 of the Fisherman's Paradise dinner guests were from Cadillac; about 60 from Traverse City. Other towns represented were Bellaire, Manistee, Gaylord, Elk Rapids, Petoskey, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Central Lake, Fife Lake and Manton.

An interesting dinner program and a very good one, was given by the Neapolitan trio, professional musicians engaged for the season, assisted by Finley Herring of Ada, Ohio, baritone, and Lewis Fontaine of Chicago, tenor.

Shower Baths at Auto Camp

C Tourists visiting the Charlevoix auto camp this summer will have all the modern conveniences of the most up-to-date hotel. Shower baths in both the ladies' and gentlemen's wash rooms are being installed by Hugh Brady, caretaker at the camp. Nothing is being left undone to make it a most desirable place to spend a summer's outing.

DO YOU KNOW HOW LINOLEUM IS MADE?

Two-reel Film Showing its Manufacture to be Shown Here

S. M. See & Sons, local furniture dealers, have provided something unusual in the line of the 2-reel film, "The Feet of the Nation," showing the manufacture of Armstrong Linoleum from the time the raw product is taken from the earth to the time the finished product is made.

Thrown on the screen are the different methods employed in producing this ever-wearing floor covering, the gathering of the different materials used, the thousands of workmen employed, the huge mills and other interesting subjects connected with its manufacture.

Mr. L. S. See, manager of the local store, told the Courier he had been over a year in his efforts in procuring these films, so great was the demand for them throughout the country. The films will be thrown on the screen at the Palace Theatre on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening, June 15, 16 and 17. No charge will be made for seeing them other than the regular theatre admission.

LOCAL GIRL WINS ESSAY CONTEST

SPONSORED BY DETROIT TIMES
SUBJECT "GREATER MICHIGAN"

Two-Weeks Automobile Tour Thru
Upper and Lower Michigan
Reward for Winners

Miss Eloise Tillotson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Tillotson of this city, will receive a two-weeks automobile trip through lower and upper Michigan with all expenses paid as the result for her winning an essay contest sponsored by the Detroit Times.

High school students of approximately 25 towns in Michigan were invited to write in the contest, the subject being "Greater Michigan." The essays were 1000 words, the subject to be treated in any way desirable by the writer. The local contest was handled through the association of Commerce under the direction of Mrs. Leona McKinley, English instructor in the high school. Rev. B. G. Mnttson, Clarence F. Wood and Mrs. Robert Bridge were the judges.

As a reward for having the best essay written by Charlevoix students, Miss Tillotson will be taken on a two week tour of both the lower and upper peninsulas of Michigan with all expenses paid. Although the date for the tour has not been definitely announced, it is expected the party will leave early next week from Detroit. They will travel in new Packard automobiles, under the supervision of proper chaperons.

The tour will be made up the east side of Michigan to Mackinaw City and from there go to Mackinac Island for a one-day stop. Crossing the straits they will go to the Soo for a day and then on into the mining district of the upper peninsula, where all interesting points will be visited. The return trip will be made down the west coast of Michigan.

GOVERNMENT ENGINEERS REPAIRING OLD PIERS

Present Plans Call for New Ones
This Fall or Coming Spring

A temporary repair job on the north pier between Round lake and Lake Charlevoix is now under way. The work is in charge of Capt. C. C. Fowler of the U. S. government engineering department.

The work for the present will be confined to tearing out all old timbers, piling and rocks, which will be thrown up against the island to hold the banks from caving back into the channel. Either during the fall months or early next spring the pier will be re-built.

It is with no little satisfaction Charlevoix citizens see this improvement in progress. The north pier in this channel has been in decay for several years and was becoming worse. Parts of the pier had fallen into the water and if allowed to deteriorate further would have partially blocked the channel, not to mention being unsightly.

We have been over a year obtaining the film, "The Feet of the Nation," showing how Linoleum is made. See it at the Palace Theatre the evenings of June 15, 16 and 17. S. M. See & Sons.—Adv. 24-1

REPUBLICANS MET FRIDAY EVENING

FORMED PERMANENT VANDENBERG-FOR-SENATOR CLUB

E. N. Clink of East Jordan Chosen
Chairman—County Represented
Over 200 Strong

At an enthusiastic meeting held at Boyne Falls last Friday evening a Charlevoix county Vandenberg-for-Senator club was formed. Every city, village and township in the county was represented, there being more than 200 in attendance.

President Pearce of the Village of Boyne Falls, one of the few active Democrats of Charlevoix county, gave the address of welcome. A song, "How Do You Do," was sung by the Boyne Falls school children and the East Jordan high school band rendered several selections.

E. N. Clink of East Jordan, was elected temporary chairman of the meeting and he called on the following for speeches: ex-Senator W. J. Pearson, Boyne Falls; Dr. Guy C. Conkle, Boyne City; George W. Weaver, Charlevoix; W. J. Gallagher, St. James; Dr. Hugh Dicken, East Jordan; Henry Korthase, Wilson township.

The main address of the evening was given by Hon. John M. Morris of Boyne City, after which a permanent organization was formed. All speakers referred in glowing terms to the qualifications of Sen. Vandenberg.

Officers of the club were elected as follows: E. N. Clink, East Jordan, permanent chairman; Robert Campbell, East Jordan, secretary; John M. Harris, Boyne City, treasurer. Vice presidents chosen from the cities, villages and townships of the county were the following: Bay, J. S. Dilworth; Charlevoix city, Dr. C. J. Winder; Marion, Jay Adams; Norwood, W. H. Mayne; Eveline, Ralph Price; South Arm, J. E. Chew; East Jordan city, Dr. Hugh Dicken; Wilson, Terry Barber; Boyne Valley, Henry Korthase; Chandler, Carl Clarke; Hudson, Robert Russell; Melrose, Roy Brown; Evangeline, Mrs. Ben Gardner; Boyne City, James Dean; Hayes, Howard Stephens; Charlevoix twp., Neil McAuley; St. James, W. J. Gallagher; Peaine, John W. Green; Boyne Falls, W. J. Pearson.

Refreshments were served by the Boyne Falls women.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER TELLS OF NORMAL WORK

Training in Normals Said to Be On Par with Universities

County School Commissioner Wm. C. Palmer, in presenting the diplomas at the Normal commencement last Wednesday evening, made a few remarks which should be given a wider circulation than the size of the audience permitted.

Many people regard the county Normal instruction as on a par with high school teaching. It is really college work and a county normal certificate entitles one to credits on courses taken at the state normals and the University of Michigan.

It gives young people an opportunity to take a portion of a college course without leaving home and at much less expense than at a state institution.

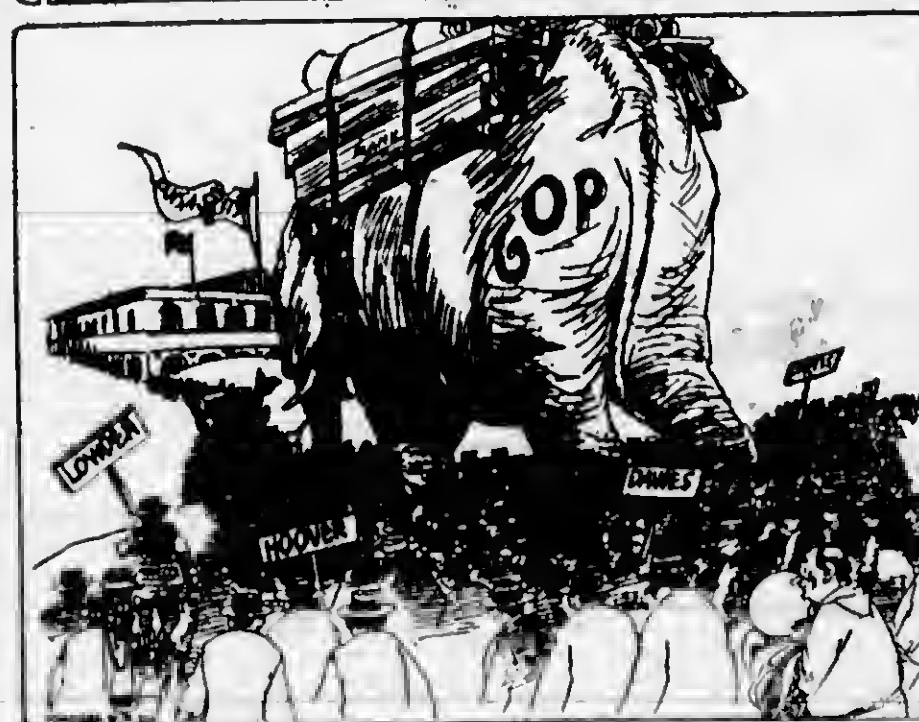

The superintendent of public instruction, the county school commissioner and the local superintendent of schools make up the county normal board. The state, county and district share the expense. The state has gradually raised its share in order to secure teachers of college rank until this year it pays $3,000.00. The county pays $737.00 and the district $747.50. For this small outlay on the part of the district, thirty children receive instruction and the fuel, lights and other expenses of the county normal rooms are taken care of.

The children receive the best of instruction and the young people who graduate make the very best teachers for the rural schools of the county. The county normal is a real asset and should be treated accordingly.

Program at Burgess School
The Burgess Sunday school will give a Children's Day program at the school house Sunday afternoon, June 17, at 2:30 o'clock. Note the change in hour from the regular time of 10:30 a. m. Everyone is welcome to attend.

"I GUESS I'll have to ask you Kitchen Clubbers to come back and make my kitchen ugly," laughed Mrs. Adams, whose kitchen had been the subject for discussion several weeks before. "You've made it so attractive that not only my daughter but half a dozen other girls want to do their entertaining there."

Mrs. Adams was one of the thousands of mothers who find themselves having to compete with the movies, drug stores and the streets for their children's interest. She had met the situation fairly and frankly, realizing that she couldn't force her children to enjoy staying at home, even if she made them stay there. If home was to compete with outside interests, it must be more attractive. That was that!

When Mrs. Adams was a girl and Mr. Adams was coming to see her, an evening sitting on the sofa with him was thrilling enough. But her girl scorned that kind of evening. She had to be doing something. And Mrs. Adams admitted to herself with a faint, reminiscent blush, that probably her daughter's idea of entertainment was the more wholesome of the two.

Mrs. Adams got her solution to the problem one rainy evening when she poked her head in the living-room door and announced that she would make raisin-nut fudge if she could find someone to seed raisins and shell nuts. Boredom vanished. Aprons went on. One couple made a great do-over the raisins. The other couple shelled the nuts in not more than twice the time Mrs. Adams would have used. The candy was good, and the party ended at a late hour in the kitchen.

At the next meeting of the Club Mrs. Adams asked for a kitchen color scheme that would look sophisticated and wouldn't show dirt too much! Nancy's notebook shows what she got.

LEAVES FROM NANCY'S KITCHEN CLUB NOTEBOOK

Mrs. Adams asked us for a "swanky" color scheme and, believe me, she got it! We decided on a floor of midnight blue and white tiled linoleum; washable oil cloth walls, dark blue on a cream background, up to shoulder height; above that, deep cream washable paint walls. Table, cabinet, cupboard, refrigerator, white, stenciled in dark blue. Oil range, white porcelain enamel. Window seat covered with dark blue, white and orange cretonne. Cushions covered in solid orange. White curtains stenciled in orange. Midnight blue and orange braided rug on the floor. Mrs. Adams got four rubberized cloth aprons in blue, white and orange for her daughter's friends to use.

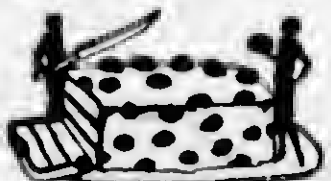

Midnight Dishes—Deviled Sardines

Cover any amount of sardines desired with canned tomato soup. Cook for five or ten minutes. Serve on toast.

Midnight Dishes—Sandwich Loaf

Take a loaf of day-old bread. Slice off all crusts, making as square a loaf as possible. Slice lengthwise of loaf, full length of loaf, from bottom to top, leaving the bread in layers. Spread on bottom layer a filling of stuffed olives chopped and mixed with mayonnaise. Put on second layer. Spread with cream cheese-and-nut mixture. Put on other layers, alternating the fillings. When loaf is complete, "ice" with cream cheese and garnish with slices of olive. To serve, slice as you would ordinary loaf of bread. This makes a delicious and most decorative dish for luncheons and midnight parties.

Cocoa

Mrs. Adams says her family refused to drink cocoa until she found this recipe for it, which makes a richer drink:

- 3 tablespoons cocoa
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 cups milk
- 2 1/2 cup water
- Pinch of salt
- Pinch of soda

Boil together all ingredients except milk. Then add milk and bring to boiling point, but do not boil. Serve at once.

Coming to BOYNE CITY, MICH. Dr. Hanson SPECIALIST in internal medicine demonstrating his system of treating diseases and deformities without surgical operation

WILL GIVE FREE TREATMENT at the

WOLVERINE HOTEL

Friday, June 22nd

Office Hours: 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

ONE DAY ONLY

Dr. Hanson is well known in Michigan, reliable and has many patients. He will give his professional services free of charge to all of those who call on him this visit.

According to his method of treatment he does not operate for chronic appendicitis, gall stones, ulcers of stomach, goitre, tonsils or adenoids.

He has to his credit many wonderful results in diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, blood, skin, nerves, heart, kidney, bladder, bed wetting, catarrh, weak lungs, rheumatism, sciatica, leg ulcers, hemorrhoids or piles, and slow growth in children.

If you have been ailing for any length of time do not fail to call, as improper measures rather than disease are very often the cause of your long standing trouble.

WARNING TO YOUNG WOMEN

The Michigan Tuberculosis association recently completed a survey of the patients in the tuberculosis sanatoria of the state with some startling results. The association found that one-third of all the tuberculosis patients hospitalized are between the ages of 20 and 24. Nearly 11 per cent are between 14 and 19 years—the high school age.

By actual count it was found that 43 per cent of the patients in the tuberculosis sanatoria of Michigan are between 14 and 24 years of age. Of the last group women are in the majority. Except among the adolescent and young adult women, tuberculosis is decreasing among all age groups of both sexes.

Reasons for the increase of tuberculosis among women is at present a source of discussion among medical men. The fad for dieting, amount of clothing worn and energy expended in keeping up the social struggle are among some of the reasons given. Others blame this increase of tuberculosis on the fact that woman has entered industry and is not constitutionally suited for industrial work.

Whether engaged in social or industrial life, the health of future mothers must be protected and preserved. Of those found to be suffering from tuberculosis only 60 per cent will eventually recover. This will prove a terrible economic loss to both state and nation. Early diagnosis and prompt medical attention will result in cutting down this enormous death toll. Don't put it off. Insist on an immediate health check-up. See your physician today. Let him decide.

Bring in your catalogue prices on tires, tubes and batteries. We will meet them with our standard, well known Goodyear make and Willard Batteries. Benj. Brown—Adv. 18-1.

BOYCOTTS BY RADIO

There is a controversy on between the Gardeners' and Florists' union and certain flower growers in adjacent villages to Chicago. The Chicago Federation of Labor has been using its radio station to boycott the flowers grown by the growers involved in this controversy, urging all listeners not to buy flowers from certain retail flower growers in the City of Chicago. This is an open abuse of the radio and is as distinctively a boycott as if literature were being circulated publicly, or individuals boycotting by word of mouth. The retail florists as a result have filed an application for an injunction against the Chicago Federation of Labor to restrain that station from being used for boycott purposes.

A report dated April 26th announces that Judge Hebel of the supreme court has denied the petition for an injunction to stop the radio station from urging the public to refrain from buying flowers. Judge Hebel's decision was based upon his contention that the radio campaign against the florists does not constitute a boycott under the Illinois law. This is evidently the circumvention of the law in view of the fact that when boycott laws were passed, radio was not in existence. In order to make such activities come within the boycott law, we presume that it will be necessary to make an amendment to the law to include radio. James H. McFarland, attorney for the florists, has announced that he will carry the fight against WCFL into the federal court.

BIRCH INTO MAHOGANY

Up in Maine a German tree surgeon, Fritz Von Behr, is working with instruments to make certain trees useful for future furniture. He will select a young tree, make a pattern of holes in the trunk and inject up to 100 gallons of a secretly concocted aniline dye. On the third day after the treatment the wood in the tree becomes tinted. After two weeks the leaves fall off to grow a different color for the next year. The trees, however, can be immediately cut, prepared and polished for furniture purposes. The dye brings out the grain and lasts as long as the wood. It is said that yellow birch may be made the color of, and as beautiful as mahogany.

REVIVAL OF ANTI-TRUST AGITATION

Lewis H. Haney, director of the bureau of research of New York University, is quoted as predicting a revival of the attack on trusts. He said:

"It would seem wise that corporations should now be shaping their policies with a view of being in good shape to meet a possible outbreak of anti-trust agitation within the next few years. There should be a conscious and intelligent effort to avoid wastes and to shun the use of business power to crush competitors. The utmost effort should be made to develop economic. The test of economy is one of the most important to be met by large combinations. The operations of our new institutions, etc., should be made clear to the public to the greatest possible extent. Mamillarity may breed contempt, but mystery creates suspicion."

Trust-busting used to be a favorite national indoor sport. That it destroyed the equities of hundreds of thousands of stockholders, hurt industry, and made economic trouble is no guarantee that it will not be again indulged in. The destruction of other people's property is an amusement which is not confined entirely to the labor unions.

SUCCESSFUL LINKS

No business today, regardless of how thoroughly it may be entrenched in the progress and prosperity of the country, can stand alone or fall alone. Losses in one business in the community affects others, just as a successful and prosperous enterprise will reflect benefits to its neighbors. The link between all industries, business and enterprises of a community, therefore, must be particularly close and cooperative. The closer the relationship becomes, the greater the efficiency and progress that can be developed until we have an interrelationship that is the backbone of the community.

TWO DRY ARGUMENTS

Pres. W. L. Bryan of the Indiana State University challenges "any and every member of prohibition to name one restrictive liquor law anywhere at any time" which the liquor forces have obeyed." Dr. Wm. Linder of the Federal Prohibition Bureau says: "The propaganda or agitation directed against the government for poison liquor could be more properly directed against those individuals who deliberately doctor alcohol diverted from legitimate channels."

WATER AND WINES

Dr. Mayo told the chemists at their recent national convention that good pure water was the greatest ally of prohibition. In many European countries wine, beer and ale were used because the water was not good. When good water came the use of liquor dropped.

Those who wish wine and beer in the United States can find little comfort in the doctor's words. Light wines and beer are not needed as a beverage in the United States, never were needed and never will be.

The use of stronger liquors is not based upon the water supply, fear of snake bites or to ward off chills.

Their existence rests on appetite. With some this appetite is large and dangerous, with others modest and easily satisfied. But the fact that the little appetites grew to be big ones led to prohibition as we now have it.

CONSERVING HUMAN LIFE

Michigan is in the midst of a traffic safety campaign that will continue until the last day of June. How to make driving more safe, how to prevent motor accidents is occupying the time and minds of those who would help in cutting down the enormous loss of life through automobile accidents in this state. Motorists are being urged to check up on their cars, to see that brakes are in perfect condition, that their lights meet with the requirements of night driving, that every faulty condition of the machine is corrected. Drivers are being educated to observe the rules of the road and to remember that courtesy pays big dividends. Not much to ask when it results in such saving of human life—every decent and responsible owner of an automobile will gladly lend his aid and support this campaign. Visit an official safety garage today and see if your automobile meets all requirements.

RAISING THE SEED

From all indications a larger acreage of clover is to be planted this year than before. Next year we may look forward to an increased production of clover seed, a crop which yields a very good return.

It may also be said that production of seeds this coming fall from the plantings from previous years will also be larger than before.

Prosperity of agriculture depends upon taking advantage of every possible source of profitable income.

ANNUAL FLOWER MISSION MEETING HELD

Program of Readings, Recitations and Music Last Friday

The annual Flower Mission meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held last Friday afternoon at the Methodist church with Mrs. John Burns in charge of the program, which consisted of readings, recitations and musical numbers.

At the close of the program the flowers brought to the meeting were distributed by the members among the sick of the community.

While the Woman's Christian Temperance Union maintains its place of leadership in promoting law observance and law enforcement, we are glad to record that other woman's organizations are standing back of this same program.

The Woman's Missionary societies, through their executive bodies, have taken a strong stand for law enforcement, the Parent-Teacher association, the Young Woman's Christian association and the League of Women Voters speak in no uncertain terms on the necessity of citizens standing back of the prohibition law. No more dramatic movement ever occurred in the biennial convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs than in the convention at Los Angeles two years ago when the law enforcement resolution was endorsed by a delegate from every state and adopted with great enthusiasm.

The women want prohibition and they want law enforcement.

REBEKAH DISTRICT CONVENTION AT CHARLEVOIX

Over 250 Delegates from Thirteen Lodges Expected to Attend

The third annual convention of Northwestern Michigan Rebekah lodges will be held at Charlevoix on Thursday, June 21st, with afternoon and evening sessions. Thirteen lodges will be represented and over 250 delegates are expected to attend.

Among officers of the state organization who will be present are Eltn M. Smith, secretary, and Stella McClymont, president. The Literary and Sewing Club of the Methodist church will serve 6 o'clock dinner for the delegates. The Charlevoix city band will give a concert in the evening.

Local merchants are requested to decorate their stores in the lodge colors, pink and green, for the occasion. Crepe paper will be furnished for this purpose.

LOCAL PYTHIAN SISTERS ATTEND CONVENTION

Seventy-five Delegates Met in Traverse City Friday

Approximately seventy-five local members and delegates of Pythian Sisters from nearby towns gathered at the K. of P. hall in Traverse City last Friday for the opening session of the annual convention of the Northern district. There were delegates from East Jordan, Central Lake, Charlevoix and Gaylord. Grand Chief Lorene Hall, from Battle Creek, and Deputy Grand Chief Ida Ryan, of Carol, Michigan, were present at this opening business meeting.

Memorial services were held after the business session and at two o'clock public installation of officers was held. A banquet was served for those attending the convention at 6:30 o'clock at the Central Methodist church. Later in the evening a dancing party was given in the K. of P. hall in their honor. Several delegates from Charlevoix lodge attended the convention.
